News Review Libel Suit Still In Evidence-Gathering Stage

The $2,000,000 libel suit filed by local developer Charles S. Bresler last July against the Greenbelt News Review, and against its president, Alfred M. Skolnik, who is being sued individually is now in the active stage of pre-trial discovery. During this stage, all parties make use of certain legal techniques to secure evidence in the other party's possession. Depositions, interrogatories, motions for documents, etc. are employed to marshal necessary facts and documents for use during the trial.

The suit filed by Bresler charged the newspaper with publishing material that exposed him to "public scorn, hatred, contempt, disgrace, and ridicule" and had the purpose of imputing to Bresler "the commission of the crime of blackmail" and "corrupt and dishonest motives in his dealings" with public officials.

The suit quoted excerpts from three news stories, two headlines, three letters to the editor, and two editorials during the period October 1965 - July 1966 as being printed with malice and "without reasonable justification or excuse." The quoted material, for the most part, dealt with Bresler's transactions and negotiations with the city council and county school board regarding his land holdings.

The News Review in its reply denied the allegations and, in addition, declared that Bresler is both a public official and an active participant in matters of pressing public concern to which the articles in issue were directed, so that "such publications are constitutionally protected and nonactionable." The reply further alleged two additional bases upon which the publications complained of were privileged: First, they were fair reports of "official public and judicial proceedings and actions" and, second, they constituted "fair comment . . . upon matters of public interest."

In connection with the taking of Bresler's deposition, the News Review requested that he produce documents referring to his negotiations with the County Board of Education and the city on the selection of a senior high school site and the condemnation proceedings and zoning requests connected with them.

The newspaper also requested documents referring to Bresler's negotiations with city and county officials and others concerning the covenants on the Charlestowne tract and the agreement to deed 3.3 acres to the city for parkland. Finally, documents were requested relating to the financial arrangements involved in the purchase and development of the 50-acre Charlestowne tract and the foreclosure action on 25 acres.

Bresler objected to the production of these records as not being relevant to the issues in the case and on the grounds that it would reopen all the litigation that has taken place involving him in Greenbelt.

In a hearing on February 23, Circuit Court Judge Roscoe H. Parker ruled that the newspaper was entitled to examine most of the records and documents requested. Bresler was excused from producing certain financial records relating to his income, after plaintiff's counsel agreed that Bresler suffered no loss of gross or net annual income as the result of the News Review articles.

The deposition of Bresler was taken on March 30, resumed on May 1, and is scheduled to be completed by the end of May. In the meantime, the News Review has responded to extensive interrogatories filed by Bresler's attorney. Representing Bresler is local attorney Abraham Chasanow. Representing the News Review are the firm of Royall, Koegel, Rogers, and Wells of New York and Washington, D.C., and David Reich of the District and Maryland bar.

Fund Drive Planned In News Review Suit

A door-to-door drive will be launched in the coming weeks by the Greenbelt Freedom of the Press Committee to collect legal defense funds for the Greenbelt News Review. The local weekly, along with its president, Alfred M. Skolnik, has been sued for $2,000,000 by Charles Bresler for its publication of city council meetings, judicial proceedings, and other material relating to the developer's transactions and negotiations with county and city officials regarding his land holdings in Greenbelt. The suit, filed last July, is in a pre-trial stage.

A kick-off rally for the fund drive has been scheduled for Saturday, June 3, at the Greenbelt Center Mall. Residents will be asked to volunteer their services as court and neighborhood collectors. Each collector will be given an informational and instructional packet, together with a booklet of "Freedom of the Press Contribution Certificates" in denominations of $2, $5, and $10. There will be a special category of $25 certificates for Greenbelt "Angels." Further details will appear in future issues of the paper.

The Freedom of the Press Committee, co-chaired by Charles Schwan and Al Herling, is contemplating a series of additional fundraising events for the summer and fall. Among the events suggested are a splash party in July and a theater party in October.

