HOW BIG A POLICE FORCE? -- THE $30,000 QUESTION

by Al Skolnik

The big issue before city council on the police department budget is: How much are citizens willing to have their tax rate increased to expand the police force? The current (fiscal year 1976) budget calls for a uniformed police force of 18 persons, with 2 additional officers funded by Federal manpower programs. It is not expected that this Federal funding will carry over into next year.

To maintain the departmental strength at 20, the fiscal year 1977 budget will have to absorb the cost of the two police officers, at about $15,000 per officer. This $30,000 is equivalent to just under 4 cents on the tax rate. The budget submitted by city manager James K. Giese, which in total requires a 13c increase over the present property tax rate of $1.00 per $100 assessed valuation, calls for adding the two policemen.

Two or Four Officers?

Police chief William Lane, in submitting his budget request to the city manager, recommended 4 additional police officers instead of two. The Greenbelt Lodge of the Fraternal Police Officers recommended to the council the addition of 8 officers, for a total department strength of 26.

Lane gave his reasons for an expanded department to city council at its workshop meeting on Wednesday, April 21. He cited the additional responsibilities the department will bear in light of the new Greenbriar condominiums and the opening of the Eleanor Roosevelt senior high school. He said that it takes 6 months to properly train a new officer so one must prepare ahead of time.

Council Thinking

Council thinking had not yet jelled on the subject. Mayor Gil Weidenfeld observed that the police department had not been at full strength throughout the year, and yet was able to do a satisfactory job. He wondered therefore whether there was a need to expand the police department all at once and suggested the alternative of building up its strength in stages, thus lightening the taxpayer's load.

Councilman Richard Castaldi's thinking took a different vein. He thought there was a need for expanding the police force beyond the 20. His feeling was that the police were engaged in one activity that citizens were quite willing to pay for, since it was a service that everyone could see.

Councilmen Tom White and Charles Schwan felt the decision on the size of the police force should be considered on its merits rather than in terms of the tax rate and that, in any event, one should look at the entire budget first.

Few Changes

Outside of the salaries, the police budget had few changes. New equipment items asked for are a fingerprint camera and a fingerprint comparator. The camera is used to photograph fingerprints found on objects at a crime scene. The comparator is able to match up a print from one source with a print from another source in order to readily determine if the prints are one and the same.

As usual, the budget calls for replacement of two squad cars. The budget also calls for the creation of a juvenile officer position at the level of corporal. The position would be filled by a current officer and is not another additional position. This officer would have regular patrol responsibilities, but would specialize in handling and processing juvenile complaints.

It would be expected that a portion of the juvenile offenders processed by the department could be handled by the juvenile officer rather than being formally referred to the juvenile justice system. Further, the juvenile officer would be expected to better establish working relationships among the Department of Juvenile Services, Greenbelt CARES, and other agencies dealing with youth.

Fire Department

Also considered by the council at its workshop was a request of the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department for modernization and extension of fire alarm system for all city buildings, including municipal building, to connect to fire board. The cost for hardware is $3,000, plus $500 for lease phone line. The new system will permit other civic buildings, churches, etc. to tie in, thus giving instantaneous coverage for fire alerts. The budget had set aside $2,000 for this project.

Deadline Approaches For GHI Candidates

Only six candidates have announced so far for the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. board of directors as the Monday, May 3, deadline approaches for filing of candidate's consent forms with the Nominations and Elections Committee. Thereafter, any GHI member wishing to get his name on the ballot must submit a petition signed by at least 10 GHI members to the GHI office by 5 p.m. Thursday, May 6.

At stake in the election, which will be held in conjunction with the annual membership meeting on Thursday and Friday, May 13 and 14, are five openings on the 9-member board and all seats on the 3-member audit committee. So far just three persons have announced for the audit committee.

The latest candidate to announce for the board is Ted Byerly, 6-J Ridge, who served from 1973 to 1975. He joins the four incumbents — Jim Smith, Norman Weyel, James Foster, and Virginia Moryadas — and newcomer Henry Fisher.

The latest candidates to announce for the audit committee are Bobbi McCarthy, 19-U Ridge, and Margaret Hogensen, 53-F Ridge. They join incumbent Arthur Gropp on the ballot.

