Council Hears Plans for Five-Story Office Building Opposite Greenbriar

by Sid Kastner

On Tuesday evening, June 10, the regular city council meeting — displaced from Monday night by a special council meeting on next year's budget — went through a large number of housekeeping items at fairly high speed. However, council slowed down at times for more careful consideration of developers' presentations on a large five-story office building to be located on the southeast corner of the Greenbelt Road/Hanover Parkway intersection, and on questions of "signage" or how large and numerous signs should be on new structures built in Greenbelt. An application for a photography studio operation in a private residence in the Boxwood area was also heard.

The office building proposed for a part of the Smith-Ewing tract was described by representative Richard Reed and by site and building architects. The traffic pattern around the building will flow through two driveways from Hanover Parkway and one from Greenbelt Road to a 450-car parking lot behind the building. The building's architect described what he felt were the positive aspects of the building and its location on the site: "We've taken a very large building of 25,500 square feet and have minimized the impact. Also, the roof screen (will) present you with a 'signature' building with a recognizable profile." City Manager James K. Giese's written comments to council noted that covenant requirements of building height, floor area and screening appear to be satisfied, and that the city's Advisory Planning Board (APB) had recommended approval of the project on a vote of 4-1. APB member J Davis voted against approval on the grounds that the building would have a negative visual impact on the Greenbriar community, which is located across Greenbelt Road from the site. Also, the Greenbelt East Coalition of residents in that area tied approval of the project to three conditions: more screening plantings, consultation on signage and lighting, and consultation on traffic control in the area.

Community Impact

Because of the critical location of this major intersection and the traffic problems already in evidence around it, council members and audience participants posed a number of questions about access to the building and its impact on nearby communities. Council members Ed Putens, Antoinette Bram and Mayor Pro Tem Thomas X. White expressed concern about possible traffic hazards for cars entering or exiting the property. In reply to a question by White, Reed said the developers intend to erect free-standing signs at the building site. He told council member Joseph Isaacs that about one-third of the building will be visible from the Greenbriar apartment complex.

Reed said the developers had no problem with two of the three Greenbelt East Coalition conditions, but objected to an increase in vegetative planting because berms (raised landscaped areas) would serve to screen the site.

Coalition representative Bob Zugsby explained that the residents were only concerned about sufficient screening of the parking lots, not of the building itself. J Davis, speaking as a Greenbriar resident, told council that "this building will be a lot more visible than you've been told," and urged that the evening's statements on signage be put in writing.

After some further discussion on the possible visual impact on Greenbriar, council approved the site plan in accordance with the APB recommendations and with some further conditions imposed on placement of the entrance driveways on Hanover Parkway.

Golden Triangle Signs

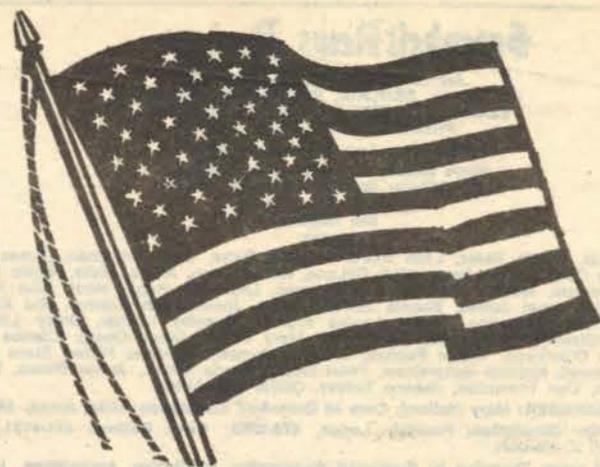

Council also heard plans for signs of various kinds associated with the Oxford building on the Golden Triangle. A 22 by 4 foot sign will be placed on the front of the building, and a free-standing sign with two faces 20 by 3 feet will be located at the intersection of Greenbelt Road and Walker Drive. Three traffic control signs, on poles, are also proposed. J Davis reported that APB was concerned with the height of the latter signs, saying that if they were to be illuminated the added height is not necessary. The developer's sign consultant, however, indicated that the directional signs will not be illuminated. Plans for an automatic teller machine kiosk in the parking lot of the building, and its signs, were also briefly discussed. The APB recommendations for approval of the Oxford building signs, with some added conditions, such as height limitations on the free-standing signs, were accepted on a council vote.

Appeal on Studio

A resident family's request to operate a photographic studio at 100 Rosewood Drive in Boxwood was recently turned down by the county's Zoning Inspector as not permitted on the R-55 (residential) zoned property. Council was then informed by Giese that an appeal from this decision will be heard by the county's Zoning Board of Appeals.

Giese's written comments to council noted that according to the county's Zoning Ordinance, "general business and professional offices" are not permitted in the R-55 zone. Attorney Jane Dillard, appearing on behalf of the applicants, told council that she and the applicants are drafting legislation to define the photography operation as a "home occupation," and asked for city support.

