City Council Accepts Suburban Trust Bid for Parkland Acquisition Bonds

by Al Skolnik

The parkland acquisition program took a step forward on Monday, Nov. 1, when the City Council agreed to accept a sealed bid from Suburban Trust Company for the purchase of bonds in the amount of $250,000, at an interest rate of 3.5 percent per annum. The General Obligation Bonds, which will be issued in denominations of $5,000, will bear the date of Dec. 1, 1965, and will mature over a 15-year period. No other financial institutions submitted bids.

In reply to an inquiry from Councilman Dave Champion regarding the timing of the bond issue, City Manager James Giese stated that none of the funds will remain idle if there are delays in acquiring the parkland, as they will be invested in short-term Treasury notes which will yield interest equivalent to that of the bonds.

The council authorized the city to enter into an agreement with other planning and park authorities in the Washington Metropolitan Area to cooperate in the joint exercise of responsibility for the acquisition and preservation of permanent open space land. This agreement was necessary in order to qualify for federal aid for the purchase of parkland.

The Council will hold a special meeting tonight to discuss the city's request to the Housing and Home Fund Administrator for open space funds for the purchase of parkland, as well as the related problem of the site of a municipal service building. Sites under consideration are part of Parcel 10, adjacent to Kenilworth Ave.; the Furey property on Ridge Rd. near Lakeside North; parcel 5 between the Furey property and existing city park land; and parcel 4 located primarily on the west side of Research Rd. adjacent to the Agricultural Research Center.

Crescent Road

The council referred to the city's Advisory Planning Board a request by the State Roads Commission (SRC) for advice as to relocation of Crescent road. Because of its proximity to the Capital Beltway exit, the present intersection of Crescent Rd. and Kenilworth Rd. is unsatisfactory and a new intersection is being proposed near Lakeside North where Ridge Rd. used to exit onto Edmonston road.

The SRC has suggested that Crescent Rd. either (1) turn just past Lastner Lane and angle across an 8.8 acre tract of land next to Boxwood Village or (2) follow the existing right-of-way to Ridge Rd. (entrance to Lakeside North) and then follow Ridge Rd. to the new proposed intersection with Kenilworth.

Each route had advantages and disadvantages. Proposal (1) is in accordance with the City's Master Plan but it places a curve right next to Lastner Lane exit, which is not considered desirable. It also makes the 8.8 acre parcel less suitable for development in the single-family (R-55) category, which is what the city's Master Plan calls for. The Area 13 plan called for the property northeast of the road to be kept in single-family homes but the property southwest to be rezoned for neighborhood shopping (C-1). The city's plan calls for a neighborhood shopping center on the other side of Kenilworth Ave.

Proposal (2) would produce sharper curves, but it leaves intact most of the 8.8 acre tract. The latter tract, owned by Charles Bresler is presently the subject of a petition for rezoning to C-1.

Also referred to the Advisory Planning Board was a request by two property owners in Boxwood Village for city approval to purchase adjacent property which is to be dedicated to the city by the developer for open space. The property owners state that the additional land—approximately a 25-foot extension of present property lines—is generally inaccessible and that they will be in a better position to maintain the land as open space than the city.

Litter

Council unanimously decided not to change the present ordinance dealing with littering. An amendment proposed by the previous council was intended to tighten up such regulations by not excepting storage of building materials in public view during active building construction. However, the amendment also introduced the concept of "unreasonable" accumulation of debris, which the city manager felt would make it more difficult for the Police Department to determine whether or not a violation exists.

A member of the audience, Irving Gerring, pointed out that the amendment had been proposed because the present ordinance was considered unenforceable, since it was difficult to establish whether active building construction was in progress.

Mayor Edgar Smith, however, stated his belief that the present ordinance was enforceable and suggested that the city start enforcing it. There were amens from the audience.

Other Items

Al Herling expressed concern that the anti-loitering ordinance was being used to deprive individuals of their constitutional right to assembly. He cited a recent arrest in the Center. The council asked for a report from the city manager.

The city is putting up a "Do Not Block" sign in front of the entrance to Greenbelt Junior High School. Traffic had been backing up from the Greenbelt Rd-Edmonston rd. intersection.

Concert Series at U. of Md.

A series of concerts by the National Symphony Orchestra on the campus at the University of Maryland will feature the following guest artists:

December 9, 1965—Sibelius Festival, Jussi Jalas, guest conductor,

February 17, 1966—Ralph Votapek, Piano Soloist,

March 17, 1966—Itzhak Perlman, Violin Soloist,

April 14, 1966—Andre Watts, Piano Soloist.

The concerts are part of the Spectrum Series sponsored by the Student Government Association Cultural Committee. Further information may be obtained at the Central Box Office in the main lobby of the Student Union Building at College Park.

ANSWER AWAITED

The City Council has not yet received a reply to its request for a meeting with the County Board of Education to discuss expediting the acquisition of land for a Greenbelt Senior High School, it was disclosed at last Monday's council meeting. The letter was mailed Oct. 25.