Gerald Gough (474-1529) and Helen Geller (474-6323) are handling the preliminary details of the fund drive. Schwan suggested that those persons who cannot wait until the kick-off rally to volunteer their services should please contact Gough or Mrs. Geller.

Two New Entries In GHI Board Election

Two new entries and one withdrawal featured the election news for the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. board of directors. The newly announced candidates are Douglas T. Hawes, 57-K Ridge Rd., and Josephine Seay, 6-S Plateau Pl. The withdrawal is Gerald Gough who instead is running for the audit committee.

At stake are five seats on the 9-man GHI board for two-year terms. Shaping up is a contest between two slates. One consists of the incumbents with one former member — Charles Schwan, John O'Reilly, Norman Weyel, James W. Smith, and Mrs. Seay. The challengers are Ben Rosenzweig, Norman B. Charles, William Feller, Norman L. Kilpatrick, and Robert J. Crowley. Also being elected is a 3-man audit committee for 1-year terms.

APB Approves Rezoning Bids For Motel, Office Buildings

Proposals to build a motel complex and an office building center in Springhill Lake North, on the west side of Kenilworth Ave., have received the approval of the Advisory Planning Board. In a report to City Council, the APB recommends that the city notify the MNCPPC and the District Council that it concurs in general with two rezoning petitions initiated by the developers of Springhill Lake Apartments.

The developer met with City Council and the APB on February 15 and presented a plan for the development of two parcels of land, together with a scale model of the project. The land is located in the northwest corner of the city; it is bounded on the east by Kenilworth Ave., on the south by the Beltway, on the west by the proposed perimeter road and on the north by a proposed road along the south side of the old cemetery.

The proposed office complex is to consist of four 100,000 square-foot buildings located around a central mall. This is to be located approximately in the center of a 23-acre parcel adjacent to the Beltway, with parking areas to the east and west of the buildings. The land is to be graded in such a manner that the parking lots are hidden from the Beltway by a mound of earth, with only trees, buildings and mall visible. There would be parking for about 2,000 cars.

A six-acre parcel is intended for a motel complex comparable to the Marriott Motor Hotel, with a potential maximum of 250 units, a 1,000 seat auditorium, restaurant and associated shops.

A service station would be located on an 0.8 acre strip of land created by the relocation of the State Roads Commission access road. This road would be directly across Kenilworth from the Crescent Rd. intersection upon its eventual relocation.

All this land is presently zoned for R-18. For the office buildings, C-O zoning has been requested, and C-2 zoning for the motel and service station.

The findings of the APE are as follows:

1. This change in zoning would create a greater diversity of development and would be an asset to the City if completed as planned, since there presently are no large office buildings or motels in Greenbelt. The office building

COUNCIL VOTES DOWN PROPOSED ORDINANCE TO REGULATE PARADES

by Mary Smith

The proposed ordinance for the regulation of parades, which has been on the agenda many times in the past seven months, finally came to a vote at last Monday's City Council meeting and was rejected by a vote of 3-1. Voting against were Mayor Edgar Smith and Councilmen Bill Hoff and Francis White; voting for was Councilman Dick Pilski. Councilman Dave Champion was not present at voting time.

The majority opinion was that the ordinance was vague in a number of ways, that a need for a parade ordinance had never been clearly established, and that existing laws and statutes give the city ample powers for the control of any possible disturbance of the peace resulting from a parade. It was thought that a system of reservations would suffice.

Councilman Pilski thought there was a need for the ordinance and predicted that if it was not passed, "we shall soon need it and have to go through all this again."

Allen Lenchek presented an open letter to City Council from the American Civil Liberties Union, signed by 119 Greenbelt voters, urging rejection of the ordinance.

After the voting, Mayor Smith requested that City Manager James K. Giese prepare another ordinance providing for a system of reservations for parades. Giese replied that there was no necessity to do so, since such a system was already being used. And so, after a troubled 7-month gestation, marked by debate, tabling, amendments, objections and soul-searching, the parade ordinance died a-borning.

