Federal Appropriations Favor BARC Improvements, Metro Construction

by Elaine Skolnik

In its last session the United States Congress approved two appropriations of concern to Greenbelt — $180.5 million for Metro and $14 million for the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center's (BARC) "Renaissance 93" renovation program. Congress also gave the green light to a measure initiated by Congressman Steny Hoyer in the House and Senators Barbara Mikulski and Paul Sarbanes in the Senate that prohibits disposal of any BARC property without prior consent from Congress. Both pieces of legislation have been signed by the President.

In November, Hoyer's legislative aide John Berry explained that the BARC prohibition legislation was caused by repeated efforts in recent years by the General Service Administration to auction off BARC property for commercial purposes. A May 1987 auction date had been set for the 13.6-acre tract north of the National Agricultural Library. At the time Hoyer's intervention resulted in a postponement of the sale. Declared surplus in 1981, the tract has now been removed from the government's surplus property list as a result of the new legislation.

Senator Sarbanes observed that "BARC is being effectively utilized for important public purposes. The surrounding land is needed for future expansion and to provide a buffer with the adjacent communities. The sale of any of BARC's land, in my view, would be extremely shortsighted and ultimately regretted."

The Center is viewed as a tremendous national asset. Over the years local, state and federal officials have resisted many moves to excess BARC property. Today there is great enthusiasm for BARC's "Renaissance 93" renovation program, a comprehensive multiyear upgrading plan, which is estimated to cost about $150 million.

"Most of BARC's facilities have not been upgraded since they were built in the 1940's. This funding will keep our farmers productive and our agricultural research on the cutting edge of technology," said Senator Mikulski, who as a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee worked to get the funding included in the FY 1988 Agriculture Appropriations Bill.

Hoyer also offered an amendment to the BARC prohibition legislation that received the blessing of Congress. This amendment would return to BARC any proceeds from the sale of BARC land to Metro instead of its being placed in the U. S. treasury. The amendment also stipulated that the money would be used to upgrade the almost 8,000-acre Center.

Last year's initial appropriation for the program was $2.85 million. For fiscal 1988, Congress allotted $14 million, $5.8 million more than was budgeted.

Hoyer said, "It is significant that this was the largest single increase in Agriculture's budget. It shows a commitment on the part of the members of the Agriculture subcommittee to restore BARC to its world premier status."

Impact on Metro

The amendment restricting disposal of BARC land without Congressional approval is not expected to hamper Metro's acquisition of that part of the Center's property required for a metrorail yard for storing, cleaning and repairing rail cars. Earlier, Metro's Government Relations Director Gerald Gough said that Metro already has a right of entry onto BARC

GHI Debates Resale Financing Contract, Seeks Cooperation with Windsor Green

by Mavis Fletcher

On January 7 the board of directors of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. spent more than an hour discussing a recognition agreement with Clark Financial Services and then whipped through the rest of the agenda with one eye on the snow piling up outside.

In August Clark Financial Services was granted the right to make 25 share loans on GHI units under a limited recognition agreement. That number of loans has been made and the company was asking for authority to make additional loans. However, the company had problems with one of the provisions in the new recognition agreement now being used, in substantially the same form, by other lenders making share loans in the cooperative.

Shekar Narasimhan, executive vice president of Clark Financial Services and former general manager of GHI, appeared before the board to explain that the Federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie Mae) had indicated that one of the provisions of the proposed recognition agreement would be unacceptable to that institution. (Fannie Mae is the government institution to which many loans are resold by original lenders; Fannie Mae, in effect, sets industry standards.) Narasimhan produced correspondence with Fannie Mae which said that the provision must be stricken.

Debated Provision

The provision in question seeks to protect the cooperative against loss caused by the lender's "breaching its representation and warranty." In simpler language, if the borrower should default on his payments on the unit and if the cooperative could prove that the lender did not exercise due care in determining the credit worthiness of the borrower, the cooperative would get its money (monthly charges, etc.) before the lender would get his money.

In support of GHI's position, Manager Ron Colton recounted an instance in which a borrower defaulted and the sale of the unit would not cover the amount of the share loan. In that case, the lender (who is no longer active) refused to release the unit for resale until the lender got the money. GHI not only lost the monthly charges owned by the borrower but was obliged to maintain the unit for some time without being able to resell it.