CFPG Requests Hearing On Revised Master Plan

A request for a public hearing on the revised draft of the Area 13 Master Plan for the Greenbelt-College Park area has been made by the Steering Committee of the Citizens for a Planned Greenbelt. In a letter to William J. Stevens, chairman of the Maryland National Capital Parks and Planning Commission, C F P G Chairman Lloyd L. Moore expressed the need for the citizens in this area who will be affected by the Master Plan to have an opportunity to learn what is being proposed, and to present their views on the MNCPPC's Staff report before any final action is taken by the Planning Commission.

Moore pointed out that the public hearing might possibly speed up the process of adopting a Master Plan for this area "by enhancing acceptance of the Plan by all parties involved. . . . The CFPG stand ready to assist in any way possible to plan and arrange for such a public hearing in Greenbelt."

A similar request was sent by City Manager, James K. Giese, in accordance with a directive by Council in July.

The Board of Directors of Greenbelt Homes, Inc., has also written a letter to the County Commissioners asking for a public hearing.

The Police Blotter

Police Chief William Lane reports that Hallowe'en pranksters set fire to the statue in the Center Mall—not Sunday, Oct. 31, when a guard was posted, but Monday night when Hallowe'en was officially over. No other Hallowe'en damage was done at the Center, and police received no complaints from residents of destructive vandalism. Just a few broken pumpkins and tossed tomatoes.

Chief Lane will attend a meeting of the Maryland Chiefs of Police in Annapolis on Nov. 18. The chiefs are planning to recommend to the Maryland Delegates a Minimum Standards Training Act for all Maryland policemen. Twenty-two states already have such a mandatory or voluntary police training program in operation. Lane explained that law enforcement administration is becoming more and more professional in nature, and it requires proper education. The proposed Act would require that every police recruit successfully complete a certain number of hours (not yet determined) of training during his initial probationary period.

Officer Paul I. Reamy will attend the Supervisory Course at the Maryland State Police Academy from Nov. 29 to Dec. 10. These all-day courses are designed to prepare experienced police officers for added responsibility.

Public Library for Greenbelt May Be in '66 County Budget

by Dorothy Sucher

A new public library in the center of Greenbelt, comparable in size to the Regional Library in Hyattsville, is well along in the planning stages, according to informed county sources. The exact location has not yet been chosen, but the library will probably be built near the Center School on land owned by the Board of Education, which has been described as "most cooperative" in the negotiations currently under way.

The Library Story

It appears that a spacious new Greenbelt branch of the Prince Georges County Memorial Library is planned for the area of the Center, although several hurdles still remain. Even if everything goes smoothly, several years will probably pass before the new library opens its doors; yet the prospects look good for eventual replacement of the present overcrowded Greenbelt branch, located since 1939 in the Center School. This news climaxes several years of campaigning for a new library, as outlined chronologically below.

1959—A study of the libraries in Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties by the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission recommends a new, enlarged Greenbelt branch.

1963—A publication of the Prince Georges County Memorial Library recommends a new Greenbelt branch.

Fall, 1963—Overcrowding at Greenbelt Center School brings a threat to evict the Greenbelt branch, which occupies the space of two classrooms. The library is relieved when temporary, prefabricated classrooms are erected. Citizens form a Library Association.

Greenbelt's Advisory Planning Board appoints a library subcommittee, under the chairmanship of Clifford Simonson.

Concern was expressed at last Monday's council meeting that street naming and numbering for new areas of Greenbelt is approaching the chaotic. Post office and fire department officials joined in complaining that it was miraculous that they are able to find new addresses, especially in Springhill Lake. Robert Mogel of the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad also pointed out that lettering was so small that one needed a magnifying glass to read it. The climax came when one councilman complained that he couldn't even locate registered voters during the last election.

Street numbering and naming is done by the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The naming of streets is actually done by the developer when he files a plat, subject to approval by MNCPPC. GVFD & RS has suggested that Greenbelt be exempt from MNCPPC authority.

Veteran's Day Program

A Veterans' Day program will be presented on Thursday, Nov. 11, at 11 a.m. in the Center Mall. The Greenbelt Post of the American Legion asks every resident to display the American flag on that day. Richard Pilski, the Legion's Americanism chairman, stated: "At a time when many find it necessary to demonstrate against our country's policy to stem the tide of communism in Viet Nam and the world, the American Legion asks us all to show that we have not forgotten men who fight and have fought to make our nation great for the individual rights of all men."

Fair Housing to Meet

The Greenbelt Citizens For Fair Housing will hold a meeting on Monday, Nov. 15, at 8 p.m. in the Co-op Hospitality Room. Speaker for the evening will be Gerald Gough, Chairman of the Community Relations Advisory Board for the city of Greenbelt.

Miss Elizabeth Hage, director of the Prince Georges County Memorial Library system, stated Tuesday that the Library Board is in close communication with both the Board of Education and a consulting architect regarding the proposed Greenbelt branch.

Four governmental agencies will be involved before the library becomes a reality. Planning is the job of the county Library Board and staff. Site selection involves the Board of Education. The plans and proposed costs must be presented for approval to the Prince Georges County Commissioners, who furnish the funds. If the commissioners approve, they must then get permission from the State Legislature to float the necessary bond issue.

County Commissioner Gladys Spellman, who serves as liaison between the commissioners and the Library Board, stated: "The County Commissioners have had some very fine cooperation from the Board of Education in providing library sites. As for the Greenbelt library, I think there is a very strong chance that it would be included in this year's budget."