A report from the Advisory Planning Board on its recommendations for the rezoning of two parcels of land in Springhill Lake North, which is discussed elsewhere in this issue, was presented to council.

SHL Recreation Area

In a letter to City Council from Harold Kramer, representing the Springhill Lake developers, the suggestion was made that the city lease, for a nominal fee, a 1-acre section of SHL property and develop it for recreational purposes. The letter pointed out that "Kenilworth Ave. and the Beltway will forever be a barrier to most of SHL tenants enjoying the well-developed parks and recreation areas" in central Greenbelt. The property in question is a partly wooded area at the end of Edmonston Rd.; it is close to the SHL tennis courts, lake and swimming pool, and is large enough to be developed as a family-type recreation area—possibly with room for sandlot baseball and picnic tables, in a park-like setting.

Mr. Kramer, who was present at the meeting, was asked what he considered "a nominal fee." He said as little as $1 a year would satisfy legal requirements, "and I'll contribute the dollar if necessary." Council decided to refer the matter to the Recreation Advisory Board.

July 4 Concession Stands

A possible conflict has arisen with regard to concession stands at the Lake Park on July Fourth. For many years the DAV has had food and drink stands there on that date, and has realized profits of about $150. This money has been used for the benefit of disabled hospitalized veterans. Recently City Council has entered into an agreement with the SCH corporation to provide various concessions at the Lake, although the contract has not yet been signed.

All council members stated that they had no wish to deprive the DAV of their opportunity to make money for such a good cause. A motion was passed permitting the DAV to operate their usual concessions on July Fourth (with the exception of the ice cream vendor) with the proviso that they coordinate their stands with the SCH Corporation. The general feeling was that there should be enough business for both groups, and the long lines for food and drinks in previous years were cited.

Boxwood Requests

The Boxwood Civic Association in a letter requested City Council to include, in this year's budget the following items:

1. A sidewalk along Ridge Rd. from Lastner Lane to Research Rd.
2. A hard surface for the Crescent Rd. path, either asphalt or concrete.
3. Grading of Parcel 7 for improved drainage.
4. A request to owners of Parcel 7 to allow grading and sowing and

A Fairy Tale

Once upon a time there was a faraway land known as GH Island. Its people were generally happy, but occasionally they experienced troubles. One of them centered about a plan to build homes with many rooms for larger families.

Authors of the plan were the Elders - Known there as the Board. To them, Sir Simon applied for a home and was accepted. Another applicant was an Elder, Baron O'. Later Sir Simon became an Elder, too.

It was about the time of his election as an Elder that Sir Simon learned that the other Elders and the other applicants were plotting to give one of the homes to Baron O'. Furthermore, he discovered the purpose of the whole plot. It was just to permit the Baron to have a place to practice the wicked sport of pool. Later the Baron certainly intended to sell the home at a big profit.

Sir Simon and his faithful friend, The Photographer, after a slight delay, resolutely set about exposing the evil plot. In green sheet after yellow sheet, they called upon the people to repudiate the Elders' plan. Then they asked the people to replace some of the Elders with Sir Ben of GCS, the Happy Feller, Young Bob and the Normans (C and K).

Despite their righteousness, which Sir Simon and his friends proclaimed loudly and frequently, doubts arose in the minds of the people. Would the other applicants for homes and all the Elders really conspire to give a home to Baron O'? Why did not the blueprints bear out the contention that all the homes were designed so that Baron O' could have his pool table? Why did Sir Simon and The Photographer wait so long before exposing the wicked plot? After the people had directed the Elders to devise a new plan, why did not Sir Simon and his friends work with the Elders to do as the people wished? And Sir Ben, did he really believe the people should control GH Island when, in his own fiefdom, GCS, some charged this practice had not been allowed?

