Changes In Center Parking Restrictions Are Considered

by Elaine Skolnik

In a brief meeting which saw councilman Dick Pilski welcomed back after his illness, the city council on Monday, November 16, introduced for first reading a revision of parking restrictions at the Center, considered several school board matters, discussed awards for outstanding performances, and adopted resolutions expressing sympathy to the family of former mayor and councilman James N. Wolfe and making Joseph Cipriano an honorary citizen of Greenbelt.

In the wake of complaints received about a stepped-up enforcement policy with respect to parking beyond the time limits at the Center, city manager, James K. Giese proposed that the present 60-minute and 90-minute parking restrictions in the east and west commercial lots (including the area between the theater and the co-op supermarket) be deleted. The 20-minute limit on Centerway would remain.

Giese explained that the parking situation on the east and west lots is not critical, but felt that the Centerway restrictions serve a useful purpose by permitting more people to use the parking lot within a specified time. Council will take up the change at its next meeting on December 7.

School Board Matters

Giese reported that the Board of Education staff is examining all sites for the location of a senior high school. Exploratory meetings with the owners of parcel 15 and the Smith-Ewing site are being sought.

After hearing expressions of concern for the safety of children walking to North End School, council unanimously passed a motion requesting the school board to provide a crossing guard at both North End and Center schools. In the meantime, the feasibility of a 4-way stop at Ridge and Research would be explored.

In another school matter, the council requested that the school board provide funds for recreational purposes in Greenbelt schools to the same extent that they are authorized in schools throughout the county. The motion was deemed necessary because Greenbelt has its own recreation program and it was felt that Greenbelt might not get its full share of State funds that are allotted to Prince Georges county for the purpose of keeping schools open in the evenings for recreational or adult education use. Pilski felt strongly that schools were not being fully utilized at night and during the summer months, characterizing the situation as "the greatest waste of money I've ever seen."

Awards

Complying with sentiments expressed by council, Giese proposed that annual awards be given to outstanding Greenbelt citizens and to the Greenbelt citizen, local business, and Greenbelt non-profit organization completing the most significant improvement of public or private property in the city. A judging committee, composed of representatives of various civic service, business and other organizations, would determine the winners. Council decided to solicit comments from organizations concerning their willingness to participate.

In addition, Giese suggested that council name annually an outstanding city employee who would be given a cash award.

GHI Finance Committee Sees Need For Increase In Working Capital

by Al Skolnik

The critical position of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. working capital was the subject of a Finance Committee report made to the GHI board at its Thursday, November 12 meeting. The Committee, headed by Darwin Beck, said that the level of the corporation's working capital has not kept pace with increasing prices, taxes, and capital program. "At the end of 1969," Beck reported, "the areas where working capital was used exceeded the working capital available by about $84,322."

The working capital of the corporation was obtained by assessing the original purchasers three percent of the 1952 prices of the homes. Up through 1961, the working capital was augmented by the fees of new members. The working capital is used for the stockpiling of inventories, purchase of equipment, prepayments, and to day-to-day cash transactions.

The Committee suggested that the position of the working capital could be improved by funding such items as property purchases and capital improvements from other accounts and by raising the level of the working capital. It suggested that the latter should be maintained at 25 percent of the operating budget. To accomplish this, the Committee proposed several alternatives.

One approach suggested would be to tie a working capital assessment to the total monthly charge on the assumption that this approach most equitably distributes the cost. Another approach suggested would be to add a working capital assessment to each unit upon resale. The board will consider these approaches in connection with its budget review. In the meantime, it asked its attorney to examine the legality of an assessment.

Cash Position

The Finance Committee was also concerned over the cash position of the corporation, noting that cash deposits were being used in more than one capacity to fund the various reserve items. It specifically suggested that there be a moratorium on loans to members for additions and improvements "until the working capital, cash position, and contingency reserve fund can be brought into balance."

As for the contingency reserve, it suggested a rule-of-thumb measure that the corporation hold in liquid assets a sum equal to one month's expenditures or roughly 8 percent of the corporation's annual operating budget (about $130,000). Present contingency funds are down to less than $100,000.

