The Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad and Ladies Auxiliary will hold its annual Installation Dinner on Saturday January 25 1964. Dinner will be served at 6 p.m. at the Firehouse.

Being installed as President of Company 35 will be Joseph O'Loughlin and John E. Snoddy as Vice President. Patricianne Jones will be installed as President of the Ladies Auxiliary and Betty Wynkoop as Vice President.

Walter V. Dutton will be installed as Chief of the Fire Department and Robert Mogel as Assistant Chief.

Congressmen, Council Urge Appeal of Jaeger Rezoning

Two Congressmen are urging the county commissioners to appeal a circuit court ruling permitting high rise apartments adjacent to Greenbelt Park on what is known as the Jaeger tract. The deadline for an appeal is February 15.

The city council at its meeting Monday night also voted to press the commissioners to appeal the ruling. Mayor Smith indicated that the issue was far more important than the zoning of this tract since it would mean a major inroad of apartments in the Greenbelt area.

Representatives Lankford and Sickles, Democrats, said the Interior Department has recommended administration support of pending legislation to authorize purchase of the contested Jaeger tract and its addition to the Greenbelt Park administered by the National Park Service.

With Interior's recommendation in the hands of the Budget Bureau, the Representatives told Chairman Frank J. Lastner of the county board of commissioners in a letter: "We believe, therefore, it is only a matter of time before the measure receives full administration backing and congressional hearings are started."

The commissioners rejected on November 5, 1963, the application of a developer, B. F. Saul, to change the zoning of the tract from rural-residential to permit high rise apartment construction. Circuit Judge William B. Bowie recently reversed the decision.

Sickles and Lankford said only the county commissioners can appeal the circuit court decision to the Maryland Court of Appeals. However, Mayor Smith said he believed that a citizens' group could make the appeal if the commissioners did not act.

ALL "ABOUT ZONING" LAWS AND PROCEDURES

A new pamphlet, "About Zoning" in Prince Georges County, designed to inform citizens on all phases of zoning laws and procedures, has been released by the County Progress and Publicity Committee.

The Committee, composed of 14 county-wide organizations, named representatives of both the County Civic Federation and the Board of Trade to draft the handbook. In an announced effort to present an accurate and unbiased zoning guide, Chairman William J. Stevens of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission and his staff reviewed the guidebook, as did County Attorney Robert Mathias.

Following approval of the pamphlet by the full Progress and Publicity Committee, after more than six months research, the Park and Planning Commission volunteered to edit and print the publication.

Copies of the guidebook may be obtained from Joshua Zatman, Information officer for the Park and Planning Commission or from Del Malkie, Community Relations Director, in the Courthouse.

New Regional Library Dedicated by Tawes

Governor Tawes will recommend a 22 per cent increase in State aid for county community libraries and to improve the University of Maryland libraries, he announced Sunday, speaking at the dedication of a million-dollar regional library that will serve Prince Georges County.

The new library, 6530 Adélphi Road, Hyattsville, commemorates the late President John Fitzgerald Kennedy. It is the first of four regional public libraries recommended by the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission in its 1959 Master Plan for Libraries in Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties.

Frank J. Lastner, Chairman of the Prince Georges County Board of Commissioners, announced that plans are being drawn for the first local branch library building to be owned by the County, at Laurel on land donated for it by the William Stanley family. He also noted that former administrative quarters in Bladensburg will be converted into a branch library. Plans also are being formulated to build branches at Greenbelt and Belair. Most existing branches are in rented quarters. However Lastner noted that the communities of Hyattsville, Mt. Rainier, College Park, and District Heights had provided library space in municipal or town-owned buildings.

Mrs. Gladys Spellman Prince Georges County Commissioner who is the liaison between the County Commissioners and the Prince Georges County Memorial Library Board of Trustees traced the history of the county library system.

The concept of building a regional library goes back 16 years when the county library board of trustees proposed construction of three regional libraries noted Mrs. Spellman. This decision was aided by a study made by the University of Maryland in 1947 and was subsequently reinforced by a study made by the Prince Georges County League of Women Voters in 1958. In 1959 the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission in its Master Plan called for four regional libraries in Prince Georges County.

Three community libraries had been in operation in the county before 1946 in Laurel, Hyattsville, and Greenbelt. All eventually joined the system. During the first 10 years after its establishment in 1946 the county established other branches. Today the system includes 11 branches, three bookmobiles, and the new regional library which will not be open to the public until March 2.

FEBRUARY 15 IS DEADLINE; PENNIES FOR ART CONTEST

Students of the Junior and Senior High Schools in Prince Georges County should be reminded that the Pennies for Art Contest will again be held and entries must be in the hands of the Chairman Mrs. C. R. Davis 7306 Princeton Ave. College Park on or before February 15 1964.

