"Common Sense" Ticket Sweeps to GHI Board Victory; Membership Supports News Review, Amberg By-laws

With 60 percent of the GHI membership voting directly or by proxy, a clean sweep by the "Common Sense" ticket at last week's Greenbelt Homes, Inc. election put Frank Lastner, Hans Jorgensen, Harry Zubkoff, Charles Schwan, and John O'Reilly on the board of directors for 2-year terms.

The "Common Sense" ticket polled an average 68 percent of the vote. The losing ticket, composed of Allen Morrison, Joe Comproni, B. J. Bordenet, Jim Fritz, and Douglas Ward, obtained an average 2 percent of the vote. 911 ballots were cast, of which 8 were invalidated.

High man was incumbent Frank Lastner with 652 votes. The low man on the Common Sense Ticket, John O'Reilly, received 565 votes, some 254 votes more than the high man, Allen D. Morrison, on the opposing ticket.

The winning five now join the present four members of the GHI board — Ed Burgoon, Henry Brautigam, William Helm and Joe Cherry — to round out the 9-man board. The organization of the new board and election of officers will take place at the board's regularly scheduled meeting tonight.

Audit Committee

Winners for the 3-man audit committee were Charles Cormack, Sr. (514), Marjorie Bergemank (457), and Steve Polaschik (365). The unsuccessful candidates were George A. Wilson, Sr. (263), Joseph Wilkinson (218), Siebert Meade (204) and Burton D. Kerr (158).

Elected to the nominations and elections committee were Bev Fonda, Mat Amberg, George Adams, Velma Chapman, and William Hoff.

The 903 votes cast in last week's election was the highest in the history of GHI. The previous high was 536 in the 1954 and 1962 elections. Some 245 votes were cast by proxy, more than 4 times the normal number. There are about 1,500 GHI members.

Nursery School Hit By Vandals Repeatedly

Greenbelt's cooperative nursery school, which has been in existence since the year the town was founded, was vandalized last weekend for the fifth time in a month. The most recent of these acts involved the destruction of the door of an outside closet where toys are stored. Although the vandals used a log as a battering ram, none of the nearby residents reported hearing any suspicious noises.

Police Chief Robert O'Brien stated: "We are presently conducting an intensive investigation to determine the person or persons responsible for this wanton destruction." He added, "One way that citizens can help is to report to the police any suspicious incidents involving cars or groups of individuals, either adults or children."

Other damage to the nursery's playground equipment included breakage to wooden saw horses and climbing planks, dismantling of the large sandbox, and destruction of a climbing gym and slide purchased only four years ago. According to Mrs. Alane Atkinson, president of the school, not a single safe piece of equipment remains in the playground. She went on to say, "The amount of the damage totals about $200. This may not seem a large amount of money, but it is a great deal to us. The nursery school is not a profit-making organization in any sense of the word; it is definitely a community service. The adults may be angry about this vandalism, but the children are the ones who suffer."

Swimming Pool Readied For Opening on May 30

The Greenbelt swimming pool will open on Memorial Day. Residents have already received application forms for season subscriptions, and approximately 100 have been sold to date. Many of them were bought by out-of-town families. A limited number of non-resident subscriptions are available to families recommended by Greenbelt residents. Season passes may be obtained at the City Treasurer's office from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The pool operated at a profit last year, and city officials are hopeful that a much-needed program of improvements can be financed from future pool revenues. The Department of Public Works has spent the last two weeks repairing and painting the pool facilities. A more basic program has been authorized by the City Council, however. A primary study of the costs involved will be undertaken by the firm of Greenhorn and O'Mara.

The scope of the reconstruction program has not yet been decided. Among the proposals that have been made are the following:

1. Reconstruction of the pool itself: The pool was built 25 years ago, and the concrete was of mediocre quality. Exposure to the elements, and corrosion by chemicals in the water, have weakened the concrete to such an extent that it is a heavy annual maintenance problem. Large cracks have developed, and chunks have broken off. Under study is the possibility of building an entirely new pool inside the present one.

2. Renovation of the pool deck: The paving is cracked, and some sections have been heaved out of line, causing stubbed toes and falls.

3. Bathroom facilities: Roof repairs and replacement of rotting wood in the dressing-room wings are of first priority here. Also under consideration are the substitution of lockers for the present system of baskets for clothing, as well as the provision of hot water in the shower rooms.

4. Construction of new diving tank: A separate diving tank or an L-shaped extension of the pool have been suggested. The diving end of the present pool is shallower than the regulation depth for high diving.

This summer, six lifeguards will be stationed at the pool. One of them, Bill Edwards, will serve as pool manager. He has worked at the pool for several years, and served last year as assistant manager.

Friday night teen splash parties are scheduled again this year. An innovation will be an "adults only" evening swim period, from 5 to 7 p.m. on selected nights. This program will be expanded or withdrawn, depending on its popularity.

by Russ Greenbaum

At the annual GHI meeting on Wednesday night attended by well over 200 members, who held more than 100 additional proxy ballots, the members voted with less than 10 nays to approve the News Review resolution calling for the GHI board of directors to reaffirm its long-standing policy of favoring rent-free basement quarters for the paper, with the News Review reimbursing the corporation for out-of-pocket expenses.

