Lakewooders Seek Council Help on Water Run-off from High Ground in GHI Area

by Diane Oberg

Seepage versus runoff was the question of the night at the March 9 regular meeting of the Greenbelt cil as the council considered a request for help with water problems from Lake-wood residents. In other matters, council approved an agreement with Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) governing playground maintenance and authorized acquisition of another trailer by the police department. Mayor pro tem Thomas X. White was not present, being on vacation.

Council had received letters from Barbara and Edward Talbott and the Lakewood Citizens Association regarding water damage to homes on Greenhill Rd. The residents claim that the flooding and damage that they have experienced to retaining walls is caused by runoff of storm water, especially from GHI properties. The Lakewood group requests that a concrete swale be constructed across the backyards of 125, 127, 129 and 131 Greenhill, with a drain pipe installed between 127 and 129 to divert water to the existing storm drain. In addition, the Talbotts requested that it should be "unlawful" for GHI to "dump its water upon us and cause damage" to their prop-

Determining the nature of the problem is important, since that determines who is responsible for the remedy. The Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission (WSSC), which is responsible for storm drainage, has reviewed the matter and determined that it is not a storm drainage problem. WSSC recommended that the Talbotts regrade their almost level back yard to improve drainage.

City staff has also reviewed the situation and has come to the same conclusion as the WSSC. City Manager James K. Giese. in a memo to council on the problem, noted that the runoff from GHI property existed when Lakewood was constructed and that the laws at that time required downstream property owners to accept upstream water flow and channel it through their property. Giese said that GHI's drainage system is functional and that GHI has no obligation to change it.

In summarizing the problem to councill. Giese said the problem appears to be mainly one of seepage of ground water, which occurs throughout the city, and that solving it is the homeowner's responsibility.

Several Lakewood residents disputed that view. Cheryl Jones, president of the Lakewood Civic Association, presented pictures to council which she said illustrated a serious runoff problem.

Jack Taylor of Greenhill Road also denied it was a seepage problem. He said storm water collected in the 69 and 71 courts of Ridge Road was diverted through the woods and onto the Greenhill properties. Taylor said he couldn't "conceive of allowing" GHI to collect their water and send it down on others. He said it was the responsibility of the city or WSSC to install two catch basins.

Edward Talbott said that while it may have been legal 30 to 40 years ago to dump water on someone's yard and tell them to take

by Betsy Likowski

A street map of Greenbelt is being produced by the Citizens for Greenbelt (CFG) as its contribution to the 50th anniversary celebration. The map, which may be ready by mid April, is expected to be offered for sale by May in time for the Conference on New Towns that will be held here. At the March 26 CFG annual meeting the work in progress will be displayed.

In a recent interview Douglas Love talked about the map and its production.

The map will be 17 inches by 22 inches, in two colors: black and green on white. It will include street addresses and important buildings around town, such as the library and the Hilton Hotel. Future buildings will also be shown if possible.

Art Deco letter patterns will be used for the guide letters. The 50th anniversary logo will be in the center of the compass. Love says they will try to put in street blocks, but all in all he describes it as a "busy map".

Production

The map is being produced by a committee of eight. Love is doing the production on his dining room table. The others do various aspects of research.

Eli Crupain and Sonlange Hess helped with field work. Gudrun Mills obtained the addresses of businesses along Greenbelt Road. Mike Esancy has created a letter and member guide showing the locations of city streets and buildings. Cliff Brown is in charge of the overall project. Eunice Coxon is heading up the marketing ef-

To produce the map CFG purchased the needed drafting equipment. Besides the research and observations made in the field by the map production committee at least 30 maps have been studied.

In working on the map Love has discovered some interesting things about Greenbelt. For example, he found reference to three different streets in the area of the University Square apartments demarcated Westway.

And in scouting around, Love came across a telephone pole on top of a four foot wide hill near Schrom Hills. In the past sand had been quarried in that area and almost the whole hill had been quarried away.

Love has compiled maps for use in books so he has had experience in map production. His maps are in The Spelunker's Guide and in Caves Near Hag-

A Greenbelt resident for two and a half years, Love moved to Plateau Place last fall. He says he likes this town and enjoys being able to ride his bike to work at NASA.