Plaza Embankment Problem Is Studied by State Agency

by Elaine Skolnik

The long-festering problem of the Beltway Plaza embankment entered a new stage this week as a State agency scheduled a Tuesday (Nov. 17) meeting with representatives of the shopping center, and the county attorney's office. The State Department of Water Resources, armed with new powers under the Pollution Abatement Law, is seeking a resolution of the five-year-old embankment hazard located at the east end of Beltway Plaza adjacent to S. Klein's, as well as removal of the other hills of clay on the Beltway Plaza land.

Over the years efforts by the county and city to have the owner of Beltway Plaza Shopping Center (First National Realty) correct a potentially dangerous situation at the embankment next to Klein's have met with little success. A suit filed by the county in 1966 was dismissed; work started by First National Realty to correct the erosion and grading problems was partly completed; and appeals made to the county commissioners by the City of Greenbelt, while sympathetically received, did not result in a final solution.

For about a year there has been inactivity around the clay embankment, which rises steeply between Klein's parking lot and the adjoining Board of Education land. Tom Rennie, Grading Control Engineer for the County Office of Building Inspections and permits (BIP) said that the matter had recently been turned over to the county attorney since BIP could not get First National Realty to finish "what started out to be a good job."

The suit filed in the spring of 1966 by Prince Georges County against First National Realty alleged that the embankment was so steep that it was in danger of collapse and that the retaining wall supporting it was inadequate. The suit was dismissed, according to county attorney Glenn Harten when Sidney Brown, president of First National Realty, agreed in a stipulation that the firm would

BULLETIN

At Tuesday's meeting, Sidney Brown, president of First National Realty Corp. signed a statement to undertake further implementation of plans to complete work on the embankment next to S. Klein's. Brown has contracted with sedimentation consultant Robert Balter of Baltimore who drew up the original corrective plans. According to a Water Resources official Brown promised that he would start work after the plans are completed. This is expected to take about three weeks.

Brown told the News Review, "we are going forward to do additional corrective work on the slope." Half of the work has been completed, he said, referring to that portion of the land between Greenbelt Road and the Board of Education maintenance building on top of the embankment. He observed that this area is now protected and "it is no longer a question of the slope being dangerous but a matter of sloughing." Work yet to be done includes some cutting back at the top for swales, stabilization of the clay by replacement with other materials and finally seeding.

eliminate the hazardous land situation. Arranged also was an easement given by the Board of Education to First National so that the top of the slope, on school board property, could be drained by means of a trough which would collect surface water and channel it into paved swales that will run laterally down the slope and into the sewer system.

According to Rennie, the soil on the bank is of unstable material and from now until April or May will be especially hazardous, since this type of clay "flows like slurry." The condition, Rennie says, has to be stabilized not just on the surface but far down, so that the stabilized material acts as a dam. Brown about a year ago started to correct the situation. This could be accomplished by digging out the face of the unstable material and discarding or replacing it with a sandy or porous type of material with weight to sufficiently lay the material back over and hold like a wall.

Solutions to the problems would appear to involve a regrading of the slope and a stabilization of the soil. The original embankment was a grass-covered clay slope with an average angle of 45 degrees. Erosion had resulted in certain parts of the embankment being without sodding and almost perpendicular. To restore the proper grade would require reducing the angle of the slope either by cutting back into the school board land at the top or by extending the slope further out at its base (thus cutting into S. Klein's parking lot), some of which Brown has done. The location of the school board maintenance building limits the amount of land available at the top of the slope.

As for stabilization of the soil, one solution would be a 40-foot high retaining wall, but this would be costly. The other approach would be to continue the method already started by Brown of substituting porous material for the clay soil.

