Council Deals with Things on Local Scene, Includes the Young, the Old, the In-between

by Elaine Skolnik

Although the city council and city staff had been conducting an in-depth analysis of the Fiscal Year 1978-79 budget, there was no suspension of other city business. At the May 15 meeting council heard requests from several citizens relating to the overpass, Springhill Lake bus service (story ran 6/1) and a name for the elderly housing development. They also discussed and took action on several matters, including the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG), and sidewalk waiver for the Golden Triangle.

Overpass

Richard Ley read into the record his letter that appeared in the May 11 News Review in which he stated that (1) Greenbriar citizens were preparing to go to court to contest the condemnation of land in Phase I (median strip in the parking lot of 7716 and 7718 Hanover Parkway) for use as a pathway for the Gardenway overpass site and (2) that the Mandan Road location was a viable alternative. Ley thought that if safety was a paramount factor, council would want to avoid the lengthy process of condemnation. He asked council to reconsider its decision. (Only those who voted for the Gardenway location - Mayor Pro Tem Gil Weidenfeld and councilmen Charles Schwan and Thomas White could move for reconsideration.)

White said: "It would have been easier to vote for the Mandan location . . . When I voted for Gardenway, I knew there would be a delay factor . . . In spite of that consideration, I thought the Gardenway site was the optimum location."

Schwan stated, "I am not prepared this evening to reconsider. If there is new evidence at some point, I would not want to suggest that reconsideration is out of the question."

Research Road

Council authorized the city manager to proceed with Research

Road improvements. The city has received a grant of $100,000 for this purpose under CDBG's third year, 1977-78 funding. First priority will be given to Research Road between Ridge and Hillside where (1) an 18" storm drain will be extended to eliminate a deep swale, (2) the street will be regraded to eliminate the high crown and swale and widened with curb and gutters (eliminating four perpendicular parking spaces), and (3) the sidewalk on the east side would be reconstructed.

Any remaining funds would be used for improvements to Research north of GHI, Research Road at the northern limits of GHI to Ridge, and to Hillside Road in the vicinity of Research.

Fourth year funding, 1978/79, provides for a $15,000 grant for a pathway from the elderly housing site through the GHI courts to the Center. The city will also apply for a safety grant for a traffic light.

Fireworks

Council took no action on the Park and Recreation Advisory Board's recommendation that the city council urge other local governments and the Maryland Municipal League to hold Fourth of July fireworks celebrations in an effort to reduce the impact of crowds on Greenbelt Lake. The city staff reported there are nine displays scheduled in the Maryland suburban area and one at the Washington Monument.

White thought these displays would not reduce the crowd at the Lake Park because the major attraction was the lake. He said, "I can't think of a more festive holiday . . . We'll have to take a little grief for that day . . . It's worth it."

Council lamented the fact that rising costs have resulted in the purchase of fewer fireworks. Jack Steiffer predicted that in two or three years, fireworks will be replaced by electronic shows.

Elderly Housing

Jose Morales, chairman of the Advisory Committee on the Housing for the Elderly, thought a name for the housing for the elderly development should be chosen "before opening ceremonies." He said he recognized that council has a heavy work schedule at this time, but hoped it would consider selecting a name soon. Schwan assured him that council has "every intention as soon as possible to take up the matter, probably at a work-session first."

The city does not expect to accept applications for residence until the fall, at the earliest. However, information may be obtained by calling the city offices, 474-8000, or by writing.

Sidewalk Waiver

Council approved a waiver of the requirement for a sidewalk on the south side of Capital Drive in the Golden Triangle tract. The south side of Capital Drive is adjacent to a small lot (#9) which is completely surrounded by roads and will be used for the sole purpose of serving as a storm water retention basin.

A sidewalk is proposed for the north side of Capital Drive, along which there will be commercial facilities. A sidewalk is also proposed along the north side of Greenbelt Road and one for Walker Drive, the main entrance into the Triangle adjacent to lot 9.