We have not reached the end of our fairy tale, but it is growing late. We shall resume it another day.

Moral (to this point): If it sounds fantastic, it probably is; or once a year in GH Island there is a silly season.

Protests Ridicule

I note with interest the letter signed by two G.H.I. Board members, who stated they were "grieved" to criticize persons who question the financial policies of a majority of the Board. One of the signers of this letter to you, which accuses us of being, "armchair financiers who are uninterested in practical problems of mortgage payments . . .", is a classic example of, "do as I say, not as I do".

At a recent G.H.I. Board meeting I brought to the Board information showing how other co-ops are building large townhouses for half the estimated charges of those being considered by our Board. Instead of the Board showing interest in this possibility (since my job is in housing they surely knew the information was sound) one of the signers of the above mentioned letter heaped ridicule on the information I had with me, without even asking to look at it. Another member of the Board stated I was wrong in saying that G.H.I. might be able to obtain 3% money for rehabilitation of homes, although the head of the local F.H.A. office told me that under the right circumstances he felt we could.

I submit that the membership of G.H.I. is more concerned than the majority of the Board in sound financial management. It seems the Board is more concerned with taking a position and not changing it for any reason, when it comes to resale policy and cost of townhouses, even if the membership has to pay the extra cost.

Norman L. Kilpatrick

Perhaps a New Board

It grieves me to have to suggest that the most important event at the Special GHI Membership meeting now seems to have been the "impertinent" question by a naive young man who wanted to know whether the board would carry out the members' instructions. I have been in co-ops for over 30 years as member, director, officer and employee (10 years as secretary and director of GHI) and I have never seen a board fail so miserably in carrying out the specific instructions of the membership. They seem to have some "idee fixe" quite different from that of the membership, which is being frightfully annoying about the whole thing.

The board complains (or are they bragging?) about the hours they have spent on a formula for sale and resale of the new homes. And I believe it - I believe it, because I've seen them in action.

If they hadn't been so obsessed with imagined personal slights, emotional face-saving, and with trying to get agreement with an illegal "compromise" profit-taking formula there might have been time for serious consideration of a nonprofit policy.

Apparently they are unwilling and unable to "hammer out" the administrative details of the motion passed by a commanding majority of the members still present at an inexcusable 13 minutes after midnight of a shamelessly dragged-out special meeting. So be it. If personal meetings, written proposals, suggestions for the use of impartial and established trade practices don't help (and they've had them all!) perhaps a new and more cooperative board should be given a chance.

Strange Beings from Mars?

I am very sorry that I shall be out of town at the time of the meeting of the GHI members on June 1 and 2. I would like therefore, to try to get a message across to my fellow GHI members through the columns of the News Review.

Let's for mercy sakes, stop this proliferation of petitions on resale of GHI homes. I am an old maid, who will never have any use for the larger homes; furthermore, I am not personally acquainted with any of the people who are on the list for them. I do believe in fair play, and I think most of you do. We told these neighbors of ours that they could have larger homes, and now we are trying to make it impossible for them to afford such homes.

Whatever the formula for computing gain or loss-be it an appraisal or a Government pricing index of some sort, we must make the basis the actual cost of the home to the purchaser. Whether he is buying it with money he saved or money he is paying rent for in the form of interest, it is his money.

There will never be a perfect formula, because we are dealing with houses to be lived in by people, all of whom are different. But they are not strange beings from Mars nor Communists from Peking or Moscow; they are our neighbors and fellow members of our cooperative.

Let's keep them that way by giving our Board a vote of confidence whenever such an urge hits any of us.

Law of Supply and Demand

The letter written by Mat Amberg in the May 11 issue of the Review was quite informative. I have argued with Mat on the resale question of the new homes on a few occasions, but in this situation I must give Mat three cheers.

