Council Rejects Zoning Appeal of Smith-Ewing

By Charles T. McDonald

A well-attended special meeting of City Council on Thursday, October 17, called to hear two reports from the Advisory Planning Board (APB) found Councilmen Lewis Bernstein and Cliff Simonson wearing two hats. They were considering reports that had been prepared during their term of office as APB members.

The first report had been submitted as of April, 1963, and referred to the Smith-Ewing property, which lies within the City of Greenbelt's boundaries, just east of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway along both sides of Glendale Road. Messrs. A. H. Smith and Frank Ewing, owners of the property, and their attorney T. Hammond Welsh, were present.

After hearing the APB report, which recommend to council denial of the four petitions, two of which were for high-rise apartment zoning and two for garden-type apartments, Welsh pleaded with city council to delay any action until their planner and traffic engineer could prepare a plan for both sites and then have an opportunity to discuss this plan with the APB.

The APB report indicated that if the rezoning requested was granted, apartment units for 20,000 people could be built on the land covered by the petitions, and that the single lane bridge over the Baltimore-Washington Parkway is grossly inadequate to handle the traffic if the petitioned zoning were granted.

The council decided that the current application be denied without prejudice and it be referred back to the APB for any further recommendation made necessary by the submission of the Smith-Ewing planner and traffic engineer.

The second report had to do with rezoning of the Old Schrom Airport (not within the city limits) to C-2 zoning. The APB recommended denial on the basis that sufficient land in the Schrom tract was already zoned C-1 and C-2 for any immediate residential development in the area. No representative of the land owners involved in this property was present at the meeting and no record was available of a notice being sent to them by the clerk. The report on this zoning was deferred to a later meeting until the owners could be notified. (See report on Monday's council meeting.)

Present at the meeting was Albert Small, president of the Spring Hill Lake development, who asked permission to discuss some proposed zoning for Springhill Lake. Small was also represented by Welsh, who explained that a small parcel of land in the Springhill Lake development had been inadvertently left in industrial zoning when the balance of the land was originally rezoned to apartment zoning from industrial zoning. Now that the project is developing, this land is needed for other apartments and Springhill Lake will be petitioning for rezoning. It has been the practice of Springhill Lake to acquaint the city council with such zoning matters before going to the Park and Planning Commission.

A second request for rezoning will be for a small commercial center near the Community Building to provide for the immediate needs of the apartment development.

The third parcel that would be up for rezoning would be for an office building site to provide space for professional offices essential to a large apartment development.

The three rezoning items will be referred to the APB as soon as they are officially received at the City Office.

UNICEF Trick or Treat Held Next Wednesday

Greenbelt's United Nations Day Program and Trick or Treat for UNICEF will be combined this year on Wednesday, October 30 at the Youth Center.

Trick or Treat for UNICEF, with the Reverend Lyle Harper as coordinator, will start at 6:30 p.m. Small groups of youngsters from the 4-H and other organized youth organizations will pick up their supplies at the Youth Center, solicit in behalf of the United Nations' Children's Fund (each group accompanied by an adult), and then return for refreshments served by adult volunteers. The Prince Georgemen, popular local folk singers, will provide entertainment and The Teen Club has been asked to help count the money.

Other children and youth are welcome but in order to participate must have an adult for each group or carload.

The United Nations Day program sponsored by the city and under the direction of Mrs. Richard Hensel, council-appointed chairman, will feature a panel of three Peace Corps volunteers who have returned from overseas assignments. The program, designed to inform and appeal particularly to young people, will begin at 8 and be over by 10:15. The Prince Georgemen will sing and Father Flaherty of St. Hughs will serve as chairman of the program. Refreshments will be served by The Teen Club.

The three Peace Corps members have served in three different countries: Carolyn Holm, Turkey; Freeman McKindra, Pakistan, and Dick Ballendorf in the Philippines. They are among the ten Peace Corps veterans now teaching at Cardozo High School in an experimental program of urban education and they will be entertained at dinner that evening in Greenbelt homes.