In order for biographies of candidates to appear in the News Review issue of May 6, they must be submitted to the Nominations committee no later than 8 p.m. Monday, May 3. They should be typed, limited to 200 words, and confined to the background, education, training, and experience of the candidate.

Candidate's consent forms can be obtained from Nominations committee members Josephine Seay, Mary Jane Kinzer, Katherine Keene, Wayne Williams, and Martin Haber, Jr.

Official proxy forms are available from the GHI office for any member not able to vote in person. Proxies must be requested in writing, must bear the corporate seal and may be obtained at the corporation office where the request is entered in a proxy register.

No member may vote more than one proxy. The official proxy forms must be turned in to the GHI secretary Steve Polaschik, 12-D Ridge or the GHI office by Saturday, May 8.

How Much Is CARES Worth? The $26,850 Question

by Sandra Barnes

Greenbelt CARES counseling service and youth service bureau—where does it stand now following three years of funding by the Governor's Commission on Law Enforcement and the Administration of Justice (LEAA) and the city of Greenbelt?

LEAA funds were available to CARES for only three years, after which the city must decide whether it wants to continue or abandon the program — and if it is to continue the program, will there be any changes?

Councilman Charles Schwan indicated that most of the five city councilmen feel committed to Greenbelt CARES — that in its three years CARES has benefitted the community by being the catalyst through which troubled families may come to work on their problems together.

City Must Ante More

As the Federal funding ends, however, the city council is faced with deciding how much money it can or wants to put into CARES. The Maryland Department of Juvenile Services (DJS) has agreed to continue the funding of the youth service bureau on a 75% to 25% matching basis as compared to the 93 1/2% to 6 1/2% basis of the Governor's Commission.

Last year CARES had a $60,950 budget and the city's share was $6,000. This year CARES has submitted a $65,500 budget, and the city's share will be $12,900. In addition, some aspects of the program previously funded will not be funded by DJS (such as the $10,000 paid to the Technical Director, Dr. Leo Walder) and the city will have to absorb these costs for a total city contribution of $26,850. Since this represents a sizable jump from the $6,000 of last year, the city is undertaking an evaluation of Greenbelt CARES with a public hearing to be scheduled during the latter part of May.

Evaluation

Over the past three years, CARES itself has been involved in an evaluation process and recently submitted to the city a report on its counseling services for the period of March 1973 to June 1975. The report was prepared by Drs. Molly Schuchat and Leo Walder using the data collected from outside evaluators. The following are some highlights contained in the report.

First it was noted that CARES served Greenbelt citizens, primarily youngsters ages 10 through 17, especially those from single parent families. "The largest number of problems dealt with have been in the area of family relationships, followed . . . by personal, school and legal problems."

The evaluation was conducted on the basis of determining the type of problem, the treatment process and the outcome of the treatment. "The general rate of success is 88% as measured in approximately 100 follow-ups . . . For . . . those youngsters referred by DJS there is a 42% recidivism rate (11 out of 26) with less recidivism for 2-parent families and for those who receive more counseling. Both the 58% and the 88% rates of success are better than most therapeutic and prevention programs."

Originally CARES was charged with improving the behavior of children, particularly those who came in contact with the law. Through the process of behavior modification, CARES seeks to deal with all children and their families in respect to family interaction. The family unit comes to CARES and negotiates a contingency contract based on the behavior to be changed; fulfillment of this contract determines the rate of success in problem-solving.

Although DJS is concerned with diverting youth who have been involved in crimes, it is CARES' hope that "we can be effective enough in prevention to block the development of diversion as a major need in Greenbelt."

62% Success Rate

An independent rater rated the 117 follow-up interviews and determined that 62% of the clients were successfully counseled; 27% were not affected sufficiently . . . by the counseling; and 11% were not helped by CARES: "We cannot answer the biggest evaluation question, which is what would have happened without any intervention."

Fifteen counselors and psychologists work for CARES on a volunteer basis. All of the staff counselors go through a training program, are monitored and receive continuous inservice training. Weekly case conferences follow counseling.

According to the 1970 census, Greenbelt has 11% single parent families, 7% headed by women. "At the Youth Services Bureau, 26% of the counseling client units have had one adult, a woman, in the household, responsible for one or more children . . . Half of those counseled have two parents, but twice as many mothers as fathers have come (to counseling) . . . We see more first born sons than daughters and more second born sons than daughters . . ." 68% of our client units live in Greenbelt; 41.7% are under 18 years old; 55% are over 22.