The same majority earlier passed a motion by News Review board president Al Skolnik to move up the item from the end of the agenda to the first item of new business. In the original agenda the News Review matter was placed after a resolution submitted by Director Bernard Bordenet which would have set a policy insulating GDC (which operates the apartments for GHI) from interference by the GHI board or the membership in order to protect GDC's legal status. A quorum call later ended the meeting before the Bordenet proposal could be taken up.

Amberg Dominates

The major part of the meeting on the proposed revisions of the GHI by-laws was chaired by Charles Schwan, chairman of the by-laws committee. The discussion that followed was dominated by Mat Amberg, who a few weeks ago resigned from the by-laws committee in protest over some of the changes the board insisted in making to the by-law changes recommended by the committee.

Amberg led a highly successful floor fight to kill all the board changes which he felt were detrimental to the Corporation. This included winning membership approval to retain the requirement that anyone desiring to run for GHI office who is not selected by the GHI nominations committee must submit a petition signed by at least 10 members. The proposed revision would have eliminated the need for 10 signatures.

Amberg also won approval by the narrow margin of 75-72 for retaining the right of a rejected applicant for membership to appeal beyond the board to the members, arguing that a member could be greatly inconvenienced by selling his house to a non-member who might then have his membership application turned down. Amberg also obtained a majority vote permitting voting by mail in elections or referendums, which he said he hoped would later lead to a means of eliminating the solicitation of proxy votes.

Board Absentees

When Mrs. Carnie Harper questioned a new by-law provision which disqualified board members if absent for 5 out of 10 consecutive meetings, Amberg noted that this requirement could be eased by restoring the phrase "absent without permission," which would keep the present practice of allowing a board member to have his absence excused by the board. Bordenet, who served on the by-laws committee said the intent of eliminating excused absences was to prevent a dominant faction on the board from protecting a consistently absent board member from removal. Amberg, however, won approval for permitting excused absences by a vote of 65-47.

Generating the lengthiest discussion was the provision that could limit GHI to deposits of not more than $10,000 in Twin Pines Savings & Loan or the Greenbelt Federal Credit Union. Elliott Bukzin led a move to permit no depos-

Council Debates Mayor's Decision To Hold Closed Budget Sessions

By Mary Louise Williamson

A challenge to council's decision to exclude the public from preliminary budget sessions resulted in a lengthy and sometimes heated debate at the regular meeting of the city council last Monday evening.

Initial Budget Cuts Proposed

by Al Skolnik

Tentative cuts of $9,100 were made by city council last week in the first of a series of reviews of departmental budgets for 1963-64. The cuts were made in public works and related activities. Tonight the council will review the police department budget.

A cut of $2,500 was made in the $6,900 recommended by Manager James Giese for maintaining and providing additional parking facilities. At issue was the extent to which the city should service and maintain Greenbelt Homes, Inc. courts. The manager had submitted a program calling for $4,000 to be spent to single seal 16,000 square yards of GHI parking area. On Councilman Ben Goldfaden's suggestion, this amount was reduced to $2,500 to equal the amount received by the city from the State for maintenance of roads in the courts. (It is estimated that of the 14 miles of roadway in Greenbelt that receive State-shared funds under the Sherbow Act, about 3 miles are in the courts.)

Another item of $1,000 to provide additional parking spaces in the GHI courts was deleted entirely. Mayor Francis White pointed out that the council is awaiting a decision from the solicitor as to the relationship of city to GHI with respect to providing parking facilities. In any event, White and Goldfaden stressed that, as in the past, any urgent needs could be handled on an individual basis with money appropriated from miscellaneous funds.

A major cut — $3,400 — was the elimination of one of the two additional public works laborers requested by the city manager to provide street, park, and playground maintenance. All the councilmen but Dave Champion approved this cut.

The remaining cuts consisted of $1,450 in material and supplies and equipment replacement funds; $1,500 in curb and gutter construction work; and $500 for rental of street sweeper.

One budget item was increased. An allowance of $8,250 for engineering and inspection was increased by $250, pending a report from the manager as to the possibility of retaining an engineer at that salary.

its in either account (since they are not insured by the Federal Government) while George Reeves in a countermove sought to eliminate the restriction of $10,000 on such deposits. The members defeated both proposals and approved the $10,000 amount, which Al Skolnik argued would give some limited assistance to our local financial institutions.

Controversial By-Laws

As reported in last week's issue, two proposed controversial by-law changes were overwhelmingly defeated. The proposed by-law which would have prevented special meetings from being held "if the action requested would be illegal or would in any way jeopardize the Corporation" was voted down with virtually no debate.

The other proposed by-law would have required all top GHI management officials and board members to file a statement of any interest or connection with a person or firm which would conflict with their GHI duties. In the only flare-up of the evening Director Helm was cut off by Schwan's gavel when Helm declared that the people opposed to the conflict-of-interest provision were those who would be hurt by it. Helm withdrew this remark.