Greenbelt Hosts International New Towns Conference In May

This year the city of Greenbelt celebrates its 50th Anniversary with a conference which commemorates the town's unique beginnings and explores the future of new towns throughout the world. The Greenbelt Conference on New Towns, co-sponsored by the City of Greenbelt and the Maryland Citizen Planners, will take place on Saturday, May 2 and Sunday, May 3 at the Greenbelt Hilton and Towers.

Speakers will focus on many aspects of the development of Greenbelt as well as of successful new towns in Europe, Asia and Canada, What was the social and political impact of the federal government's desire to build housing for low-income people in the 1930s? How has development influenced that blend of cooperativism and capitalism apparent in Greenbelt? What should be the government's role in the development of new housing? What are the experiences of new towns such as Sadat City in Egypt; Kittmat. British Columbia; and Columbia, Maryland?

Conference speakers will evoke the 1930s era through discussions on the vision of the New Deal that made Greenbelt possible, the Art Deco style of architecture. the value of new towns and their place in the urbanization of America. The keynote speaker is William Leuchtenburg, historian and expert on the FDR administration. He is joined by Jean Gottmann, planner and author of Megalopolis; David Hall, director of the international Town and Country Planning Association; Wolf Von Eckardt, writer on design, architecture and urban affairs; and Frederick Gutheim, planner and writer whose own professional roots extend to the 1930s and 1940s. Architects, historians, planners and community leaders, including the mayors of the three federally-built greentowns (the others are Greenhills, Ohio and Greendale, Wisconsin), will make presentations at the two-day event. A concert and special tour are also planned.

Preceding the conference on Friday evening, May 1, will be the grand opening of the photographic exhibit on Greenbelt's pioneer days. WPA photographers documented every detail of the building of Greenbelt from the time construction workers felled the trees to clear the land to the proud housewife showing off her shining new kitchen in her new Greenbelt home. These black and white photos, as well as water color drawings painted by 1930s' artists, will recreate the spirit of those post Depression

The conference is made possible in part by a grant from the Maryland Humanities Council trrough funding from the National Endowment for the Humanities. For further information, contact Renee Bryan, City of Greenbelt, 474-8000 and Nancy Ancel (301) 225-4500.

1099s Are Ready to Mail

by Mary Lou Williamson

The Community Savings and Loan 1099 forms that taxpayers have been expecting daily for the past two weeks will be in the mail by Monday, March 23, according to Bruce Bortz, Public Affairs Director for the Maryland State Department of Licensing and Regulation. "The substantial and unfortunate delays." Bortz told the News Review late Wednesday, "were caused by protracted discussions with the Internal Revenue Service, beginning back in November, and some substantial computer challenges to over come."

The 40,000 Community customers will receive their 1099s along with "an IRS-drafted supplemental information statement — a roadmap to guide taxpayers in how to treat the information they will receive," explained Bortz. "We're still working on the First Maryland 1099s," he added.

ident; Tony Langbehn, vice president; Harry Baldauf, secretary; and Lawrence Goldberg, treasurer. Also serving on the initial board of directors is Greenbelt Mayor pro tem Thomas White. A full nine-member permanent board is to be elected at the first annual membership meeting at 8 p.m. on Monday, March 30, in the Greenbelt City Council meeting room.

According to its by-laws, GATE exists primarily "to pro-mote and encourage the use of cable communications access channels to serve the needs of residents, civic organizations, educational institutions, and other . . organizations in the City of Greenbelt; to schedule the use of community access channels by authorized users;" and "to manage, maintain, and schedule the use of production equipment and facilities. . . ." Any Greenbelt resident 13 years of age or older may become a member of the corporation. At present, no dues have been set, and membership is free of charge.

According to Zugby, GATE is intent on broadening its membership very quickly ."If this venture is to succeed, we must have input and active participation from all segments of the Greenbelt community." All interested residents are invited to join the corporation.

All persons wishing to participate in the March 30 meeting must become members of GATE no later than Monday, March 23. Telephone applications for membership are being accepted by any of the officers.

Plenty of

To the Edil

The $3.5 ost estimate for building an indoor swimming pool and upgrading the outdoor pool may be a blessing in dis-

Old timers may remember my active campaigning for an "Aqua Spa", for an estimated cost of $600,000. That was in 1972 and many things have changed since then. Not only has inflation greatly increased building costs. but the building of new pools has at the same time diminished the need for another local pool.

