The Bells Can't Stand Florida, Return Home

By RITA FISHER

After more than 20 years residence in Greenbelt, in which time the name of "Pop" became more familiar than his real first name, Harry Bell and his wife Karen, uprooted themselves and moved to what they thought was an ideal place to spend the rest of their retired years, Port Charlotte, Florida. Even though they purchased a house in the sunny southwestern part of Florida, halfway between Fort Myers and Sarasota, their residence lasted only a month and a half and they are back in Greenbelt.

The comment that best fits the impression the Bells can give for the part of Florida they were in was, "It's no place for retired people". Due to Mrs. Bell's ill health and the higher cost of living, both of which seemed to increase in Florida, the Bells decided to return. Although Pop enjoyed the fishing, Mrs. Bell's only thought was "I just want to get back to Greenbelt."

For example, they were told that it was not humid and that there were few bugs. They found conditions just the opposite. Mosquitoes were abundant, sand and sand fleas were everywhere, and Mrs. Bell even remembers removing a scorpion from the house. The heat was so intense in the middle of the day that few people did much outdoor work. Mrs. Bell also missed the beauty of many trees. She said that everything seemed so bare with just a few palms and some scrubby pines.

When Mrs. Bell was ill, three doctors were contacted and none would come to their house. There is a hospital about five miles away with only 32 beds and the drug stores close at 7 p.m.

The Bells met friends from Greenbelt who were also disappointed with what they found. One former resident of Greenbelt has suffered two heart attacks since moving to Florida. Many are dissatisfied. One family from Illinois made a spot decision when their furniture arrived and informed the movers not to unload but to take the furniture back to Illinois.

Mrs. and Mrs. Bell advise anyone thinking of retiring, especially in this section of Florida, to go down and investigate first, preferably in the summer months.

The Bells have been welcomed back to Greenbelt by many friends. Pop is again the overseer for Greenbelt Lake. He has already been put in charge of the Christmas Party at the American Legion Post. They are looking forward to the possible construction of housing for

Local Explorer Post Obtains Two More Eagles

Two members of Boy Scout Explorer Post 746, Michael Lammons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Lammons, 2-P Laurel Hill, and Steve Thornton, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Thornton, 42-A Ridge, will be made Eagle scouts at the post's court of honor to be held tomorrow night, November 3, at the Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m.

The two new Eagle scouts, who have been elected to successive terms as president of the post during the past year, brings the total of Eagles in the post to the unusually high total of four. Bill Aleshire and Dick Wertz became Eagles when the post was chartered last February.

The award of Eagle scout requires the boy to earn 21 merit badges, particularly in camping, swimming, nature, public health, firemanship, cooking, lifesaving, personal fitness, safety and first aid. Both boys qualified for merit badges in citizenship by engaging in service to the community of Greenbelt, including the picking up of trash in the Center Mall.

Explorer Post 745, although less than a year old, has already established itself as one of the outstanding posts in the area. Just last week the post participated in its first "Explorerree," a competitive camp meeting of Explorer posts from Prince Georges and Arlington counties, and made a clean sweep of first place awards. The three categories of competition were first aid, personal fitness and scoutcraft.

Harold King is advisor to the Explorer post, while Albert Cousin is Scoutmaster of the troop from which the Explorer post was formed, and Pat Heizer is Cub Master. Parents and all residents of the community are invited to attend the Court of Honor.

The NEWS REVIEW extends a hearty "welcome back" to the Bells.

Police News

Twelve special policemen were hired to help keep Halloween pranks down to a minimum on October 30 and 31. Blamed on the Halloween pranksters were complaints from residents that a window had been broken, eggs had been thrown at a building, a car window was smashed and an oil fire was set on the statue in the Center Mall. Two youths were apprehended by a special policeman in the case of the smashed car window, being broken.

In the regular roster of complaints, a resident of Hillside reported that a hub-cap had been stolen and a window had been smashed on his car last Monday. He called to inform police that he found evidence that his other hubcaps had been tampered with later on that week but that the thieves were unsuccessful because he had had locks installed.

On Wednesday, a resident of 25 Ridge reported the loss of about 25 pieces of lumber from his yard.

Police apprehended two young juveniles on the roof of the Greenbelt Theater after receiving a call from the theater cashier. Another juvenile was apprehended by police when a resident reported the boy using foul language to her while she was in the Center.

A resident of Greenbelt reported this complaint of theft to police: The resident sold his two cars to a District resident. A friend took the tags from the District man and was returning them to the Greenbelt man. Before the friend could reach Greenbelt, his car was stolen along with the tags he was returning. District and Maryland police have been alerted.

One auto accident in Greenbelt was reported last Monday.