The quorum call ended the meeting shortly after midnight.

Harvey Geller, 117 Northway, asked council to reconsider its stand. He said he would seriously question whether closed sessions are necessary. They could, he alleged, be "detrimental to good government," and added that News Review coverage could not satisfy in detail all the special interests of individual citizens. Furthermore, council could suffer from the loss of advice and comments from some of Greenbelt's fiscally astute citizens. Geller did note the problem of time and was amenable to council's limiting participation by citizens.

Allen Douglas, 8 Fayette, in supporting Geller's request, noted the desirability of observing the positions taken by individual councilmen during budget discussions, particularly in view of the coming fall election of a new council.

Champion Opposed

Councilman Dave Champion noted that he had intended to bring up a similar request for open budget meetings. Champion said he had no prior knowledge of the announcement of closed budget sessions in last week's News Review by Mayor Francis White. He also noted that in the last council on which he sat, open meetings were held at which citizens were given a short period to ask questions or make comments, and that during actual discussion by council the citizens did not participate. Thus council was able to make efficient use of available time and yet citizens could at least observe the actions of individual councilmen. He asked that at least the consideration of the recreation department be open to members of the Recreation Advisory Board.

Councilman Ben Goldfaden objected to giving this privilege to some while restricting others. Mayor White, however, agreed that inviting special groups could be advantageous to council, though he would still restrict unlimited attendance. White emphasized the short time allotted to council's consideration of the budget and thus the necessity for making the best possible use of its time.

Councilman Goldfaden commented on the enormous difficulties which could arise if large numbers of people were to attend particularly if they arrived and left at different times, saying that just the noise factor of people walking up and down the stairs could be considerable. He added that previous councils on which he had sat had held executive budget sessions, so this was not a new procedure.

Pilski noted that a majority of council wished to have closed meetings (all except Champion) and that no special motion was thus required.

Mayor White appointed councilman Pilski to replace former Councilman Tom Canning on the Advisory Planning Board. He will serve as an ex-officio non-voting member of the Planning Board.

GCS Sponsors 4-H Show

All seven of Greenbelt's 4-H clubs will present a program sponsored by GCS (Coop) on Friday night, May 24, at 7 p.m. in the multi-purpose room at Center School. Exhibits, a style review, and a baby-bathing demonstration will be highlights of the event, which is open to the public.

Memorial Day Services

The annual Memorial Day Services, honoring those members of the Armed Forces who gave their lives protecting this country in times of war, will be held at 11 a.m. at the Center Memorial on Thursday, May 30.

A Memorial Day parade preceding the services will begin at 10 a.m.

The Tug-of-War Ends

Last Thursday ended the most turbulent year in the history of Greenbelt Homes, Inc., since its first year a decade ago. For 12 months the GHI board of directors was constantly rent with clashes over almost every item of business brought before it. The GDC board, which normally holds brief, infrequent meetings on the smooth-running apartment operation, spent much time on the "vital" issue of whether the News Review should pay rent for its quarters in the basement of one of the GDC apartments.

All of this is now in the past as a result of the election of all five members of the "Common Sense" ticket to the board. This group openly allied to two of the incumbent board members, now holds a solid majority. This will end for at least a year an almost even split on the board which turned every issue into a confused and bitter tug-of-war. Viewed in the most charitable light, the "slate", which had ridden to victory a year ago on the elderly housing issue, might have felt it had a mandate to make major changes in the policies and operations of GHI. However, the 2-1 vote against it has now clearly rejected that idea.

Finally, the News Review is grateful to all those who came to its aid in such an overwhelming manner. We consider the vote on the News Review resolution at the annual meeting to be an expression of confidence in the newspaper, and strong support for our belief in the independence of the press. We shall continue to be the spokesman for the entire community, to the best of our ability; and to uphold the right of the citizen to be as fully informed as possible.

Legion Elects "Miss Poppy"

 Success Story

Home improvement expert Bernie Hearn says ...

"YELLOW PAGES ADVERTISING KEEPS MY VOLUME OF BUSINESS HIGH"

In 1950 Mr. Hearn was manager of the Johns-Manville Sales Corporation branch in Washington. Then he bought out the branch and renamed it "The Hearn Insulation and Improvement Company."

He's been busy ever since.

"Last year our 10 salesmen and 15 to 25 specialists were kept busy with various types of improvement and insulation jobs on over 2000 homes," he reports happily.

"Advertising is vital to my business. I depend on two media and one is the Yellow Pages. In my opinion, it's the one medium which is always available to the homeowner when he is ready to do something about home improvement projects he's been thinking about."

Yellow Pages advertising can help your volume of business, too. Many advertisers report that the Yellow Pages brings them several sales every day.

In the area you serve, the Yellow Pages carries your message into virtually every home and office. And your advertisement is never out of date. Prospects find you fast when they need your product or service.

Invest in success with Yellow Pages advertising. Call your C & P Business Office and ask for one of our Yellow Pages representatives.