There were three other letters in the same issue which expressed views on the sale/resale policy of the new homes. I was extremely impressed by the letter written by Aram Beloian. He took great pains to express a very basic (and old) economic principle. In the 18th century Jean Baptiste Say stated that supply creates its own demand. The classical economists sincerely felt that the market price was determined by the intersection of the lines drawn through the loci of points representing supply and demand of the commodity or economy in question. I will attempt to explain the meaning and/or value of this theory in relation to the sale/resale situation of the proposed homes in Greenbelt.

The homes in question will be built in Greenbelt, sold in Greenbelt and resold in Greenbelt. I will assume that the market demand for homes in Greenbelt is created by people in 5 categories: 1) people working in the immediate vicinity on a temporary basis, 2) young couples who are far-sighted enough to want more out of a place to live than rent receipts, but who cannot afford a house, 3) older couples looking for low cost housing to protect them in their retirement years, 4) Greenbelt residents who can now afford larger homes, but who do not want to leave the good life in Greenbelt, and 5) non-Greenbelters.

If this assumption is correct, then it follows that the market demand for the large free standing homes and the town houses is limited by 4 factors: 1) the initial sales price or asking price in the case of a resale, 2) the carrying charges per month, 3) the required down payment, and 4) the number of non-Greenbelters who are willing to move into the community. Under factor 4 there are qualifying factors that must be considered. They must be willing to abide by the laws of the community and agree to the resale policies, whatever they may be.

It seems logical to assume that because of the nature of Greenbelt, being a cooperative and representing low cost housing, that the market demand for these higher priced homes will be less than the demand for the lower priced units. To return to my original assumption of market demand and review it in terms of the 5 categories it can be shown that the market demand for the larger homes will be quite limited.

The second and third categories, young couples and older people, can be dismissed as demand factors as their effect will be negligible as they will not be able to afford the down payment and/or the carrying charges. The remaining categories, temporary people, Greenbelters and non-Greenbelters, form the largest demand criteria. The temporary people, assuming temporary to be up to but not more than 2 years, will be deterred by the 2 year no profit clause. If they are not speculators but are looking to regain some of their living costs then the 2-year no profit clause protects the next buyer against a rise in price, and therefore, does not enter into the discussion of the creation of excessive profits upon resale. Non-Greenbelters, then, represent the demand factor which aspires to earn excessive profits on their investment. This group can also be dismissed for the time being, because the initial sale of the homes will be to Greenbelters, our friends and neighbors. This being a fact of life then what is there to worry about?

The homes can only be sold as high as is the prevailing market price. The market price is set by the demand from the 5 categories previously mentioned and qualified by the stated factors. I believe these categories and factors will create an equilibrium position at an equitable price. The metropolitan Washington area is an area where prestige is of major importance in most decisions. The decision to spend 25 or 30 thousand dollars is a major decision. This being the case then, how many prestige minded non-Greenbelters will spend this amount of money to live in a community that has a reputation of being a low cost community? I do not mean this in a derogatory manner, but I believe the odds are with us.

If in spite of this letter a majority of the membership is still reluctant to trust the laws of supply and demand; then I feel if a formula is desired it should be one which reflects demand and return in Greenbelt, not the entire nation. The housing index reflects homes of all price ranges, in all geographical areas, and resale under various real estate contracts. Greenbelt is Greenbelt, we were the first model cooperative community, let us remember this and continue to operate Greenbelt for Greenbelt and not be influenced by exogenous factors.

Door Prizes Slated for GHI Election

by Rita Fisher

The Nominations and Elections Committee, at the GHI board meeting of May 11, reported that the candidates for the election will be limited to three minutes of speech-making at the annual meeting on June 1. The committee also received the permission of the board to offer four door prizes of $25 each, to be applied toward payment of monthly charges.

The Ad Hoc committee on larger homes reported that it had held two meetings with individuals who had been invited to consult with the board. At the meetings, open to the public, it was felt that many viewpoints had been obtained and several differences settled. It was hoped that a proposition will be presented at the annual membership meeting which will meet with the approval of the membership. So far, two formulas have been developed, both providing for no charge for the land and no profit on resale for the first two years. A special meeting was further scheduled for Tuesday, May 16, to discuss the findings of the committee.