GHI Members to Meet to Consider Elderly Housing Expenditures

by AL SKOLNIK

A special membership meeting of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. has been scheduled for Thursday, November 30, to consider the housing for the elderly project and the Bordenet resolutions. Committee reports on both these subjects have been received. Board meetings originally scheduled for November 9 and 23 were moved up to November 2 and 16 so that the board would be able to analyze the committee reports and submit its own recommendations to the membership before the special meeting on November 30. The board meeting tonight will start at 7:45 p.m.

The Advisory Committee for Housing for the Elderly Program, chaired by Charles F. Schwan, submitted mainly a fact-finding report which concluded with the hope that the board and membership will find it feasible to proceed with the project. On the other hand, the Bordenet resolutions committee, chaired by William P. Helm, submitted specific recommendations -- some of which were by-law changes -- for the consideration of board and management.

HOUSING COSTS

The Schwan committee recommended that the membership be made aware of the full costs that GHI would incur in approving the project, what portion of these costs would be recoverable if the project were carried through to completion, and what portion would be lost if the project were dropped after receiving bids.

According to preliminary data submitted by GHI manager Paul Campbell, the architect's fees for preparing detailed drawings would be $6,500 (in addition to the $500 already paid for initial drawings). Other incidental expenses such as blueprints would amount to $250. Most of these amounts would be recoverable as part of the development cost if a contract for construction were let and approved. In the event bids are too high and no contract is let, there would be no source from which to recover these amounts.

The Schwan committee emphasized that if the contract were let, there might still be additional expenses that GHI would incur. According to the law, in case income is not sufficient to meet operating expenses during the first year, GHI must stand ready to meet the deficit up to 25 percent of current expenses. Whether this amount could be recovered by a future increase in rentals is not yet known. The committee asked Campbell to estimate the annual current expenses.

One other possible cost item for GHI is the financing of movable furnishings and equipment. The committee, however, has had assurances that the only movable furnishings for the project -- ranges and refrigerators -- can be "built-in" to satisfy the regulations and make this cost a part of development cost covered by the loan.

NEED FOR HOUSING

The committee, in analyzing the returns from the mail questionnaire sent to 1,505 GHI members, concluded that there is a need for the proposed elderly housing project. "It would appear," said the committee, "that all or almost all its occupants would be current residents of Greenbelt, parents of such residents, or former residents. This would appear to be the case despite the favorable local supply of housing adequate for elderly occupancy and the relatively limited local demand for such housing."

The committee here was referring to the fact that despite the existence of 16 GHI "honeymoon bungalows" and 74 first-floor one-bedroom homes and despite the fact that persons aged 65 and over comprise only 2.7 percent of Greenbelt's population, there were 58 persons who indicated on the questionnaire that they or their parents or friends would be interested in occupying one of the 56 units in the elderly housing project within a year.

The Schwan committee observed that a separate, single-purpose, non-profit corporation is required to operate the project. GHI "ownership" of this corporation is out of the question, but GHI could elect the majority of the members of the Board of Trustees of the elderly housing project. The committee recommended that three members of the 9-man board of trustees be elected by the tenants.

With respect to the loan agreement conditions, the committee noted that many of them are included for the protection of the government in dealing with borrowers inexperienced in operating housing projects. Many of the conditions, said the committee, are only of an academic interest to GHI, since it has been assured that it is the aim of the housing authorities to exercise as little supervision as possible over organizations capable of operating a project well.

The committee's report also includes a full description of the financial arrangements, of admission and occupancy standards, and of recommended physical standards. The committee felt that the location -- on Hamilton PL. behind 32 and 34 Ridge -- is an excellent one, as convenient as possible to the shopping center, the theater, and the several churches. It also expressed approval of the architect's plans, and suggested that by all means the social building should be included in the plan. Such a building would house washers and driers and provide a place for recreation.

HELM COMMITTEE

The Helm committee's recommendations, which were the outgrowth of resolutions proposed by Bernard Bordenet at last May's membership meeting, dealt mainly with the expenditure of funds by the GHI board. It suggested that no funds of the corporation be used for any purpose other than taxes and expenses in the operation of the project, as the project was being conducted in 1960, without prior membership approval.

It also recommended that if any two directors question the validity of any proposed expenditures, the matter shall be referred to the audit committee for an advisory opinion, but in any event the membership must give approval to the expenditure. Finally, it suggested a $600 limit per year to civic and philanthropic expenses and a $1,000 per year limit to expenses in connection with the development of vacant land without prior membership approval.

These sets of provisions came in for critical appraisal at the GHI board meeting on October 26, as unduly tying the hands of the board. The board felt that no one can foresee the type of future occasions that might require expenditures and to try to limit expenditures to the type that were made at some past time is being unrealistic.

