Greenbelt Is Center of Billion Dollar Commercial Development, Investment Area

by Elaine Skolnik

The City of Greenbelt is at the hub of what has been coined the $Billion Dollar Circle ($BC). An imaginary geographic area where nearly a billion dollars worth of construction is either currently in place, planned or underway, the $BC is treated as a top priority economic area by the county. It is three miles in diameter and centered where the Baltimore - Washington Parkway, Capital Beltway, Greenbelt Road and Kenilworth Avenue all come together.

According to executive director for $BC activities and information, John M. Gornall of Gornall Communications, "The $BS is one of the hottest real estate investment and development territories on the East Coast. Blue chip shopping centers, employment centers, office building complexes, professional centers, hotel installations, retail facilities and housing and condominiums are booming in the Billion Dollar Circle."

Gornall notes that the $BC includes Greenbelt showcase projects like the Williamsburg-styled Greenway Shopping Center, developed by Western Development; the Capital Office Park, by Springhill Lake Associates; the Prudential Insurance Company's Golden Triangle office complex; the Capitol Cadillac automobile dealership on the Triangle and Coakley & Williams Trade Center Park.

The continuing interest by major developers and investor groups in constructing high quality office and industrial parks in the county attracted high-technology, computer software, telecommunications and other sophisticated firms. Major attractions to investors have included available land at a reasonable cost along the Capital Beltway, lease rates that are very competitive within neighboring suburbs, and county assistance in the form of industrial revenue bonds and loans through the Maryland Industrial Financing Authority.

Despite what is described as a "softness" in the office building market, officials in the county's Department of Program Planning and Economic Development are optimistic that the development boom can be sustained. Evidence of market support, they say, can be found in occupancy rates "which have not only been maintained (in 1981) but have improved over . . . (1980)."

It has been predicted that Greenbelt could become the second largest employment center in the state. To explore how this may come about, the News Review is presenting a series of articles on office and other commercial development in the city. The first article, on the Capital Office Park, appeared in the May 6 issue. The accompanying article takes a look at the Maryland Trade Center Park.

Maryland Trade Center Park

The tallest commercial building in Prince Georges County — the 16-story Maryland Trade Center (OAO) — will be joined by two office towers, a banquet facility and a hotel. Dubbed the Maryland Trade Center Park, the $55 million complex will be located behind the Greenway Shopping Center at the interchange of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway and the Beltway.

Coakley and Williams, Inc. (C-W) developers of the Maryland Trade Center building #1, will also build the planned office towers and hotel. Martins, Inc. is buying 8.5 acres of the 41-acre MTC park to construct the banquet facility. The entire tract officially became part of Greenbelt on April 29 following amicable annexation negotiations between the developers and the city council.

"We are plugging the MTC park as a full service park. You won't have to leave it to get to a hotel room, to a shopping center or to restaurants . . ." said Brian Coakley, marketing vice-president.

The existing building is 100% leased. The OAO corporation occupies five floors; Lockheed Engineering and Management Service Co. 2 1/2 floors; and International Business Machines and Yorktowne Business Institute, one floor each. Storer Communications is on the first floor and C-W See DEVELOPMENT, p. 8, col. 1

FIRST FLEA MARKET SATURDAY, IN CENTER

Saturday, June 19, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. marks the first flea market in the Greenbelt Shopping Center, supported by the City Council and sponsored by the Cultural Arts Center. While the event will be a fund-raiser for the Arts Center, the primary objective will be to bring residents and non-residents into the historic shopping center and boost the economic vitality of the shopping center. Such markets are extremely popular and the Arts Center hopes to benefit from it by promoting events running at the Arts Center while providing patrons with the additional attraction of live performances.

It is intended that the market will be a mixture of both yard-sale and arts and crafts items. There will be no food sales outside of freshly baked goods. Five by 8 foot spaces will be rented for a fee. To reserve a space, or to help out with the running of the market, contact Ann or Anthony Pisano at 474-7841.

Comical clowns Karl and Nancy Knoll will be an added attraction. If anyone else is interested in performing on a volunteer basis, please contact Konrad at 345-9369. In the event of rain, the market will be held in the Utopia Theater.

TRAFFIC PROJECTIONS FOR AREA HIGHWAYS AFFECT DEVELOPMENT

by Elaine Skolnik

For over a decade Greenbelt city Councils have opposed high-density apartment and commercial development in and around Greenbelt because adequate public facilities were lacking. The state-imposed sewer moratorium of the early seventies, for example, recognized the unmistakable inadequacy of one public facility necessary to support development. After the moratorium was lifted, the problem of an inadequate road system still remained.