Board Questions

Director Ray McCawley asked Narasimhan whether he would feel comfortable with the provision if Fannie Mae approved it. Narasimhan replied that he would. Director Wayne Williams noted that Colton evidently felt strongly that the cooperative needs the protection afforded by the provision. He said that unless the manager and the lender could work out a mutual agreement he "would have to go with the manager."

Director Mac Wirik noted that some of the lenders which make share loans on GHI homes have been active in the cooperative for a long time; with a new lender he indicated he would be more comfortable with the provision in the recognition agreement. "I like it," he said.

Finally the board passed a motion approving the recognition agreement including the provision with which Narasimhan was having problems. Narasimhan indicated that the com-

Jim and Georgia Miller Are Super Bowl Bound

by Mary Lou Williamson

The happiest man in Greenbelt this week must be Jim Miller — an avid Redskins fan and a regular listener to the morning Harden and Weaver Radio program on WMAL. Miller says he's been an enthusiastic fan since the Redskins came to Washington in 1937 when he was six years old. His dad was already a fan. Miller remembers going to a Redskins Championship game in Cleveland in 1945 with his dad. The Skins played the Cleveland Rams and he can still feel the 20 below zero cold of the bleachers.

A resident of Bird Lane in Windsor Green for the past year and of Springhill Lake for the previous 20, he listens to Harden and Weaver every morning. Miller works at night for Pepco and says he is always home in the morning. He's been with Pepco for 31 years. Jim has been married to his wife Georgia for 32 years. They have two daughters, Bridget who lives at home and Deborah Fleshman who lives in Bowie. Deborah has three children — Donnie, Shannon and Ricky.

Each week on the Harden and Weaver show Miller calls in to play their game "You Be the Quarterback." Winners receive tickets to Redskins' home games. Until last Friday, Miller says, he never got through. But on Friday he called the winning play number and "qualified" for Wednesday's Superbowl final. WMAL, the Flagship station of the Washington Redskins, gave Jim a walk-man radio for qualifying.

On Wednesday morning with Harden and Weaver, four other qualifiers along with Jim Miller played the final game. Each, in turn, called a play number from one to 20. Jim called 13 and the station played a cassette of a particular play from an earlier Skins game. Play 13 gave Jim Miller a touchdown and seven points, but so did the calls of two other "quarterbacks." In the second round the same three again called TD plays, each had 14 points. No one scored in the third round. In round four, Jim's call for Play 17 produced a field goal and he won 17 to 14. And what did the happy quarterback win?

On Friday night Jim and Georgia Miller will fly from Dulles to Los Angeles, stay at the Ramada Inn and have a free Saturday to do the town. On Sunday a bus will transport the Millers to San Diego and two tickets will get them in to the Superbowl. They will also receive a pair of Redskins jackets and an autographed football. All from the Washington Redskins and WMAL. Jim plans to give the football to his 10-year-old grandson Donnie.

Jim is a happy and pleasant man, greatly excited and pleased at his good fortune. WMAL is equally pleased, for they consider Jim to be the perfect winner — a loyal and longtime fan of both the Redskins and Harden and Weaver on WMAL.

Two Arrested in Shooting Death of Martin Ford

by Mary Lou Williamson

Two men have been arrested in connection with the death of Greenbelt resident Martin Ford. Ford was found on January 7 in the front seat of his 1986 Ford Bronco in the parking lot in front of an apartment building at 7312 Landover Road, according to Prince Georges County Police spokesman Bruce Gentile. Ford had suffered two gun shot wounds to the head, according to police records. Ford was taken by medical helicopter to the Washington Hospital Center, where he underwent surgery but did not recover. Ford died on January 14.

Chauncey Johnson, age 16, of the 7400 block of Landover Road was arrested by county police on January 14 and charged with first degree murder, Gentile said. A second suspect, Leonard Wilson, age 17, of the first block of R Street, N.E., Washington, D.C., was arrested by District police and charged as a fugitive from justice. He is awaiting extradition to Maryland where he, too, will be charged with first degree murder. Because the charge is first degree murder, 16 or 17 year old juveniles are automatically charged as adults. No bail is available under the charge. County police do not yet know the motive for the killing, according to Gentile.

Utopia Plays are a Delight

by Sandra Barnes

One never knows what to expect when attending productions at the Greenbelt Arts Center. Be prepared for a theatrical "best" at the current two-part series of one-act plays. This reviewer did not see the first part, which consists of "Out at Sea" by Slawomir Mrozak and "For Colored Girls . . ." by Ntozake Shange. However, Series Two, with three plays, is a delight.

