Citizens Protest Sunrise Proposal; Manager Offers Budget Summary

by Christine Pearce

Windsor Green resident Mark Brey petitioned the Greenbelt City Council, at its April 3 regular meeting, to oppose the proposed construction of mid-rise apartments on the Sunrise property in Greenbelt East. Later in the meeting, City Manager James K. Giese presented a summary of his proposed 1989/90 budget, calling for total expenditures of approximately nine million dollars, an 8.7 percent increase over the current budget.

The Sunrise property, a 9.9 acre tract located between the Holiday Inn and the Greenway Village apartments, is currently zoned residential (R-10). Brey's petition, signed by 110 people, calls for commercial development of the site.

Brey, who moved to Windsor Green six months ago, estimated that 93 percent of the Windsor Green residents contacted have signed the petition. He said that he and many other homeowners, want to "disassociate themselves" from the Greenbelt East Advisory Committee, which they feel is not representing their interests in this matter.

Brey argued that commercial building would benefit the city by increasing the tax base, creating jobs and increasing traffic only at certain hours.

The 480 proposed garden or luxury apartments would just add to the "preponderance" of apartments already available in the city, said Brey, draining city services, increasing traffic around the clock and decreasing property values in the area.

Council members Thomas X. White and Edward Putens said accepting the petitions suggestion that 450,000 square feet of commercial office space be permitted would restrict the city's leverage in any negotiations with the developers.

Budget

Giese's budget proposal shows an increase of 8.7 percent, about $728,000 over this past year's budget. No change is proposed in the $1.21 tax rate, but increasing assessments will result in city property owners paying an average of six percent more in taxes, according to Giese's budget summary.

Commerce Center II

The designs for Commerce Center II signs were unanimously approved by council. The primary tenant signs, like those of Commerce Center I, will be internally lit, white acrylic letters. They will be placed at the roof line of the one and three story buildings of Commerce Center II, which face Hanover Parkway and overlooks the lake.

The secondary tenant signs will be "tasteful brass lettering," not the back-lit green letters of Commerce Center I, according to Midland Company representative Richard Reed. "These signs are simply to walk that fine line between the needs of leasing a building within a community and the concerns of the community and council expressed over the years," he said

Legislation

Council passed an ordinance amending the city code regarding street and sidewalk construction. Changes concern design and construction standards, responsibility for public safety, application and permit procedures, fees, maintenance of city-owned right-of-ways and other administrative procedures. Major developers will be most affected by these new changes, according to staff.

Another ordinance recommended by the Community Relations Advisory Board, was introduced for first reading. Proposed changes restrict absenteeism except for the Board member who is drawn from the clergy, and provide for a council liaison and a non-voting staff member. The last two changes formalize what has existed for many years.

Consent Agenda

The following item on the consent agenda was unanimous-

Kindergarten Registration

The Prince Georges County Public Schools has scheduled special kindergarten registration days on April 17, 18, 19, 25 and 26. While parents may register their kindergarten-age children at any time, it is hoped that they will make a special effort to have them enrolled on these dates.

Proof of residence is a prerequisite for admission. Parents or guardians who are new residents of the county or who are registering a student for the first time, must complete the Affidavit of Disclosure to verify their legal residence.

The child's birth certificate should be presented as proof of age. Children entering kindergarten must be five years old by January 1, 1990.

The Maryland State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene has regulations which require certain immunizations before children can be admitted to elementary school. Those immunizations are: diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough — for children through age 6), tetanus, polio, rubella (German 3-day measles), and rubeola (red 10-day measles).

ly approved by Council without discussion.

Council accepted the bid of $20.20 per acre from K&K Aircraft to spray for gypsy moths. The other two bidders use helicopters instead of airplanes, but because of the large contiguous area to be sprayed, city staff deemed airplane application to be acceptable.

MUSEUM'S LIVING ROOM TAKES ON A NEW LOOK

by Sandra Barnes

The living room of the Greenbelt Museum has taken on a new look with the addition of a Crosely upright radio, a donation from Cal Corell. The combination radio/phonograph which heretofore has been in the Museum dated from the early 1950s. It has been replaced by the Crosely which, with its maple finish and streamlined design, fits more with the original Greenbelt furniture which also is maple. Using tape recordings, visitors to the Museum will be able to hear President Franklin Delano Roosevelt's voice emanating from the new radio.

Another new addition for the toy room is a wicker doll carriage, on loan from Martha Sinden.