The County Commissioners will be presenting their proposed budget next month to the Prince Georges Delegation to the Maryland Legislature at four public hearings Dec. 6, 7, 8, and 9. All the agencies involved agree that citizen support for the library at the hearings will be of assistance in securing the necessary funds.

Royal Hart, chairman of the Prince Georges Delegation to the Maryland Legislature, commented this week: "I feel certain the delegation will support any request for money for a library in Greenbelt. We have pushed this project for a considerable time, and are very much in favor of it."

Design of the Building

No contract has yet been awarded to an architectural firm for design of the building, but an architect experienced in both library and school construction, and familiar with the Greenbelt Center area, has consented to study the situation. No plans can be drawn until a site is selected, for the topography of the land will dictate the form of the structure and the number of floors and entrances on different levels.

Tentative plans call for a building of approximately 40,000 square feet (compared to 38,000 for the Regional Library, exclusive of office space), probably on at least two floors, with provision for future expansion. In addition, the Board of Education desires that a building erected near an existing school should be compatible with the school in design.

A contemporary exterior, and a flexible interior with as few partitions as possible, appear likely. Air conditioning throughout the building is recommended, both to increase the comfort of patrons and to prolong the life of the books.

The library will probably contain separate departments for children and adults, with the possible addition of a Young Adults' Division. The number of librarians will depend on the final design of the building.

LITTER-BUG ARRESTED

An 18-year-old local youth was arrested Oct. 29 and charged with littering in the Center area. This is the first arrest in the city's stepped-up anti-littering campaign. Several warnings have also been issued. Fines range from $5 to $50. Chief Lane requests the cooperation of citizens, and notes that the anti-loitering ordinance will be vigorously enforced.

Election Day 1965

Our year from now, on November 8, 1966, to be precise, Maryland residents will go to the polls. Together with the rest of the county's residents, Greenbelters will be asked to indicate their choice for governor, congressman, state senators and delegates, county commissioners and many others.

Why do we serve this notice so long in advance? Because past experience has repeatedly shown that election time catches most citizens unprepared. Much has been said about those eligible but unregistered - the potential voters courted by all parties and candidates. However, even registered voters often find themselves on election day faced by a choice for which they have only scanty facts at hand.

It is therefore not too early to start now: learn the facts, join the organization of your choice, find what it's all about. Election day is only one short year away.

Twenty-Five Years Ago

The Milk Buyers Club accepted a bid from a local dairy to supply them with milk at 11 cents per quart.

One hundred Japanese beetle traps were purchased by the city and placed in "strategic positions" to combat an unusually heavy invasion of the bugs.

Fifteen European refugee children arrived from New York to begin a two-week vacation in Greenbelt. The children were 8 to 12 years old, and each one was sponsored by a Greenbelt family. They were all given tennis, baseball and swimming lessons; picnics, parties and sightseeing trips were planned for them, and they were guests at a Red Cross Benefit Show on August 2.

The Greenbelt Housing Group, a co-operative corporation, was selling shares of stock to enable it to purchase a tract of land on which to build individual modestly-priced homes. The land selected by the group is now Woodland Hills and Lakewood. A basic house plan had been chosen which could be modified to meet the needs of individual families. Hale Walker, original planner of Greenbelt, had been retained by the Farm Security Administration to plan the sites for the new homes so that they would harmonize with the existing community.

The big topic of conversation in town was the Burke-Wadsworth Act, a compulsory conscription bill which was being debated in Congress. An editorial in the Cooperator said "The rapidity with which this important legislation is being rushed through Congress is alarming."

City Notes

The season for the Litter-Gitter, Greenbelt's vacuum leaf eradicator, is here again. No special scheduling will be arranged for leaf pickups; those wishing to get rid of the quantities of leaves that accumulate on lawns are merely asked to rake them into long rows alongside the curbs. City officials especially emphasize that leaves should not be raked into large piles on city or park land, for the short hose attachment of the vehicle could never reach them in such places. Instead, they should be raked as close to the curb as possible.

Another warning: the Litter-Gitter is for leaves only. Hedge clippings and other debris should be handled separately and arrangements made for special trash pickups. Such arrangements can be made simply by calling the city offices, 474-8000.

All members of the city council, city manager James K. Giese, and assistant manager Ronald Dick will be in Baltimore to attend one meet-or another of the Maryland Municipal League, which will be holding an annual convention at the Holiday Inn here on November 11 through 13. General theme of the convention will be Community Development.

St. Hugh's Young Adults

St. Hugh's Catholic Young Adults Club is sponsoring an evening with the Arthur Fiedler Boston "Pops" Orchestra on Saturday, Nov. 13, with selections from Mancini's "The Great Race," "Fiddler on the Roof," and the Beatles. For tickets and information, contact Ed Reed, 345-8529, before Wednesday, Nov. 10.

Speaking Sternly . . . by David Stern

The young well-dressed man introduced himself: "Gerald Peck, representing Prestige Tours, Incorporated. Please call me Jerry."

We nodded, shook hands and sat down on the sofa beside our wife. It hadn't been long since we tore that postage-paid card from a magazine, filled it and mailed it away, we thought, remembering also the neat advertisement on the adjoining page: "A New, Exciting Way to Stretch Your Travel Dollar! Satisfaction Guaranteed!" Well, here it was.