As an avid swimmer I have more opportunities to swim reasonably and conveniently than I can make use of.

One can have membership in (a local commercial spa' which allows one to swim three times weekly, any time of day or evening. The length of their pool is equal to the width of the Greenbelt outdoor pool.

One can swim in the White Oaks swimming pool. An advantage is the Olympic size of the pool and the presence of health facilities. This pool is not as close by as the (local spa) and swimming is during special periods onl y(as in nearly all pools).

Everybody who either is a student at the University of Maryland (including seniors using their Golden I.D.'s) or who is a member of their Alumni Association can swim daily in either their Cole Field or their Preinkert pool. About 15 minutes driving, long pools (I believe Olympic size). swimming only during special times, no health facilities.

Then there are still the old standbys: the Silver Spring Y and the Takoma Park middle school pool.

All this leaves the question: does the city really have to get into the indoor pool business at a tune of at least $2 million plus operating costs? It is easy to see that my answer to that question is a well-documented NO.

A Bill of Goods

To the Editor:

The article "Swim Pool Cost Protection Overtaps Bond Issue Allocation," which appeared in the March 12 News Review, has reinforced my opinion that our city council sold its citizens a bill of goods in 1985 when it asked for a bond issue.

As one of the author's "skep-I quote from the article the "council acknowledged at the time that not all these projects could be completed for $2 million." Then why in heaven's name did they list all those projects to be included in the building improvement category in the first place, when they knew full well that only one or two projects could be completed?

Yes, I think the council sold us a bill of goods in 1985.

Two Flags to Fly Over Greenbriar

The Greenbriar Community Association (GCA) Board of Directors has set aside funds for a flagpole to be installed in the center of what was once the Greenbriar fountain in front of the community building.

The flags to be flown are flags that had formerly flown over the U.S. Capitol and the State Capitol in Annapolis. The local chapter of the American Legion is securing the American flag and the office of Senator Leo Green is obtaining the Maryland flag for the GCA.

Indoor Soccer News

by Kevin Wheatley

When the 78ers started the season, they had to learn how to play in an enclosed area; they had to learn different rules and strategies; and they had to learn all this against opponents twice their size.

On Saturday, March 14, the Greenbelt Soccer Association's 78ers had the opportunity to play against the Greenbelt 76ers. This match was particularly exciting because it was a family affair. The 76ers may have won the match, but the 78ers fought them tooth and nail the entire game. They did their best and looked great doing it.

Imagine this, if you will. Four foot three inch Neil Camparreito relentlessly attacking five foot Miguel Pereira and actually being successful. Or Tommy Joe Lubey (T.J.) giving his older brother Scott fits on the court.

To watch these kids scratch and claw like this leaves this observer in awe. Some of the game's other standouts were April Collmer, who scored a goal. Stephanie King and Kelly Wheatley who ran the offensive line, Tommy Bradley whose defensive play was outstanding, goalkeepers Ryan Cavanaugh and Michael Todd for having the guts to play the position period!

The playing "over our heads" is finished! It is time to dish it out! Go get 'em Greenbelt.

76ers by Jane Cosner

The 76ers had another sweet victory on Sunday, March 15. They played the second place team (standings before last Sunday!!) and came away defeating their opposition 10-2.

Honorable mention of the week goes to Scott Lubey for his unpenetrable defense. Scott saved us many times as the other team tried fervently to score against us. He wasn't fooled by fancy foot-work when the other team tried to fake him out. He proved he can steal the ball away, take control of it and deliver an accurate pass to a waiting teammate. He was simply invaluable. Good work, Scottie! You were definitely noticed and appreci-

Our scorers went as follows: T.J. Trimble - HAT TRICK!;

Marc Sclawy - 2; Kris Todd - 2; Jason Everhart - 1; Peter Timer 1; and not to be left out - the other team even scored one for our side.

We now stand firm in second place and are looking forward to defeating the first place team soon. But for now we're off for the Ocean City tournament to defend our championship title which we won last year.

New Deal Activists Plan to Attend Greenbelt Conference on New Towns

The planning committee for "The Greenbelt Conference on New Towns," scheduled for May 2 and 3 at the Greenbelt Hilton, receives calls almost daily from people around the country requesting registration information.

