GHI Budget Calls For 12.1% Raise In Monthly Charges

by Al Skolnik

About 50 Greenbelt Homes, Inc. members turned out for the first of two public hearings on the 1974 budget on Tuesday, November 6. This first hearing was devoted mainly to discussing sources of income for the corporation and that part of the budget that involved more or less fixed costs.

Although fuel oil costs are uncertain, the proposed budget as of now calls for expenditures of $2,943,000 in 1974. Of this amount, $27,000 would come from reserves, and $241,000 from income other than monthly charges, leaving $2,675,000 to be raised through monthly charges.

The latter figure represents an increase of $289,000 from the current year's monthly charges of $2,386,000. In terms of individual homeowners, the average increase would be 12.1 percent, a little more for frame homeowners, a little less for brick homeowners.

If amortization payments are subtracted out, the increase in operating charges would be 14.6 percent (13.7% for brick, 15.4% for frame).

Sources of Income

Income other than from monthly charges is expected to be up some $26,000 in 1974. Higher interest rates on reserves are expected to yield $11,000 more. Charges to members for services not covered by the contract and charges to the GDC apartments for services rendered by the corporation are expected to be up by $6,000. This is due to increasing the fees charged for services (from $9 to $10 per hour, for example, to members).

Sales department fees are expected to be up $6,000, despite the current difficulties in getting financing for resales. GHI manager Roy Breashears explained that he was optimistic that conditions would soon change. He said that he expected Twin Pines will obtain State insurance coverage and be back in the business of making loans, as soon as it meets such requirements as liquidating its loans with Suburban Trust.

In addition, Breashears noted the efforts of director Joe Comproni in interesting other credit unions in the area in making loans to their members who wish to buy GHI homes. Arrangements have already been made for the credit union at the Agriculture Research Center to enter into a servicing agreement with GHI similar to the one already existing between GHI and the Greenbelt Credit Union.

Breashears added that he is also negotiating with a co-operative credit union in New York City which has expressed an interest in making loans on GHI units.

Allen D. Morrison Dies:

1941-1945 Mayor Here

Allen D. Morrison, 87-year-old former mayor and one of the original residents of Greenbelt, died on November 8 at the Greenbelt Convalescent Center after a stroke.

Mr. Morrison, who had lived at 58-H Crescent Rd. since moving to Greenbelt in 1937, was a member of the first Greenbelt city council. He served on council for six two-year terms and was the city's fifth mayor from 1941-1945.

In August 1971, the city council in recognition of Mr. Morrison's outstanding service to the community for over 34 years, named the senior citizens' lounge in the Youth Center's new wing "The Allen D. Morrison Lounge." All furnishings for the lounge were bought by the Golden Age Club, using funds raised primarily during the years that Morrison was its president (1964-66, 1967-68).

Mr. Morrison was a veteran of World War I, and founded the Greenbelt chapter of the American Legion. He also served on the board of directors of Greenbelt Homes Inc. and Greenbelt Consumer Services and other organizations in Greenbelt. He was a Prince Georges County Committing Magistrate from 1959 to 1962.

A native of Milan, Mo., and a graduate of Chillicothe (Mo.) Business College, he was an employee of the Veterans Administration from 1934 to 1956, and a charter member of the Greenbelt Community Church.

Mr. Morrison is survived by his wife, Alta L., of the home; a daughter, Shirley L. Clute, of Greenbelt; three sons, David A. of Davidson, Md., Donald G. and William B. of Greenbelt, and nine grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen D. Morrison, shown with their three young children in September, 1937, just before they moved into Greenbelt early in October. They were one of the first 23 families.

Greenbriar Public Hearing Wednesday, Developers Ask Permit Validation

by Elaine Skolnik

On Wednesday, November 21, the Water Resources Administration (WRA) of the State of Maryland will conduct a public hearing on the application for a State permit to discharge effluent from the Greenbriar temporary sewage treatment plant into an unnamed tributary of Beaverdam Creek. The meeting time will be 9:30 a.m. in the Greenbelt city council meeting room.