Beginning the first Sunday in May, the Museum's hours will change to 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Docents will be on duty to give guided tours of the house and grounds. Special tours may be arranged by calling the Museum at 474-1936.

The Museum Auction held on April 1 proved to be a very successful and entertaining event. The Friends of the Museum Board thank all those who contributed goods, services, prizes and time to the auction. The 1947 Dodge sedan was not sold.

However, approximately 40 items were auctioned to the highest bidder including a piano concert for eight by Al Herling purchased by Ed James; lunch in Annapolis and personalized tour of the State House with Senator Leo Green, purchased by Solange Hess as a graduation present for her grandson; and a four-hour limousine ride purchased by City Council member Tony Bram from Arnold Executive Limo as a first anniversary gift for her son Tim and his wife Kirsten.

Lunches and dinners at area restaurants proved to be among the more popular items. Proceeds from the event will benefit the Museum's Endowment Fund, established for the purpose of raising funds to hire a part-time curator.

Council Takes First Steps Toward Bond Referendum

by Christine Pearce

In the early hours of April 4, the City Council vote 4-1, with Councilmember Thomas X. White opposed, to direct staff to draft legislation authorizing a three million dollar bond referendum on or before August 15. If approved, the funds would be used to renovate either Center or North End School for a community center.

Council also hired Coakley & Williams to survey both schools and develop cost estimates for a variety of renovation options and directed City Manager James K. Giese to develop plans for using each school as a community center. Both of these tasks are to be completed within 30 days.

These actions stemmed from a plan of action proposed by Mayor Gil Weidenfeld after evaluating six alternatives previously discussed at a council work session on March 29. These included deferring construction one more year, obtaining more information and having the council decide, obtaining information and letting the voters decide, or council simply rejecting a school at North End altogether.

Weidenfeld had originally proposed that the referendum be held in June, but agreed to the later date in response to the concerns of Council members Joseph Isaacs and Edward Putens. However, Giese pointed out that the County School Board must report its plans to the state by September 1 and questioned whether an August referendum would permit construction this year. (The News Review has learned that the city has been notified that the school system needs to know the city's decision by July 1.)

The mayor objected to deferring the decision for another year because delay would increase the costs of renovation and construction. In addition, if after the delay the choice is a renovated Center School, Bladensburg Elementary School would have been empty for a year and likely will have deteriorated. (School officials plan to bus Center's students to Bladensburg during renovation.) Changes can be made in the plans at various points down the line if information obtained warrants it, stressed Weidenfeld. "There is nothing to be gained by deferment," he said.

Council members White, Isaacs, and Putens repeatedly disagreed. "There is a lot of unfinished work to be done before considering this amazing motion," stated White. He raised questions about the "financial capacity" of the city to undertake renovation of historic Center School. And if the $3 million bond referendum is passed, will that obligation "somehow gain supremacy over competing projects in the city in a list that is long and growing?" he queried.

White further was concerned that borrowing $3 million would exhaust Greenbelt's borrowing capacity. Council member Antoinette M. Bram also questioned Giese on the financial implications of such a bond referendum.

Giese responded by reassuring council that $3 million was an amount "that could be borrowed without going into excessive debt" and still retain a good bond rating.

But Isaacs emphatically said "No." Before seeking approval from the voters, he wanted assurance that the referendum will pay for the project they voted on. He was concerned by Weidenfeld's suggestion that some of the financing for renovation could come from other sources and grants. He argued that "There would be no certainty of getting those funds," and that he has "real problems depending on outside sources (for money)."

Putens said that citizens need more information about costs of renovation for each building as well as proposed uses, before they vote.

"A community center means different things to different people," said Keith Chernikoff. He supported allowing time to compile all the necessary facts on construction, operating costs and proposed uses for each building.

At the beginning of the discussion, Putens questioned whether not having specific uses outlined for a Center School community center, which has been done for North End, might affect the accuracy of cost estimates by Coakley & Williams.

Coakley & Williams representative Max Ferentinos, who had not yet toured either building, judged that it would not "dramatically" affect the cost of renovation. Moreover, he told the mayor that he would not need to know exactly where each use would be located.

But Giese did point out that the cost of Parcel 1 has not yet been determined and may be greater than the anticipated $1 million.