Past and present city councils, advisory boards and citizen groups have considered crucial to orderly development the improvement of the Kenilworth-Greenbelt Rd. interchange. In their view this and other road improvements were vital; they needed to be in place, these officials thought, before significant additional development occurred in the region.

The $12.3 million Kenilworth-Greenbelt Rd. reconstruction project, programmed for construction in fiscal 1985, is expected to relieve severe congestion and to provide access to the future Greenbelt Metro station. However, in light of recent severe financial problems connected with building and maintaining highways, there is no assurance that this commitment for funding will be sustained.

But because the project is "committed" (i.e., programmed for construction at a specific time), MNCPPC staff are required to consider the Kenilworth-Greenbelt Rd. intersection as already improved when they examine proposed new developments at the preliminary plan of subdivision stage. Consequently their recommendations and calculations concerning the volume of traffic that the intersection can handle are based not on its existing configuration but on anticipated future changes.

A second aspect of MNCPPC procedures also affects their projections. In assessing the potential impact of new development proposals on future traffic patterning and flow, staff planners generally analyze separately each individual project. Other proposed projects in the area are not also added to give a complete picture. This year, however, funds have been budgeted for a survey of all existing and proposed development in the area of the Kenilworth-Greenbelt Rd. interchange.

One such development is the projected Maryland Trade Center park, on land south and east of the Greenway Shopping Center. The Greenbelt City Council did not look favorably on this development until the promise was made to extend Hanover Parkway, east of the Greenway Shopping Center, to connect with Good Luck Rd.

Although the MNCPPC staff did not require the extension as a condition for granting approval for the preliminary plan for subdivision, nor even consider it as a great boon to MTC park at peak-rush hour — "It doesn't go anywhere," they say — the county established a new tax increment financing (TIF) district, the Greenbelt Area Development District, to make possible the road improvements. TIF will finance the Hanover extension and other public improvements, including the widening of Greenbelt Rd. and modification of the traffic signal at Hanover Parkway. Bonds sold under this program will be retired from increased tax revenues generated by commercial development within the TIF district.

According to Brian Coakley, marketing vice-president of Coakley & Williams, developers of MTC, "If the road doesn't go through it won't be a real problem to us. But we support the city's position." Ben Dyer, engineers for C-W, is moving ahead on a preliminary study of the extension and other road improvements.

Construction of the third office tower in the MTC park, as well as a future hotel, are conditioned on improvements to Greenbelt Rd. and the modification of traffic signals at Hanover Parkway.

Swim for Charity

On July 13, the Greenbelt Municipal Pool will hold a Swim-A-Cross, sponsored by the Prince Georges County Chapter of the American Red Cross. Sponsor sheets are available at the Greenbelt pool. ## Parishioners Bid Farewell To Monsignor O'Donnell

by Linda Kizale

An estimated 250 people from St. Hugh's parish turned out Sunday night, June 13, to say goodbye to Msgr. William O'Donnell. The gathering was somewhat reminiscent of the one that was held in February to honor him on his birthday and present him with a new car. While the tone of the birthday party was one of celebration, the tone of the farewell gathering could be described as "bittersweet." With very little notice, the parish had been informed that Msgr. O'Donnell, who had been pastor of St. Hugh's for the past nine years, was being transferred to Our Lady of Lourdes Church in Bethesda.

Most of those present at the party lined up and waited patiently to say a personal goodbye to Msgr. O'Donnell, who stood for several hours greeting everyone. Parishioner Dee Downs said, "From the variety of people here, you can see Monsignor's appeal—to young and old." Msgr. O'Donnell seemed to have a special relationship with every person present. The comments on his leaving ranged from "He's so good with the children," from mother of two, Pat Wilson, to "He's such a good administrator. He kept us out of trouble" from Paul Rall on the Finance Committee to "He's been an integral part of the community. I hope the new pastor follows in his footsteps," from Greenbelt Mayor Richard Castaldi to "He's a beautiful person," from senior citizen Mary Conroy, mother of the late Sen. Edward T. Conroy.

Father David Conway of St. Ignatius Parish in Oxon Hill will be coming to St. Hugh's on July 1 to take over as pastor. Father Kazista, St. Hugh's Assistant Pastor, has known Father Conway for 15 years. He describes Father Conway as very pastoral and dedicated, with a great interest in symphony and opera.