White was concerned about a recommendation by a Council of Governments (COG) ad hoc committee to change the method of appointing citizens to its advisory committees. The present policy is for each jurisdiction to recommend citizens to serve on the various boards. The proposed revision would provide that groups and organizations would be appointed by either the COG policy committee or by some other method. Council went on record to communicate to the COG Board of Directors its concern and opposition to any change in the present policy.

Larry Noel was reappointed to PRAB and will serve for another three years.

Greenbelt Participates In Clean-up, June 10

Greenbelt will participate with scores of organizations and thousands of Prince Georges county residents in the Third Annual County-wide Spring Clean-Up Campaign planned for Saturday, June 10.

The campaign is being sponsored by the Citizens Working for a New Quality Committee and the Citizens Concerned for a Cleaner County Committee, which have been working for several months to involve civic associations, service clubs, municipalities, scouting groups and local businessmen in the one-day clean-up effort. In the event of inclement weather, the clean-up will be held on the following Saturday, June 17.

Beginning Friday, June 9, citizens and groups participating in the clean-up may obtain large industrial trash bags at any of the county's 46 fire stations.

The New Quality Committee, the Department of Public Works and Transportation and several county service clubs will be providing the bags that are to be used in the clean-up effort.

Upon completion of the clean-up in Greenbelt residents should return the filled bags to the back of the fire station on June 10 only, where trucks from the private sector and municipal and county government will be stationed to take the trash and debris directly to the county landfill. Extra crewmen will be standing by in the city.

An "Anonymous" Smith Helps Make Our Town a Better Place to Live

by Stacy Tuthill

While the media reports sensational stories of juvenile crime and low school achievement, we sometimes forget the anonymous Smiths who go quietly about the business of making the world a better place to live. Paul C. Smith, a senior at Parkdale Senior High School, is one of those people who has chalked up impressive records of academic achievement, extracurricular activities, and service.

A member of the National Honor Society in both junior high and high school, Paul is in advanced placement classes in both English and history and has maintained an average of more than 3.6. At the recent Parkdale Awards Assembly, he was presented with the coveted Superintendent's Award for being the outstanding senior boy in all areas.

Far from being a bookworm, Paul's most outstanding characteristics are his versatile talents and his wide variety of interests. One of his favorite activities is participation in a touring puppet troupe; the members make the marionettes, write the scripts, and perform for local churches and organizations. In addition to this church related activity, he is a church pianist and sings in the choir.

He is treasurer of Parkdale's Concert Choir and was chosen for All County Chorus and All State Chorus. He is president of the Handbell Choir, has participated in Parkdale's play tournaments, and is a member of Parkdale's Broadcasting Club, which reports school news and makes announcements. Active in the Student Government Association (SGA), he was a member of Boy's State and a candidate for senator to Boy's Nation. He is listed in Who's Who in American High Schools.

Paul attributes some of his interests to his long-term involvement in SGA. Six years ago he was bused to Mary Bethune for junior high school. While there, he says he "got involved with SGA and some really special people." He took part in the drug awareness programs, participated in student leadership workshops, and was a member of the Discipline and Morals Commission. He considers his experience at Bethune a good one and says "he did a lot of growing up."

Sports are also a part of Paul's daily life. He has wrestled and played soccer and he also likes anything which has to do with wilderness survival. Whenever he can, he likes to go backpacking, mountain climbing, spelunking, skiing, and biking. Recently, he added photography and antiques to his interests, and he still finds time to work part-time as a "custodial engineer" for a local apartment building.

One of Paul's special attributes is his unpretentiousness. When Paul is not in class, he may be found running a computer print-out in the career lab for a teacher, helping the custodians mop water out of the halls where a truant student has set off a sprinkler, or helping other students with problems and homework as a peer counselor. In addition, as a member of Young Life, he has worked as a volunteer in summer camps for children and young people.

What does Paul expect to do with his life in the near future?