The board heard requests from two members and after some discussion approved them both. One request, for wooden shutters, was made by a member who said he had waited six weeks for acknowledgement of his first request. After giving its approval, the board asked the Standards and Improvements Committee to look into the corporation's over-all policy regarding shutters.

The other request was for the removal of capped heating pipes. A special exception was made in the approval of this request after the member had explained that he was remodeling his kitchen and the protruding pipes would increase the cost of new cabinets.

The Ad-Hoc Land Committee injected a novel and unexpected note with a recommendation for the purchase of a 1.9 acre parcel of land at the end of Ridge Road. The board replied that the purchase, which would involve approximately $30,000, would have to be approved by the membership and that any special meeting regarding such a purchase would have to be announced at least 30 days in advance. The board voted down a motion to place the matter on the agenda and instead passed a motion to recommend to the city that it take steps to acquire the tract.

The problem of responsibility for the storm drains was discussed. It was decided that the matter would be brought up at the next joint GHI-city council meeting.

It was announced that the next GHI Newsletter would give information about a tour of GHI homes where improvements have been made. Eighteen member homes are already on the list. Information will also be given regarding additional type storage sheds which have been approved for purchase through GHI. The Newsletter will also provide information regarding the recent Elderly Housing Tax Measure.

Arts and Crafts Festival

More than 20 artists and craftsmen will demonstrate rug-hooking and braiding, enameling, oil painting, jewelry-making, quilting, china-painting, glass bending and lace-making at a gala Arts and Crafts Festival at the Hyattsville branch of the Prince Georges County Memorial Library on Adelphi Road, Friday and Saturday, May 19 and 20. Booths will be set up along the lower concourse and in the Meeting Room. Hours are: Friday, 10 a.m. - 9 p.m., Saturday, 10 a.m. - 5 p.m.

The election will be held in conjunction with the annual membership meeting on Thursday and Friday, June 1 and 2. Balloting will begin shortly after 8 p.m. at the Thursday night meeting at Center School and continue the next day from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. in the Twin Pines office at the Center. Four door prizes of $25 each will be awarded at the evening meeting. Members must be present to be eligible.

This Sunday, May 21, is the last day for filing nominating forms with the GHI nominations committee. George Adams is chairman (474-9263). Thereafter, any GHI

Tenants Protesting Raise in Rents

A special meeting of the Greenbelt Development Corporation (GDC) Board of Directors was held immediately preceding the meeting on May 11 of the board of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) meeting last Thursday night. A petition, signed by several apartment house residents, had been received protesting the raise in rent scheduled for July 1. The petitioners stated that the additional rent increase would create a hardship because of the rising cost of living.

The GDC board stated that the cost of repairs has risen, too, and that, although GHI tries to run the apartments on a low-profit basis, it does not want actually to subsidize them. A number of people with low incomes who have been residing in the apartments since the first survey of the financial status of residents was made, will be exempt from the raise in rents. The board approved a motion to investigate increasing this list.

Voter's Round Table

The Prince Georges County Commissioners will discuss "Progress and Problems in Prince Georges County" at a Voters Round Table scheduled for Tuesday, May 23, at 8 p.m. in the Capital Plaza Auditorium. Carlton Sickles will moderate the discussion, and citizens are encouraged to bring questions and comments relating to the officials' statements. It is hoped that this will be the first of a series of public "conversations" of this sort. Refreshments will be served.

The Voice. Anybody's voice. Your voice. It has a special quality and timbre all its own. But...

If it should become hoarse or if a cough should persist, find out what the reason is. Promptly. It could be a warning signal of cancer. And cancer is easier to cure when it's detected early.

Frank Sinatra knows the seven warning signals of cancer. Do you?