Over the party was raised a banner with a quotation from the Scriptures, "You have touched each one of us by your presence and your prayer. We will remember you." Monsignor O'Donnell summed up his nine years in Greenbelt with the statement "It was terrific!" Longtime Greenbelt resident Irene Hensel perhaps summed up the feelings of those present by saying, "He can leave Greenbelt, but Greenbelt won't leave him." Nor forget him.

Good News

To the Editor:

I would like to take a moment to relate some good news (for a change) and to thank the members of our Greenbelt Volunteer Fire and Rescue Squad for their quick and expert assistance.

On May 20, when my third child decided to make his appearance much more quickly than either my wife or I had anticipated, the Greenbelt Rescue Squad responded to my phone call for assistance within just a couple of minutes. Larry and Earl were able, professional and courteous, and helped my wife deliver the baby just two or three minutes after their arrival. They then transported the three of us to our hospital and waited with us to be sure we were well cared for before departing. Happily, the hospital nurse allowed Larry, the Emergency Medical Technician (E.M.T.) to sign the birth certificate for my new son, as the attending physician.

The Greenbelt Volunteer Fire and Rescue Squad is one of those institutions which we tend to take for granted until a time of great need. It is comforting to know that, when we need it, help really is as close as the nearest telephone. By the way, Larry said it was the second child he had helped deliver, and he seemed as proud as I, the father, was. Special thanks again to Earl, the ambulance driver and assistant, and to Larry for their excellent care in a moment of need.

Maffay Re-appointed

The re-appointment of Elizabeth K. Maffay to the Consumer Protection Commission was approved this week by the Prince Georges County Council. Maffay has served two terms on the Greenbelt City Council. Active in civic and Republican affairs for many years, she also served as a member of the Prince Georges County Commission for Women.

On Bethune's Closing

To the Editor:

Perhaps no one is very sad to see Mary Bethune Junior High be closed by the Board of Education at the end of this year. During the period that Greenbelt students were bused to the school, it was much maligned—and at times deservedly so.

But, as a parent whose two sons just completed two years of schooling at Mary Bethune, I would like to say that their experiences, socially and academically, have been positive. I feel that they will be as well-prepared as any of their peers as they enter Eleanor Roosevelt's science and technology program next fall. But, I would especially like to applaud the teachers at Bethune, who reflected a positive attitude in the face of what must have been a difficult year, and the principal who was caring and responsive and instilled the school theme—pride—in many of the students. Also the PTA carried on its programs with enthusiasm. All in all, it was a good year—one that should be remembered in an upbeat way by the faculty, students and parents. Bethune had much to offer—and much to take pride in offering.

HOMEOWNER'S PROPERTY TAX CREDIT PROGRAM AMOUNTS INCREASED

On June 1, 1982, Governor Harry Hughes signed into law House Bill 270 which increases in two steps over the next two years the amount of benefits persons are eligible to receive under the Homeowners' Property Tax Credit Program. For the current 1982-83 taxable year, the legislation immediately increases the maximum possible tax credit from $900 to $1,050 and changes the formula by which the credits are calculated so that generally all recipients will receive a $15 increase across the board in the amount of credit. For the 1983-84 taxable year, the maximum amount of credit will be increased to $1,200 and each recipient will receive an additional $30 in the amount of credit granted.

The increased amounts of credit will be paid automatically to persons who have already submitted their 1982 Homeowners' Tax Credit applications. Other persons who have not yet applied will want to consider the new "tax limits" printed below which indicate to a person whether or not it would be worthwhile to apply. A person is urged to apply if the actual property taxes he or she pays is more than the tax limit established for the particular income level.

The Homeowners' Tax Credit Program is the major tax relief program enacted by the General Assembly during the past seven years. A homeowner must apply on a standard application form to know if he or she is actually eligible for the credit. Application forms are available at public libraries and local Assessment Offices or can be obtained by telephoning the Tax Credit Office's special toll-free telephone service at 1-800-492-3790. The telephone service also provides further information about the program and how to complete the necessary application form.

Musikanten (literally musicians) was founded in June 1979 by director Kerry Krebill with singers interested in performing the many great works especially suited to a chamber chorus. The ensemble became an instant favorite with early music lovers through its elaborately costumed and lively renaissance performances. The choir has made appearances at the Kennedy Center, Wolf Trap Summer Festival, Maryland Renaissance Fair, the Smithsonian Institution, and as guest singers at many special church services and festivals. "Renaissance literally means rebirth. This refers to the medieval period in Europe between the 14th and 17th century when the art, music, literature and sciences flourished.