"27 Wagons Full of Cotton" is a vintage Tennessee Williams—full of raw southern characters struggling to survive in ways that often defeat the human spirit. Cynthia Williams as Flora Meighan gives an outstanding performance as the wife of the cotton ginner, Jake Meighan, played by Sean Coe. She is coy and innocent, gentle and stormy as she is manipulated by her husband and the rakish cotton boss Silva Vicarro, played by William Bennett.

If man is portrayed at his lowest in the Tennessee Williams play, "The Happy Journey to Camden and Trenton" by Thornton Wilder is a Norman Rockwell slice of Americana. A New Jersey family decides to visit their married daughter Beulah, played by Penny Russell. The trip in the car playfully pits the young son, Arthur Kirby, played by David Greene, and his sister Caroline Kirby, played by Jennifer Larson, in a series of little vignettes that any person who has traveled in a car with young children will remember. The two youngsters are wonderful—and certainly Greene—who attends Thomas Pullen School of Arts as a drama major—demonstrates his talents through pantomime at playing marbles, harassing his sister, upsetting his mother.

The strongest character in this production is Ma Kirby, superbly played by Pam Parker-Viconage. Her worries over her married daughter's illness, her observations of people they pass by in the car, her great delight in breathing the fresh country air fill one with a sense of well-being. Barry Jernigan as Pa Kirby is a perfect foil—shy and complacent—to her firm managerial role. Ma is the stable being, the person the three children—including Beulah—look to for guidance in setting out the parameters of their lives. The cast is rounded out by Bill Deorshik, who very ably plays the stage manager, helping us look through the window at this American family.

"Impromptu" by Tad Mosel takes place on a stage in an off-Broadway theatre. The actors are called together by the director to present life—real life, not an imitation of life. Their frustrations and struggles are portrayed by the reluctant actress Winifred, Margaret Anthony; the dandified actor, Ernest, played by Bruce Chubb Miller; the unhappy actor, Tony, played by John Archambeault; and the ingenue, Lora, played by Angela Schreiber.

How do actors on a stage try to be real people instead of the pretend characters they are familiar with? Is life real or a charade? While the play itself does not have the character strength of the first two, it asks some provoking questions.

All in all, a visit to the Utopia Theater on February 5 and 6 to see these performances will be a worthwhile experience. The plays are directed by Victor Wade, Kevin Kneisley and Marie Tousignant.

What Is a Pulpotomy?

Pulpotomy is a procedure in which infected tissue is removed from only the crown portion of a tooth. In comparison to complete root canal therapy, where the entire length of the nerve chamber is treated, the root portion is specifically left undisturbed. As part of the treatment one or several medicaments may be placed inside the tooth. Their purpose is to either control infection or stimulate healing.

The pulpotomy procedure is performed primarily on deciduous (baby) teeth, where it is desirable to retain these teeth until the natural age for shedding is reached. In this way, there is no shifting or loss of space, a condition which can readily occur with premature loss of these teeth. The main advantage of this procedure is that it can usually be completed in one visit. A filling such as silver or composite, can also be placed at the same time.

Although this procedure is not 100% successful, the high rate of success achieved over the years warrants its use when indicated. The benefit of potentially saving a tooth far outweighs the small chance of losing it at a later date if the outcome is not as expected.

pany would have to decide whether to take the risk entailed in having the provision in the agreement. He also offered to try to set up a meeting which would include GHI and Fannie Mae as well as Clark Financial Services. Colton accepted this offer, saying that he had been unable to discuss the matter directly with Fannie Mae since he was told he would have to deal through a lender.

Parcel 1

Member Doug Love, a resident of Plateau Place, reported to the board on a January 4 city council worksession at which members of the board of directors of Windsor Green Homeowners Association opposed the spending of large sums of money to acquire Parcel 1, a wooded tract abutting many GHI homes and now threatened with development.

At the suggestion of Williams, the board decided that Colton should "set up lines of communication" with some of the Greenbelt East representatives to discuss matters of mutual interest. "Whatever else happens," Williams said, "I don't want to see the housing organizations start working against each other."

Other Items

By unanimous vote the board amended the regulations governing the construction of new additions to require that the area of the addition be treated for termites by an approved contractor. The use of chlordane is prohibited under the regulation.

The board also approved a request for a privacy fence in the 22 Court of Hillside. The fence is designed to prevent contact between passersby and a large dog. The neighbors supported the request and the Architecture and Environment Committee recommended approval.