Baltimore Symphony To play 3 Concerts

A new Baltimore Symphony Orchestra Series of three concerts will be presented this season, under the auspices of the Baltimore Symphony Society of Prince Georges County. The concerts will be held on November 25, February 6 and April 1, at 8 p.m., in the Fine Arts Auditorium of the Prince Georges Community College at Largo, as in previous seasons. They will feature in turn cellist Mihaly Virizlay, bassoonist Gerald Corey and pianist Ursula Oppens. Information about series tickets may be obtained at the Twin Pines office on Centerway, or from Mrs. Ruth Bowman, phone 474-6468.

Meeting on Pollution

On Sunday, November 22, at 8:30 p.m., the Park and Recreation Advisory Board subcommittee on pollution ordinances will meet at the home of Nancy and Werner Neupert, 36 Lakeside Drive.

On the agenda is the committee's preliminary report to PRAB on the water and air pollution and anti-litter ordinances which are presently being considered by the City Council. Also to be discussed are noise pollution, a ban on the sale of non-returnable bottles and cans, and tree and greenspace protection. Copies of the proposed legislation and the report will be distributed, and model ordinances and source materials will be available for study during the meeting.

According to chairman Rhea Cohen, most of the members are experienced in relevant fields and several are experts in pollution control. Other concerned citizens, particularly those with legal or other applicable training, are invited to join the committee.

The study group, which met for the first time on October 29, is derived from ideas developed during the Greenbelt Environment Forum sponsored last spring by Prince George's Citizens for a Better Environment.

Boys and Girls Club Seeks Adult Help

by John Armstrong

The Greenbelt Boys' and Girls' Club has never been as large as it is this year. In the past, the club could field only 2 or 3 football teams each season, but this year there were 6 teams, ranging from the 60 pounders to the 115 pounders. Membership this year was also opened to girls, who signed up for the cheerleading program.

Expenses for the fall program, including football and cheerleading, exceeded $4,000, an amount realized through contributions by the Greenbelt Lions Club, Greenbelt Variety, Greenbelt Realty, and the Giant Food Store on Greenbelt Rd.

Adult leaders are particularly being sought to help the club. Although coaching positions, both men's and women's are especially needed, other important positions include commissioners for every sports program, directors for fund raising activities, membership director, members for sub-committees (budgeting, constitutional revisions, advisory), public relations, and the mandatory positions of president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer.

Organizational meetings are held on the first Tuesday of each month. Won't you please consider participating?

The Tax Recorder

by Frederick J. Isaacs

During the coming weeks I will explain some of the changes in the income tax laws and tell how these changes can affect you. After I have gone over the new tax laws, I will answer some questions of general interest. If you have a question about federal or Maryland income tax laws, write to The Tax Recorder, care of the Greenbelt News Review, Box 68.

Exemptions will be raised in four steps: 1970 exemptions (taken when filing in 1971) will be $625 each, 1971 exemptions will be $650 each, 1972 exemptions will be $700 each, and 1973 exemptions will be $750 each.

The standard deduction will be raised in three steps (no change for 1970): The 1971 standard deduction will be 13% of income with a maximum of $1500, the 1972 standard deduction will be 14% of income with a maximum of $2000, and the 1973 standard deduction will be 15% of income with a maximum of $2000. If you are married and filing separately, you are allowed the same percentage, but the maximum is one-half the normal maximum.

There is a new low-income standard deduction with a special low income allowance. The method for computing this is complicated, but those who are eligible for this special low-income allowance will use the tax table in which this allowance is incorporated. If your income is under $10,000 and you itemize your deductions, you would be wise to check your tax against the appropriate tax table to be sure you choose the method of minimum tax.

KAVA Teen Dance

Kava Teen Club will present the sounds of "Grand Funk" and "Chicago" featuring the fabulous "Blue Mist" on Saturday Night, November 21, from 8 to 11 p.m. at the Greenbelt Youth Center. Dress will be casual and there will be an admission charge. This dance is for senior teens only.

