GHI Expenses Down For First Quarter by Al Skolnik

First-quarter 1968 financial reports for Greenbelt Homes, Inc., show a drop in disbursements of some $19,000 below the budgeted level of $376,500. Much of this drop can be attributed to a late start in the trim paint and water line replacement programs. Both programs are expected to speed up in the coming months and absorb the full amounts set aside for these projects.

Offsetting to some extent these delayed programs were additional payroll costs for maintenance and repair work for the brick homes. Also a major boiler needed replacement, so that the first quarter saw $9,567 expended for this item out of $20,000 budgeted for the entire year.

Most other expenditure items showed little deviation from the anticipated budget. Heating costs were up over last year, not so much because of rising fuel oil prices, but because of increased consumption. On the income side, actual receipts practically coincided with anticipated receipts.

Because of seasonal factors which greatly increase heating costs during the winter, the firstquarter financial report always shows an excess of disbursments over receipts. However, the excess in 1968 was only $28,400, compared with $43,800 in 1967 and $49.100 in 1966. The narrowing of the gap between receipts and disbursements in recent years can be attributed to annual increases in monthly charges.

In the first quarter of 1968, monthly charges (after deducting for principal and interest) yielded $285,600, compared with $272,400 for a comparable period in 1967 and $263,600 for 1966.

Concert at Beltway Plaza

The second concert in the Tenth Anniversary Series of Concerts Under the Stars, will be held at the Beltway Plaza Shopping Center on Friday evening, June 28 at 8:30 p.m., and will be sponsored by the Equitable Trust Company.

Dr. William Sebastian Hart will conduct the 45-piece Concerts Under the Stars Orchestra. Guest soloists will be Gladys Callahan and Frank Whitmore. The Choralaires, a 27-voice male chorus, will entertain during the orchestra's intermission.

Five performances remain in the summer concert tour. All performances begin at 8:30 p.m. and are free of charge to the public.

Greenbelt Lions Install Officers

The Police Blotter For the 18th year in a row Greenbelt will receive the pedestrian safety award from the American Automobile Association. The 1967 award was presented at an awards banquet in Baltimore on June 27. Mayor Edgar L. Smith. Mayor Edgar L. Smith, Police Chief Lane, and City Mana-ger James K. Giese represented the city.

Chief Lane and Lt. Marshall Zoellner will represent Greenbelt at a testimonial dinner on June 29 for county Police Chief Panagoulis, who retires on July 1.

Chief Lane and Lt. Zoellner also attended a two-day seminar at the Anne Arundel Community College, Severna Park, on June 12-13 on the role of law enforcement in preventing civil disorders. The program was sponsored by the Maryland Police Training Commission.

Chief Lane was unanimously elected to represent all police departments from the northern area of Prince Georges County in a recently-formed committee to coordinate the efforts of all local lawenforcement agencies. This committee will periodically meet to discuss problems and coordinate activities.

NEWS REVIEW DEADLINE

Next week's deadline for news copy and advertising will be 9:30 p.m. Monday, due to the July 4 holiday on Thursday.

City Notes

Four dead or dying sycamores on Centerway, infected with anthracnosis, were removed by the Parks crew to prevent further spread of the disease, which is incurable. Other sycamores on Centerway, which are on private land, are also infected. Those planted in the parking lots, however, are curently healthy. Young sweetgum trees, infected with another disease, were also removed from Candy Cane City. Since that playground area is already heavily wooded, their loss will make little difference. But the Centerway trees will be replaced by some form of landscaping, to be done later in the total renovation of the Center mall.

Two building permits of interest to Greenbelters were issued during the last ten days of May. One is for an addition to the Springhill Lake elementary school. The other, for an alteration at the Beltway Plaza shopping center, will prepare for the opening of a pizza shop where a carpet store was formerly located.

The Public Works Dept. replaced five or six sections of broken sidewalk on Periwinkle Court in Boxwood and on Orange Ct. at Greentree Pl. in Lakewood. They also installed permanent benches for players at the three ball diamonds on Braden Field.

Greenbelt Historical Society Reminisces at First Meeting

by Elaine Skolnik

A nostalgic air filled the city council chambers last Sunday afternoon when the Greenbelt Historical Society (GHS) held its first general meeting. About 60 persons viewed the photographic exhibits of early Greenbelt, heard reminiscences from early inhabitants such as Mrs. Carnie Harper, Dayton Hull, and Donald Cooper, and heard plans for the future by James C. Smith (4-H Southway) and Charles T. McDonald.

For, as echoed by councilman William Hoff and other speakers, Greenbelt not only has a history When Mrs. Ruth Bowman and that should be preserved but also a future based on the heritage of The GHS is now engaged in putting the finishing touches to the Eleanor Roosevelt Memorial Tree which stands along Crescent Road near the Greenbelt Baptist Church. It is from this tree site, and a platform erected thereon, that Mrs. Roosevelt and other dignitaries surveyed the construction of this new model community.