Bram spoke in support of the application, saying that the property in question, near the corner of Lastner Lane and Crescent Road, "has already departed from purely residential character" with a professional (dentist's) office on the premises. White, on the other hand, was not in favor because "this use of a residential area . . . would lead to other

Fireworks to Cap Full Day Of Activities on the 4th

by Dorrie Bates

Once again, Greenbelt is gearing up to celebrate July 4th with a bang — not to mention a smorgasboard of activities designed to appeal to all ages, stages and tastes. The centerpiece of the festivities is the Fourth of July fireworks display on Friday night, an eagerly awaited spectacular rumored to be second only to the extravaganza on the Mall.

Throughout the day, the Greenbelt Recreation Department will be sponsoring a wide range of activities. The Independence Day Tennis Tournament will be held on the Braden Field Tennis Courts with competition continuing throughout the weekend. Also in Braden Field will be a slow-pitch softball tournament, flanked by the Firecracker Horseshoe Tournament at the Candy Cane City pits. The City Recreation Centers will be open for drop-in activities and the Municipal Swimming Pool will be open to the public for swimming, sunbathing or cooling-off. (See the Calendar of Events elsewhere in this paper).

The evening events at "Buddy" Attick Park by Greenbelt Lake will begin at 6 p.m. with a musical puppet show at the Attick Park Bandstand. Presented by the Greenbelt Baptist Church, the Heavenly Hobos Puppet Theater performance includes patriotic melodies sure to delight the whole family. At 7 p.m., musical fireworks will be produced by the Greenbelt Concert Band of Prince Georges County. The highlight of this annual concert is Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture which traditionally leads into the fireworks extravaganza.

This year the city's fireworks will be produced and orchestrated by Zambelli, famous for his breath-taking pyrotechnic displays. The show will include over 200 shells of various sizes and seven ground displays. The Grand Finale has received particular attention this year by the city planners and will include bursts from 240 9" shells of various colors and combinations. The show should run approximately 20 minutes. In case of inclement weather, the fireworks will be presented on the first clear evening after the 4th.

When asked what restrictions will be in effect for the evening activities. Police Private First Class Patrick McAndrew said that the entire Lake parking lot will be restricted and only persons in cars with handicapped registration plates or temporary handicapped registrations will be permitted to park in the parking lot, including the Greenbelt section. Persons are urged to walk. There will be an area between the entrance to the Lake and Lastner Lane for discharging passengers.

The following restrictions will also apply on July 4:

—There will be no individual fireworks or alcoholic beverages. This will be stringently enforced to insure the crowd's safety.

—There will be no parking between Kenilworth Avenue and Lastner Lane on the southbound side of Crescent Road. Police will enforce this ordinance and cars in violation will be towed away.

The Police Department appeals to everyone not to call the station for information about fireworks. Last year over 1700 calls flooded the police line. "The line must be kept open for emergencies" emphasized McAndrew. In the event of rain, the fireworks display will be held on the next clear night. Director of Public Works, George Smith, makes the final determination. City employee, Kenneth Hall, is serving as pyro-technician.

Rezekne is Latvian

To the Editors:

Since both Moscow and Greenbelt have expressed views on the Rezekne sister city project, I thought it might be appropriate to introduce a Latvian viewpoint. After all, Rezekne is a Latvian city.

While I'm sure that the Greenbelt Peace Committee meant well in trying to establish friendly relations with Rezekne, if they choose to abandon the project because of the nearby labor camp (in preference to a "nice" city as Mayor Weidenfeld stated), they are making the right decision for all the wrong reasons. What Gail Drake, the Greenbelt City Council and the Peace Committee seem to have totally missed is the fact that Rezekne is a city in the formerly independent country of Latvia, and that Latvia has been unlawfully incorporated into the USSR.

The U.S. and most Western governments have refused to recognize the legality of Soviet rule over Latvia for the last 46 years and the Latvian people openly despise their Soviet Russian occupiers. As a result, Moscow and Yuri Menshikov have neither the moral nor legal right to decide anything on behalf of the Latvian residents of Rezekne, just as they have no right to determine who can have relations with the Afghan people of Kabul. The fact that the Soviets have "uglified" Rezekne by infesting it with a slave labor camp is symbolic of what they have done to the entire nation. Whether in the camps or out of them, all Latvians are prisoners of the Soviet system. By going to Moscow for "permission" to communicate with the Latvian city of Rezekne, Greenbelters are tacitly approving the Soviet occupation and colonial rule of this beleaguered city.

Gail Drake is correct in stating that the U.S./Latvian community would object to the idea that a Soviet prison near the city would make the native Latvians "unfit to communicate with." That, however, isn't the point. Due to Soviet deportations and repopulation policies since the occupation, only approximately 12,000 Latvians remain in Rezekne's 37,000-plus population. Rezekne itself is a "closed city"; i.e. Western tourists (and thus Greenbelters) are forbidden to go there by Soviet authorities. This, plus the presence of a Soviet Russian puppet government, militia and KGB in Rezekne makes the native Latvians nearly impossible to communicate with. As our relatives in occupied Latvia have told us, Soviet authorities discourage all contacts with "foreigners." Some of our people are in prisons for trying to do exactly what the Greenbelt-Rezekne Project proposes.

You cannot have genuine people-to-people relations between an open, democratic society such as the United States and a totalitarian police state such as a Soviet Union. The mere fact that all sister-city requests have to go through Soviet government agencies in Moscow should speak for itself.