Four New Traffic Lights Planned For Greenbelt

by Virginia Beauchamp

Plans for the improvement of traffic problems in Greenbelt and the surrounding area were announced by representatives of the State Roads Commission at a meeting on November 9 at the District Headquarters building of the Roads Commission in Greenbelt. At the meeting officials from Greenbelt, Berwyn Heights, and College Park heard Commission officials' estimate that traffic lights will be installed by next spring on Greenbelt Rd. at Southway, as well as at the Greenbelt Rd. entrance for northbound traffic to the Baltimore-Washington Parkway. At the west end of the city, Commission officials promised, a third traffic light will also be installed — at the intersection of Greenbelt Rd. and Gentry Drive.

Requests for surveys of traffic patterns and installation of signal lights at these intersections have been made to the Roads Commission at various times by city council, following citizen complaints, and — in the case of the entrances and exits east of the Parkway — a fatal accident. The section of Greenbelt Rd. east of the highway bridge is particularly dangerous because of the slight rise which obstructs the view of traffic from the west, and because of the heavy volume of traffic turning into and out of Greenbelt Rd. since construction of the Goddard Space Village, whose gate is also located at that point.

Lights Synchronized

A major change on Greenbelt Rd. west of Kenilworth Ave. will go into effect when the Gentry Drive light is installed. At that time the Roads Commission plans to synchronize all traffic lights on the thoroughfare from Kenilworth Ave. to the railroad viaduct.

Berwyn Heights, which also has an interest in the Gentry Rd. light, may be asked, together with Greenbelt, to share some of the cost of installation. The light at the Southway intersection, however, which is entirely under the jurisdiction of the State roads commission, will probably be funded by the State. A second light for Berwyn Heights will be placed at Kenilworth Ave. and Pontiac St., opposite the entrance gate to the Westchester Park apartment development.

Another problem spot in the area of particular concern to College Park representatives at the meeting was the intersection of Good Luck Rd. and Old Calvert Rd. west of Kenilworth Ave. To ease congestion there, right turns into Old Calvert from southbound lanes of Kenilworth are now prohibited. Yield signs, however, may be placed at the next intersection, on Calvert Rd., to facilitate right turns and expedite the heavy commuter traffic to the University area.

Mishkan Torah Sisterhood

The Mishkan Torah sisterhood will meet on Tues., Nov. 24 at 8:30 p.m. Speaker will be Dr. Ridell, psychologist.

Annual Meeting of Democratic Club

The annual meeting of the Greenbelt Democratic Club will be held Wednesday, November 25, at 8 p.m. in the Greenbelt Co-op Hospitality Room above Greenbelt Co-op Supermarket.

All members are urged to attend and participate in the election of next year's officers.

4-H Lucky Leaves

by Kathleen Coyne

Our 4H Club has really been busy since September, when the new 4-H year started. We have turned in our record books and received our awards from the Prince Georges' County Fair. We also had a weenie roast in the country.

At present, we have fourteen members, nine of whom are officers, elected in October: Patty Levesque, President; Nancy Gaffney, Vice President; Julie Maffay, Secretary; Sarah Brown, Treasurer; Kathy Coyne, Reporter; Janis McFarland and Barbara Farrell, Recreation Leaders; Kimberly Potts and Kathy Kiddy, Song Leaders. The five other important members are Leasa Estensen, Kathy Brewington, Norene Certel, Donna Townsend and Peggy Bates.

We have already started our sewing project by making pajamas. At our last meeting Kathy Brewington demonstrated making a necklace out of paper clips and magazine scraps. We hope to have many more projects this year.

Gifts for Servicemen

Servicemen overseas have expressed a desire for more personalized Christmas gifts this year, according to American Red Cross workers stationed at military installations throughout the world.

Gifts that servicemen say are most meaningful are: small calendars which clip on watchbands; small magnetic games such as checkers and chess; peg and other puzzles that can be carried in a pocket; wide tooth combs; pencil-size clip-on flashlights with batteries; shampoo concentrate in tubes, and canvas and rubber shower shoes.

The Red Cross also suggests: paperback books, current issues of sports and automobile magazines; washcloths, soap bars on ropes, wash and dry towelettes, pocket calendars; plastic picture and identification holders, nine-volt radio batteries; deodorants, plastic bags; insect repellent, inflatable pillows, ball point pens and stationery.

shed regulations that would eliminate about two-thirds of current violations, according to its chairman, Joe Vella.