Trick or Treat for UNICEF and the annual UN Day program have become traditional in Greenbelt which has always supported well the Children's Fund and its activities in behalf of children throughout the world. The Peace Corps, which has captured the imaginations of people throughout our country, has a widespread program throughout the world.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will pay its annual visit to Greenbelt on Monday, November 4, 1963. Blood donations will be taken at the Greenbelt Youth Center from 3 to 8 p.m. As in the past, this visit is sponsored by the Greenbelt Lions Club, assisted by the Greenbelt Womens Club.

Everyone is eligible to donate blood, but those 18 to 21 years of age must have a signed release from their parent or guardian. This donation is similar to a bank deposit, for when you donate blood to the Red Cross Blood Bank, you can withdraw a like amount in the future if it is ever needed.

We are all acquainted with the constant need for blood by our local hospitals. The Red Cross Blood program is the only means available to meet this need. Therefore, it is of the utmost importance that all the residents of the community cooperate to insure the success of this program.

For further information call 474-6323, or come to the Youth Center any time between the hours of 3 and 8 p.m. on Monday, November 4.

Pool Renovation, City Land Problems Debated by Council

By Russ Greenbaum

A heavy agenda which kept Monday's regular city council meeting in session until after midnight included sharp questioning by Councilman Cliff Simonson of the competence of Greenhorne and O'Mara to design the swimming pool renovation, a request by the County Board of Education for land to build a senior high school in Greenbelt, and an attempt by F. W. Schrom to obtain city approval for rezoning to permit the construction of a 68-acre regional shopping center on the other side of the Parkway.

Council was scheduled to review the preliminary plan for the swimming pool reconstruction, which has now been approved by the Recreation Advisory Board, and instruct the engineering firm on any improvements that should be incorporated into the final plans. Working drawings and specifications would then be prepared and bids sought from construction firms.

Simonson, however, said he had come away from a discussion of the plan by the firm's engineers dissatisfied with their answers to questions about the design. He noted that Greenhorne and O'Mara had never handled the design of a swimming pool before, that the cost estimate of $140,000 seemed "awfully high" and there had been no consultation with pool construction specialists.

The councilman said that he has started contacting firms in the area specializing in pool construction to obtain their opinions. He reported that one large local firm had made an on-site inspection of the city pool and estimated that the job could be done for $120,000, and he suggested that at least two other pool construction firms be consulted to obtain estimates.

This raised the question of whether Greenhorne and O'Mara would have to be discharged from its contract with the city to draw up the plans and paid off before other firms could be consulted by the city. City Manager James Giese defended the use of the engineering firm, noting that the renovation of a pool was much more of an engineering job than building a new pool. He commented that the engineering firm had done an excellent job in handling structural work of a similar nature. He also indicated that any delay in beginning the work would make it less likely that the pool would be ready for the new season on May 31.

One feature of the pool that was debated was whether to use poured concrete as is now planned for the pool floor, gunnite or some other less expensive material. Councilman William Hoff struck a note of compromise by noting that the city should spell out its requirements in much more detail to Greenhorne and O'Mara and find out how the engineering firm proposed to meet them. Councilman Dave Champion, who supported the manager's position, moved that the city continue with the engineering firm and spell out construction details at the next meeting, this motion was passed 4-1, with Simonson dissenting.

Senior High Site

The council heard a letter from the County Board of Education which referred to its plans for a senior high school in Greenbelt. The school board said it was interested in a site in the North End beyond the upper end of Northway now used for sanitary land fill. The board said that it had contacted Charles Bresler, owner of most of the property, on the purchase of 25 acres for the school site and requested that the city donate an additional 5 acres. The school board request, which also mentioned plans to obtain two new elementary school sites in Greenbelt, was referred to the Advisory Planning Board.

The matter of donating part of the city's sanitary land fill to the school board is complicated by the city's own need of more land for this purpose. A proposed swap of 4 acres of city land for 14 acres under the jurisdiction of the Goddard Space Flight Center was snagged by legal difficulties. An added factor was a proposal by the Springhill Lake concern to buy the 7-acre tract of land on which the city warehouse and maintenance shop now exists. An initial offer of $20,000 an acre was made.