Rick Meetre, one of 14 people who addressed council, elaborated on Giese's point. After hearing some of the arguments, "I have been persuaded both ways on deferral," he said. But deferral would allow the city to determine the cost of the swimming pool and Parcel 1. In addition, the city would have more information on the tax base, Meetre said. With a July decision (as opposed to deferral), "the Board of Education has only until September to have plans that result in concrete and steel," he said.

David Lange argued that the county school board has the authority to renovate Center School

The Gypsies Are Here

to the Editor

Citizens of Greenbelt! This past weekend gypsy moth eggs, which were laid last year, began to hatch in my back yard. They will continue to emerge from the egg masses for the next 10 days to two weeks. Actually, this event is about a week earlier than the experts had predicted—in this area, gypsy moth eggs are usually expected to begin hatching around April 15.

The larvae, as the immature gypsy moths are known, will now imbibe hardwood trees in search of food. It is no accident that the biological clock which woke up the gypsy moths also signaled the oak trees and other hosts to "leaf out." Although the number of gypsy moth hosts exceeds 30 species of trees and shrubs, the oaks rank among the most favored foods.

I would like to encourage all Greenbelt home owners to take advantage of the city's program to provide protection for those high-value oak trees and other hardwoods on your property. The Repel'M III brand gypsy moth caterpillar tape is a real bargain. These tapes can be obtained from the city offices during business hours. If you follow the directions for use which are printed on the box, you will take a major step in protecting the green that makes Greenbelt so great!

State Tax Offices

Open Extra Hours

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said tax offices in Landover and Wheaton will remain open Saturday, April 15 from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. for both telephone and walk-in assistance. Monday, April 17 the office will be open from 8:30 a.m.-7 p.m.

The statewide toll-free telephone number is 1-800-MD-TAXES. The Landover office can be reached at 459-2710 and the Wheaton office at 949-6030.

Let's Band Together

To the Editor:

Since late March, the city has been selling Repel'M III brand sticky barrier bands to the community. The bands help prevent the soon-to-hatch gypsy moth caterpillars from reaching the tree's canopy and causing defoliation. Though the caterpillars' favorite species is the oak, they have been known to eat almost any leaf. Because of this, it is important to band all types of trees.

I realize the bands are difficult to work with. Residents are to be commended for their efforts in banding their trees to combat this potentially devastating pest.

My thanks to all of those who are participating in the banding program. Anyone interested may contact me at the city offices at 474-8000.

What is a P P O ?

PPO stands for Preferred Provider Organization. It refers to a number of groups recently organized by insurance companies in an effort to control the rapidly expanding use of dental insurance. The main objective of a PPO is to enroll dentists who agree to provide dental care at reduced fees to its members. PPO's then negotiate with larger employer groups such as the steel and auto industries as well as government agencies, and provide them with a list of dentists who have agreed to the insurance company's guidelines.

The main objection to PPO's is that they limit a patient's choice of dentist to, only those who are enrolled in the plan. This, in fact, means a patient must give up his "freedom of choice" to receive benefits. In addition many examples of insurance fraud and questionable treatment practices have been reported, especially in conjunction with large dental centers.

When selecting a dental insurance plan you should have the right to have your treatment rendered by the dentist of your choice. Most insurance plans allow the option of going to a participating or non-participating dentist. Although a non-participating dentist has no agreement with the insurance company, you can still be reimbursed directly from the company. PPO's do not have this option. Several states have passed "freedom of choice" legislation to protect the dental consumer from this unfair practice. Many other states have similar legislation pending.

for the new elementary school without the council's approval. "The real issues are do we need a community center and do we want to pay for it," he said.

But the problem raised by a number of people is that there is little accurate information on how much a community center at either location would cost, or "what $3 million would give us at Center School," in Isaacs's words.

Weidenfeld said that if the bond referendum passed, more money could be obtained from state and federal matching grants for the community center. "Not all of the money needs to come from the city," he said.

But Ferentinos was grilled on how Coakley & Williams would be able to produce accurate cost estimates along with a written report for each of the buildings so quickly. "What could be done in 30 days?" spouted White.

Putens was particularly concerned about the accuracy of such estimates. Ferentinos indicated that three separate estimates would be conducted: by subcontractors, Coakley & Williams' own estimators and outside consultants hired by Coakley & Williams. Bram expressed confidence that the firm would do a good job.

As information is obtained, "we can redraw plans" along the way, said Weidenfeld. If costs are found to be "exorbitant," or if the referendum fails (it's a message that voters don't want a community center at either location," said the mayor), "we can pull out," he said.