The major change proposed would be elimination of the requirement for free-standing sheds that they be restricted to yards adjacent to wooded areas and in areas not visible from the street. Instead, the recommended requirement would be that they be properly landscaped, with privacy screens if necessary, as GHI management dictates.

Height of sheds would be restricted to seven feet — for both free-standing sheds and types installed beside windows. Currently, the restricted height for sheds beside windows is six feet. The latter type also now requires specific length and depth dimensions, which under the proposal would be supplanted by a square footage requirement. For sheds installed beneath the window there would no longer be length and height dimensions.

Other Business

The board gave final approval to the mutual ownership contract that was drafted for free-standing homes and townhouses. It also approved an addendum which would permit the period of the two-year limitation on selling for a profit to be dated back to date of occupancy. The board also wrestled with the problem of seeking a satisfactory settlement with the contractor with respect to bringing the new townhouses up to proper standards.

The board voted to have a GHI employee sit on the Personnel Committee as an employee representative with the same privileges as other Committee members. The board also voted to raise the retainer for its attorney, Albert Ginsberg, from $3,600 to $4,200 a year.

The board authorized management to participate in a proposed Boy Scout merit program, which is being organized by cooperatives. It also appointed Bob McGee as chairman of the Membership Services and Home Improvements Committee.

The board rescheduled its Dec. 24 meeting to Dec. 17 because of the holidays.

City Notes

In order to eliminate a sharp curve in the service road leading from Prince James Way into the woods and out toward Olivewood Ct., the city crew dumped fill material, consisting of broken pieces of paving and dirt from the excavation of Southway Rd., to build up a low, wet, unstable area. As time permits, they will construct a new roadway across the filled land.

Not far away—at the bay end of the lake—they set into place large quarry stones to prevent erosion of a section of shoreline. Across the lake, near the picnic area, they shut off water to the drinking fountains and prepared them for winter by boxing them in. The basketball backboards for the Lake playground were also repainted but not yet installed.

Another sort of shelter—a roof over the fuel pumps—was constructed at the Municipal Service Building.

The Parks crew planted chrysanthemums near the city offices and the Youth Center and replaced dead dogwoods in the Lakeside subdivision. At the A Block playground (the top of the hill where Ridge and Crescent join), they installed a litter basket, following requests from nearby residents. They also planted grass in the field behind the Municipal Service Bldg.

The general crew filled with gravel the shoulder at the northwest corner of Northway and Hillside, where cars had cut in near a mailbox. On the day after the election they removed political signs throughout the city—including some that had been pasted upon city signs.

The leaf vacuum made two rounds, but workers reported leaves not yet plentiful, despite the late season. The chipper machine was also used one day to clean up broken branches.

Essay Contest For Jr., Sr. High Students

Members of the American Legion Auxiliary groups located throughout the state of Maryland are inviting junior and senior high school students to express their feelings on patriotism by writing themes entitled, "What is a True Patriot?"

Entries, which are not to exceed 500 words, will be judged on the basis of originality and thought.

The contest runs through December 7 and the decision of the judges will be finalized by May 1, 1971.

Interested students should contact their English teacher for further information.

The prize categories include Junior and senior division awards consisting of a $100 bond for first place, $75 bond for second place, and a $50 bond for third place.

Work-Study Program At Parkdale High

Parkdale High School students are combining their studies with work experience this year in the work-study program that is one of the few in Prince Georges County that includes both Distributive Education and Diversified Occupations courses.

Diversified Occupation, taught by Malcolm Seab, is a course which allows three hours of supervised work experience during the school day.

Distributive Education, taught by Thomas Antonielli, is a two-year course dealing chiefly with the field of retailing.

According to Antonielli, students receive jobs that best suit their interests for their work experience.

While on the job, students earn regular pay but remain the responsibility of the school. They are graded by their employers and receive regular visits at work from their faculty coordinators.