When the Soviets do approve sister city relations, it is with a specific (and hardly humanitarian) purpose in mind. The late Imants Lesinskis, a Latvian KGB agent responsible for such "cultural relations" for 20 years prior to his defection to the U.S. in 1978, has written at length about how the Soviet Latvian KGB used cultural exchanges to get a foothold in well-meaning American communities. According to Lesinskis, the traditional way KGB agents gained access to the U.S. "was to join various journalistic, friendship, peace and even tourist delegations formed in Moscow." If the Soviets rejected Greenbelt, it was probably because they felt they had nothing of strategic interest to gain from this community.

Finally, I must question Gail Drake's statement that "we do not see it as our right or responsibility to pass judgment on the Soviet people or to force changes in the system under which they live." I wonder if the Greenbelt Peace Committee shares this hands-off policy toward apartheid in South Africa? Would Greenbelt be prepared to make contact with the white minority government in Pretoria in order "to try to get to know them, to try to understand just what their point of view is"? Would the Peace Committee allow Pretoria to determine whether Greenbelt can have relations with South Africa's black populace? I would hope not. Since the Soviet Russians are an illegal occupation force and minority government in Latvia, the same moral criteria should apply.

The Greenbelt-Rezekne venture seems well intended, but is based on an incomplete understanding of the Soviet system and the tragic plight of the Latvian people within that system. Our people have long been the victims of great power conflicts. It would be even more tragic if our hopes of regaining independence and self-determination were dashed in the name of peace.

Senior Citizen Softball

On June 4 at 10 a.m. the Greenbelt Senior Citizens Co-ed Slow Pitch Softball team overwhelmed the Holiday Park Seniors of Montgomery County at Layhill Park by a score of 13-5.

Jim McGann, Bill Grennon, and Jerry Conway each hit a home-run with two runners on base. Triples, doubles and singles were hit by Jerry Conway, Bill Grennon, Jim McCann, Wally Taysman, Bob Cottingham, Al Geiger, Virginia Laymons, Jim Cassels, Larry Noel, Joan Conway, Harvey Geller, Burt Kerr and Art Enders. This excellent hitting combined with good fielding in an atmosphere of good sportsmanship and a sense of humor enabled us to win this second game of an eight game series.

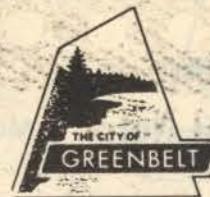

These young senior citizens aged 58 through 75 practice each Monday at 10 a.m. on Braden Field and play in the league games on Wednesday mornings. The American Legion and Ladies Auxiliary provided the shirts for this team, and we play seriously to win an opportunity to play Baltimore County in the future Maryland championship series which will be televised. We hope to win.

All senior citizens of Greenbelt, women and men ages 55 and over, are cordially invited to join us every Monday and Wednesday morning to have fun in this sports program. Frequently we follow our practice with horse-shoe pitching, swimming, tennis and golf. Y'all come! Everybody gets a chance to play and share this fun in the sun. We miss everybody who doesn't show. If you can't run, we run for you. We do simple stretch exercises before and after each practice and game.

Our thanks to Tony Pisano for originating this activity in 1983.

On May 9, the Greenbelt Recreation Department provided a challenging game with the Senior Citizens Ball Team. But through persistence and hitting the Senior Citizens managed to win 13-12. A hot dog snack was shared by all after their game.

NOTICE OF

Public Hearing

GREENBELT MUSEUM

The Greenbelt City Council will hold a Public Hearing to consider city support of a Greenbelt Museum.

It is proposed that a small museum be established to house objects of historic and artistic interest relating to Greenbelt's role as one of America's earliest planned communities. It is proposed to acquire a GHI home to be used to house the museum and eventually to acquire an entire duplex building. A portion of the home will be restored as a typical home of an original family with representative furnishings, clothing and decorations. There also will be temporary exhibits focusing on specialized aspects of the New Deal period and Greenbelt history. The establishment of the museum is one of the projects of the Greenbelt 50th Anniversary Committee. Issues to be discussed are:

Should the City financially assist in the cost of a museum along with the Friends of the Greenbelt Museum (FOGM), a nonprofit fund-raising organization committed to provide financial support towards the operation of a museum?

Should the City purchase one or more original homes to be used to house the museum?

Should the City specifically seek to acquire the home at 10-B Crescent Road to be the initial home for the museum?

The owner of 10-B Crescent, which is part of a duplex building, has indicated a willingness to sell the home for a museum. The home is located next to a playground, underpass and interior walkways — all original features of the planned community. It is across from the Greenbelt Library which contains the Rexford G. Tugwell Room which houses a wide variety of printed material on Greenbelt and planned communities. It is close to Roosevelt Center and next to the Greenbelt Trail.

The Public Hearing will be held on Tuesday, July 8, 1986 at 8:00 p.m. at the City Council Room, Greenbelt Municipal Building, 25 Crescent Road.

Block Party Introduced Greenwood Village to City

Mother Nature cooperated with the Greenwood Village Environmental Protection Board (EPB) providing clear skies and a light breeze for the EPB's "first annual" block party, which some 50 residents attended on Saturday, June 14.