Jerry immediately got down to the business at hand. "Where would you like to travel to?" he asked.

Our wife had her answer ready. "Europe, of course," she said. "The Louvre, the Eiffel tower, the Alps, the beach at Nice, Westminster hall, those whatchamacallits - those boats in which they take you in Venice. Maybe the Acropolis in Athens, if that isn't too far out of the way."

"I see you have it all nicely planned. Quite an ambitious itinerary you have there. Tell me just this - why exactly do you wish to travel?"

"Well - now - travel is very broadening, it's - it's rather interesting, isn't it?" Then she regained her coherence. "The Dwights from down the street were in Spain last summer and you should see the souvenirs which they brought! And so cheaply, too! And those postcards we got from the Crawfords when they visited Italy. Why shouldn't we go? Everybody does!"

"Yes, everybody indeed does," said Gerald in a sad voice, looking both of us straight in the eyes, "and many go broke in the process. It is to protect innocents like you that Prestige Tours, Incorporated, has established its services. Yes, we guarantee your satisfaction." He looked around, cleared his throat and continued, to a rapt audience.

"You think that you'll enjoy spending that month in Europe, don't you? Let me tell you - I've been there and I don't care if I never go back. Your hotel reservations will be shrugged off, your guides and taxicab drivers will show you everything except that which you came to see, you'll be jostled and crowded by millions of other American tourists and you'll be overcharged, yes, stolen blind in an outlandish language, at every turn you take. All this for the privilege of spending a few thousand dollars to cross the Atlantic and come back again. Is it really worth it?"

"What else can we do?" we meekly wondered.

"Se America first," he thundered, "with Prestige Tours! For a fraction of the cost, you'll receive good accommodations in Manhattan, a boat trip to the Statue of Liberty, a view from the top of the Empire State building and many, many other interesting excursions. Or if you prefer solitude, a cottage on a quiet beach somewhere on Long Island. Ah, well . . ." he paused and lowered his voice, "of course, there is the social side, the Dwights, the Crawfords and the rest of them. Yes, Prestige Tours takes the best care of that, without having you go through the agony of a visit to Europe at the height of the season.

"Naturally, none of your friends has to know; they will be standing at the airport waving you goodbye as you take off on a plane bound for Europe. Of course, the plane will happen to have a short stop-over in New York; that's where we take charge. We shall supply you with the Guide Michelin, ticket stubs from the Metro, souvenirs, postcards, odd coins of strange denominations and a short course covering all you might have possibly seen in Europe. We'll even teach you the pronunciation of foreign names the way the natives do - or, at least, get you to pronounce a reasonable imitation of that. Soon after you step out of the plane we'll let you fill as many foreign picture postcards as you wish, and our overseas mailing department will do the rest. What else? Sometime during your vacation - which, I am sure, sir, you'll fully enjoy - we shall ask you to visit our Manhattan studio. We have splendid backdrops and there will be no problem in producing a complete set of travel slides of Europe's topmost attractions - and, of course, with yourselves in the pictures as well. The cost, in case you ask, is included in our low price; we never fail to satisfy our customers. The Dwights, you said? What are their first names?"

"Robert and Mary," we answered, "and many thanks for giving us your time. No, we don't think we'll take your offer. Next year, maybe."

"Next year the World's Fair will be closed," he said. "If you want, you can go now and pay later."

"No, really, we would rather think it over. Why don't you leave us your card and phone number so that we can call you when we want to?"

All this happened several months ago. Last Sunday our neighbors came back from Europe and we met at Friendship airport.

"Oh, it was wonderful," they told us, "the majesty of the Alps, the Uffizi gallery in Firenze, the little farmhouses in the Black Forest. You'll never find such sights in America. Wait till you see our slides!"

"We are glad you enjoyed it," we said. "Who was your travel agent?"

"An outfit called Prestige Tours," came the answer. "They really take good care of you."

GHI BOARD DIVIDED ON SPECIAL ASSESSMENT FOR HILLSIDE ROAD

by Sid Kastner

Director John O'Reilly found some support among other members of the board of Greenbelt Homes, Inc., at Thursday night's regular meeting, for his stand against the special assessment levied by the city for the Hillside road extension. The proposed new area master plan, garage policy, and the sidewalk improvement program were among the other topics discussed.

O'Reilly reiterated his earlier reasons for opposing the 100% assessment, noting that it was not clear that the city had complied with the condition set by the board when it agreed to the assessment, namely, the establishing of a uniform policy for such assessments. Manager Roy Breashears stated the position adopted by the board at the time, which was in opposition to the 100% assessment unless such a uniform policy were adopted.

O'Reilly moved that the board address a letter to the City Council asking for reconsideration of the assessment. Director James Smith, however, while supporting O'Reilly's position, moved to table the matter for one month. O'Reilly and director Gerald Gough expressed great disappointment when this motion passed narrowly, 4 to 3. Director Nat Shinderman agreed with O'Reilly that GHI should inform the City Council as soon as possible that it opposes the assessment. Director Gerald Gough urged an early meeting of the joint GHI-city committee to discuss this, as well as several other issues (zoning, maintenance, etc.) on which there seems to be a lack of communication.