Of the 26 referrals from DJS over a 3-18 month period following treatment, 15 had no further juvenile arrests, 6 had one, and 5 had more than one. This represents a 42% recidivism rate as compared Emler. Greenbriar charges that Emler has made unreasonable demands in enforcing the city code with respect to the construction of streets and related work at the condominium development.

Marburger is presently reviewing the city's correspondence relating to inspections at Greenbriar. Retired, he served the county 22 years during which time he was responsible for the inspection of construction work for all county roads. Marburger performs limited consulting work for public agencies and is chairman of a committee responsible for the review and employment of all engineers and architects employed by the state of Maryland.

Still Favors Referendum

To the Editor:

It's passing strange that no matter how old one is, one continues to learn. After to these many moons I have learned the definition of FAIR SHARE, the program under which the Greenbelt public housing project is proposed. To enlighten others who may be as uninformed as myself, here it is:

(Local governments have agreed to look at public housing on a metropolitan-wide scale and in Jan. '72 adopted a so-called FAIR SHARE program under which the suburban jurisdictions agreed to accept their Fair Share of the area's public housing). All this time I thought it meant a return of a portion of the taxes paid by residents of a specific locality. DUMB Dumb dumb.

That information came from a front page article in the Washington Star, reporting the Supreme Court decision of 20 April '76, which requires the Federal government (HUD) to use its housing aid programs to give low income blacks in the cities a chance to obtain housing in the suburbs. The article mentioned the 100 units for Greenbelt, 35 in College Park and 16 in Bowie, among others.

Now my opposition to our public housing project has been based in part on the conviction that there were not enough residents in Greenbelt living in poverty or suffering from any housing shortage to justify an additional 100 rental units. We already have 6000. However, on a metropolitan-wide basis, there certainly is a need. I withdraw my objection on that score.

I still object to the use of our parkland for construction of a high-rise apartment complex, a monthly rent of $300 - $355, and the fact that the city will be financially responsible if it proves not to be self sustaining. Those last two facts were made very clear at the 12 April meeting. That means thee and me, fellow. Not just us, but our children and grandchildren, if they are stupid enough to stay in this town. I don't have a crystal ball, but never observed one on the podium in the council room either. Forty years is a hell of a long time to predict what will or will not happen.

These are the reasons a referendum is necessary. If the citizens approve the charter amendment and have to pay for it later, so be it. They can blame no one except themselves. It seems our members of council made some rather rash statements about it couldn't cost the resident taxpayers a cent, residents would have first priority, all the goodies they would have at no extra cost.

Let's face it, the incumbent council has a tiger by the tail, if they turn it loose, the tiger will devour them. I don't know whether to laugh or cry.

Fine Neighbors

To the Editor:

On Thursday, April 22, after work my wife and I were met by our neighbor, Dr. Cockburn, who informed us that our ten year old daughter, Anita, had smashed her finger and had been taken to the hospital by one of our other neighbors, Mr. Steadman.

After 15 years of living in this community, it never ceases to amaze me as to what a fine community we have here, and how friendly and cooperative people are.

As a believer in reincarnation, I think that all citizens of Greenbelt must have done a lot of good things in their past lives to live here. It is truly a privilege to be a Greenbelter, and we must all be proud of this.

THANKS

To the Editor:

On Sunday, April 25, our son, Robert, had an accident behind Beltway Plaza. Fortunately, his injuries were not serious.

Our most heartfelt gratitude to the gentleman jogger who gave him his shirt to stop the bleeding and to the lady in the Mustang who drove him home. We would like to thank these kind people personally, but we don't know who they are. It's nice to know that Springhill Lake has such good neighbors.

Springhill Lake is a large community of approximately 4,000 apartments, with a population approaching 10,000 residents. At this time, however, there are no religious centers located in the community. (It is not unusual for a community of 10,000 elsewhere in the country to support 10 to 20 churches and synagogues.)

The chapel services are sponsored by Holy Cross Lutheran Church. Its pastor, the Rev. E. H. Birner, will be serving as the chaplain.