This year something new will be added in that art work of retarded children will also be on display. Out of the 700 retarded children in special classes in Prince Georges County it is hoped that there will be a lot of interest shown.

There are two divisions Junior High and Senior High and the winners from each division will go on to be judged at the Maryland State judging where the winner in each division will receive an art scholarship and the two second place winners (in each division) will receive a $50 Savings Bond.

County Road Program For 1965-69 Planned

A priority list for construction of roads and highways by the State Roads Commission in Prince Georges County for the fiscal year 1965 to 1969 was drawn up last week at a joint meeting between the County's State Senator, Legislative Delegation and the County Commissioners.

A committee consisting of Senator Wheatley, Chairman Edward Conroy of the Delegation and County Commission Chairman Frank J. Lastner, along with Delegate Meyer Emanuel who heads the Delegation's roads subcommittee, will call upon Maryland Governor Tawes to seek confirmation that projects already committed by State Roads Commission are to be completed and not charged up to the new 1965-69 program.

These top-priority projects include construction of the Riverdale Road overpass over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Poetry Club To See Film

A movie on Robert Frost will be shown during the Poetry Hour on Friday January 24 at the Center School Library. Third graders are reminded to come at 4:30 p.m. instead of the usual 4:55 p.m. Fourth, fifth and sixth graders will come at the regular hour of 4 p.m.

VA Requires Questionnaires

Veterans and dependents of deceased veterans on the Veterans Administration's non-service-connected pension rolls who fail to return their income questionnaires by January 31 will not receive any more checks, and may even have to pay back the money received in 1963.

Since these benefits are paid only to those veterans, their widows or minor children whose incomes are below certain limits, the VA is required by law to receive an income report each year to support the payments.

It is asked that the card be fully completed and signed before it is sent back to the Veterans Administration.

Democratic Club To Meet

The Greenbelt Democratic Club will hold a meeting on Wednesday, January 29, 1964, at 8:30 p.m. in the Co-op Hospitality Room.

Reconstruction of Pool Postponed; GCS Site Rejected for Library

By Russ Greenbaum

A decision to give up any attempt to rebuild the swimming pool for the 1964 season, a letter from the county library board rejecting the GCS-owned land next to the post office as a library site, and the appointment of a special subcommittee to study the court parking ordinance with a view possibly to revising it or even canceling it, were the highlights of the regular meeting of the city council Monday night.

City manager James Giese recalled the actual construction work on the swimming pool until after the 1964 summer season, indicating his strong feeling that to try to do it now "would result in an unsatisfactory pool at a higher cost." He noted that trying to complete the program this spring, which includes enlarging and modernizing as well as rebuilding the pool and bathhouse facilities, would force the engineers to prepare plans hastily and force a contractor to do his work in a hasty manner.

Giese also pointed out that few contractors would be interested in bidding on the job at this time of year, and even if it were started, it would probably not be ready for use when school vacation began. Giese estimated that it would require between one and three thousand dollars to get the present pool ready for the coming season. This would be mostly in labor and would not be an additional drain on the budget.

Meanwhile, he said, the engineers would continue to work on the plans and cost estimates, which have yet to be presented to the council. Giese said the construction contract would be awarded some time this summer. The council unanimously accepted his recommendation with little discussion.

Library Site

Early in the meeting a letter from the county library board was read, which stated that the board at its meeting on Wednesday, January 15, voted unanimously against accepting the site next to the post office as a location for a new library. No reasons were stated in the brief letter.

Later in a discussion of the matter Councilman Cliff Simonson who attended the meeting, said that the only reason he could determine was that the site would permit only a 10,000 square foot library which would not allow expansion. He commented that in no previous discussion had library officials indicated a need for more than 10,000 square feet.

Mayor Edgar Smith reported that

School Safety Patrol Ends First Aid Course

The members of the School Safety Patrol from Center School and the North End School in Greenbelt, Md. will conclude their course in First Aid this Thursday night, January 23, at 8 p.m. at the Center School.

Greenbelt's Mayor Edgar L. Smith will present First Aid Cards to the boys and girls who have successfully completed the five week course. The public is cordially invited to attend these exercises in which the school patrols will give a short First Aid demonstration.

Sgt. Austin R. Green, School Safety Patrol Advisor tells us this is the largest First Aid class he has had since he organized the program in 1960, and wishes to extend his thanks to the instructor, James R. Sherman, who donated his time and effort to this program for the past four years.

Sgt. Green wishes to thank the many people who made the School Safety Show, which was held at the Greenbelt Theater on Thursday, Jan. 16, such a huge success. Over 600 patrol boys and girls from area grade schools attended along with many state and local officials.

March of Dimes Sunday

Several thousand mothers will march Sunday January 26 to help provide a better life for crippled children.