Julie Sweeton, who organized the picnic, welcomed Mayor Pro Tem Thomas X. White, Diane Oberg of the Greenbelt News Review staff, and Officer Pat McAndrew of the Greenbelt Police Department.

White spoke briefly, welcoming the residents to the city. To help residents become involved in the city, the EPB had a supply of city voter registration cards which member Connie Harris was encouraging residents to fill out. Oberg invited all interested residents to work with the paper as proofreaders, reporters, or in the business end of the paper.

Officer McAndrew was the guest speaker. He provided information on neighborhood watches and the city's Operation Identification, by which residents can mark their valuables for a better chance of recovery after a theft. He encouraged all residents to report any unusual or suspicious activity to the police. Greenwood Village residents plan to organize a Neighborhood Watch Program under McAndrew's supervision.

Most of the activity at the picnic was informal as residents introduced themselves to their neighbors and EPB members explained neighborhood procedures. All in all, the food was good, the weather fine, all those present said they had a wonderful time and are looking forward to next year.

The next neighborhood project

Residents of Greenwood Village enjoy the sun and the food at their block party.

will be to man a booth at the upcoming Greenbelt Labor Day 50th Anniversary party next year. Residents also plan

Wildlife Sanctuary Offers Help to Injured Wildlife

The Chesapeake Wildlife Sanctuary in Bowie treated and cared for over 3000 injured and orphaned wild animals in 1985. They ranged from hummingbirds to eagles, baby squirrels to full grown deer. The goal of the Sanctuary is to provide free professional care for animals so they may return once again to the wild. To receive assistance with injured or orphaned wildlife, call the Sanctuary's 24-hour wildlife rescue line at 249-1228. The Sanctuary is located at 17308 Queen Anne Bridge Road, Bowie 20716.

The Sanctuary offers other services. It is preparing an area for educational exhibits and a nature library which may be open soon to the public.

It also has an internship program which involves working directly with the wildlife patients. The internships are offered year round. Call 249-1640 for more information.

The Sanctuary recommends leaving baby wild mammals alone. Few wildlife babies are truly orphans and some are left unattended for hours. If the babies are cold, injured or look thin and dehydrated, call the Sanctuary's Hotline for further instructions.

New Seat Belt Law Takes Effect July 1

On Tuesday, July 1, Maryland's Automobile Safety Belt Use Law will go into effect. This law, if obeyed, should save many lives and prevent thousands of injuries each year on Maryland's highways.

Covered by the new law are all motor vehicles registered or capable of being registered in the state as a Class A (passenger) or Class M (multi-purpose) vehicle which are required to be equipped with seat belts by Federal safety standards. Both the driver and any front seat passenger must be wearing seat belts which are properly adjusted and fastened while the car is in use. Failure to comply with the new seat belt regulations could result in a twenty-five dollar fine for either the driver or the passenger who is in violation of the law. To be exempt from the seat belt requirement, a person must have a medical excuse from a licensed physician stating the reason for not wearing a seat belt.

The new law will be enforced in conjunction with other observed or suspected violations. It is estimated that 59% of the fatalities which occurred last year could have survived had they worn seat belts.

County Council Sets Hearing On Bond Issue for Roads

by Elaine Skolnik

The Prince Georges County Council on Tuesday, July 1 at 1:30 p.m. will hold a public hearing on Council Bill 71 in the County Administration Building in Upper Marlboro. The bill authorizes the county to borrow up to $80,254,000 to finance the design, construction, reconstruction, and renovation of about 28 road and bridge projects. The bill proposes something for almost every area including Greenbelt, Bowie, Beltsville and Laurel. However, the bill will not take effect unless county voters give their approval in the upcoming November general election.

In March, County Executive Parris Glendening unveiled a $117 million bond issue proposal, the greatest portion of the money to be spent on road projects. At the time, it was announced that the road-building program in the county totaled $157 million, of which $82 million would be financed by the county and another $75 million leveraged through a series of agreements with the State of Maryland and private developers.

Glendening said a positive response by the electorate will permit the county "to stay ahead of problems resulting from the great surge of residential and commercial construction we are now experiencing."

Greenbelt Projects

Targeted for improvement in East Greenbelt is the Baltimore Washington Parkway. The long-standing problem in the north-eastern quadrant of the Parkway interchange across from Greenway Center is expected to be alleviated by relocating the ramps. Reconstruction of the Greenbelt Road overpass spanning the Parkway is also included in the project.

The cost of the Parkway overpass and ramp improvements totals $3,960,000 plus $200,000 allocated by the State for design work. The county hopes to be reimbursed by the federal government but the outcome is uncertain.

The Parkway reconstruction program has been on hold for years. The delay has been due to Congressional inaction in passing legislation that would keep the Parkway under Federal jurisdiction rather than under Maryland's control. Finally, in the last Congressional session this was accomplished. Three million dollars was also released for design work for the entire Parkway. The next step will be obtaining Congressional approval for release of construction funds.