Right now he lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Smith of Greenhill Rd., but he says he eventually wants to work in outdoor education with mentally and physically handicapped children. He expects to spend four or five years in See PAUL SMITH, p. 5, col. 3

Student Must Return Materials by June 30

Prince Georges County school officials remind parents and students of a Board of Education policy requiring that all books and other materials issued to a student be returned in satisfactory condition (with allowance for normal wear and tear) or paid for before a student can be promoted or graduated.

Principals will retain the report cards of students who haven't complied with the policy, and notify them that they have not earned credits for the school year and have not been promoted. Students have until June 30 to either make the payments or make other satisfactory arrangements with the principal. Students who do not meet the deadline, might not be scheduled for the next higher grade until mid-September.

PRAB ELECTS OFFICERS

At its meeting on May 31, the Greenbelt Park and Recreation Advisory Board (PRAB) elected officers for the coming year. Reelected unanimously were Ron Ott chairperson, and Toni Bram, vice-chairperson.

Voting Machines
Vs. Ballot Boxes

To the Editor:

There's a kind of religion being promulgated in GHI, to the effect that voting by voting machine is good, holy, accurate, fool-proof, tamper-proof, etc., and voting by ballot-box is bad sinful, inaccurate, subject to error and to tampering. But what are the facts?

The mind of man (or woman) cannot devise a system for doing anything that the mind of man (or woman) can't find a way to subvert. Ballot boxes and voting machines can be, have been, tampered with.

Furthermore, the human being is a less perfect machine than are man-made machines. Phooey on Janet James' recent statement in a letter to the News Review that people tire while counting, and phooey to Jack Steiffer's retort in another News Review letter that machines don't tire. They were arguing opposite sides of the question as to whether it is permissible to use ballot boxes in GHI elections but they're both all wet on the fatigue factor. Machines do "tire" and quit working, sometimes.

I served on several GHI Nominations and Elections Committees years ago, and was chairman of some of them; and I certify to you that while the work was fatiguing, we did not miscount. We got the job done. And all we used were paper ballots. We had five committee members, and each one had an assistant, and we checked each others work and then doublechecked. Candidates and their supporters were present, watching. While it took hours to do, the counts were accurate. And when we were through, we had the ballots available for anyone to audit, if necessary.

Now, voting machines are something else. They are fast. Much faster than people. They don't fatigue the committee. But they do not leave what Montgomery County Administrator of Elections John Eisele calls an "audit trail." There's no way you can go back and check and find out what the voters intended, if there's any question about the totals.

Why did I ask Eisele about this? I remembered a CBS radio newscast I'd heard in 1975, about a very embarrassing thing that happened to the Montgomery County Supervisors of Elections. They held an election and then found that a number of the machines malfunctioned. They stopped at 99. That's what the newscaster had said. He interviewed one of the Supervisors, over the newscast, and that official had said the voting machine company finally had offered to let them use the machines again, rent-free, for a re-run election.

But on May 10, while I was preparing for the GHI meeting, I didn't trust my memory, so I called Eisele. He told me some machines had stopped at 99, some at 9, and some at other numbers. He said after that experience, they instituted a rigorous checking system on each machine, before each election, and never yet have they failed to find at least some levers that, because of

Registering Voters

To the Editor:

Monsignor O'Donnell was correct in last week's letter when he urged all citizens to register and vote.

The only way that Greenbelt's candidates can prevail is through the support of a unified and registered electorate.

I have been actively registering our new residents in Windsor Green and Greenbriar and will be attempting to register all that I can throughout Greenbelt.

Anyone who needs registration forms or information may call me at 474-5888 and I will be glad to respond.

Tony McCarthy

weakness or other factors, presented the possibility of malfunction.

As a result, he told me, the county is phasing out of voting machines and into the vote-data system, which he described as using cards you punch holes in to show your vote and then these are collected into sealed boxes, brought to a central place and run thru a computer to get the totals. The phasing process will take a few years and has started already.