Some 90 students, both boys and girls, are enrolled in the work-study program this year.

Jan Sturn and Buzzy Parker captured the honors in our recent "Lonely Hearts Club" tournament. Jan had the most "runs" while Buzzy managed the lowest net score of all his fellow teen competitors. The program met after school for ten sessions.

"Mail Early" Urged

Postmaster Emory A. Harman urges residents of Greenbelt to "try to remember" the recommended mailing dates to insure efficient delivery and prevent disappointments. It will also be a big help to the Post Office.

Suggested latest dates for mail deposits follow: Distant States: parcels, Dec. 1; cards, Dec. 10; local and nearby areas: parcels, Dec. 11; cards, Dec. 15; surface mail to Alaska and Hawaii: parcels, Nov. 30; cards, Dec. 4; air mail for parcels and cards, Dec. 14.

The annual Turkey Trot long distance running races sponsored by the Greenbelt Jaycees to promote physical fitness will be held the Sunday after Thanksgiving, November 29 at 1 p.m. The races will start a finish at the Municipal Building in Greenbelt.

Three races are scheduled, the featured 20 miler, a five-mile handicap and the two-mile race. Out-of-state runners and runners of national rank, including the course record holder Bob Scharf of the Washington Sports Club, will compete.

The five-mile handicap starts the slowest runners first, giving everyone a chance to win. The two-mile is mainly for those running for physical fitness or health, with time no object.

All runners and joggers are invited. Information from Larry Noel 474-9362.

Boys'-Girls' Club News

by John Armstrong

Congratulations are in store for Greenbelt's 100 lb. football team. The 100-pounders, coached by Mr. Carlson of Springhill Lake, won their division with a record of 6 wins and no defeats.

SCHOOL BUDGET PLANS

Individual citizens and members of PTA's, civic organizations, and school staffs in Prince Georges County have been invited to participate in the preparation of the 1971-72 school budget. Persons interested in obtaining forms for recommendations should contact the Information Office at the Board of Education in Upper Marlboro (Phone 627-4145).

Traffic Tip

Bad manners are deplored anywhere, but especially in traffic, says H. S. Cole, Acting Director of the D. C. Department of Motor Vehicles. You may be socially dead through a discourtesy at a party but you can be really dead if your manners are bad on the highway.

"VOICES FROM HOME"

Tape recordings made by family, friends and neighbors are appreciated by servicemen overseas at Christmas. These recordings should contain information regarding family activities greetings from all members of the family and perhaps recordings of the serviceman's record favorites.

"Voices from Home" sponsored by the P.G. County Chapter of the American Red Cross and the County Memorial Library, will give families an opportunity to record messages to the servicemen overseas and to have a Polaroid picture taken at the same time. Three county libraries will be open to the "Voices from Home" project as follows: Oxon Hill Library, 5450 Oxon Hill Road; Bowie Library, 15210 Annapolis Road, Bowie; Stanley Library, 507 7th Street, Laurel; and the service will also be available at the Prince George's County Chapter building 6206 Belcrest Road, Hyattsville. Taping may be made on Saturdays, November 21 and 28 and December 5 from 12 noon to 5 p.m. Appointments may be made by calling 927-4400.

How to interest your husband in a new electric range.

Tell him you've had it with all that seven-nights-a-week cooking nonsense and if he doesn't get you a new electric range with a self-cleaning oven you're going on strike and stop cooking altogether. Maybe stop doing the dishes, too.

Describe all the drippingly delicious things you could have been cooking for him all these years if you only had a range that could clean itself. Lasagna, glazed ham, roast duckling, and blueberry pie are particularly effective here.