Greenbelt Metro Roads

Funds are also contained in the bond issue for the construction of a 52-foot-wide roadway from the future Greenbelt Metro Station on Cherrywood Lane, with a bridge spanning the Beltway to a junction with Kenilworth Avenue (Md. 201) approximately 550 feet north of Ivy Lane. A traffic signal at Kenilworth Avenue is also included. Some $5,400,000 will be allocated for the project, of which $2,352,000 will come from Maryland Department of Transportation bonds which have already been sold. The remaining $3,048,000 will come from the county.

The Greenbelt City Council is expected to give its blessing to the Greenbelt projects, in particular because of the grave traffic and road conditions in East Greenbelt, where development is booming. Council has repeatedly requested that Glendening deliver a timetable for completion of planned road construction.

Similarly the Laurel City Council is hopeful to have its serious traffic concerns alleviated by improvements proposed for Van Dusen, Contee, Ammendale and Virginia Manor Roads. However, opposition to these roads are expected from opponents of the more than 2,000-acre proposed Konterra project, a "mini-city" in south Laurel that will combine offices, homes, shops, high-tech research and development firms and undeveloped acreage for bike paths, pedestrian walkways, and other recreation uses.

Opponents fear that the proposed roads for this area would run through rural neighborhoods and become feeders for the proposed controversial Inter-County Connector (ICC).

According to Laurel City Councilman Gary Grenier the consensus on the Laurel council favors the proposed projects because relief is needed from problems caused by booming development in the Laurel area and from commuters' cutting through dense residential areas.

Two major road projects in Greenbelt which would be funded by the bond issue being considered by county council are the extension of Cherrywood Lane and the improvements to the Parkway bridge and ramp.

In the meantime the State Highway Administration (SHA) is continuing to work on the ICC. The State-chosen route (called Alternate G with modifications) is currently slated to run from Gaithersburg to Laurel and would tie in with Route 1 about a quarter of a mile north of Muirkirk Road. In the interim a Route 28 extension from west of Route 182 and east of Route 650 will hook up to Route 198 which ties into Route 1.

According to Walter Kowalsky of SHA, a final Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) is being prepared for review by the Federal Highway Administration for "concurrence or non-concurrence" of the EIS and Alternative G. If approvals are received, the design phase is next. The state has allocated money for this phase but no funds have been approved for construction.

Of the many ICC alternatives proposed over the years, the Greenbelt City Council has favored the No-Build Alternative. The city has consistently opposed the Inter-County Connector on the grounds that it would funnel traffic through the city to the Parkway and Beltway.

such uses" and argued that the proposed piece of legislation would be "a general opening for more such (applications)."

Isaacs and Bram then questioned Dillard about "what the proposed legislation will actually contain — will it contain restrictions?" They were told that restrictions to the applicant's particular situation would be incorporated. When David Moran of the Boxwood Citizen's Association said that neighbors were generally supportive of the application if parking and signage were restricted, a council majority decided to support the applicant's legislation if the city can first review the proposed language.

Other Matters

A number of ordinances and resolutions were taken up in order, after three new police officers, James P. Donovan, Thomas Keifline and Steve Keller, were sworn in by Mayor Weidenfeld and presented their families to council. Most of these were routine measures such as purchase of computer equipment for various city departments, and repeal of pet (cat) licensing by the city which will instead issue county dog and cat licenses. Two proposed money allocations did bring reactions from one council member. Appropriations from the Community Development Block Grant Fund were proposed by staff, in the amounts of $173,000 each for road improvements on Ridge Road from Westway to 7 Court Crescent Road; on Gardenway; on Hillside Road from Crescent to Northway; on Eastway; and for new sidewalk on the northeast side of Crescent Road from Hillside to Gardenway. White suggested a public hearing before proceeding with work on Hillside and Eastway, but council voted to proceed. Also, a transfer of funds from street maintenance to several services including waste collection was questioned by White, who believed waste collection should be paid for entirely by fees. Bram and Weidenfeld noted that there had earlier been a council vote not to increase fees, and the transfer was passed by council, again on a vote of 4 to 1. Finally, staff-proposed reappointments to the city's Park and Recreation Advisory Board were deferred on a motion by Putens, who wanted a reassessment of council's procedure for handling such reappointments. The present appointments will be temporarily continued.

Two State Bills Favorable To Women Become Law

On May 13, Gov. Harry Hughes signed into law two bills of importance to women. Introduced by Del. Joan Pitkin (D., Dist. 23), HB1316 mandates that all medical insurance companies in the state of Maryland providing supplemental coverage for women participating in the Medicare program will be required to pay for an "annual screening by low dose mammography." Mammography is the technique to x-ray women's breasts to find cancers that are so small that they cannot be found even in an examination.

According to the National Cancer Institute, the American Cancer Society and the American College of Radiology, all women older than 50 should be screened every year by mammography because it has been proven that such examinations reduce death rates by as much as one third. Until July 1, when the bill goes into effect, only "diagnostic mammography" will be covered for women older than 65. Diagnostic mammography refers to breast x-rays that are done only after a lump or other symptom of breast cancer has already appeared.