One of the spin-offs of the conference appears to be that it is drawing together individuals now in their 70s and 80s who worked for the Resettlement Administration on the Greenbelt Towns Project between 1935 and 1937. Foremost of these is Grace Falke Tugwell.

Grace Falke was the secretary to Rexford Guy Tugwell. He was head of the Resettlement Administration, confidant of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt and originator of the new towns project. She ran the Special Skills Division under Tugwell's direction which gave meaningful work to unemployed artists. One of these artists, Lenore Thomas, sculptured the bas reliefs on Center Elementary School and the Mother and Child statue in Roosevelt Center. After marrying Rex Tugwell the Tugwells moved to Greenbelt where they lived in the late '50s and early '60s in a single-family home at 119 Northway in the Woodland Hills section. Tugwell is the honorary chairman of the conference and plans to be present throughout the weekend.

Tilford Dudley is another New Dealer planning to participate in the conference. He will introduce keynote speaker, William Leuchtenburg, who is an historian and has written many books and articles on President Roose-velt and the New Deal. As a young man, Dudley became chief of the Land Acquisition Section of the Resettlement Administra-Suburban Division. As tion's stated by Joseph Arnold in his book The New Deal in the Suburbs: A History of the Greenbelt Towns Program, "Dudley's experience in assembling large tracts of land for the government was to prove crucial to the entire suburban program."

Architects Donal McLaughlin and Charles Wagner will be par-ticipants at the conference. Mc-Laughlin and Wagner were young architects working at the Walsh-McLean Mansion at 2020 Massachusetts Avenue where the planning and architectural design work occurred.

Although no formal panel has ference brochure.

State Bill Would Ease Traffic Ills

Legislation being considered within Maryland's General Assembly would allow Greenbelt and Bowie the option of creating special taxing districts to fund innovative transportation programs. According to Delegate Mary A. Conroy (D-23rd), spon-sor of the bill, "Creating a district to tax only those landowners causing the traffic problems would avoid taxing the entire municipality for the solution to a problem created by those few individuals."

At Conroy's urging, the House of Delegates' Ways and Means Committee has reluctantly but unanimously supported the proposal as a way to allow continuing growth without being hampered by transportation problems. If passed into law, the bill would give the two cities the option of initiating ride sharing and bus systems financed by developers and landowners.

GHI NOTES

The GHI Board of Directors will meet Thursday, March 26, after a short GDC meeting which will begin at 8 p.m. GHI members are welcome to attend all meetings of the board other than executive sessions. The agenda will be posted outside the GHI office building on Hamilton Place and inside the Co-op Supermarbeen set up to bring these people together to reminisce about those early days, the conference planning committee hopes to arrange an informal session.

Registrations are now being accepted for "The Greenbelt Conference on New Towns." The deadline for preregistration is April 10. All those wishing to register at the reduced conference rate should contact the city offices at 474-8000 and request the con-including maintenance and insurance, as well as for trash collection and tree trimming.

Before the agreement takes effect, the city will place mulch around all play equipment after removing any asphalt currently in place. The contract also provides for an annual allocation of $5,000 for play equipment in GHI neighborhood playgrounds.

The agreement would be automatically renewed annually unless cancelled by either the city or Weidenfeld said there must be an understanding that the money is not a fixed amount regardless of need. Giese said that GHI feels that an annual commitment from the city is needed, since GHI is making a monetary commitment by assuming the maintenance responsibilities.

Council member Edward Putens reminded the council that, considering the cost of playground equipment, "$5,000 is not a lot of money."

Council, on a motion by Isaacs. approved the agreement with the condition that the monetary commitment by the city be subject to annual review and evaluation. Police Trailer

Council approved the Police Department's request for a second trailer, to be located behind the current trailer to the west of the municipal building in the area new used for parking of on-duty patrol vehicles. The trailer will be needed for 18 to 20 months at a cost of $350 per month plus delivery, set up, tear down and return costs.

This second trailer will be used by the patrol division for offices and a squad room. The space vacated in the building would be used for records, administrative offices and computers. Because of the loss of parking, more official vehicles will have to be parked in the west municipal parking lot.