Eisele told me I could say, if there are any Doubting Thomases in Greenbelt, they're welcome to visit his office, Montgomery County Supervisors of Elections, Rockville, and he'll show them two faulty counters he keeps in his office as samples. He mentioned that at $40 apiece, it's expensive to replace counters when you have as many machines as his organization has. And it's costly and tedious, also, to check out each machine before use. (I wonder, does GHI check out the machines we use and depend on, as rigorously?)

I'm not saying voting machines inherently are bad, sinful, inaccurate, dishonest. I'm saying that with good will any reasonably designed method of ascertaining the voters' wishes can be used, successfully. Ballot-box counting is cheaper and furnished us an annual social coming-together occasion, although of course sometimes you were sad at the outcome of the voting, as I was on several occasions when I had to pronounce the defeat of a candidate or a referendum question I favored, and on other occasions, happy. C'est democracy!

Mr. Kaplan was a former resident of Greenbelt. He moved into Greenbelt in 1953 when G.H.I. was first established. He was a photographer and a bus driver for the Department of Transportation of the Prince Georges County Public Schools. When he lived in Greenbelt he was active in G.H.I., Twin Pines Savings and Loan, and Greenbelt Consumer Services, not so much as an officer of those organizations, but more in the role of a creator of new ideas and concepts. He was elected to the Audit Committee of G.H.I. in 1963 or 1964 and to the Consumers Congress of G.C.S. around the same time. Mr. Kaplan also played an active role in the early days of the Jewish Community Center of Prince Georges County, now known as Mishkan Torah.

In 1972 Mr. Kaplan moved to College Park. There he continued his studies of Judaica and took up new projects of various crafts. He is survived by his wife Evelyn, of the home, a son Michael of Huntington, Long Island, New York, and two daughters, Ruth of Washington, D.C., and Rebecca of Pikesville, Maryland. Funeral and interment will be in New York City on Friday, June 9, 1978. Expressions of sympathy should be made to any charity that the donor wishes in the name of Seymour Kaplan.

Aftermath

To the Editor:

Old Mr. Foolishness himself with his semi-historical myths would impress us with his academic erudition as well as his command of acts. Sorry Mat, but pomposity is a cardinal sin.

No one, so far as I know, implied that inflation would stop or that we would not have to raise operating payments from time to time. However, some of us feel that the right to decide how much and for what purposes should rest with the membership and that perhaps we could control some of the wastefulness of management if we controlled the purse strings.

When I count 36 GHI trucks going by my house on a morning and when we send for a workman to do a minor job, which we have outlined to maintenance by phone, and he has to use gas to go back to the plant for a screw, etc. somebody needs to control GHI. The board has done a very poor job of it, and as long as it can dip into our pockets every year for about $400,000 additional funds they will use inflation as their excuse.

I am amazed at the extent of the opposition to a simple bylaw to let the membership in on the budgeting. It's savage resistance to our wish to control the organization doesn't increase our confidence in its intentions but rather raises our suspicions that there is foundation for the persistent rumor that a small group are trying to get possession of the land on which our houses stand. I keep saying "but they couldn't do that," but then maybe they can.

At any rate I intend to attend most of the board meetings during the coming year and I assure you I intend to be its gadfly. I shall be careful to study the situation and not say something that cannot be substantiated, but what I learn will be passed on to the membership in language they can understand.

Honor Teacher

Center School third grade teacher Mrs. Gertrude Yeager will be honored in a surprise ceremony on Thursday, June 16, at 9:30 a.m. Faculty and students will gather in front of the school to plant a tree honoring Mrs. Yeager for her 25 years of teaching at Center School. Members of the community, especially those who have known Mrs. Yeager are invited to attend the ceremony.

To the Editor:

For the past couple of months I've been associated with a group of 12-15 year old boys who represent St. Hugh's in the metropolitan area CYO baseball league. Some think I'm their coach. Those close to the team know that Gene Kella-her and Paul Evans, two fine young highschoolers, have carried most of the coaching burden. In any event, my association with all of these youngsters, though slightly nerve-wracking at times, is something I will always cherish. They have taught me a good deal.