Del. Pitkin also won passage of HB1320, a bill that will require all physicians in the State of Maryland to provide every woman diagnosed as having breast cancer with a brochure detailing alternatives to mastectomy for treatment of breast cancer. This educational booklet was prepared by the Medical & Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland. Also effective after July 1, this law mandates that women sign a statement informing the health department that the booklet was received.

Special Summer Season Opens at Utopia Theater

"A Company of Wayward Saints," written by George Herman and directed by Randy Jones, will open a special summer season for the Greenbelt Players at the Greenbelt Arts Center's Utopia Theater.

The play will be performed Fridays and Saturdays, June 27, 28, July 5, 11, and 12, and Thursday, July 10 at 8 p.m. There will be one Sunday matinee, July 6 at 2.

Performed in the Commedia dell'Arte style, the play will feature masks made by Robbie Rankin, theater professor at St. Andrews Presbyterian College in Laurinburg, N.C.

In preparation for the specialized performance styles, the Players participated in a workshop conducted by Robbie Rankin and Brenda Wentworth from the Department of Speech and Dramatic Art at the University of Missouri.

The workshops taught the improvisation style of the Commedia dell'Arte performers, Renaissance dance and improvisation on movement, as well as mask construction.

The production will feature music by Katy Kidwell, costumes by Tina Barylski, Janice Groft and Karan True, and sets by Bill Shields.

Director Randy Jones first joined the Greenbelt Players this year, when he played Snoopy in "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown." He has worked with numerous other community theater groups.

Ticket discounts are available for students, senior citizens and groups. For more information, call 441-8770.

City of Greenbelt

A PLAN FOR THE ROOSEVELT CENTER

The City's Goals

A Plan for Roosevelt Center

Adopted by City Council November 17, 1985

Outline of a general plan for the commercial section of the Roosevelt Center based upon the general findings of the charette participants and citizens.

General Objectives

1. To maintain the Roosevelt Center as the community center of the City.
2. To maintain and improve the economic viability of Roosevelt Center.
3. To upgrade and improve the buildings and grounds while preserving and strengthening the original design and planning concepts.
4. To restore, preserve and enhance through sympathetic additions the original character and details of the center, making necessary provisions for human life and safety.

More Specific Planning Objectives

1. Undertake rehabilitation of original buildings to bring to modern code standards and to restore the historic art deco facades.
2. Preserve the original theater as a cultural arts center with activities extending onto the mall.
3. Rehabilitate Centerway and adjacent sidewalk with consideration being given to enlarging the parking area and strengthening the use of the areas by pedestrians.
4. Strengthen the pedestrian approaches to the center.
 - a. Explore strengthening Centerway as pedestrian way — make it more of a walkway with vehicles rather than a street with pedestrians crossing.
 - b. Extend and visually open the mall between the Co-op and the cleaners, eliminating most parking and possibly providing some added shops fronting on the area.
 - c. Also extend and open the mall to the west parking lot between the savings and loan and medical center and also possibly provide some additional shops.
 - d. Strengthen the pedestrian approach from the recreation areas and the rear parking lot.
5. Consider minor expansion of the center and some adjustment of existing businesses, to better serve potential customers, keeping in mind that the size of the center is limited by availability of parking and by the general character as a neighborhood commercial center.
6. Provide better identification to Roosevelt Center by providing an entrance sign on Centerway and directional signs on city streets.

Initial Courses of Action

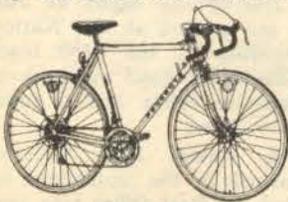

1. Adopt this plan as general plan for the center.
2. Seek professionals involved in the charette if possible, to express the results of the charette as a design plan.
3. Establish a position of the city as to the future of the Cultural Art Center and the role of the city in the matter.
4. Employ a designer to prepare plans for the reconstruction of Centerway which deals with and resolves the following issues:
 - a. Whether or not to expand parking.
 - b. Strengthening the use of the area by pedestrians and particularly the crossing to the underpass.
 - c. Whether or not to remove existing trees and replace with plant material.
 - d. What to do with cobblestone areas.
 - e. What to do about lack of curbs adjacent to sidewalk area.

The Designers' Response

Recommendations of Professional Designers Participating in the Roosevelt Center Charette