Family Week at Mowatt

Mowatt UMC will celebrate National Family Week, May 2-9. In order to coordinate city assistance of trucks and equipment, groups wishing to participate are requested to notify the City Office at 474-8000.

AMBULANCE CLUB DRIVE ENDS MAY 1

The Greenbelt Vol. F.D. & R.S. Annual Ambulance Club Drive for 1976 ends May 1. Many faithful citizens have given their support to the community ambulance service. However, there are still many citizens who have not as yet contributed.

For those citizens who haven't contributed, we would like to emphasize that as of May 1 it will be necessary to charge for ambulance services rendered -

$15.00 for emergency calls to any hospital

$ 1.00 per mile round trip for non-emergencies

We wish to again thank all citizens who have contributed and urge everyone who has not yet done so to mail a check to or drop by the Fire House. Someone will be glad to help you.

Can you tell the difference?

There isn't any. And that's the point. Joining the Payroll Savings Plan is so easy and painless, you'll hardly notice you're saving.

All you do is sign up at work. Then an amount you specify is automatically set aside from your paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

And while you're spending your take-home pay, you're still building a solid nest egg.

Maybe you won't look any different. Or feel any different.

But you'll be a lot richer.

Now U.S. Bonds pay 8% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (6% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

to 51% for the county as a whole. General concerns of the youth counseled by CARES seemed to be akin to those of all teenagers. They wanted to "get out more and to have their parents trust them. They wanted less nagging and more money and the right to stay out without a reason every single time. They also wanted less supervision of their activities and sought a 'dream' school with a study lounge, stereo, smoking permitted, to be able to sit anywhere in the cafeteria and to be allowed to eat in class, among other things."

Juvenile Delinquency

"Juvenile crime is most dense around major shopping malls and near schools, particularly senior high schools . . . and we should be prepared for an increase in burglaries when Eleanor Roosevelt High School opens.

"Springhill Lake juvenile arrests have trended upward consistently, although it continues to produce a much lower share of arrests than do Old Greenbelt or non-residents." This may be accounted for by the fact that only 22.5% of those between 10 and 17 years old live in SHL although it accounts for 44.5% of the city's population.

"A factor leading to a decrease in non-resident juvenile arrests is the closing down of S. Klein's department store. . . but Drunkenness, disorderly conduct and liquor violation have all increased . . . while narcotics violations continue to represent about 10% of local juvenile arrests.

"The Greenbelt police are far more likely to forward petitions on non-residents than residents . . . vandalism arrests vary in Greenbelt over time . . . From discussions with the police we gathered that . . . the police are disturbed by persons who talk to themselves, who talk to others when not engaged in "conversation" with friends, with youth who sit on grassy areas, particularly hillsides." For many teenagers, structured activities (such as those held at the Youth Center) do not substitute for accessible areas where they may meet and talk to their friends. Such an area, the Center Mall, is convenient with its benches, phones, and covered areas.

"Most policemen live in the city of Greenbelt and feel quite comfortable with their neighbors' children." This may account for the low level of delinquency in Greenbelt compared to the county as a whole.

"The most distinctive adolescent felony is auto theft, which peaks at age 16. Sixteen has been the peak age for burglary, as well."

Studies have indicated that the major "correlations to serious delinquency are maladjustment in school, lack of attachment to parents, inexperience in formal or open groups, and economic deprivation in slums." All except the latter apply to most clients counseled by CARES.

Recidivism

"Our recidivism data has no discernable patterns; there are too many variations over too few cases. It may be that two-parent families where both parents, as well as the teenagers, come to counseling, produce fewer recidivists. But age at arrest and charges for which referred may be equally important, as well as the number of counseling sessions and their duration over time. It is also possible that seasonal differences may have an effect . . . What happens in the vacation time, as well as the quality and kind of school experience may be important . . . The real test of outcome is, of course, behavior in adult life. What are needed to measure recidivism are long term follow-up studies, not only of adolescents . . . but on into adulthood."

Thus, although Greenbelt youth — and those counseled by CARES in particular—have a lower recidivism rate than the county generally very little data on recidivism is available over a long term.

As CARES goes into its fourth year of operation, it is up to the citizens and the city council to express the direction they wish CARES to follow. Not shown in the evaluation are numerous intangibles such as how many families have been prevented from breaking up. One cannot accurately measure all of the benefits the community derives from Greenbelt CARES.