The women will be visiting their neighbors to ask for contributions for the March of Dimes. They'll also distribute information on prenatal care for expectant mothers.

the site committee of the county library board had agreed to come to Greenbelt within a few weeks to look at the possible library sites. The existence of this site committee had not been previously made known to the council or citizens working on the library issue. Smith said that the council was determined that the site would be in the area of the Center. One site that appeared to be the most popular with the library board was the wooded area behind the Co-op supermarket.

Simonson commented on the brief time given to the consideration of this matter by the library board at its meeting. However, Councilman Bill Hoff pointed out that the council caught the library board right in the midst of preparing for the dedication of the new regional library and that the board agreed to meet with council only because of the urgency of deciding on the possible purchase of the land from GCS for the proposed site.

Parking Problems

The question of assignment of parking spaces in GHI courts, which has been plaguing the council ever since the ordinance was passed giving the city this responsibility, was brought to a head by correspondence between the city and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vella 6-B Hillside. Vella claimed that he was assigned a highly undesirable space which he has had for more than a year and that the ordinance provided no procedure for getting it changed.

In one letter to the council, the Vellas made several suggestions for revising the ordinance, including not assigning individual spaces. It was noted by others that the assignment of one space to a housing unit has caused much hostility and even fist fights. On the other hand some citizens commented that parking in their courts was chaotic until spaces were assigned.

Mayor Smith commented that the ordinance had been originally passed as an experiment in solving the court parking problem, and that it was intended to be reviewed to see if solved the problem.

He appointed a subcommittee of Councilmen Simonson and Hoff who together with the city manager and the chief of police will study the effectiveness of the ordinance. Simonson made the point that it was worthless to have any ordinance on the books that could not be readily enforced by the police. The special subcommittee will also study the problem of parking on Ridge Road between the 53 and 55 courts.

Other Problems

The problem of traffic control at the intersection of Southway and Greenbelt Road was brought to the attention of the council by Simonson. He noted that during rush hours a wait of ten minutes or more was necessary to make a left turn from Southway onto the bridge across the Parkway. City manager Giese noted that the construction of a second bridge across the Parkway was expected to begin shortly and that probably nothing could be done until the traffic pattern created by the new dual roadway was set. The matter was referred to the manager for investigation.

In other brief actions, the council agreed to consider the matter of hiring a full time assistant for the city manager and referred the matter to the Personnel Advisory Board for study and recommendations. In the matter of the threatened condemnation of the city warehouse property by the state, Mayor Smith reported that he was trying to arrange a meeting with the chairman of the State Roads Commission to discuss the situation. The council scheduled a meeting with the charter review committee for next Monday night.

No Site In Sight

Last Wednesday the County Library Board advised the Greenbelt City Council that the GCS-owned land adjacent to the post office, which would cost the city $15,000 to purchase, was not suitable as a site for the Greenbelt library. Several objections were voiced against the site, particularly the limited space available for future expansion, but in our opinion the key factor was the general feeling that there were other sites just as desirable that were already owned by the city.

Whether these sites would, on balance, measure up to the rejected site is not clear at this time. It is unfortunate that the APB did not consider the contingency of the city being unable for whatever reason to obtain the land from GCS. Instead of limiting its recommendation to just one site, the APB would have been well advised to have evaluated all the sites in order of their preference.

For example, the city-owned wooded area behind the Co-op supermarket has been suggested as an alternate site. The advantages cited for this land are nearness to the Center and plenty of room for future expansion and parking. Objections to the site include the fact that the land is composed of land fill and might make prohibitive the construction of a heavy library building. This could be determined by having soil tests taken to determine the type of footings required.

In any event, we are certain that the cause of a new library will not be advanced by any recriminations or impugning of motivations by the various groups concerned with the matter. The selection of a site is going to take a lot of give and take, and it is only through a unified approach that we will be able to exert maximum influence in getting the county to give priority to a new library in Greenbelt.

A Greenbelt Reader Reviews

by David P. Stern

LUNAR FANTASY ("A Fall of Moondust" by Arthur Clarke)

Addicts of Science Fiction, especially those who are fond of Clarke's style, will enjoy this book. It is concerned with a lunar excursion boat, sailing a sea of dust for tourists' benefit. As may be expected, something exciting happens - the boat, with passengers and crew, sinks into the depths of the dust-sea and the resulting rescue, in which all improbable events occur at the most appropriate times, is packed with action.

Arthur Clarke may or may not be the greatest living SF writer, but he certainly is the most scientific of them all. In a field which is all but swamped by monster tales, psionics, telepathy and teleportation, Clarke is one of the few writers capable of giving a credible view of the world of tomorrow. Much of this is, of course, due to his scientific education and to his experience, among other things, as assistant editor of "Physics Abstracts" and as officer of the British Interplanetary Society. His forecasts of space travel and of life on the moon are meticulous and detailed, not less so than some which are done on USAF research contracts; if they seem less bold than those made by other SF writers, they certainly are much more likely to be fulfilled.