BARC Land Needed for Metro

(Continued from page one) property (for survey purposes). Metro, he said, would then have sufficient time to acquire ownership of land from the government.

In the meantime Metro's Real Estate Division is awaiting certification from its Department of Engineering and Architecture for authorization to proceed with the purchase of the land. The acreage needed has not yet been determined. The estimate for the yards in 1968 was 46 acres; in 1985, 68 acres. According to Metro staff, the figure will be somewhat higher because of flood plain considerations. When the physical requirements are determined, the Metro Real Estate Division will negotiate with BARC.

Although Congress allotted Metro $180.5 million for fiscal year 1988 — A reduction from $201 million allotted in fiscal 1987 — Metro officials do not expect this decision to affect adversely the timetable for the three-mile segment of the Green Line from College Park to the Greenbelt terminus. The Greenbelt facility, which includes the station, parking for 3,000 cars and ramps for the Beltway and CSX railroad right-of-way, will be built on 45 acres of land south of the Beltway and directly west of the Springhill Lake Apartments.

Metro projects that earth tunneling from Hyattsville should start sometime in July 1988, with work proceeding on the College Park and Greenbelt station lines in September 1988.

Metro spokesperson Marilyn Dicus earlier explained that the bidding climate was favorable and "we want to build as much of the system as fast as we can."

Completion of the Green Line in Northern Prince Georges County from Ft. Totten to Greenbelt is slated for late 1993. According to Tim Ayers, press officer for County Executive Parris Glendening, the thorny problem of an alternate east-west route to replace Calvert Road, which will be closed when construction begins on the College Park Station, has been "almost 90% solved."

The county favors a four-lane northern route beginning at the north gate of the University of Maryland at US-1, then proceeding under the CSX railroad tracks and joining existing Calvert Road near the 94th Aero Squadron Restaurant. To accommodate this alignment, College Park would have to give up about a quarter of an acre of parkland. Otherwise, a corner of the historic College Park Airport would be needed. The latter choice is strongly opposed by the local pilots' organization and historic preservation groups.

The College Park City Council, civic and business groups, aviation enthusiasts and historic preservationists favor the southern route, which they claim would cause minimal impact on residents. The southern route would traverse industrially zoned land that currently has no access. This route would open the land for development.

Ayers told the News Review that the county is awaiting College Park's decision on whether the city prefers the road going through one-quarter acre of parkland or through airport property. The county, he said, is prepared to move ahead and close Calvert Road when construction begins "whether or not their decision is made."

College Park Mayor Anna Owens said that the city council is not prepared to make a decision until the city's December 11 letter to Glendening is answered. The College Park Council requests assurances dealing with (1) the limiting of any corridor roadways to three lanes except left-hand turns at the US-1 and Kenilworth Avenue intersections and intermediate intersections, (2) gaining access to station areas and making certain that they are not overutilized, (3) giving College Park authority over Calvert Road, (4) protecting residential neighborhoods west of the CSX tracks from development and traffic, (5) preventing residential areas from becoming inappropriate centers for transit operations, and (6) continuing to maintain access for residents to parkland and to each other.

Mayor Owens prefers a three-lane northern alignment coupled with the southern route. This, she said, would place a loop around the city and enhance the quality of life for the University of Maryland's faculty and students and for city residents.

Mishkan Torah Service For Hearing Impaired

Mishkan Torah will have an interpretive service for the hearing impaired on Friday, February 5 at 8 p.m. Mishkan Torah is located on the corner of Ridge and Westway Roads. For further information call 474-4223.

CITY NOTES

Both the special detail and general crews assisted with regular refuse collections. These crews worked on snow removal equipment maintenance, repaired pot holes on city streets, and cleared ice and debris from storm water basins. Some members of the special details crew worked on the electrical system for the city's parking lot street lights.

Special trash collection resumed on Thursday, Jan. 21, because special trash crewmen were needed to assist regular trash and collect Christmas trees, special trash was not collected at the beginning of that week. Special trash requests by citizens are taking between three and five working days to service.

The parks crew collected refuse from city parks and streets. The Horticulturist continued to construct a greenhouse behind the Public Works maintenance building.

The information on which these reports are based is provided by the Greenbelt Police Department as a public service to the community to give an overview of criminal activity in Greenbelt. The information provided is not a complete listing of all events and crimes reported to the police department.