Gayle P. Shaw of 16 court Ridge Road, died at home on Friday, April 7, following a short illness. She grew up in New Jersey, attended Colby-Sawyer College in New Hampshire for two years, and was graduated from Florida State University. Gayle then worked for several years as a proofreader. She moved with her family to Greenbelt about two and a half years ago. She has been a mother and homemaker. Early last year Gayle began volunteering as a weekly proofreader for the News Review.

Gayle is survived by her husband John, her daughter Emily and two sisters, Joan P. Rideout and Ann P. Butts.

Contributions may be made to the American Heart Association, Southern Maryland Division, 7700 Old Branch Ave., Suite B-204, Clinton, Md. 20735.

Josephine Brooks

Josephine Leo Brooks, 61, died April 8 in Palm Bay, Florida. Born in Homestead, Pennsylvania, Mrs. Brooks was raised in Kennett Square, Pennsylvania. She lived in Greenbelt from 1963 to 1976. She had worked for the University of Maryland, retiring as the Director of International Student Services. She belonged to the National Association for Student Affairs and the Colorado Mountain Club. Mrs. Brooks had been living for some years in Palm Bay with her husband.

She is survived by her husband, George, of the home; a daughter Katherine Leo of Hyattsville, three other daughters and three sons; three sisters; and five grandchildren.

A memorial service is planned for April 14 in Florida. In lieu of flowers, the family suggests contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society.

Our Neighbors

by Dorrie Bates 345-5961

Our deepest sympathy to John Shaw and his daughter, Emily, 16 Ridge, on the death of his wife, Gayle. Gayle was a member of the News Review staff. She will be greatly missed!

Congratulations to Janis and Rich McLaughlin of Mebane, N. C., on the birth of Kathleen Quinn on March 28. "Katie" arrived six weeks early, weighing 5 pounds 8 ounces. She is doing fine and is already home with one-year-old brother Ryan. Happy grandparents are Kathleen and Henry McFarland of Fayette Place.

Welcome to Gilla Amelia Nabely, daughter of Dana Bell-Nabely and Badi Nabely of Mandan Road. Gilla joined her parents on March 20 at Holy Cross and weighed 7 lbs. 10 oz.

Eleanor Roosevelt High School has a winning representative in Marc Singer who won the Close Up Foundation suburban Maryland Regional Citizen Bee championship. Marc competed against 21 other students from seven area schools, all challenged by questions dealing with American history, politics, government, economics, culture and current events. Besides winning a $500 savings bond, Marc will join fellow ERHS students Jeni Dikes and Marc Swisdak at the state competition in Annapolis.

City Seeks Dog In Biting Incident

On Sunday, April 9 a seven-year-old boy was severely bitten on the nose by a small brown and white dog, possibly a beagle or basset hound. The dog was not wearing a collar. The incident occurred in front of 6162 Springhill Terrace.

According to city officials, the boy's physician has decided to administer a series of 7 post-rabies-inoculations over the next 28 days. The shots are necessary because of the severity of the bite.

The city is trying to locate the dog. If and when the dog is found, it will not be impounded. Officials only want to observe the dog, verify that proper care of the dog has been taken and to assure that another such incident will not occur.

Citizens with information that would assist in locating this dog should contact the Animal Warden, Martha Fenn, at 474-7200.

JOE'S TIPS OF THE WEEK

Hello Again,

Last week we had a person come in for routine preventive maintenance service on her car. The service went very smooth and no real problems were found - indicating a very well-kept vehicle. The following day, the owner called me and thanked me for washing the inside of the front windshield. I paused a second, because I had worked on that vehicle myself and honestly did not remember washing the inside of the windshield. I finally said, "Oh," when I remembered. I had replaced both windshield wiper blades with new ones and refilled the washer pump bottle as well. The owner was amazed at what difference the services made for visibility - everything looked bigger and brighter.

Windshield wiper blades are often forgotten due to their position below the hood cowling on many vehicles. Hidden in this area, the wipers absorb all of the engine's heat and cause hardening and dry rot cracks. These effects in turn cause ineffective wiping that you see as streaks and hear as squeaking and chattering noises as the windshield wipers sweep across the window.

Wiper blades and washer pumps fall into a type of maintenance problem called neglect because these auto parts are used daily.

So the next time it's raining, try your wipers. If they chatter or streak, it may be time for replacement.

Till next time