Manager Breashears read a recently published account of the new master plan submitted by the county planning staff to the Planning Board, which contains the statement that the city (Greenbelt) would allow Ridge Road to be a main thoroughfare. According to Chairman Schwan, a member of Citizens for a Planned Greenbelt, this statement is incorrect. Breashears also reported that a communication with MNCPPC chairman William Stevens gave little encouragement that his commission would voluntarily hold public hearings on the new plan. A motion by director Shinderman was passed to urge the District Council to direct the MNCPPC to hold public hearings on the plan before submission, to publish the plan before the hearings, and to make a copy available to GHI. This action was strongly endorsed by David Kane and Gordon Allen, the latter pointing out that he had purchased a copy of the original plan and was entitled to copies of any changes in it. Director Gough further suggested that a GHI representative should attend the next MNCPPC meeting, and remarked that the erroneous published item (in the Prince Georges Newsletter) should be publicly corrected by the MNCPPC if possible.

Sidewalks

Managers Breashears then reported on the sidewalk replacement program. He explained that a good grade of blacktop is being used to repair deteriorated sections. A few residents have objected to the blacktop repair when it is near their houses. Maintenance superintendent David Kane and George Adams gave arguments in favor of the blacktop, stating that cement would be at least four times as expensive and that the blacktop would last longer than five years. The necessity for permanent repairs was emphasized by Gough and Shinderman, who noted that the corporation had a responsibility to prevent accidents. The board felt also that the members had a responsibility to cooperate in this matter of eliminating hazards. Director O'Reilly moved to refer the item to the Standards and Improvements committee and to the Maintenance committee; this was done.

On the question of proper use of GHI garages, attorney Allen Ginsberg had advised that garage inspection may be carried out if it is deemed necessary. Chairman Schwan asked the manager to give any notice that may be necessary to individual members.

Director Ed Burgoon mentioned that an organization for open occupancy in housing had recently sent him a letter, in another connection. Gough noted that the Maryland State Teachers Association has passed a resolution advocating open occupancy, because the "urban renewal" in the downtown area is pushing the Negro population out while not providing reasonably priced housing.

An unexpected but pleasing surprise was given the board by Cleo Perry, coach of the Little League Giants sponsored by GHI, who presented them with the Sportsmanship Trophy of the league. This is the second year in succession that the team has won the trophy.

Because of the coming holidays, GHI meeting nights will be the first and third Thursdays in November.

Jaycees Search For Fitness Leader

The Greenbelt Jaycees are conducting a search for those Greenbelters dedicated to improving the physical fitness of both young and old.

Please submit nominations to James Colby, the State Director for the Greenbelt Jaycees, 9 Maplewood Court, to be received by Nov. 15. A blue-ribbon panel will pick Greenbelt's outstanding physical fitness leader, who will be sent on to a state wide competition. The state winners will go on to regional contests. Finally in the national contest three winners will be honored by the US Junior Chamber of Commerce and Standard Packaging Corporation.

The experts who will judge the Greenbelt contest are: Dr. Warren Guild, Harvard Medical School, president-elect of American Sports College of Medicine, and author of "Fitness Can Be Fun"; Robert Morgan, Director of Central YMCA's physical fitness program; and Jordan Harding, immediate past chairman of the Maryland State Junior Chamber of Commerce Physical Fitness Committee and present member of the Maryland State Physical Fitness Commission. "I am sure," Colby stated, "that Greenbelt has individuals worthy of consideration by such eminent judges, but we need the help of the public to make sure that such selfless people are recognized."

meetings are held, and the City Council offers the County Library Board its choice of several possible library sites in the Center.

January, 1964—The Library Board refuses the proffered sites.

June, 1964—Clifford S i m o n s o n chairman of the city's library subcommittee, informs the City Council that there is no hope for construction of a new Greenbelt branch at that time.

January, 1965—At a public hearing of the Prince Georges County delegation to the Maryland Legislature, a group of Greenbelters request that planning funds for a new Greenbelt library be included in a proposed million-dollar library bond issue. The members of the delegation urge the county library staff to consider initiating such planning.

Greenbelt News Review features a series of articles and editorials describing the local library and its history, and urges that any new library be built in the Center. County officials at that time tend to favor a site outside Old Greenbelt, a tendency deplored by most Greenbelters.

February, 1965—The City Council again offers several library sites to the County Library Board. Miss Elizabeth Hage, director of the county library system, inspects the proffered sites, but is most favorably impressed by the land surrounding the Center School, owned by the Board of Education.

COUNTY FIRE PROTECTION REPORT PROPOSES MORE PAID FIREMEN

A detailed Fire Protection Survey Report was presented Tuesday night, Nov. 2, to the officers of all county fire associations at a meeting between the officers, County Commissioner M. Bayne Brooke, and a representative of Yarger and Associates, the firm which prepared the report. It proposes major changes in the structure of firefighting procedures in Prince Georges County, supplementing the volunteer companies with some paid fire-fighting personnel.

The fire association officers were asked to make a detailed study of the report, evaluate it, and bring back their recommendations. The Greenbelt Fire Department and Rescue Squad was represented by President Joseph O'Loughlin and Chief Vince Dutton.

Brooke, who is liaison with the fire and police operations in the county, stressed that "both this board and the firemen themselves have recognized for some time now that times are changing and that some implementation of our volunteer system is becoming necessary." At the same time, he saluted the volunteers as "a cadre of experienced and dedicated men; we all want to do all we can to keep the volunteer system going for many years."