Council member Antoinette Bram asked Chief James Craze: "This is the last time you're going to ask for a trailer, is that correct?" to which the chief replied. "Unless we get more people in the next fiscal year. yes.'

Other Actions In other actions council:

Scheduled a March 24 work session with the Boxwood Village Civic Association to discuss the association's survey and ideas on parking problems related to the lake park. Craze, after a complaint by council member Joseph Isaacs that ticketing had not occurred over the March 7-8 weekend, reported that 145 tickets were written at the lake that weekend.

-Authorized the transfer of $80,000 from the General Fund to the Capital Improvement Fund II to pay architectural fees for the the police station and swimming pools for the current fiscal year which ends June 30. These funds will be repaid to the General Fund once the city sells the bonds for the projects.

-Selected Coffin and Coffin of Washington, D.C. as landscape architect for the Roosevelt Center. Giese said that under the proposal the firm will provide a master plan. plan report and maps relating to the ultimate layout of the commercial center. The firm will not provide design plans, except for the sidewalks along Centerway. The sidewalk plan was included in the proposal to speed that project along.

-Directed staff to prepare an ordinance raising the admissions and amusement tax on night clubs and cabarets from four percent to five percent, the maximum allowable. This would result in additional revenues of $20,000 per

ARTS CENTER OPENS 'FANTASTICK' WEEKEND

"The Fantasticks" will be presented Friday evening as a pre-view performance, followed by the opening night gala performance Saturday. The Arts Center's production is presented by its resident theater company, the Greenbelt Players, and is directed by Laurie Wagner. The musical director is Becki Jones with choreography arranged by Melissa Shawe and Randy Jones.

"The Fantasticks" is the love story asking each of us to try to remember our first love. "A twisted sort of Romeo & Juliet" where the parents scheme to get their respective daughter and son together, "the Fantasticks," written by Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt, is the longest running musical in theater history. The Greenbelt Players version will run four weeks, from March 20 to April 11; performance on Friday and Saturday evenings, 8 p.m. There will also be a Sunday mating. day matinee. March 29, at 2 p.m.

Appearing in the production are: Randy Jones as El Gallo, the narrator; Jackie Krim as Luisa, the girl; Don Carter as Matt, the boy; Betsy Gaston as Hucklebee, the boy's mother; Michael Hartman as Bellomy, the girl's father; Debbie Neergaard as the mute; Carlton O. Ray, as Henry. the old actor; and Gary Kaskowitz as Mortimer, the man who dies.

The production has been designed by Brian Rudolph, employing a unique production concept in which the show is set in an abstract fantasy version of everyone's high school prom. Brian's set and lighting is com-plemented by Tina Barylski's costumes which suggest everyone's past without setting the show in any particular time or

by Mavis Fletcher

Even before the new parking policy of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. has been put into effect, the board of directors has been faced with a request for an exemption. At the March 12 meeting, representatives of part of Quadrant III appeared before the board to present an alternate plan for members in the 1, 2, and 4 Courts of Southway and the 13 and 15 Courts of Ridge Road.

The main point of the alternate plan was to designate the 13 Court of Ridge Road (the only court of the five with parking) as restricted, not reserved parking (as was originally planned by the GHI staff). According to the proposal, parking would be restricted to members of the five courts on a first-come, first-served basis. However, no member would be allowed to have more than one vehicle parked in the court at one time.

According to Peter Liebscher, who with Diana Liebscher, Edward Birner and Alan Freas, spoke for the alternative planthe proposal has the unanimous support of the members in these five courts who attended a February 11 meeting on the matter. In addition to the meeting, he said a committee had also sent questionnaires to all members of these courts and had found no opposition to the alternate plan.

The speakers' arguments for the plan basically emphasized two points: non-reserved parking is more "flexible" and there is plenty of parking in the 13 Court. Birner assured the board that there is no problem finding spaces even late at night.

The board members raised a lot of questions. Director Andrea Haslinger asked how the parking restriction was going to be enforced since it will be difficult to know who has a right to park there and who doesn't. Assistant Manager Steve Wright suggested that it might be necessary to issue identification tags for the cars. However, Liebscher noted that plan supporters had rejected the idea of tags.