1. Use a holistic approach - a Master Plan
 - Use qualified professionals
 - Commit financial resources
 - Execute in a timely and efficient manner
2. Should be an extension of original plan to meet present and future needs
3. Charette Guidelines
 - a. Reaffirm the core of Greenbelt as the governmental, recreational and commercial center of the community.
 - b. Respect original aesthetic, and bring into line newer construction and all new development with the original aesthetic.
4. Carry out recommendations by the retention of qualified professional designers
5. Master Plan Guidelines as set forth by Charette
 - a. Preserve, retain and maintain in their original style the exteriors of the original buildings.
 - b. Limit to a minimum additions to the original buildings, primarily on the roof and design additions to be sympathetic to the original buildings.
 - c. All new construction must harmonize but maintain a clear delineation from original buildings.
 - d. Recognize and accommodate both vehicular and pedestrian circulation and the access to the Center as separate but necessary entities - use the primary established vehicle patterns.
 - (1) extend the visual and physical entrances to the Center by establishing a strong link to the adjacent areas through landscape and architectural treatment.
 - (2) Use compatible scale and material to make transition from naturalistic landscape to the planted, built spaces within the Center.
 - e. Parking recommendations
 - (1) Orient arriving vehicles to various parking opportunities by use of appropriate entrance signs.
 - (2) Restrict service parking to the side parking lots.
 - (3) Provide additional landscaping in parking lots.
 - (4) Redesign parking on Centerway to increase short term opportunities by providing spaces on both sides of road. However, provide planting islands on both sides and strengthen pedestrian crossing to underpass as an extension of mall area which vehicles cross.
 - (5) Provide immediate expansion of long time parking in northeast (Co-op) parking lot and strengthen pedestrian entrance between theater and Co-op.
 - (6) Redesign northeast (post office) parking lot to provide for short term parking near the center, no parking to the rear of the mall but landscape instead; provide a pedestrian link to the recreation areas.
 - (7) Expand parking as necessary into the Candy Cane City Park area but preserve existing trees.
 - f. Do not provide a kitchen/garage/refuse area in space between the Co-op and the theater to serve a restaurant.
 - g. Replace a portion of the present paving in the center of the mall with plant materials.
 - h. Remove existing trees only upon the advice of a landscape architect.
 - i. Use similar paving materials.
 - j. Use steel sash and glazed doors instead of aluminum or wood.
 - k. Use indirect lighting and neon. Replace existing mall light with hidden or "bollard" lighting. Continue low level landscape lighting into perimeter pedestrian walk.

Business Leaders Feted Here

by Mary Lou Williamson

With a sumptuous breakfast at Martin's Crosswinds, a folder of promotional materials, and a home-grown video show, the leaders of businesses with Prince Georges County addresses were feted on Friday, May 23 at an appreciation breakfast by the Prince Georges County Economic Development Corporation.

The theme—Follow Success to Prince Georges County—recognizes those businesses who have moved into the county or expanded and stayed during the past three years. Joe Edwards, president of the EDC, commended especially those who expanded and remained within the county, they represent, probably, over two-thirds of the new development. The EDC is set up to aid businesses by helping to find the right location, providing research and data on the county and assisting with information about various State lending programs.

The audiovisual presentation, entitled "Promoters of Growth" interviewed a number of county business leaders among them Neil Coakley of Coakley & Williams with corporate headquarters in Greenbelt. Appropriately Coakley was filmed before a background of waving green trees.

Also noticeable to the Greenbelt observer—the cover of the special advertising supplement to Regardie's, entitled "Fast Forward" shows an aerial view of Greenbelt—the western arc of the billion dollar circle. The cover of Black's 1985 Office Guide to Prince Georges County features the Oxford Building on the Golden Triangle. Even the ad slicks are home grown, by an advertising firm in Greenbelt, West and Brady. A tall building topped by a waving flag, a Greenbelt landmark, appears in one. The ad copy reads as if written with Greenbelt's concerns in mind: "... policies designed to maximize planned business growth while maintaining a quality lifestyle for all of our citizens..." and "... you can be assured by the knowledge that adequate public facilities are in place today..."

Featured speaker Parris Glendening presented four challenges to the business community: transportation, minority entrepreneurship, quality development and preservation of the environment.

Glendening announced the almost completed deal which will release funds for the construction of the Metro's green line to Greenbelt. He gave the most praise to Representative Steny Hoyer whose job it was to "make sure all parties came together." Others he mentioned were County Councilman and Metro board member Richard Castaldi and Robert Ostrom, an alternate Metro board member.

He challenged the business community to support the county's bond issue on the ballot this fall to fund road improvements. Those in opposition will mount a strong fight, he cautioned. Ostrom's next assignment, said Glendening, would be to head the roads project—"we'll have one team, headed by one individual to get the roads on line."

"In order for us to move ahead," said Glendening, "everyone ought to have a stake in the county's future." He promised a strong effort to meet the county's target of 30 percent minority procurement contracts and challenged private business to do as well.

Glendening challenged developers to provide the "highest quality possible. We have reached a measure of confidence," he said, "now we can emphasize quality. The county can now say no to those who have done shoddy work." "We promise to protect the county and the investment of those doing a good job," Glendening said.

The fourth challenge was "preservation of the environment." The county can support both the environment and business, business ought to do the same. There should be no conflict between the two, said Glendening. Prince Georges County, he said, will be a full participant in the protection of the Chesapeake Bay, the Anacostia, the Potomac and the Patuxent.

The fifth challenge, Glendening said "is my personal goal—to provide long-term fiscal stability for Prince Georges County."

New Head Named

Jerry Clark has been selected to head up the new video marketing division of Richard Scott & Associates. His responsibilities will include the editorial and studio production of video sales presentations, corporate annual reports and conference and training programs. A veteran radio and television personality, Clark has been the Master of Ceremonies for the local Muscular Dystrophy Telethon since 1976.