Details of Report

The report itself would, in general, establish a county-wide administrative control of all firefighting activities, with deputy chiefs assigned to geographically located areas. Instead of the present system of allocation of fire tax monies to fire departments an assessable base proportion, all appropriations would be made from general county funds. Each department would present its annual budget to the County Commissioners, and would make purchases through the county's Central Purchasing Department.

Several all-paid companies in key locations are suggested. Paid men would be under the county's merit system and would have to pass standard examinations for employment. They would also receive the same fringe benefits as other county employees.

SAFETY MEASURES FOR SKATEBOARDS

Skateboards can be very dangerous. Local hospitals have reported frequent injuries, particularly fractures of the wrist and ankle. Many of the fractures occur among youngsters between 11 and 14 years old.

Because the boards have no braking device, there is only one way to stop - by jumping off. This poses several hazards: the rider may fall and injure himself; he may fall in the path of vehicular traffic and cause injury to himself and others; or he may collide with another skateboard rider or a pedestrian.

Precautions for skateboard users are:

- Do not use skateboards in driveways leading to streets.
- Use skateboards only on smoothly paved surfaces, free of large cracks, sand or gravel.
- Wear shoes with non-skid soles.
- Whether the board is home-made or a commercial model, examine it frequently for any mechanical defects or splinters.
- Do not leave skateboards on sidewalks or stairs or in driveways where someone may fall over them.

Minor cuts and abrasions should be cleaned promptly with mild soap and water and an approved anti-

A VISIT TO A U.G.F. SHELTERED WORKSHOP

A sweet-faced girl was standing at the ironing board, carefully pressing a shirt. She was doing it beautifully; all her being was concentrated on her task.

In an adjoining room, three young men were working at a printing press. It was not a modern, automated machine, but they manipulated it skillfully and with obvious satisfaction.

The sound of hammering drew me to still another room. Here, wooden crates were being repaired. One of the boys looked up briefly from his work, greeted me cheerfully, but never missed a tap of his hammer.

This was a sheltered workshop for retarded youngsters. Some had additional handicaps. One boy was crippled, one unable to talk. But the thing most impressive, most noticeable, was the single-minded devotion which these young people had for their work. It would be hard, if not impossible, to find another group of people anywhere working so steadily, with no interruptions, no complaints, no "goofing off."

These children might have been left to vegetate in homes or institutions, and to become public charges. Instead they are being taught to become self-sufficient, to contribute to their own support instead of being a burden to the taxpayer.

The workshop that I visited is a member agency of the United Givers Fund. So are the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and dozens of agencies doing their work right in our area and for people in this area.

Most of our Greenbelt neighbors contribute to the UGF where they work. Some have not been reached in that way. I have had several calls from people who have asked where they may make their contribution. Two of these callers insisted on bringing me their money right then and there. If anyone has been missed, please call Mrs. Goldstein at GR 4-9203. I will hop into my buggy and fetch your contribution at your convenience. Please don't forget to call. Remember the number: GR. 4-9203. J.G.

Jr. Astronomers Sight Meteorites

Sixth graders from the Center School, accompanied by their teachers, gathered at Hamilton Place at 5 a.m. on Oct. 20, to observe the Ikeya-Seki comet. Unfortunately ground fog and haze hid the comet from view. The three 6-inch telescopes were used to observe the moon, Jupiter and four of its moons, and the Horsehead Nebula in the constellation of Orion. Several meteorites were also spotted.

Art Show at Twin Pines

Currently on view at Twin Pines are 14 oil paintings by Eugenia M. Horstman, a Greenbelter who studied art at the University of Maryland. Most of these attractive canvases are landscapes in a semi-realistic style. Miss Horstman has a flair for color, generally applied in flat areas, occasionally relieved by patches of impasto.

The atmosphere of the paintings ranges from the coolly detached to the romantic and mysterious. Not all are equally successful, but I particularly liked, among others, the seascape with moonrise; the boats against an orange background, and a large green canvas (No. 1 in the show) suggesting a forest. Miss Horstman has talent, and the exhibition is recommended. Princes range from $100 to $200. D.S.

Citizenship Test on TV

A program in which viewers will be able to rate themselves on subjects related to citizenship, voting, government, and politics will be shown on TV channel 9 at 10 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 9. The test will be similar to the National Driver's Test, broadcast earlier this year, and will use a test form which may either be obtained from the League of Women Voters (which supports the program), or be made up by viewers following directions to be supplied during the program. The test will last an hour.

Among those who helped prepare it are Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Senator Everett Dirksen, and professors from Harvard and Columbia Universities. The moderators will be CBS reporters Harry Reasoner and Mike Wallace.

Jeffrey Grigsby received a very special present on his third birthday - a baby brother! William Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grigsby, 59-J Ridge, was born on October 21, weighing 7 lbs. 11 oz.

Mr. and Mrs. John McLaughlin, 34-K Ridge, have just returned from Parris Island, South Carolina, where their son, Richard, graduated from Marine Basic Training. Richard, who is now stationed in Camp LeJeune, North Carolina, sends his regards to all his friends in Greenbelt.

Congratulations to Paul D. Belman, 8525 Glen Dale Road, who passed the State of Maryland's Bar Examination.