As a team they're considered small. The bats always seem a little too big, the pants a little too baggy, the bases a little too far, and opposing pitchers a little too fast. Any team of this age group whose two first line pitchers are five feet tall and under isn't all that scary to other teams. In fact, we occasionally elicit snickers from opposition and onlookers. But, my, how these kids can play baseball. The pitchers throw mostly strikes, and balls destined for hit-land are somehow snared and turned harmless. At bat, they connect often enough to have scored 93 runs in 9 games against top notch competition from D.C. and Maryland suburbs and they run the bases with abandon. They won their Section with a 9-0 record and are now going into the playoffs.

There are things about this group of kids that impress me and that I think have something to do with their success. First, they listen well, a virtue we adults might emulate. Second, they like and respect each other and they show it. Frequent praise for teammates and constant banter are, I think, signs of comfort among kids. Third, they are constantly looking for and finding ways to improve their proficiency. Finally, and most important, they still think that baseball is a heck of a lot of fun and, as with most games, shouldn't be taken too seriously.

Win or lose, I'm extremely proud of the job these youngsters have done. I know that their families, St. Hugh's parish, and the Greenbelt community are also justifiably proud of them. As the team prepares for the playoffs, I know many Greenbelters will want to wish the following team members well:

The park crew planted shrubbery at the Springhill Lake Recreation Center. Begonias were planted on Springhill Drive.

Recycling Used Oil

Residents are reminded that tanks are provided at the Greenbelt Public Works facility next to the lake park for the disposal of used motor vehicle oil. The City of Greenbelt has made arrangements for the disposal of used oil with a hauler who transports the oil to a company that reprocesses it for reuse as a fuel oil.

In no event should motor oil be dumped into storm sewers. All storm sewers drain into either Greenbelt Lake or streams flowing through the city, and motor oil dumped into storm drains is a major cause of pollution of the lake and streams.

Persons who dispose of oil in storm drains are violating City and State laws and are subject to arrest and fine.

Needs Equipment

A Prince Georges County resident who was afflicted with polio as a child is in dire need of an old-fashioned type of male urinal.

Prior to World War II, urinals were made of metal covered by enamel. The male urinal was flat on the bottom with a spout and handle. More modern variants are shaped differently and are made of either stainless steel or plastic.

The Prince Georges County Health Department urgently requests that residents check through their attics and basements to see if they have such a urinal made of enamel. Donations will be accepted by the department on behalf of the patient. Persons believing they may have this type of urinal please call 773-0900.

Devlin's Efforts Praised

In a letter to Del. Gerard F. Devlin, Frederick Mayor Ronald N. Young, President of the Maryland Municipal League praised Devlin for his legislative efforts during the 1978 session of the General Assembly.

Young said, "We are most grateful to you for your tremendous personal efforts and involvement as the sponsor of a high priority League bill that amends the highway user formula providing a more equitable share of this state shared revenue to the cities and towns amounting to $575,000 in new revenues for Fiscal Year 1978 . . ."

"It is also noteworthy that you sponsored the entire League's legislative package in the House this year . . ."

Devlin, who represents Greenbelt, will receive a certificate of appreciation on behalf of the League at the Prince Georges Municipal Association breakfast on June 20.

Playground Plans Move Forward Council Prepares Equipment List

by Leta Mach

In response to earlier citizen concerns, city council met in a work session on May 24, to review staff proposals for the use of $30,000 in Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds for playground improvements. (see box). Although there were no citizens present at the session, council made several changes in the staff's plan.