Several board members seemed troubled by the fact that this plan represents an exemption to the parking policy. Haslinger pre-dicted that other courts will soon follow, also seeking an exemption. President Margaret Hogensen pointed out that the plan actually gives some of these members "one space plus." One of these members can have a garage and still "have a shot at" a parking space in the 13 Court, she continued. Two other questions raised did not receive very clear answers at the meeting. Director Ray McCawley asked whether a member could have a garage in the 17 Court and still park in the Court; Director Nancy Hutchins asked whether 17 Court residents were consulted about the plan.

In response to questions by the News Review, Wright said that residents of these courts would compete with any other eligible residents for garages which might be left over after the members assigned to the 17 Court have rented the garages they want. He also said that members of 17 Court were informed of the first meeting held in January for residents in Quadrant III but no 17 Court member attended.

Director Wayne Williams suggested that the 1 Court of Southway be taken out of the plan and assigned to the 17 Court, as it had been in the original GHI staff plan. This suggestion ultimately prevailed. So too did his stipulation that, for garage leasing priorities, the four remaining courts would be considered as one court; that is, the residents would compete equally for the garages in 13 Court.

In the end, Williams was the lone vote against a motion by Hutchins to put the alternate plan into effect for a trial period of four months. The motion passed 6-1. Director Mac Wirick, who lives in the 13 Court, took no part in the discussion and abstained from voting.

More on Parking

General Manager Ron Colton summed up the status of parking policy implementation for the board and outlined where insufficient parking exists. Board members indicated that they were not yet ready to wrestle with the intricacies of where new parking spaces should be built with the limited funds budgeted for that work this year. Williams and Hutchins said they needed priority lists and costs to decide where to spend the money.

Moreover, some questions remain to be decided. Some of these questions involve whether to build new parking spaces in the 2 Court of Gardenway and, if so, how many. The board has scheduled a meeting with the members in Area IV, which includes the 2 Court of Gardenway, where a members' petition more than a year ago started the whole parking policy revision. The meeting is set for April 2 in the Board Room of the GHI Administration

Building, Proposed Energy Tax

The board debated whether to take a position on a bill which has been introduced in the House of Delegates that would authorize the Prince Georges County Council to levy a tax on any form of energy (such as oil, gas and electricity) consumed in the county except motor vehicle fuel. Funds derived from the tax would be earmarked for education.

In his report to the board, Colton noted that no revenue estimates or fiscal impact statements are available since the tax rate, if the bill is passed, would be set by the county council. The bill does not set any limit on the rate which could be imposed.

Williams, saying that this bill gives the county the complete right to tax energy and leaves (the rate) wide open, moved to oppose the bill. Director Chuck Hess seconded the motion. The rest of the board, however, appeared reluctant to take a position on the matter. Director Janet Cantwell, saying candidly that she can't be objective about the issue because she has children in school. felt that the board should not speak for the entire membership. Hutchins said that she thought the county was in a difficult position in regard to funds for education but did not want GHI to take a position on the bill. Director Debbie Hartwick also said she did not feel that the board should take a position on the issue.

Apparently referring to the politicians supporting the bill. McCawley said that "they want everyone to say they can't oppose education." Nevertheless, he also said that the board should not take positions on political matters.

The debate ended when Hess

Man Arrested Slashing Tires on P.O. Vehicles

by Jack Brickman

Officers David Buerger and Troy Harding, responding to a report of a man slashing tires at the municipal parking lot at the rear of Roosevelt Center about 8:50 p.m., Saturday, March 14, arrested Philip K. Novick, 28, of no fixed address. When the officers arrived on the scene, says police spokesman Pat McAndrew, they saw Novick in the act of cutting a tire on a postal service vehicle. He fled and they caught him after a brief pursuit on foot. .An assessment of damage revealed that 38 tires valued at between $1500 and $2000 had been slashed on 10 postal service vehicles parked on the lot alongside the Greenbelt Post Office.

According to McAndrew, Novick stated to the arresting officers that he did not know why he had committed the damage, but police have learned that he is a former U.S. Postal Service employee. It could not be learned at this time if the suspect had ever worked at the Greenbelt office, as Postmaster Franklin Ford was not available for comment.

Novick was held on $5000 bond. He is also facing federal charges, says McAndrew, pending through the office of the Postal Inspector.