Center School Sixth Graders Honored in Award Assembly

by Barbara Likowski

Ninety-six sixth graders marched down the aisle behind flag bearers William Robertson and Wayne Spriggs at Center School's awards assembly Friday morning, June 11. The program, conducted mostly by members of the sixth grade class, was begun by a salute to the American flag led by Lori Martin and Charles Ring. A "Welcome to Parents" was given by Walter Braun. Steffan Sonneveldt reminisced about "Our Days at Greenbelt" and Allison Schachter was "Looking Toward the Future."

Other class members introduced sixth grade teachers Miriam Gruver, Carolyn Lubetzky, Jim Parham and Sara Sutton. Musical selections were sung by the class. Even the printed program cover was designed by a sixth grader, Sandra Rodriguez.

Deadline July 1 to Apply For Renters' Tax Credit

Renters age 60 and over or those disabled are reminded that they have only approximately two weeks before the July 1 filing deadline for the State of Maryland Renters' Tax Credit Program.

Modeled after the Homeowners' Property Tax Credit Plan, the renters' program allows property tax credits of up to $450 a year for renters who have reached age 60 or who are disabled. Since renters indirectly pay property taxes as part of their rental they should receive a credit as homeowners do. The program assumes that 15% of the person's occupancy rent goes toward payment of property taxes.

It is emphasized that elderly and disabled renters must apply for this credit on a standard application form since any credit area.

ERHS Chorus Wins

The Eleanor Roosevelt High School chorus won the third annual choral Eisteddfod on April 19 in Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School. This regional high school choral competition is sponsored by the St. David's Welsh-American Society of Washington, D. C. Its purpose is to promote and foster the Welsh tradition for choral singing in high school music curricula.

This was the first time that Roosevelt had participated in the competition, which included choruses from Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia. Selections were sung in Welsh, Latin and English.

due would be calculated on the basis of that person's particular income. Application forms will be mailed to any person calling the Tax Credits Office of the State Department of Assessments and Taxation at a special telephone service 1-800-492-3790 (toll-free).

Police Blotter

Compiled by Mavis Fletcher

A juvenile petition was obtained for an 11-year-old boy who committed a second-degree sexual offense against three very young boys. The incident took place in a trash room of an apartment building on Mandan Road. All are residents of the area.

Two adult males were arrested after a breaking and entering into an apartment on Breezewood Court in Springhill Lake. Over $4000 worth of stolen property was recovered before it was reported missing. This successful operation was the result of a plain clothes and plain car assignment and teamwork between two duty shifts that were headed by Sgt. Phillip L. Coombes and Sgt. James R. Craze.

New officers in the Greenbelt police department are to be trained at the Southern Maryland Police Academy conducted by the Charles County Sheriff's Department and the Charles County Community College. Officers completing this course are also awarded 20 hours of college credit. Officers have previously received their entry-level training at the Prince Georges County Police Academy. However, that institution will be unable to train any municipal officers until June of 1983.

Sgt. Thomas M. Ceccarelli attended a police instructor school sponsored by the Police Training Commission from June 7-11. As a result of this training, Sgt. Ceccarelli will be a certified instructor and will be used in the Department's in-service training programs.

$BILLION DEVELOPMENT

corporate headquarters is located on the sixteenth.

"We were very pleased the way the leasing progressed . . . It reinforced our bullishness in this area," Coakley said.

The second tower could start rising in the fall. The developers are fairly optimistic that they can get their anchor tenants first. Plans for the tower are being finalized by Warren Sargeant, architect of building #1.

According to Coakley, the second building will be broader and shorter (14 stories) than the existing tower, but basically compatible with it, including (1) the contemporary solar bronze energy efficient glass exterior and (2) the "Sunkeeper," a computer monitored heating and air conditioning system.

Construction of the third tower is dependent on marketing conditions as well as required improvements to Greenbelt Road and the extension of Hanover Parkway to Good Luck Road. (See separate story.)

Site plans for the hotel and banquet facility have been approved.

The hotel is expected to be a Comfort Inn, but arrangements have not yet been finalized. Coakley & Williams will hold the franchise with its hotel division operating the facility.

"We hope to break ground in July," Coakley said. Seven stories tall, the motel will initially have 200 rooms. Road improvements must be completed before an expansion to 400 rooms can be achieved. The motel will eventually assume a cross shape to allow for the increase.