A speedy recovery to Vivian Pines, 7-E Crescent, who recently underwent surgery.

Glad to hear that Rinnie Champion, 11-D Ridge, is feeling so much better.

A happy birthday to Nancy Rose, 22-D Northway, who was one year old on Monday.

Airman Stanley R. Burak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley F. Burak, 9238 Edmonston Road, has been assigned to Pease AFB, N. H., after completing Air Force basic training.

The airman, a 1965 graduate of DuVal Senior High School, Glendale, Md., will be trained on the job as a communications specialist with the Strategic Air Command.

NEWS REVIEW OFFICERS ELECTED

The 1965-66 officers of the Greenbelt Cooperative Publishing Association, sponsors of the Greenbelt News Review, were elected at a special meeting on Oct. 31. Al Skolnik, who has been president since 1959, was reelected to another 1-year term. Virginia Beauchamp was named vice-president; Mary Louise Williamson, treasurer; and David Stern, secretary. These four members, plus Mary Smith, were elected to the board at the annual membership meeting on October 24. The board elects its own officers.

Dorothy Sucher will continue as editor, and Mary Smith as associate editor.

Troop 746 Honor Court

On Friday, Oct. 29, Boy Scout Troop 746 held its fall Court of Honor at 8 p.m., in the Methodist Church. Scoutmaster Albert Cousin held a Tenderfoot Investiture for Anthony Durantine, Stephen Hawksworth, Mike Jones, Rex Muller, Mike Noel, and Richard Pilski. The Rev. Kenneth Buker, chairman of the Troop Committee, gave Second Class awards to Mike Jones, Rex Muller, Mike Noel, and Kevin Webster. John Cantwell, John Miller, and Walter Penney received First Class pins from George Cantwell and Joseph Noel, two troop committeemen. John Miller and Walter Penney also received their one-year pins.

Cousin presented two special awards: to Bill McCloskey, for saving his brother's life during a fire at his home; and to Ronald Kolbe, an Explorer with Post 746, for his services to scouting.

New Federal Bill Provides For Local Improvements

The new Housing and Urban Development Act, signed by the President on August 10, contains several provisions for financial assistance to local communities which will be of interest to Greenbelters.

One provision, the Open Space Land Acquisition program, was a factor taken into consideration by the city when its citizens approved the bond issue for parkland acquisition. The new Act increased the amount that could be financed from federal funds from 20 percent to 50 percent. If a local governmental body determines that adequate open space areas cannot be provided through the use of existing undeveloped land, 50 percent grants may be made for the cost of land acquisition, demolition, and development for open space use.

These grants are made when the Housing Administration determines the acquisition and development of open space land is needed for carrying out a unified or officially coordinated program for the development of open space land as part of the comprehensively planned development of the urban area.

"Open space uses" is now defined to mean use of land for park and recreational purposes, conservation of land and other natural resources, or historic or scenic purposes.

Although major structures such as amphitheaters, swimming pools, or large buildings would not be eligible for "development" grant assistance, development would include activities such as landscaping, provision of basic water and sanitary systems, small shelters, and recreational apparatus.

Another part of the Act is the new urban beautification assistance program. Communities would be eligible for federal grant assistance for 50 percent of the amount a community spends for urban beautification and improvement under an approved program which exceeds usual expenditures for comparable activities. The beautification program could include tree planting, landscaping streets and public areas, provision of street furniture, pedestrian malls, fountains, and decorative pavement.

To assist communities in acquiring land sites before prices rise, for public works and facilities needed in the future, grants could be made to cover the interest cost of a loan incurred to finance the land acquisition. The Housing Administration must determine that construction will be initiated on the facility within five years. The grant could be for the interest cost between the date of the loan and the date of construction of the facility but for not more than interest cost for five years.

Brain Teaser

In our last problem a professor asked his assistant to find the ages - all integers - of three people, their product being 2450 and their sum twice the assistant's age. The assistant got the answer, but only after being told that the professor (whose age he knew) was older than all of them. How old?

There are many ways of resolving 2450 into 3 factors and with one exception they all have different sums. Since the assistant needed an additional clue after being aware of their sums, that exception must contain the answer. The two solutions having identical sums are 49, 10, 5 and 50, 7, 7; clearly, the professor's latest birthday was his 49th.

Only one correct answer was submitted, by Albert W. Felscher of 44-Q Ridge. His wife solved our previous one, remember?

This time of year we are again approaching a sad anniversary. Ever since President Kennedy died, on 22 November 1963, people from all over the world have paid tribute to his memory, often in rather unconventional ways. Huseyin Demir of Ankara, Turkey, dedicated the following puzzle to the late president:

JF.(KEN+NEDY) =
(11+22).1963
Can you solve it? Each letter stands for a digit, the dots denote multiplication and there are two possible solutions.

Flu Shots Advised Now

Influenza vaccinations for persons in high risk groups are highly recommended by medical authorities. Persons who have not been immunized since July, 1963, when the last major change was made in composition of the vaccine, should receive two inoculations approximately two months apart.

High risk groups are people of all ages who suffer from chronic diseases, especially those with chronic respiratory disease, pregnant women, persons living in crowded institutions or homes, and persons over 45 - especially those over 65. During recent epidemics there was a rise in death rates after age 45, increasing markedly after 65.