WRA is proposing to issue a State permit to the applicant, subject to certain effluent limitations and special conditions. Actually, the official applicant is the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission which will be operating the treatment plant. (The cost of building and operating the plant will be borne by Greenbriar Associates, builders of the 1,193-unit Greenbriar apartments.)

According to WRA officials, a public hearing is now required under the new State regulations adopted as of May 1973. Prior to that date, WRA did not have to issue permits for public treatment plants. In the case of Greenbriar, they had previously recommended to the State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (SDHMH) approval of the permit. SDHMH must also issue a construction permit before construction of the plant is permitted. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is also involved as a result of new Federal regulations.

The issue to be considered at the hearing is whether or not water quality or related environmental factors require effluent limitations or additional requirements other than those proposed.

WRA suggests, for the accuracy of the record, all important testimony be submitted in writing.

In a related matter, it appears that the Greenbriar developers will go the route of requesting the County Council, sitting as District Council, to validate their building permits, which the Prince Georges County Department of Licenses and Permits (DLP) said were issued in error. A stop-work order was issued by DLP last week on one of three parcels making up the Greenbriar apartment complex.

The basis for county revocation of the building permit is that the site plan accompanying the approved special exception (1971) for the Greenbriar apartments did not show the on-site sewage treatment plant. The later inclusion of the plant reduced the amount of green space to less than 70 percent - a requirement of the code. To make up for the loss of green space the developer eliminated one apartment building, and the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission last March recommended approval of the building permit. At that time all the involved agencies as well as the county executive signed off on the permit and DLP issued the building permits for the apartments and recreation building at Greenbriar on March 22, 1973.

Greenbriar Associates is now in the process of filing a petition for the validation of the permits. The regulations state that it must be shown that no misrepresentation had been practiced in obtaining the permits, that no permit was issued while an appeal was pending, that the developer has acted in good faith, such as expending funds and incurring obligations as a result of the permit, and that validation will not be contrary to the public interest.

George A. Brugger, attorney representing Greenbriar, said that it is the developer's position that the proper site plan modifications were made when the District Council approved the plan, added it to the 10-year Sewer and Water Plan, and specifically designated it as an on-site installation to serve the development.

He further contended that the actions of MNCPPC in approving a building permit for the temporary plant after the developer agreed to delete temporarily the construction of one building constituted implicit and adequate site plan approval.

DLP will review the matter as required by the code and will then turn its findings over to the county for appropriate action, followed by a hearing before the District Council.

A large triangular scale model of the Greenbriar apartment development is on display at the Greenbelt Library, according to the owner.

News Review Deadline

Next week's issue of the News Review will be published on Wednesday, because of the Thanksgiving holiday. The deadline for submission of articles and advertising will be Monday night, instead of the usual Tuesday.

DIABETES CLINIC

Diabetes screening will be held at Beltway Plaza on Friday, Nov. 16, 5-9 p.m.; and Saturday, Nov. 17, from 1-5 p.m. The test, which is provided free, consists of taking a drop of blood from a finger and placing it on a test strip. A simple color change indicates the amount of sugar present in the blood. Those with positive reactions can receive additional testing from the health department free of charge.

Book Discussion Program

The Teachings of Don Juan by Carlos Castaneda will be the subject of a book discussion program to be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. on Nov. 20 in the Library Conference Room. Please register in advance. All are welcome.

For more information contact the Adult Services Department at 345-5800.

GHI Budget Commentary

To the Editor:

A Budget, as defined by one humorist, is a "mathematical confirmation of one's suspicions". . . May I submit the proposed 1974 GHI budget as a perfect example.

An increase, however, of approximately 14% for us frame home owners and 10% for the brick home owners is no joke! For instance, for those, who bought here in 1966, like myself, this would represent an increase of nearly 90%. Remember, too, that we are supposed to be living some 20% cheaper because of mass purchasing, discounts and sharing of costs!