1. Unusual bleeding or discharge. 2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere. 3. A sore that does not heal. 4. Change in bowel or bladder habits. 5. Hoarseness or cough. 6. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing. 7. Change in a wart or mole.

If a signal lasts longer than two weeks, see your doctor without delay.

It makes sense to know the seven warning signals of cancer.

Speaking Sternly . . . by David Stern

Our Child Looks at Space

A child's world is a fantasy wonderland, they say, with excitement and discovery at every step. All an intelligent parent has to do, according to the gospel of Drs. Spock, Gesell and Ilg, is to lead the child gently and open his or her eyes to the fascinating realities of everyday life.

When Goddard Space Flight Center announced its "open house," we saw the chance to gently introduce our daughter Ilana to the world of space exploration. Three and a half seemed to us a good age to start at, and we reckoned that the predicted rainfall would keep away the crowds and allow our family to enjoy the visit properly.

The rain did not materialize, the crowds did, but it was a great success anyway. Ilana got great pleasure from watching model rockets being whooshed above our heads by a group of high school students, later coming down on the lawn or in the treetops, as the wind chanced it. They were REAL rockets, she explained. Only with real rockets, she said, are numbers and letters announced before take-off!

Another deep impression was created by the strawberry ice-cream served in the cafeteria, and by free souvenir aluminum tags with the NASA emblem stamped on them, which immediately got appropriated as play-money, value one nickel apiece. Then there was the plastic potting foam, dispensed by some workers into paper cups and distributed to visitors. Ilana insisted, so we took turns with our visitors from New York and waited some 40 minutes in line, winding up with a cupful of something looking like lemon chiffon ice-cream and as hard as a week-old bread crust, only tougher. Once we carried the thing home, Ilana put it on a shelf and paid no more attention to it.

Two days later, as we were reading in the living room, Ilana suddenly pointed at the cup and piped up: "What is this for, Daddy?" We tried gentle leadership. "You know what a rocket is, Ilana?" "Yes. A rocket." She rapped against the cup. "It's plastic." "So it is. You see, a rocket has to have a radio to tell us all what's happening up where it is. But it is very cold there - brr-r, very cold - so we put the radio in a box - like

Meet the Candidates

State Senator Edward T. Conroy (D.-Prince George's) has been named jointly by the First Legislative District Democratic Club, Greenbelt Democratic Club and Springhill Lake Democratic Club to moderate a candidates' night for all persons seeking election to the Constitutional Convention from the 1st Subdistrict of Prince Georges County.

All prospective candidates will be invited to speak at the Candidates' Night, to be held at the Springhill Lake Community Building in Greenbelt on May 24 at 8 p.m.

Anyone interested in hearing the candidates speak, or meeting them personally, is cordially invited to attend.

this - and pour the plastic over it to keep it warm and cozy."

"Why don't you cover it with a coat?"

"It is too cold for a coat there."

"Oh." She shook her head in disbelief. "I know what it is for."

"What?"

"To play with. Look!" She put the cup on top of her head. At first it stayed in place, then it began slowly to slide and ended with a plonk on the rug.

"Do you know why the cup fell down, Ilana?"

"Yes, because my head is slippery. Slip-slip-lip-lippery." She experimented to see how it went with a giggle.

"No, Ilana, it's gravity that pulls it down. Everything is pulled down to earth by gravity."

"What does pull mean, Daddy?"

"If you have a string, you pull-ll like this, to make it come to you."

"Oh. But there is no string on the cup."

"Well, gravity pulls just so, without a string. It's like everything wants to go down where the floor is. Wouldn't it be funny if things were pulled up to the ceiling instead, and everything fell up?"

"Yes, very funny. Can I make believe things fall to the ceiling?"

"If you want, all right. But that's not the way gravity - HEY, watch where you are throwing your cup!"

"I just make believe, Daddy."

I don't know. Maybe three and a half is too young?