The Helm committee proposed that the membership fee be expanded to cover the cost of proc-

Quick Service On Ad

The value of advertising in the GREENBELT NEWS REVIEW even if the ad does not appear in print was demonstrated last week. Mrs. Susan Weintraub, 25 Lakeside, submitted a classified ad reporting the loss of a green parakeet. Our alert copyreader recalled that an ad had also been submitted reporting the find of such a parakeet. The two parties were brought together, and, sure enough, it was the same parakeet.

Incidentally, a charge is made for "lost" ads but not for "found" ads. In this case, of course, there was no charge as the NEWS REVIEW was happy to be of service.

Nusinov, a winner last game, and his new partner, Pat Savage, took the East-West honors, but the margin was just 1/2 of a point over second-place winners, Bob Smith and Glenn Stahly.

Howard's sister Phyllis and her husband, Alvin Richman, were in town recently. Both are attending the University of Pennsylvania, where Phyllis is working toward her Master's Degree in city planning and Alvin his Doctorate in political science. Howard, by the way, is studying at Harvard for his Master's.

United Nation's Week in Greenbelt has meant learning and doing for many of our community's boys and girls. On October 24, some 170 school children saw the United Nations feature-length film, "Power Among Men," at the Youth Center. Then, last Sunday 125 youngsters went door to door collecting for UNICEF. I'm sure everyone will be delighted when they hear that their efforts netted $415.00, which will be sent to help needy children all over the world. Greenbelt's contribution to UNICEF will bring to 7,055 children one glass of milk every day for one month--a total of 211,650 glasses. Twin Pines provided refreshments after the film and the Unicef collection.

Birthdays greetings to Daniel McDonnell, 2-J Northway, who celebrated his thirteenth birthday.

Leaf Collections Start This Week

The "Litter Gitter," Greenbelt's vacuum leaf sweeper may be out for the first time this season on Saturday, if some necessary repair work on the device is completed by that time. From now on, as long as the weather remains fairly dry so that leaves do not become soggy and matted down--perhaps even into the early part of December--the Litter Gitter will be sent out on Saturdays to sweep up piled leaves throughout the city. It may also be used on other days during the season, depending upon the workload of the city employees.

Residents need not telephone a formal request for leaf pickup, Albert "Buddy" Attick, Director of Public Works, has announced. He cautioned, however, that piles of leaves to be picked up by the machine must be placed next to the roadways, or no further than just inside the hedges. This short distance is necessary because of the 10-foot hose on the machine.

Attick also warned residents that the Litter Gitter may be used only for dry leaves. No sticks, branches, or other refuse may be deposited with the leaves because these may damage the mechanism. Refuse of this type will be collected after a formal request is telephoned to the city switchboard, GR. 4-5454.

essing the transfer of a GHI unit to a new member and that such fee shall not be more than 10% in excess of the actual average cost of processing the transfer.

The committee saw no reason to change the provisions regarding termination of contract except to put in writing the hearing and appeal procedures.

As part of the committee's report, there was submitted a section on the use of basements. This section favored making the basement under brick homes accessible for storage, but only to the member on whose property the entrance to the basement is situated. The reasoning behind this was that this member is deprived of space normally used for sheds and often suffers other inconveniences as the result of maintenance traffic.

GHI Notes

Contingent upon legal advice, the GHI board voted at its regular meeting on Thursday, October 26, to cooperate in correcting a drainage problem above lots 54 and 55 of Greenhill Rd. The city had asked GHI for a 20 ft. easement for the construction of a drainage swall. GHI agreed to a 10 ft. easement provided the adjacent property owners made available another 10 feet.

The GHI board approved a tree-planting program by which memberowners who get approval of a suitable location may receive shade trees at considerably below cost (about $1.50), with the corporation paying the balance. The member would have to do his own planting.

GHI manager Paul Campbell stated that he did not interpret the recent action of the board in rejecting a membership application from a student bachelor as setting a precedent for rejection of applications from all bachelors.

The board asked management to feel out FNMA about releasing small parcels of land from the mortgage. The board indicated opposition to any joint leasing of land with the city.

GHI employees were granted a holiday on Friday, November 10. Federal and county employees are also off that day.

Joseph Kendall, 14 Laurel Hill, was named to the Standards and Improvements Committee.

Students Honored

University of Maryland students who have achieved an academic average of 3.5, or above, out of a possible 4.0 points for the last two semesters, will be honored at a convocation here on November 3.

More than 475 students will be awarded certificates for their academic achievements and receive the personal congratulations of President Wilson H. Elkins and the dean of their college.

Invitations have been sent to parents of these students and more than 1500 are expected to attend the honors ceremony, which will be held in the Reckord Armory at 7:30 p.m.
