fire erupted. Many lost lunchdery project.

Jaycees president Pat Cramblatt indicated that the club hopes to restore the building and will appeal to the city for a five year lease if the site is not chosen for development. According to the city, structural damage is minimal. Cramblatt also spoke of the organization's intentions to participate in the Bicentennial. On the drawing boards are (1) renovation of the first level of the clubhouse, which now consists of one large room and an inoperable bathroom, (2) painting of the interior and exterior of the building, and (3) beautification of the grounds. A separate building fund has been earmarked for the project, which will utilize the labors of the members.

The entire Festival is put on through the volunteer efforts of local citizens, who meet throughout the year to carry on a tradition which began 21 years ago as a fund raising event for the Youth Center.

There will be special events scheduled for the stage area. The Ragley Rinah Israeli Dancers will perform a unique blend of Arabic and Russian dancing. The group, under the sponsorship of the University of Maryland B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation, has performed widely in the Washington metropolitan area, as well as in the regional dance festivals. Most recently, the troupe won acclaim for its performance at the American Revolution Bicentennial Ethnic Folklore Festival.

Another group will be performing folkrock music. Guitarists Tom Smith and Steve Hanger will be joined by a drummer to present one hour of old-fashioned country and bluegrass music.

Boys from St. Hugh's School will present an 18 minute program entitled "America's Story Retold." Accompanied by music and sound effects, the boys recite famous quotations from some of our great American statesmen and re-live events that fill the pages of our nation's history.

"Dragon's Dilemma," an original puppet show, will be presented by Greenbelt puppeteers, Gary and Jean Smith. Everyone young at heart is invited to attend.

Special Contests

Chairperson Olga Penney is busily preparing for special contests to be held on the grassy area behind the Center Mall Statue. All contests will be held Labor Day 3-6:30 p.m. with registration taking place fifteen minutes before each event. There will be seven different events, ranging from the diaper derby for infants to the three-legged race for adults.

Parade

The Labor Day Parade will begin at 10 a.m. on Monday, September 1. This year's event will feature floats, clowns, antique cars, color guards, majorettes, drill teams, bands, drummers, animals, and individual entries. Trophies will be given to the best entrants in each of these categories, and several general awards will be presented. The Greenbelt Bicentennial Committee will present a trophy for the float best exhibiting the Bicentennial theme.

Parade entries to date include the Charlestowne Craziest, the Gino Genie, Miss Zip, the prizewinning float of the Pathfinders from the Sligo Seventh Day Adventist Church and state, county and local legislative officials. There is still room for more entrants in several categories, particularly marching bands and musical units. For more information, contact Parade Chairperson Wayne Williams at 474-1259.