Merchants Group Meets

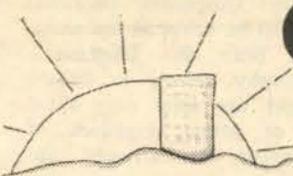

The Roosevelt Center Association (RCA) held its regular meeting on Tuesday, May 27, in the Co-op supermarket. Ben Rosenzweig gave a financial report on the account established at the Sovran Bank, IRS tax exemption requirements for a non-profit organization, the filing of a Charter, and submission of bylaws and rules of RCA.

Leo Walder furnished an example of bylaws, its contents and filing requirements for RCA's review. The bylaws will be drafted by Ben Rosenzweig, Frank Ford, Bob Davis and Gwen Worley.

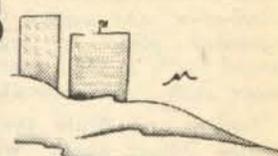

Konrad Herling reported on the charette summary recommendations presented by Sibley Jennings and suggested all members submit objectives of RCA for presentation to city council.

Chairperson Michael Burchick furnished copies of RCA article for the anniversary book. He also welcomed back Gwen Worley as an active member and manager of the Mellon Bank.

Due to summer vacations, the next RCA meetings will be June 26, 7:30 p.m. at the Co-op, July 8, 7:30 a.m. at City Hall, and August 26, 7:30 p.m. at the Co-op.

First Maryland S & L Placed in Receivership

The Maryland Deposit Insurance Fund (MDIF) was appointed receiver of First Maryland Savings and Loan, Inc., on June 19 by Circuit Court Judge Joseph H. H. Kaplan as the first step toward returning funds to depositors.

State officials said efforts to try to sell First Maryland would continue but told the judge that it is in the best interest of depositors to begin a liquidation of the thrift's assets.

MDIF Director Melville S. Brown said a general distribution plan for First Maryland depositors is being developed to help accelerate the liquidation process. "Barring any legal challenge, the target date for the first payout will be the end of July," said Brown.

"We will also continue working with all interested parties toward the goal of either merging First Maryland with another financial institution or structuring a partial assumption of the association," said Brown.

Under the proposed distribution, modeled after a plan recently implemented at Old Court Savings and Loan, every depositor would receive $5,000 or the balance of funds in their accounts, whichever amount is less.

The first distribution, using State funds, would fully reimburse nearly 70% of First Maryland's depositors.

Customers with more than $5,000 would receive the balance of their funds on a pro rata basis as assets of First Maryland are sold. Governor Hughes has directed MDIF to complete the payout by the end of 1989, the same time frame developed for depositors at Old Court.

First Maryland, a Silver Spring-based thrift with $282 million in deposits, was placed into conservatorship November 20, 1985, after published reports that the thrift was having difficulty obtaining federal insurance led to a run on deposits.

The conservatorship was extended past the normal six month period to give the State additional time to attempt to consummate a sale of First Maryland. Extensive efforts to sell or merge the thrift have so far proved unsuccessful, despite negotiations with numerous financial institutions as well as private investors.

Earlier this year, MDIF filed a $45 million civil suit against former officers and directors of First Maryland alleging that the association was operated in a reckless manner in violation of its legal responsibility to depositors.

Plan for Greenbrook Pond Approved by City Council

by Betsy Likowski

City Council gave its approval to the latest version of the concept plans for Greenbrook pond at its regular meeting on June 10. The plans for the pond that were shown to council included modifications to earlier plans requested by the city's Advisory Planning Board (APB) in an attempt to make the pond more natural in appearance.

The five-acre pond will be roughly oval and will narrow at the east end. There will be no island, as was proposed earlier.

In the southwest corner of the pond land will be retained in order to save some of the existing trees. This and other changes requested by the APB are now part of the plans for the pond. An additional two acres of trees will be saved south of the pond by steepening the slope of the middle part of the pond shore. This will make the tree line closer to the pond; at this point the trees will be 60 feet from the shoreline. The asphalt path that is to run around the pond will run through these trees.

The area between the pond shore and the tree line will mostly be grassy. The landscaping plan calls for some flowering, native trees and shrubs in this area. For example, on the north side there will be river birch and willow trees, and on the steep, south side there will be wild flowers planted along with grass.

Mike Ruddy of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission (WSSC) once again pointed out that when there is flooding there will be debris to clear out of the plants that will be planted near the pond, since the pond is a storm water management facility.

City Manager James Giese explained that the city wants to be responsible for maintaining the area surrounding the pond because WSSC does not keep their facilities in a parklike manner. The city and WSSC still have to reach a final maintenance agreement, but it has already been informally decided that the city will be responsible for maintenance to the water's edge. The Greenbelt East Coalition has seen and supports the plans.

The landscape plan will be paid

Metro Extends Sun. Hours

Starting June 29 the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority will extend Sunday evening rail service from 6 p.m. to midnight, a week earlier than originally planned, Metro General Manager Carmen E. Turner announced.

"We are initiating the extended Sunday hours one week early as a service to area residents and visitors to the Nation's Capital.

More people are finding Metro-rail a safe and convenient way to explore the region on week-ends. With the long July 4th weekend just ahead, it makes sense to start the new service a little earlier," said Turner.

Metro-rail operates from 6 a.m. to midnight Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to midnight on Saturday, and, beginning June 29 from 10 a.m. to midnight on Sunday.