Dedication Committee Chairman McDonald told the group that the dedication ceremonies will probably take place on or around Labor Day and will include an appropriate speaker, hopefully from the Boat Permits Available

Boat permits for the operating of boats on Greenbelt Lake are now being issued to city residents at the City Offices during regular office hours. Applications may also be obtained at the City Offices and will be mailed upon request. The City Manager's office also expects to send application forms to persons previously holding boat permits. The cost of the permit is $3.00 a year.

Boats will not have to be inspected at the time the permit is issued, but inspections will be made later in the season. In addition, special hours will be scheduled at the Lake Park during which boats may be registered and inspected, and permit holders may receive assistance in applying registration numbers. A new ordinance enacted this spring requires all boats using the lake to bear registration numbers at least 4 inches in height.

The ordinance prohibits the operation of motor boats and of sail boats 16 feet or more in length. Boats are required to be either naturally buoyant or to have builtin flotation equipment so as to float if capsized. They must be kept in good repair and safe condition. Children under 12 must be accompanied by at least one person over 18, and all children or persons who cannot swim must wear life preservers. There also must be one life preserver or buoyant cushion in the boat for each person. Boating is not permitted after dark except during special events such as the Fourth of July Fireworks and band concerts. Until ample time has been given for boat owners to obtain permits under the new ordinance, the permit provisions will not be enforced. However, all safety requirements are being enforced at this time.

stance and life by the Woman's Club under Mrs. Harper's leadership.

Local Support

Support was obtained from leading civic groups in town. Money was raised to meet the costs of obtaining a plaque and fencing. The cooperation of city officials was secured in providing the necessary labor and assistance in constructing the Memorial.

Mrs. Goode related how Smith and Mrs. Harper searched long and hard at antique shops and junk yards for the iron fencing surrounding the tree. They finally ended up with fences slightly larger than the original design which caused a minor crisis as they encroached 38 inches on non-city property. However, the of owners of the abutting property, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Umberger, consented to give the city an easement for use of their property for the Memorial.

Smith told how six granite stones were obtained from the contractor, Leo Butler, for the Memorial foundation. These stones had been removed some forty years earlier from one of the Capitol street abutments. Each stone weighs 900 pounds. Smith also said that some of the original Belgian cobblestones used in the Center Mall, which arrived in this country as ballast, were also used as inserts in the Memorial.

Dayton Hull, son of the late Reverend Robert C. Hull, told what it was like when he lived in Greenbelt in the 1940's. Some of his recollections included (1) monthly rental of $38 with $1.80 for electricity and $1 for water; (2) regulations against hanging wash after 4 p.m. to avoid giving the model community an un tidy look; (3) ban on dogs - a vote which split the town.

Greenbelt Characteristics

Greenbelt, Hull said, captured the attention of the people throughout the United States, and attracted such professional visitors as political scientists, landscape designers, architects and land use planners. He listed these characteristics which made the display town so different from other communities: (1) The proliferation of clubs and activities: (2) Cohesiveness - the focus of town interest in the center, where people saw each other in ways that were not possible in other communities. (3) Freedom freedom from slums, from group intolerance, from profiteering, and from the more garish aspects of commercialism. (4) A city characterized by a clever design of parks and open space so that children were free to grow and play in a parklike setting. (5) Individ-ual identification with the community. Hull, a former member of the News Review editorial board, noted that no formal background was needed to get active in Greenbelt - the first four mayors included a government clerk, airplane mechanic, electrician and accountant. Frank Lewis of the Greenbelt Library Board told of plans made in connection with the new Greenbelt Library to have a corner where old photographs, newspaper clippings, and memorabilia would be stored. Negatives will be made of photos borrowed from the Library of Congress collection and copies will be available for purchase. Don Cooper, active in the 1940's in the Co-op movement and in the publication of the News Review (then known as the Cooperator), presented a series of slides illustrating the growth of the co-op movement. Starting in Greenbelt with one supermarket and attendant local shops, the Greenbelt Consumer Services now has grown to 20 stores spread out throughout the metropolitan area. Cooper said, "Although we now have our offices in Beltsville, we still think of Greenbelt as the home of America's largest cooperative."

Another Tragedy

To the people of our generation another tragedy

Voted for the favorite man in the state-wide primary.

He won the primary by a margin convincingly enough

To show the people of our nation that he had the stuff

But one man didn't think so and because he had a gun

Took things into his own hands; now the tragedy had begun.

You know the rest of the story, so I need not fill you in

The memory, the shock, the horror in your mind must be crystalline. As the years pass by us, man's ur-

Fire Tip For Jure

In our county a year ago a small boy was burned over 65% of his body, hospitalized 5 months at a cost of close to $5.000 all as a result of playing with matches. Have you ever noticed the curiosity aroused in a small child at times when he sees the flame from a match or lighter? This curiosity will remain until he has an opportunity to investigate for himself. The results can often be disastrous to the home and children. Let us make every effort and be sure we have placed matches and lighters out of the reach of children.

If we do this it will be a lot cheaper and there will be a lot less suffering.