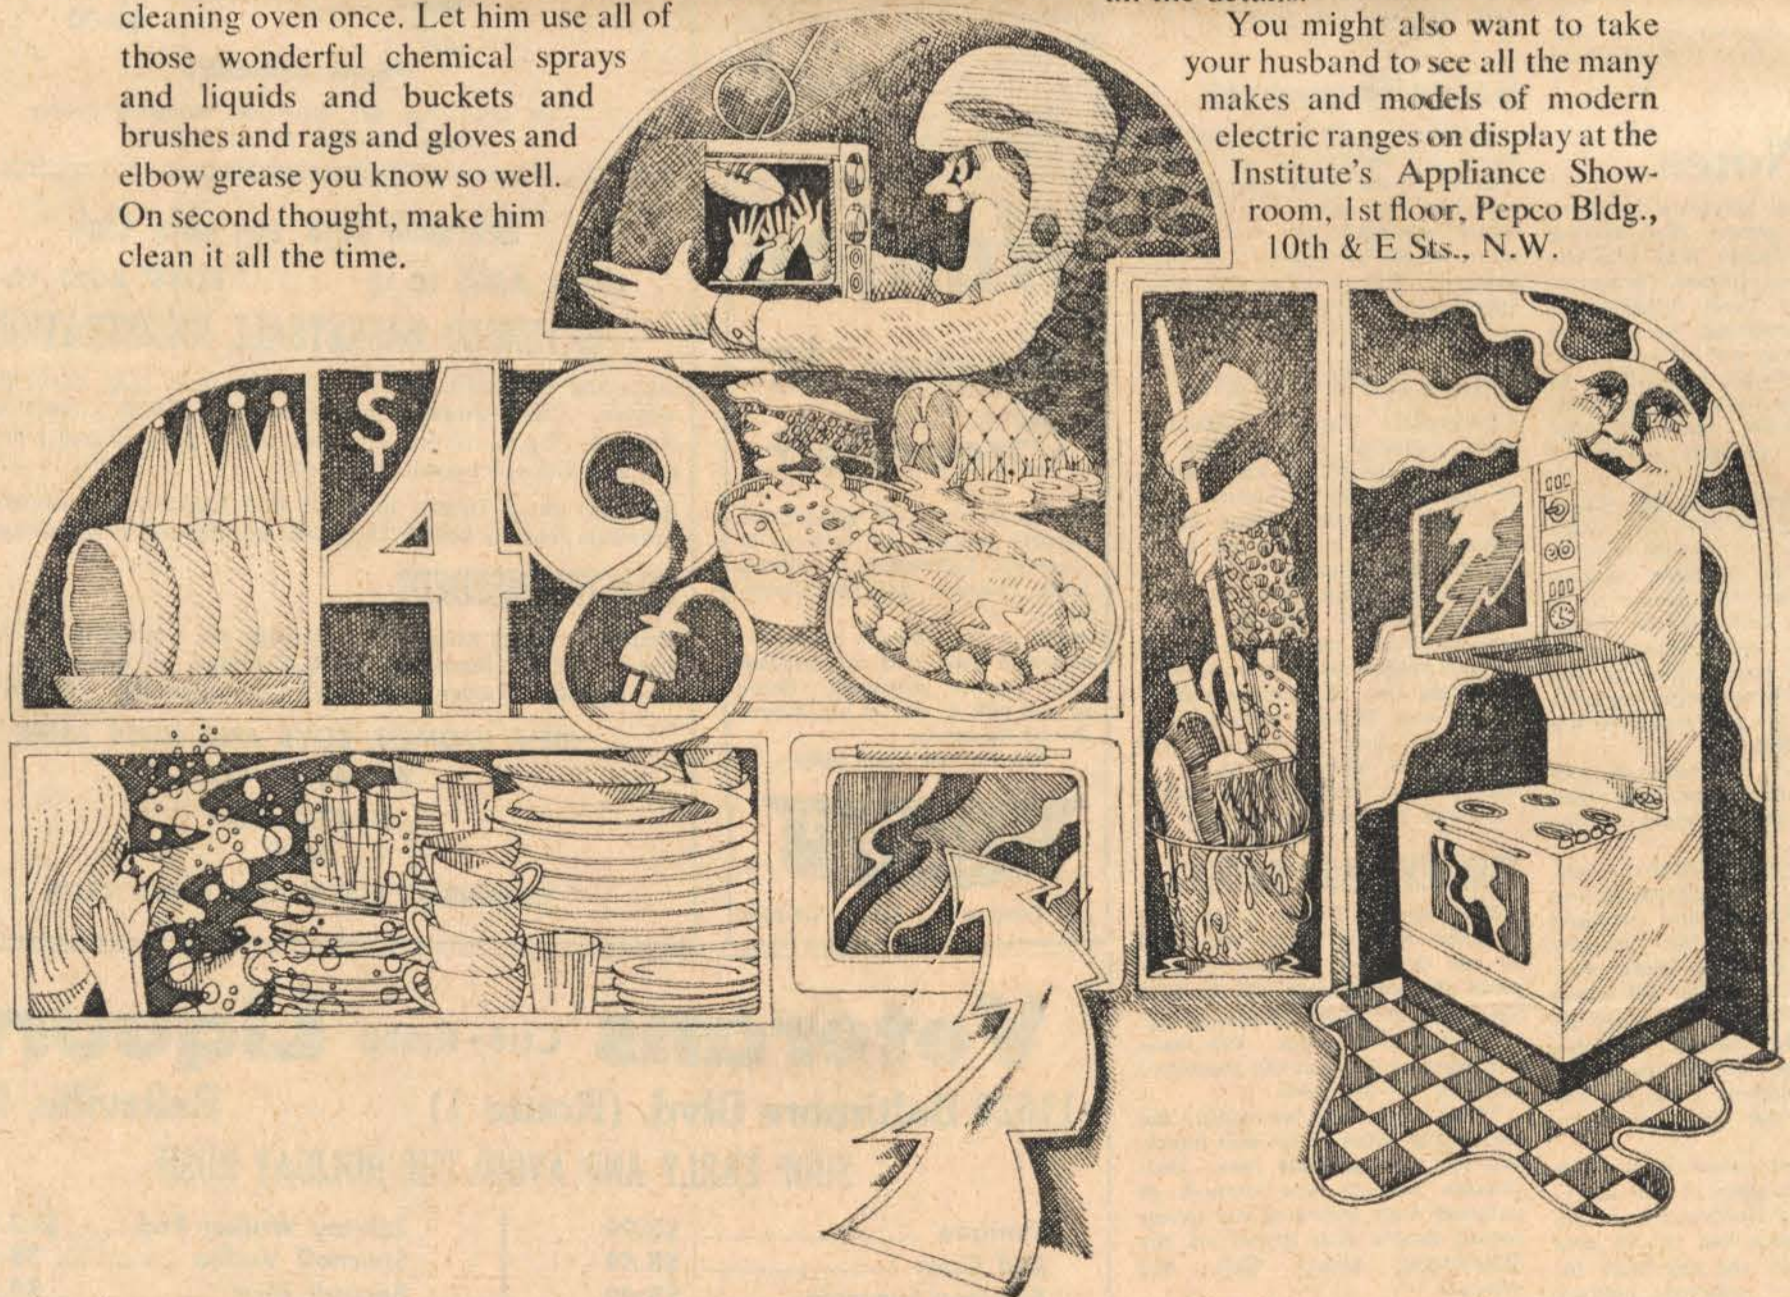

Make your husband clean your old unself-cleaning oven once. Let him use all of those wonderful chemical sprays and liquids and buckets and brushes and rags and gloves and elbow grease you know so well. On second thought, make him clean it all the time.

Perhaps you could drag him away from the play-by-play for a few minutes with the following facts about electronic ovens: They cook a complete TV dinner in about 4 minutes, a five pound rib roast in a half hour, and heat soup in 70 seconds.

If none of the above works tell him about the $40 wiring allowance being offered by the Electric Institute on the purchase of an electric range with a self-cleaning oven . . . when new wiring is needed.

See an Electric Institute member dealer for all the details.

You might also want to take your husband to see all the many makes and models of modern electric ranges on display at the Institute's Appliance Showroom, 1st floor, Pepco Bldg., 10th & E Sts., N.W.