Springhill Lake Proposal Sale of the land to Springhill

Lake would require that a new warehouse and maintenance shop be constructed elsewhere, with sanitary land fill being the most logical site. As an alternative to purchase of the land, Springhill Lake suggested a swap of land. The council considered this as a possibility as well as screening the buildings and renovating them to eliminate their unsightly appearance. The entire package, including the problem of obtaining an additional land fill site, was referred to the Advisory Planning Board.

Ironically there will be delay in the APB considering any of the above matters because council has not completed its interview of prospective members to the 9-man APB, (which presently has too few members to function), as well as to the 5-man Personnel Advisory Board and the new 3-man Employee Relations Board. In addition, a resolution to establish a Charter Revision Committee was introduced for first reading. Council agreed to interview candidates who might be eligible for any of these positions on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week in the hope of winding up this work.

The matter of the APB's major report on recommended goals for the city submitted to council a year ago was also discussed. Councilman Lewis Bernstein, former chairman of the APB, urged that a public hearing be held on the overall goals. Council decided to consider at its next meeting the scheduling of a public meeting for this purpose. The APB's formula for determining capital improvement priorities was also considered for inclusion in the public hearing. However, it was noted that this was a highly critical issue and that the lack of priorities probably caused the defeat of the capital improvements referendum. When Harvey Geller, chairman of the APB committee concerned with setting priorities, noted that he would like to see the matter returned to his group for restudy, council immediately accepted this.

Schrom Zoning Request

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Schrom attended the meeting to present their case for rezoning 35 acres of land now zoned R-R (single-family homes on quarter-acre lots) to commercial in order to combine it with 33 acres already zoned commercial. The Schroms said that plans were already drawn for a regional shopping center but now had to be revised due to relocation of some of the cloverleaf pattern for the Capitol Beltway which borders the site. (The Schrom property is not within the city limits but the County Planning Board has asked the city for its recommendation.)

They pointed out that large apartment developments planned for that area, including a tract of their own land zoned for R-18 (low-density) apartments, would make a regional shopping center desirable. Councilman Bernstein told them that zoning for a regional shopping center would set the character of the community, converting it from a community of home owners to apartment dwellers.

Councilman Smith referred to statistics that indicated that the Greenbelt area could only hope to support one regional shopping center for some time to come, and that one (Beltway Plaza) already existed. A "starved-out" shopping center would do no one any good, he argued. Mayor Edgar Smith and Councilman Champion also explained that the community has clearly indicated it does not want to be surrounded by apartment developments and large shopping centers and that their obligation to the citizens of Greenbelt required them to oppose the petition. The APB recommendation that the petition be rejected was unanimously approved.

'SENSLESS ORGANIZATION'

To the Editor:

As a resident of Greenbelt for over 21 years I have read with interest the articles and letters concerning the "Greenbelt Citizens for Fair Housing."

I feel that this is a most silly and senseless organization and agree wholeheartedly with Mr. Gemeny's and Mr. Steven's letters. There has never been any question in this community about fair housing and there will not be unless the matter is stirred up. I don't believe that the majority of citizens in Greenbelt are either for or against integration. Certainly a poll of all of the citizens of Greenbelt would be fair but I don't think it should be taken as that would bring the matter more out in public. It certainly shouldn't be necessary to "educate" the people of Greenbelt. Let's all hope and pray that this organization will die a quiet death before things really get out of hand.

WINTER COVER FOR POOL

To the Editor:

The facts and figures on Starlight Fairways, Fairfax, Virginia, were secured by my husband and submitted by me in a letter to our City Manager last August. In his reply Mr. Giese thanked me and assured me that our suggestions would be given careful consideration, etc. We became interested in the possibilities of winter cover for our pool through our association with the Greenbelt Swim team. Our swimmers need winter practice facilities and pool renovation has been voted. I think you will find that many local swimming teams have this same problem and might be willing to share the cost of covering the pool by renting practice time here.

Student Astronomers

Center School's sixth grade students held a Skygazing Program on their school grounds on Wednesday, October 16th. Two six-inch reflector telescopes were used to observe the planets Saturn with its rings, and Jupiter with its four visible moons.

