GHI Members Approve Phase II Rehab And Its Financing Package by 2-to-1

by Sid Kastner

With the initial Phase I of GHI's large-scale rehabilitation project definitely launched according to president Donald Volk, a majority of over 500 member families attending last Thursday's special membership meeting voted to proceed with Phase II which will greatly expand the list of renovation items and repairs to be carried out.

The main purpose of the meeting was to inform the membership of the financial responsibilities which the corporation will thereby be taking on, mainly in the form of mortgages to be held by government agencies. Agreement was by no means unanimous on the actions sought by the board, as a number of members expressed concerns about mounting costs of the program and possible effects on the salability of their homes. However most members appeared to accept the premise that GHI is already committed to the project and must take advantage of the lowest interest rates it can get.

A side debate took place on the validity of a member petition to "terminate employment of (the) General Manager", but was ended by chairman Volk's ruling against considering it on the advice of corporation counsel Pat Clancy, who explained to petitioner Ed James that GHI's bylaws give to the board the authority to hire or fire the manager.

Phase II Approval

The main motion considered proposed that the membership "approve the Phase II Rehabilitation Program, to be financed with the proceeds of a first mortgage loan either from the Community Development Administration (CDA) of the State of Maryland, or the City of Greenbelt." Views in favor of this critical step and against it were voiced by a parade of speakers to the three microphones set up on the floor. Those against it argued that "nobody will buy my home (with a) $20,000 mortgage"; Phase II should not proceed "until we get our house in order", referring to problems encountered in implementing Phase I; and GHI might later not satisfy low-income requirements for Section 8 subsidies from CDA, or default on the loan payments. Others questioned the accuracy of the staff's cost estimates, with one member noting a disparity of a factor of 10 between estimates at different times for replacing roofs of the block homes.

Arrayed against these negative reactions were a corresponding number of counter-arguments: the present oil-heating system can no longer be maintained - "millions will have to be spent to replace 40-year old boilers", heat energy is leaking from the piping system ("Let's get rid of heating the roads and tunnels"), and fuel oil costs can only rise further; the homes urgently need repairs now ("I'm concerned that if this rehabilitation is not done, nobody will buy my house because it's junk"); and one economist-member urged that "the right thing to do now is to vote for rehab... or have it at a much greater interest rate (later)". This last point was amplified by General Manager Kenneth Kopstein who noted that because of the favorable government grants, the effective over-all interest rate to GHI would be less than 8%.

The discussion period ran over the one hour allotted by more than ten minutes as individual members insisted on being heard sometimes without regard for the three-minute limitation imposed by the chair. On the actual vote, the motion to authorize Phase II carried with 301 voting for it, 211 against.

Financing Actions

The second motion - a change in the bylaws to void the 30-day requirement of notice to members - had been put on the agenda to enable consideration of a following third motion, which would authorize actual financing of Phase II under a very recently extended mortgage period of longer than 20 years. It did not however pass at first by the required two-thirds majority so that the third motion was by-passed and the evening's attention went directly to the fourth motion, a proposal to borrow a contingency reserve amount of about $4.5 million from the National Consumer Cooperative Bank (NCCB). Discussion was much briefer on this. One member asked what would happen if NCCB were put out of business as a target on the "hit list" of the current federal administration, as appeared likely; Kopstein assured her that the loan to GHI would not be affected, being a

Trial of Condemnation of Pedestrian Right-of-Way to Be March 30,31

by Leta Mach

More than half a year since the first date was postponed, a new tentative date has been set for March 30 and 31 (check with city offices) at the Court House in Upper Marlboro for the condemnation trial for a pedestrian right-of-way easement through Greenbriar Phase I. The easement of less than an acre is necessary for a path to connect with the proposed B-W Parkway.

Assistant City Manager Dennis Piendak felt two days had been set aside for the trial because of the numerous parties involved. Because of a pre-trial ruling by Circuit Court Judge Jacob Levin on the morning of the original trial date, the city was required to individually notify all Phase I owners and their mortgagees. Originally, the representatives of Phase I were notified of the city condemnation proceedings which began about one year ago. When the individual notification was required last August, City Attorney Emmett Nanna felt, "By serving the Council of Owners, Greenbriar Association Phase I, I have in effect served all the owners under the terms of the (Greenbriar) Master Deed and Covenants."