After a traffic stop at Ridge Road and Ivy Lane about 12:30 a.m., January 19 for a car being operated with one headlight, officers found that the driver's license had been suspended and that his female passenger was wanted on an open warrant by the Prince Georges County Sheriff's Department. A 35 mm. canister containing suspected cocaine was found in the car. The operator, a 29-year-old Takoma Park man, was held on $2500 bond charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance (cocaine). His companion, a 29-year-old College Park woman, was also held on $2500 bond and turned over to the sheriff's department on the open warrant.

Officer David Buerger, investigating a report about 4 p.m., January 19 of a suspicious car in the 17 Court of Ridge Road, found a man sitting in a car on which the steering column had been broken open. When asked to get out of the car, the suspect dropped a hypodermic syringe. He was arrested and, in a search at the police station, two small baggies containing traces of a white powder were found in his left sock. The liquid in the syringe tested positive for heroin. The suspect, a 44-year-old Laurel man, was held on $1000 bond charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance and possession of narcotics paraphernalia.

Miscellaneous items including tools, lamps and recreational equipment were stolen January 18 from a storage bin in the 6100 block of Springhill Terrace. A lock-cutting device was used to break in.

A resident of an apartment at 122 Westway, returning home about 8:50 p.m., January 19 found her apartment had been entered and her door secured on the inside by the security chain. The chain had to be cut so she could get in. A VCR and money had been stolen. There was no sign of forced entry.

Jewelry, wine and beer were stolen January 19 from an apartment in the 6000 block of Cherrywood Court. The resident's door key had been stolen recently when she had left it in the lock. The key had apparently been used to gain entry.

A 20-year-old Seat Pleasant man and two male D.C. juveniles, ages 16 and 17 were arrested about 1 a.m., January 19 for stealing tires from a parked car in the 8300 block of Canning Terrace. Officers responding to a report of tampering with an auto stopped a car at Canning Terrace and Mandan Road in which the three suspects were attempting to leave the area. Police found that the suspects had already stolen one tire and mounted it on their car and had returned to steal another tire when they were seen by an alert citizen who reported the theft. The adult was released on personal recognizance and the juveniles were released to their parents pending court action.

About 9:25 p.m., January 19 two men tried to pay for their food at Beefsteak Charlie's Restaurant at Beltway Plaza with an invalid credit card which may have been stolen. They left without paying and fled in a car. One was described as white, age 40, 6'0", 170 lbs., brown hair, dark mustache, wearing a Redskins knit cap, dark windbreaker, dark pants. The other was white, age 16, 5'6", 115 lbs., with shoulder-length blond hair blue eyes, wearing blue jeans and a blue shirt.

A 37 yearold D.C. man was arrested for shoplifting about 3:15 p.m., January 15 at the Kemp Mill record store at Greenway Center after several compact discs fell from under his jacket as he was walking toward the door.

A 1987 Pontiac Firebird, maroon with orange stripes and T-top Maryland registration, PMN-531, was stolen January 15 from the 8000 block of Mandan Road.

A 1981 Lincoln Sedan, stolen January 19 from the parking lot at Beltway Plaza, was found the following afternoon by the Baltimore County Police Department.

On January 18 Cpl. Thomas Miskell found a Pontiac Firebird in the parking lot at 7800 Hanover Parkway which had been reported stolen to Prince Georges County police. The steering column had been smashed.

A blue leather Gucci purse with red "G" marking was stolen about 6 p.m., January 19 from the front seat of an unlocked car parked near the Dart Drug at Greenway Center while the owner was in the store.

On January 17 unsuccessful attempts were made to steal a Toyota van in the 7900 block of Mandan Road, a 4-wheel-drive Jeep in the 8000 block of Mandan Road, a 4-wheel-drive Suzuki in the 7700 block of Hanover Parkway and a 1985 Toyota Le Van in the 7800 block of Hanover Parkway. The ignitions were damaged in the vehicles on Mandan Road.

Finnegan's car wash on Cherrywood Lane was entered during the early morning hours of January 17. Fire extinguishers had been sprayed and a rack of oil knocked over. There was no sign of forced entry.

About 8:30 p.m., January 19 five milk crates were stolen from the front of the Super Fresh Food Market at Beltway Plaza. The suspect(s) fled in a white 1986 Nissan Sentra with New York registration USV322.

A 28-year-old D.C. man was

Greenbelt Students Star In "Irene" at Roosevelt