This program was part of the elementary astronomy unit the students are studying. Sometime this week they will have an opportunity to observe the moon's surface containing the mares and craters.

JCC ANNUAL DANCE

The Jewish Community Center of Prince Georges County will hold its Annual Dance on Saturday, November 2 from 9 p.m. to 12. The Ron Stuart Band will play.

UNICEF Film Shown On Sunday Oct. 27

The story of how the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF) helps children throughout the world will be told in a special film program to be shown Sunday, Oct. 27, at 3 p.m., at the College Park Municipal Auditorium.

Sponsored by Prince George's County Memorial Library, the Progress Club of College Park, Junior Women's Club of College Park, and local churches, the program is aimed to help children understand the importance of UNICEF. The sponsors hope that as a result some children may wish to obtain contributions toward the fund on Halloween in lieu of, or in addition to, the usual "trick or treating," according to Miss Madeline Evers, special adult services librarian at the county library.

Films to be shown include: A GIFT TO GROW ON, about a Mexican village, with Garry Moore as narrator; ASSIGNMENT CHILDREN, with Danny Kaye visiting southeast Asia, and a film about how some Danish children helped build a school for children in Greece.

Hause-Piteleski

Mrs. Carrie V. Bryant, 20-P Ridge Rd., wishes to announce the marriage of her daughter, Charlotte H. Hause, to William T. Piteleski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Piteleski of Worthington, West Virginia. The marriage took place on October 19, 1963, at the Greenbelt Community Church, the Rev. Kenneth Wyatt officiating. The ceremony was attended by immediate members of the brides and groom's families, followed by a dinner at Maryland Restaurant, Jessup, Maryland. After a honeymoon trip to Williamsburg, the couple will reside at 4-B Southway Road.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Pitelski are employed by the Department of Defense, Ft. Meade. Mr. Pitelski, a graduate of Fairmont State College, Fairmont, West Virginia, is at present undertaking graduate work in the Business and Public Administration after-hours program of George Washington University.

RESENTS DICTATION

To the Editor:

The City of Greenbelt has indeed come to sad days when newly arrived residents, in a letter to the Editor in the News Review of last week, serve the taxpaying citizens of this community with an ultimatum: Either you let yourself be dictated to by something called 'GCFH' or else 'CORE' will get you!

Halloween is upon us but we will not be frightened by these dispensers of civil disorder and civil disobedience!

Is not this the group that caused all the civil disorders and turmoil at Bel Air with a number of their group being arrested? Is not this the group that trampled (literally!) the rights of others?

Are we law-abiding taxpaying citizens of Greenbelt about to be dictated to and threatened by such as these?

There are members of this group that have yet to become full earning and taxpaying citizens of this community. Some are still in that taxpayer subsidized category of 'student'.

In Greenbelt a few months, or maybe for the great, great amount of time such as two years, or maybe just eight months, and they are to tell us how to live! Presumptuous? It is a darnable large amount of gall!

Joseph Hanyok

P.S. I publicly express my agreement with the knowledgeable and sensible letter written by Mr. Gemeny.

Sidney Brown (left), developer of Greenbelt's Beltway Plaza Shopping Center, has reason to smile as he joins Harry Wolfgang, managing director of S. Klein's, in cutting the ribbon for the opening of the Plaza's new department store last Thursday. A wave of shoppers poured into the store immediately afterwards and continued throughout the opening week. Nearly 40,000 shoppers were estimated to have visited the store during the 3-day opening. A city police force of 42 special officers with walkie-talkies kept traffic moving. S. Meaning of Halloween
Hallowe'en or all Hallow's Eve is the name given to the 31st of October as the vigil of Hallowmas or All Saints Day. The exact origin of the day is not known. It seems to combine in its celebration classic mythology, Druidic beliefs and Christian superstitions. Although some changes have been made in the customs, the manner of celebration is much the same as it was centuries ago. It was believed that on this night of the year supernatural influences were abroad, spirits of the dead were supposed to walk, witches and merrymaking elves abounded on that night to the great annoyance of sober mortals. In our present celebration, the ceremony that was once a belief, now has become a thing of sport, and its observance a jest for the evening's entertainment.