What do we have to show for the huge capital improvements loan on which we are paying every month and will be for a total of ten years not to mention the record high monthly maintenance charges. In spite of the warning of Cresap, McCormick and Paget in its management study for GHI to put its financial house in order, practically nothing has been done to establish guidelines for working capital, or to create new and fair formulas for the allocation of costs on water, to name just one. What has been done about cost and inventory controls in the maintenance department? Read Mr. Oehmann's latest.

The Breashears-Board Budget is loaded with "fat" in the way of overprojection of costs, the creation of six new positions, which include two groundsmen, plus a 5% cost of living salary increase to all employees including top management.

Many members have come to the conclusion that no increase is warranted at all except for oil and not for the amount projected. Last winter was mild. I understand we overpaid. Where did the extra money go and how much in excess was collected anyway? I would venture a guess that enough has been collected in dimes and quarters since 1966 to repay a good-sized loan or the interest. Remember nearly $5,000 was collected in 1972 in assessments of a quarter. That matter is still pending in the Circuit Court.

Take a good hard look at the pay raise being contemplated by the Board. Some are suggesting a reduction in the percentage or limiting it to rank and file employees only. Personally, I would make an exception in the case of our new director of maintenance. A Georgia Tech graduate and mechanical engineer, he was, fortunately, for our sakes recruited by Mr. Comproni. Too bad he wasn't hired ten years ago!

Hope you will attend the Board Meeting tonight at Hamilton Place!

People of all faiths are invited to attend. An offering will be made for the relief of drought victims in Eastern Africa.

Greenbelt CARES Holds Open House

Greenbelt CARES, the youth counselling service which provides professionally-trained counsellor teams to assist parents seeking help in dealing with their children, youngsters with problems at school, and couples who want to improve their marriages, is asking residents to come to their Open House on Sunday, November 18, 4-7 p.m., just above the Greenbelt Theatre. On display will be various aspects of the Youth Services Bureau, a recently inaugurated job-training program aimed at the reduction and prevention of delinquency.

Greenbelt youth are being trained to provide many services to the community. Among the timely services being offered during this holiday season is a gift wrapping service. Gifts, for any occasion, will be wrapped by specially-trained youths. One need only take the gift to the Greenbelt CARES office Mondays, 8 a.m. - 4 p.m.; Fridays, 4-9 p.m.; and Saturdays 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. All profits will be shared by the youths.

For a small fee, other young people will assemble any item, such as a bicycle, for those less mechanically inclined.

Other business enterprises are the selling of UNICEF Christmas cards and such services as baby sitting, yard work, painting, etc.

Residents wishing to view some of these activities should mark Sunday, Nov. 18, 4-7 p.m., down on their calendar. In aiding the youth involved in the Youth Services Bureau, citizens will help in providing effective out-of-court services for young people who have problems at home, in school, and in the community.

Paul L. Howell

Mr. Paul L. Howell, 11-A Parkway #101, passed away on November 8, 1973, leaving his wife, Marion, and two daughters, Peggy and Paula, and his son, Paul. Mr. Howell was a maintenance man for three and half years for Greenbelt Plaza Apartments.

Thurston-Johnson

Mr. & Mrs. Henry Thurston of 16 N Ridge Rd., wish to announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Martha A. Thurston, to Gary Johnson of Norfolk, Virginia. The wedding will take place on Saturday, November 17 at the Methodist Church in Greenbelt.

APPOINTMENTS TO CITIZENS ADVISORY COMMITTEES FOR POLICY COMMITTEES OF THE METROPOLITAN-WASHINGTON COUNCIL OF GOVERNMENTS

The COG Board of Director's adopted a proposal to establish citizens advisory committees for each of COG's Policy Committees to improve citizens involvement in the metropolitan planning process. Such advisory committees will assist their respective Policy Committees; Health and Environmental Protection, Human Resources, Land Use, Public Safety, and the Transportation Planning Board.

Each local government member of COG is invited to select one citizen to be a member of each citizen advisory committee, with each appointee to serve two year terms, with reappointment possible.

Nominations are being solicited, and the Greenbelt City Council is seeking resumes from interested citizens in order to place their names in nomination. Interested citizens are urged to call the City Offices, 474-8003, for further information.