Nevertheless, the city worked until the end of November to notify all Greenbriar Phase I property owners and mortgage companies. In all, 252 condominium owners (wives and husbands separately) and 26 mortgagees were notified. It was also necessary to give public notice for several weeks through advertisements.

The motion to postpone the original trial date was granted so that individual owners would be aware of the opportunity to enter the case as a defendant. Indeed, many have.

At the condemnation trial, only a price will be determined by the jury. The trial became necessary after Phase I Board of Directors rejected the city's offer of $8,000 compensation for the property and about $2,900 worth of improvements such as a fence and tree plantings. Two city appraisals valued the property at $7,386 and $5,339. On the other hand, Phase I has had the value of the property appraised at $29,200-$10,000 for the property itself and $19,200 for damages such as devaluation of the units near the pathway, noise, and vandalism.

The pathway would connect with the proposed Baltimore-Washington Parkway overpass. This overpass is proposed as a solution to the dangerous pedestrian crossings of the Parkway which became alarming when Eleanor Roosevelt Senior High School opened in 1976. Through the auspices of former Congresswoman Gladys Spellman, the U.S. Department of the Interior agreed to pay construction costs for the bridge structure. The location of the overpass caused considerable comment and delay. Finally, the present location was overwhelmingly approved in a 1979 city referendum.

Only Party Regulars Can Vote In April 7 Primary Election

by Elaine Skolnik

Last week Republican and Democratic candidates seeking the 5th District Congressional seat converged on Greenbelt to participate in candidate forums (see separate stories). Nineteen Democrats, 12 Republicans and one write-in candidate aspire to fill the office left vacant by the illness of former congresswoman Gladys Noon Spellman, who remains in Walter Reed Hospital.

Only registered Republicans and Democrats may cast ballots in the special primary scheduled for Tuesday, April 7. The special general election will be held on Tuesday, May 19.

The same party-vote rule applies in the special primary as in a regular primary—that is, an individual may vote only for a candidate of the party with which the voter is registered. In the general election, voters need not follow party lines.

In the 5th Congressional District there are a total of 163,490 registered voters—110,003 Democrats, 36,216 Republicans, 17,236 Unaffiliated and 35 American Partyites.

The current total eligible voter tally in Greenbelt is 8,699, down about 11% from the 9,807 count in the November 1980 general election. The decrease is attributed to the recent purging of the county voter registration rolls.

In Greenbelt purging reduced the Democratic list by 776 voters (12%), the Republican list by 199 voters (9%), and the Unaffiliated by 133 (10%).

Of Greenbelt's 8,699 eligible voters, 5,626 (65%) are Democrats, 1,925 (22%) are Republicans, 1,146 (13%) are Unaffiliated and two

Michiline Fund Drive Extended Till May 1

by Larry Noel

There is still time for donations to send Joe Michiline to the Deaf Olympics in Cologne, West Germany. The Greenbelt Jaycees have learned from Art Kruger, Chairman of the U.S. Committee, World Games for the Deaf, that Kruger has granted an extension of the deadline to May 1 to enable Michiline to raise the necessary $4000. At present, about $2400 has been raised.

An upsurge of contributions came in after the News Review story of March 12. This enabled the Jaycees to send $2000 to the U.S. Committee and get the time extension.

The principal fund raising at this time consists of the sale of raffle tickets by the Jaycees for a dollar each. As prizes, several hundreds of dollars worth of memberships have been donated by (1) Holiday Fitness and Racquet Club, Greenway Shopping Center; (2) Lookin Good - Women's Fitness Center, Beltway Plaza; and (3) The Racquet Place (behind Chris Hanburger Ford), on U.S. 1 in College Park.

Contributions should be sent to Joe Michiline Fund, Greenbelt Jaycees, Box 302, Greenbelt, Md. 20770. For information, call Rick Barber at 471-1010 or Larry Noel at 471-9362.

Republican Candidates

by Elizabeth Maffay

There was standing room only as approximately 150 people attended the Republican Candidates' Forum held at Greenbriar, March 16. Seven of the 12 Republicans who have filed to run for the 5th Congressional District seat were on hand to discuss the issues. Channels 4 and 7 provided television coverage.

George Benns of Silver Spring, a 65-year-old perennial candidate, was the first speaker. Calling himself "the most liberal of liberals," advocating a "peaceful revolution," and accusing President Reagan of "favoring the rich," he proposed public financing of all elections.