Measles Vaccination Clinic on Sunday

A Measles Immunization Clinic for children will be held in the Center School on Sunday, May 21 from 12 noon to 5 p.m.

With a small gun-type vaccinator, the doctor presses the arm of the child and literally "shoots" the vaccine into the arm almost painlessly. A single dose will probably give lifetime immunity, and as to its safety, millions of doses of vaccine have been given without serious reaction.

This virulent disease is the number one childhood disease today and strikes nine out of ten children before their 12th birthday. Of the four million children who suffer the disease each year, one of six suffer serious complications.

The complications of the measles disease, however, include encephalitis (brain fever) which affects some four thousand children per year leaving sixteen hundred of them mentally retarded. Measles pneumonia and other respiratory diseases can make it a killer disease. Measles has decreased greatly since the 1963 development of vaccine but so long as one child is not immune, and can be permanently brain-damaged or killed by this disease, it is still a serious menace.

All parents are urged to bring their children to the clinic on Sunday. If you can't remember whether your child has had measles or been vaccinated against measles, a second dose won't hurt him.

All children must be accompanied by a parent or other responsible adult over 21 years old.

CLEVELAND, O.—A skyrocketing automotive population and inadequate safety facilities on our nation's highways will push our already gloomy annual traffic toll to epidemic proportions within a few years unless preventive measures are taken now, experts warn.

The National Safety Council predicts possibly 70,000 traffic deaths in 1975 unless the present trend can be halted.

"One area where this trend can be reversed is in nighttime fatalities," according to J. Parker Heck, educational director of the Street and Highway Safety Lighting Bureau here.

"Over 50% of all traffic fatalities occur at night, when traffic volume is only one-third as heavy," the Bureau spokesman said. "The nighttime traffic fatality rate is two and one half times that in daytime."

"Evidence indicates that some 9,000 of the yearly traffic deaths are the direct result of darkness and could be eliminated or drastically reduced by the installation of adequate street and highway lighting at critical locations," he said.

The Bureau reported conclusive evidence showing a positive correlation between street lighting and traffic accidents and fatalities. In nearly every case, figures showed a marked reduction in nighttime traffic accidents where adequate street lighting was installed.

"With the steadily growing number of automobiles on the roads, the traffic situation is getting progressively worse," Heck pointed out. "Driver education and safety features on cars will help, but the roadways themselves must also be made as safe as possible. This is the area where lighting can make a definite contribution."

Greenbelt was mentioned in the May 14 issue of Parade magazine, the national Sunday supplement delivered locally with the Washington Post. It seems that Dale L. Hanson, Ph.D., associate professor of physical education at the University of Maryland, telemetered the heart-rate response of players, excluding pitcher and catcher, participating in Little League games in Greenbelt. His conclusions were that the exercise is "so minimal that it should not be considered a major factor in the development of cardiovascular-respiratory fitness."

May 21-27 is "Light the Night Week"

Sponsored by the Prince Georges County and Montgomery County Boards of Realtors

Time to light up your nights ...with the new electric "Light Watchman"

- for security while you sleep
- longer hours for outdoor entertaining and playing
- welcoming guests
- worryfree vacationing
- discouraging prowlers
- evening gardening and outdoor repairs
- extra outdoor playtime for the children
- relaxing

Every family has its own reasons for wanting the all-night daylight of PEPCO's "Light Watchman" service. For some it's extra hours of light-time, for gardening or games in the cool of evening. For others it's a matter of security and peace of mind at night or while they're off on vacation. Whatever your reason might be, the protection of a "Light Watchman" is 100% automatic. PEPCO handles installation and maintenance, and even replaces the bulbs. A photo-electric cell turns the light on at night, turns it off in the morning. All you do is relax, and pay as little as $4 per light per month. (Flat charge, unmetered.)

For complete details of PEPCO's "Light Watchman" service, call 628-0389, 628-0506, 628-0617, or mail this handy coupon.