Equipment changes included bumper tires instead of a log cabin, a three place wood swing instead of an atom splitter swing, and a double A-frame climber instead of a double slide climber. Council decided to add another rest shelter for a park at 73 court Ridge. These shelters would include picnic tables. Council approved a rest shelter for the Centerway underpass area, but questioned exactly where it would be placed. A desire for more park benches throughout the city was expressed. City Manager James Giese was requested to check into park #10 at 3 court behind Gardenway to see what equipment is already there. Because another park is nearby, the wisdom of putting equipment there was questioned.

Demographic Study

At an April 17, council meeting, many residents expressed the view that there was an excess of tot lots. During the work session, Councilman Richard Castaldi suggested a demographic study was necessary in order to fit playgrounds to the ages of the children who would be using them. In relation to this, Councilman Charles Schwan felt it was necessary to move and change the equipment as time went on and the users of the playgrounds changed.

Giese expressed the need to relocate playgrounds which are poorly sited. Some playgrounds are

GHI NOTES

Every Wednesday, from 2-4 p.m., the Red Cross will be conducting free blood pressure tests, for anyone living in Greenbelt. Just come to the GHI Board Room on Hamilton Place.

An elderly lady living in GHI is very much in need of a sewing machine. The sewing machine she has used for many, many years recently gave out and parts are no longer available to repair it. Anyone with a working machine that is no longer being used who wishes to give or sell it for a modest price, please call Sandra Barnes, 474-0720.

The Engineering and Maintenance Committee will be meeting at the Board Room on Tuesday, June 13, at 8 p.m. All GHI meetings are open to the members.

On Saturday, June 3, GHI's answering service moved to a new office. During the two-hour period, the phones were not being answered for emergency maintenance calls. GHI regrets any problems this may have caused members who needed service during this time.

most inaccessible to city work crews. Trees and poor grade conditions also cause problems. One new playground must be established to replace one lost due to the construction of the elderly housing project.

North End

Of major concern to citizens at the April meeting was the view that the North End was "short-changed." According to Giese there is no city-owned land for a playground in the North End. Development of new playgrounds would have to wait until a formalized agreement is arranged between GHI and the city about placing city equipment on GHI land. Currently, the city maintains eight playgrounds on GHI property, the right to put playground equipment there having been authorized in a letter from the GHI manager. The GHI Board of Directors has authorized GHI manager Roy Breashears and counsel Albert Ginsberg to meet with city administration about this matter.

The neighborhood which has been designated for the CDBG funds is the old part of Greenbelt-GHI and the commercial center. After receiving and reviewing the recommendations of the Park and Recreation Advisory Board, the city staff made detailed proposals for the use of the funds.

In a related matter, Council took account of the county's pledging $20,000 of future CDBG funds to correct erosion and other problems of playgrounds.

Tel-Med, a free recorded taped library system used by phone, provides three-to-five minute tape recordings on preventive medical practices; gives information on recognizing early signs of illness and adjusting to serious illness; and offers first aid suggestions for emergency situations. Tel-Med has information on many health-related subjects.

To make use of the system, a brochure listing the tapes by number is needed. An updated brochure is available at all county offices, libraries, and most neighborhood food and drug stores. The brochure is available in large print, in Braille and on cassette tape recordings to assist people with visual difficulties. Call the library's Division for the Visually and Physically Handicapped at 779-9330 (extension 32 to borrow a copy).

Condominium Problems To Be Aired July 12

The Maryland Commission on Condominiums will hold a hearing at the Greenbelt Library on Wednesday, July 12 at 7:30 p.m.

The Commission issued a preliminary report several months ago which pointed out a number of problem areas in developer-purchaser, owner-manager, and resident-board of directors relations. Comprehensive revisions to the state's condominium law are one possible result of the hearings.

"We've heard from condominium owners all over the state," Commission Chairman Richard L. Arkin of Aspen Hill, explained. "They've called and written to tell us there are many problems in condominium living that can't be taken care of under existing laws. We need input from condominium unit owners, developers, managers and others who work in the industry to determine how widespread problems are and what the state can do. We need testimony from those most closely involved so we can give the legislature proposals for changes in the law."