Viewed as SF, then, Clarke's work is first rate; viewed as literature, however, one can only award it what is known in school as a straight B. Clarke's characters act reasonably and logically; but they lack emotion. For instance, the setting of "A Fall of Moondust" invites a great deal of character interplay, yet by the time the reader reaches the end he is uncomfortably aware of the fact that he hasn't really become acquainted with the personalities of the book. The effect is similar to that created by some Disney films intended "for the whole family" and reminds one of those ancient murals which seem to be teeming with action, until one notices at closer inspection that all their characters bear the same face and pose.

Free Concert At Beltsville To Do Peter and The Wolf

The Agriculture Symphony Orchestra will feature a family program at its next pair of concerts on January 26 and 27.

Peter and the Wolf, a children's fantasy by Serge Prokofieff, will be the main attraction of the concerts. In the Walt Disney-like production, musical instruments take parts of animals.

Clark Paulsen, member of the Symphony Board of Governors, will narrate Peter and the Wolf. Other selections will include Symphony No. 1, by Douglas Blatt, a young composer from the area; Overture to Oberon, by C. M. von Weber; and Beethoven's Symphony Number 3, Second Movement.

Under the direction of Captain Gilbert Mitchell, assistant conductor of the U. S. Army Band, the Agriculture Symphony Orchestra is the only one in government. Founded in 1934 by a small group of U.S. Department of Agriculture employees for their own pleasure, the symphony has grown so that today it consists of more than 60 musicians representing many different government agencies and branches of military service. Although performers serve without pay, expenses for equipment, programs, etc., are borne by the Agriculture Symphony Association, a group of government employees and others interested in good music.

The January 26 performance will be given at the Plant Industry Station Auditorium, U. S. Highway 1, Beltsville, Maryland, at 3 p.m. This program will be repeated on January 27 at 8:30 p.m., in the Jefferson Auditorium, U. S. Department of Agriculture, 14th and Independence Ave., S. W.

Admission to concerts is free. Inquiries about memberships in the orchestra association may be directed to Agriculture Symphony Association.

Girls' Alertness Praised

On January 7, two girls approximately ten years old observed two smaller girls entering a station wagon occupied by three males. They watched while one of the tots eagerly jumped into the car, but noted the other little one seemed apprehensive and hesitated before finally joining her friend in the car.

Something about the scene they had witnessed disturbed the older girls and they ran quickly to the police station and gave a comprehensive description of the vehicle, its occupants and license number to the police.

"The results were uneventful, fortunately," said Police Chief O'Brien. "We checked the car out immediately, and found the owner to be the father of the first youngster who entered the car . . . I have written the parents of the two girls who furnished us the facts so accurately, and commended them for their alertness. It could have turned out the other way."

This incident revealed the kind of continued cooperation that the police department solicits between its headquarters and Greenbelt's children and adults. It is also gratifying to know that the warning about riding or taking candy from a stranger is being learned.

Marylanders	4	0
Tobacco Shoppe	2	2
Springhill	0	4

Last week, the Marylanders edged the Tobacco Shoppe 66-61 in an overtime game. Hank Burbridge and Clint "Boom Boom" Bruss led the Marylanders with 24 and 18 points respectively. Coach Ernie Black tried to pull it out for the Tobacco Shoppe with 25 points, but it wasn't enough.

In the other game, BUSHIPS downed Springhill 38-27. Klisch led BUSHIPS with 16 points. Jack Sullivan led Springhill with 12 points.

Tonight, Tobacco Shoppe plays BUSHIPS at 7:30 p.m. and the Marylanders tangle with Springhill at 8:30 in the Youth Center gym. Admission is free and competition is keen, so come on down.

On Friday, January 31st, representatives of various civic organizations will distribute the Recreation Interest Survey to all homes in Greenbelt. These surveys are devised to let us know in which activities and programs you, the citizens, are interested. The surveys will be picked up Sunday, February 2nd. Please fill out the survey and have it ready when the helper calls. If you plan to be out during the day, leave the survey in your mail box. Remember, this is your Recreation Department. Help yourself, by helping us.

Do you have a child or children of elementary school age who love to make things? Have you thought of letting them come to the Arts and Crafts sessions held at the Youth Center? Mrs. Evelyn Boggs supervises a class every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday from 3:20 - 5 p.m. The only cost is for the materials used.

Calling all adults who remember how much fun it was to roller skate. To help refresh your memory, the Youth Center has set aside every Wednesday night from 7:30 - 10 p.m. for you to skate. Come on down, it's fun, relaxing and good exercise.