Vaccination is advised also for public service workers, such as members of the police force, firemen, road maintenance employees, public utility employees, hospital personnel and industrial workers.

Tours at Nat. Arboretum

The National Arboretum in Washington will hold informal weekend tours on November 6, 7, 13, and 14. The free tours, held continuously from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the above dates, will include the fall camellias in full bloom, the Gotelli collection of dwarf evergreens, and, of course, the fall foliage colors. To reach the Arboretum, take the Washington Parkway to the first stoplight, turn left (there is a special lane and light) and follow Bladensburg Rd. for about half a mile. The Arboretum is on your left and you can enter from either M or R street.

Prepare Now For Safe Winter Driving

Police Chief William Lane advises motorists to plan ahead for safe driving under hazardous winter conditions. He recommends anti-freeze and a change to winter-weight oil; a good battery and a tuned-up engine for sure starting in wet, cold weather; a tight exhaust system to minimize carbon monoxide danger; and dependable, well-aimed lights to penetrate the dark winter nights ahead.

Windshields need strong-armed wipers pushing fresh and efficient rubber blades, for good visibility. To provide traction on pavement slicked with freezing rain or falling snow, drivers need deep-tread on regular tires, or special winter tires; plus reinforced tire chains for really bad weather, or when hills must be climbed surely, and descended safely.

Evenings With The Arts

The second of the "Evenings with the Arts," jointly sponsored by the Greenbelt Arts and Crafts Guild and the City Recreation Department, will be held Thursday, Nov. 11, at 8 p.m. in the Council Chambers of the Municipal Building. Three films will be shown, covering the background and work of Goya, Renoir, and Dong Kingman. Light refreshments will be served during the intermission. There is no admission charge, and everyone is welcome.

Golden Agers

Twenty three senior citizens from our club were in Miami last week.

New members - Mr. and Mrs. Henley M. Goode, 23-P Ridge, and Mrs. Margaret Wiese, 8-M Research.

The club has received a donation of $100 from Mrs. Mabel Hughes, 2-C Crescent, for the building fund in memory of her late husband, Jack Hughes. By unanimous vote, Mrs. Hughes was voted a life membership in the club.

Mrs. Tymms Story Told

Mrs. Grace Tymms of 6-G Crescent was honored last month by the "Goddard News," a biweekly publication of the space center. In a long article, "Our Girl Friday,"

Mrs. Tymms' career, past and present, was described. She is now secretary to Karl R. Medrow, head of the Sounding Rocket Branch, who is quoted as saying: "Her extensive experience in this field, combined with avid interest and attention to a multitude of technical details, all add up to a mighty valuable employee."

Speaking Sternly . . . by David Stern

Remember the great British train robbery several years ago? The other day we found in the morning paper a startling revelation about it by the Russians - who, of all people, should know, THRUSH being such a widespread organization. The robbery, they claim, was committed by no others than Her Majesty's Secret Service, to supplement its meager budget by a special appropriation.

This, we believe, sheds light on many a mystery. Consider for instance the baffling robbery near Boston in which a mail truck was cleverly roadblocked on a stretch of turnpike hidden by forest - the following traffic was diverted by a phony "Detour" sign - and relieved of about a million and a half dollars in legal tender. Remember it? The "Reward" posters for this job still adorn post offices throughout the land. You say it was the CIA? Ridiculous! Who ever heard of the CIA carrying out a perfect job and not getting caught?

. . . The night was starless and dark, and 007 leaned against the roadblock while listening over his wrist radio to his agents down the road, reporting the truck's progress. "My disguise better work tonight," he thought, patting the brass badge with big letters "CIA" on it. There wasn't a long time to wait: soon the truck's headlights pierced the darkness as it screeched to a stop a scant 3 feet short of the warning "Dig We Must."

"Open in the name of J. Edgar Hoover!" Bond shouted at the tailgate, clutching his golden gun. The door swung open, revealing a gorgeous female leveling a tommy-gun in Bond's direction.

"Drop the gun, agent 007" she commanded, adding sarcastically, "Let me introduce myself: Josephine Solo, representing your dear OLD UNCLE. It may interest you to know that we have been following you from the start."

"I have been wondering where the romantic element will appear in this adventure," muttered Bond, obediently raising his hands. Meanwhile his foot silently advanced towards the moneybag on which Josephine was sitting. Snagging the bag's lock with his pointed toe he quickly pulled the bag from under her, deftly catching with one hand the tommygun and with the other the girl as both came tumbling down.

"Duty before pleasure," he snapped. "First we finish the job on hand - the romance comes later."

Back in London a month later, Bond reported to M: "A perfect job, sir, if I may say so - we really showed those Yanks. Taxation without representation, indeed. Did you get the shipment?"

"Yes, 007, we got all $750,000 in good order."

"No more than that? I am positive I counted twice as much."

"I cannot understand it, 007. It must be that under the pressure of your job you counted the money twice. Anyway," M continued, "the service is most grateful to you and I am instructed to give you a special bonus of - ah - $50,000. Mum's the word, of course."

"Thank you, sir" Bond answered. A few more jobs like this one, Bond thought, and I'll be able to retire to my hobbies - old wines and young women. How lucky am I to work for a man like M - wise, shrewd, understanding and above all, honest.