Larry Hogan, Jr. (drawing the heaviest applause of the evening) cited his knowledge of problems facing P.G. County and his commitment to President Reagan's economic recovery program as his best qualifications. Stating "the Democratic party in the 5th District is in complete disarray," he urged his fellow candidates "not to fight among ourselves." He also pledged his support for the completion of Metro, and his willingness to fight for its adequate funding.

Three-term Bowie Mayor Audrey Scott, considered to be Hogan's most formidable opponent, listed experience, background and awareness as her qualifications for the office. Scott, a former federal employee, stressed the need for a strong advocate in Congress for the many federal employees residing in the 5th District. Citing inflation as our #1 national issue, she stated her support for the President's recovery program with "some modifications needed."

John Lillard of Mitchellville, an attorney and relative newcomer in P.G. politics, opposed Presidential budget cutbacks of special and social programs, citing the high percentage of minorities residing in the 5th District. He is also committed to strong representation for federal employees.

David Ellicott of Adelphi, former Chairman of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, spoke of leaving his native England because of socialism. He stressed the need for a change in this country "now," the need to turn the country around economically and militarily. He also proposed aid for small business. He concluded with "a Republican is required in the House, to support President Reagan's programs."

Jon Robinson of Seabrook, a conservationist who was "tired of sitting on the sidelines," spoke of the need for "new blood in politics" and called for improved environmental standards. Woodward A. Watrons of Rockville stated his support for quotas on foreign imports and said he would work for an amendment to the Constitution to abolish the 11th Amendment.

A straw vote taken at the conclusion of the Forum produced the following results: Hogan, Jr. 72, Scott 31, Lillard 21. No other candidate received more than four votes.

Democrats Produce Full Range of Candidates for Voters

by Sandra Barnes

A plethora of Democratic candidates appeared at the Eleanor and Franklin Roosevelt Democratic Club meeting on Friday, March 20, to present their views on the issues. If filling the seat vacated by fifth Congressional district Rep. Gladys Noon Spellman will be difficult, voters will nevertheless have a full range of candidates to choose from.

There are the liberals such as former State Senator Steny Hoyer and Gladys' spouse, Reuben Spellman; the middle-of-the-roaders such as State Senator Edward Conroy; and the conservatives such as County Councilwoman Sue Mills and State Senator Thomas O'Reilly. There's even a self-proclaimed law and order candidate, former police officer and author of "The Police Chief's Conspiracy," John Sellner. Then there is Richard Lee, running for Congress since 1946 because "I want to be President of the United States — and I have to start somewhere." There are the so-called "machine" candidates and the "anti-machine" candidates. And the unknowns, some from Montgomery County, some from Anne Arundel and Baltimore Counties, and others who live in Prince Georges County but are outside of the fifth congressional district.

If this race has not attracted much enthusiasm among the voters, the numerous candidates are nevertheless invading the district with personal appearances and literature. Ten of the 16 candidates showed up at the Democratic Club, each making a five-minute presentation followed by questions and answers.

Gladys' partner of 42 years, Reuben Spellman, spoke briefly and hurried off to another meeting. He stressed his close political relationship with Gladys, helping her write and define legislation she had sponsored in her long political career. He stated that he was concerned about inflation and defense, but would work to protect the needy. He further stated that he would be just as Gladys had been "committed to serve Greenbelt."

Conroy humorously greeted his political colleagues by welcoming them "to my district," a reference to Hoyer, Sellner, Mills, and others not then present who resided outside of the fifth Congressional district. Conroy stressed the impact of the administration budget cuts on Prince Georges County, particularly cuts in impact aid, aid to the handicapped and federal retirees.

Hoyer smiled and replied that he was "pleased to be in Senator Conroy's district." He regretted the unfortunate circumstances (Gladys Spellman's illness) which necessitated this special election. He pledged to be a strong advocate for the county, for those who need help, to be a person of commitment and compassion in accordance with the principles of the Democratic party.

O'Reilly, appearing somewhat apologetic, noted that he was "for less spending and less government. We can't continue to provide services we've provided over the years."

Mills, arriving late, said she wanted "to make government go away," "to stress constituent services" and noted that "inflation is the biggest problem."

The lesser-known candidates also espoused special issues. Robert Bates felt the anti-abortionists were "a dangerous threat to American women." If contraception and abortion were banned, millions of women (your mothers, sisters, friends, wives) would go to jail for breaking the law, he warned. As a former assistant to the Civil Service Commission, he felt he was the most qualified to represent the county's federal workers and retirees.