A covered walkway will connect the motel to the Martin's Greenbelt facility.

Martin's

Martin's is close to finalizing the purchase of 8.5 acres for its Martin's Greenbelt convention/banquet conference center.

The one and a half story building will cater to groups of 25 to 2,000.

"This is possible," explained Preston Greene, Martin's vice-president of finance, "through the innovative configuration of hydraulic walls (which) allow a great deal of flexibility for many different purposes" — seminars, trade shows, meetings, weddings, family and private social functions, and fund-raisers.

The main ballroom will have a capacity of 2,000 and can be divided into five smaller rooms seating from 100 to 400 persons each. Each of these five rooms is divisible into smaller rooms serving 40 to 100 each.

A canopy supported by pillars will extend from the formal entrance and overhang a circular driveway. There are plans for extensive landscaping and a fountain. Financing is being accomplished with the use of county revenue bonds.

In response to Greenbelt council and citizens concern about the size and appearance of the Martin's emblem on the side of the building — a champagne glass — Greene noted that "it will be a scaled-down champagne glass . . . a little more stylish with more ambience than on our other buildings . . ."

"We recognize the wishes and desires of the community and want to make friends . . . we want to cooperate and to be able to please them," he said, adding that the "building itself has a uniqueness that will project our image."

Greene said that Martin's will continue its custom of offering the facility for use as a community center. "The nature of our business allows this," he explained.

This artists rendition of the Maryland Trade Center Park shows the approximate location and size of the new development planned for this portion of the $Billion Dollar Circle. Two high rise office buildings will join the present 16-story Maryland Trade Center building developed by Coakley & Williams. The low 1 1/2-story building shown in the lower right corner will be the banquet/catering facility by Martins of Baltimore. Adjacent to it (further to the right) is the Comfort Inn, another Coakley & Williams project. The road in the foreground is the Beltway access. The Greenway Center is in the upper left corner facing Greenbelt Road. Artist's rendering by Ed Barnette

CITY NOTES

The general crew removed the concrete sidewalk from the Gardenway underpass and also did some rough grading at the underpass. The contractor, B. Frank Joy Co., poured new sidewalk at the library underpass. The general crew rebuilt a storm drain at the warehouse and cleared a blocked storm drain by the 1 court of Gardenway. Various streets were also patched.

The regular trash crews were shorthanded several days because some members were off on leave. To fill out the crew, members of the general crew assisted with collections. Special trash pickups have been running approximately 10 days behind schedule.

The parks crew collected roadside debris two days and maintenance was done on the golf course and ballfields. Grass was cut in various areas of the city.

Paul Williams attended a Council of Governments meeting in Washington, D.C. on June 10. George Smith attended the Washington Metropolitan Recycling Meeting also in Washington, D.C. The recycling meeting was sponsored by the Dupont Circle Neighborhood Ecology Corporation and Environmental Action Foundation.

George Smith and J. Paul Williams attended a preconstruction meeting on the Baltimore-Washington Parkway pedestrian overpass. Work is scheduled to begin this summer.

Miss Utility has marked the utilities in front of Green Ridge House for the new pedestrian crossing signal. The B. Frank Joy Co. has installed a new sidewalk in the rear of Green Ridge House by the gardens.

Concerning traffic tieups, Greene was confident they would be minimal. When there are large functions, he explained, we will have personnel assisting in the parking lots and will notify the police department to help alleviate any problems "in a spirit of mutual cooperation."

Martin's operating hours are mostly at night and on weekends — off peak hours. Employees of the nearby office towers will enter and exit at peak-rush hours. Both facilities are working out an exchange arrangement to provide additional parking spaces for one another.

Greene said, "Our plans call for employment of 293 people on a full and parttime basis, a bright prospect for many who seek jobs during these uncertain times."

REHAB INFORMATION

On June 10, the GHI Board approved the installation of new windows for additions of masonry units. Windows will be installed in structurally sound additions subject to GHIDC approval at the member's request.

Members interested in receiving windows for additions in masonry units should follow these steps:

- Call the Rehab Hotline (474-6644) to receive a Window Request Form. The form must be returned at least two days before your windows are measured.
- Sign a work order. You will receive this after the windows are measured and the cost is determined.

The cost of windows for additions of masonry homes will be based on unit prices in the GHIDC contract with Weather-Guard Corp. and will be included in your rehab charges.