Sellner, the law and order candidate and ex-policeman, noted that he and Conroy were the ideal age to serve in Congress — 51 years old. William Halterman attacked the Democratic machine, whereupon candidates on both sides moved away from Hoyer and Hoyer spread-eagled his arms against the wall. The audience laughed. Halterman stated that the Democrats had to rebuild, move away from liberalism and form a technocratic elite. Donald Greenawalt commented that the country had a moral obligation for a strong defense, balanced economy, a national medical plan, and a ban on abortions.

Finally Richard Lee, the perennial candidate, congratulated House Speaker Tip O'Neill for "finally capitulating to my demand for a special election." Lee proclaimed himself the "populist candidate."

Some responses to audience questions:

O'Reilly: I voted "no" on driver education because it was in the best interest of the county.

Mills: I voted against METRO because the alternate route was never discussed. The "E" route will never be built because you're not going to get that route paid for. You won't get pie in the sky. I'm for tuition tax credits and prayer in the school.

Conroy: I believe in voluntary prayer in the schools. I haven't made up my mind on tuition tax credits. I think the government should help in higher education, but I don't know about secondary schools.

Hoyer: I'm against prayer in the schools and tuition tax credits.

Mills: I believe in voluntary prayer. I'm against tax credits for college education, favor it in secondary education. I do not support abortion and I believe the environmentalists have taken away a lot of rights.

O'Reilly: Environmentalists have gone too far to protect the environment. The clean air standards should be relaxed.

Hoyer: I am against the amendment for a Constitutional Convention on abortion. I believe Medicaid is appropriate to help the poor who may need abortions. I support environmental standards and feel that they are important to future generations.

Conroy: I support a constitutional convention on the abortion issue. I support environmental quality standards.

Halterman: There is a certain hypocrisy among those who want government to get off our backs, but would interject government regulations into our bedrooms.

prior commitment. Another member raised the issue that the mortgage entailed would be inconsistent with the condition "... no other lien shall be imposed on the property" in GHI's perpetual use contract with homeowners. The motion to authorize the contingency loan from NCCB however passed, 278 for and 131 against.

At this point a member proposed a time-limitation amendment to the second motion (on waiver of thirty-day requirement) to make it more palatable for reconsideration. Member Mat Amberg took this opportunity to tell the assemblage that "Because of the way this meeting has been structured, we're not able to offer amendments to these motions... I hope you will consider this amendment seriously even though you're impatient with me." The amendment - to limit the waiver of notice to a two-year period - was approved on a vote of 275 to 76, and the full amended motion succeeded this time by a vote of 267 to 70. This opened the way to consideration of the third motion which would authorize the board to borrow about $16.3 million from CDA or the City of Greenbelt through a bond issue of about $20.8 million, to be secured by a first mortgage on GHI's property. In the ensuing discussion a dissenting member argued that only "a minority of the... 1600 families (in GHI) are voting (Phase II) in", at the meeting, and suggested that a referendum be held. His view did not prevail as the audience appeared to follow the lead of another member who argued that these follow-on motions to raise money should be approved as a logical extension of Phase II approval, and the motion passed, 244 to 75.

Rehabilitation Contractor, Roof Petition

One more proposed action remained, namely to authorize GHI to enter into a formal construction contract with its subsidiary GHI Development Corporation (GHIDC). Amberg here raised a procedural point that "GHI has to inform members 30 days in advance before entering into a contract" and insisted that "We haven't been told anything about (this) contract," even though counsel Clancy and staff members attempted to meet his challenge by quoting data from the board's prepared statements. Others in the audience however moved to end discussion and the contract was authorized on a vote of 188 to 58.

A petition by some members, to be allowed voluntary participation in the attic insulation program, was the final item on the agenda to be considered. Though the originator of the petition as well as a former board member felt that the corporation could itself undertake to do the attic preparation job for members at a lowered cost, the petition's motion was passed; members will thus be allowed to choose not to insulate their attics, though such insulation will have to be done at time of resale. A comment by member Les Shields perhaps may be repeated here as a fitting conclusion to this record of a cooperative's meeting: "I suggest as a cooperator we start a voluntary group to do this (attic preparation) work at no cost - and you can put my name on it to start". Shield's was vigorously applauded.
