Members Request Board Support For Nighttime Closure of Overpass

by Mavis Fletcher

The board of directors of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. approved the agenda for the May 17 membership meeting, reviewed the results of radon testing in the cooperative, and heard a member appeal for nighttime closure of the Gladys Noon Spellman pedestrian overpass to help control vandalism occurring in GHI neighborhoods near the end of the walkway.

Roscoe Butler and his brother Glenn, both of Gardenway, asked the board to support a petition they are circulating. The petition asks that gates be installed on the walkway over the Baltimore Washington Parkway, and that the gates be closed from 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. Roscoe Butler described increasing instances of vandalism which he believes can be traced to perpetrators who come across the overpass.

He detailed a recent incident when he and his brother caught a man in the act of breaking into a vehicle. When challenged, he said, the man fled in the direction of the overpass.

The petition had 138 signatures; Roscoe said that 50% of those signing wanted the overpass closed entirely. In response to a question, he said that he had not discussed the petition with residents in Greenbriar. Glenn, however, said that he had discussed the matter with people in Greenbelt East and found that the same problem exists there. He suggested that perpetrators are parking in Greenbelt East where extra cars attract less attention and then are crossing the overpass to commit crimes.

The board expressed sympathy for the residents whose property is being vandalized or stolen. However, several board members had reservations about the proposed remedy. Director Margaret Hogensen, said that "it is absolutely essential" that the walkway be open for students. She also recalled the protracted effort it took to get the overpass built and suggested that this petition might "open up the whole question again."

Director Chuck Hess queried whether some people might need to use the bridge earlier than 6 a.m. He especially mentioned users of the Metro buses which start running at 5:30 a.m.

Butler countered that, in his opinion, the board is obligated to support GHI members and respond to their concerns. He pointed to information which he said came from the police department that only one officer patrols all central Greenbelt at night. President Wayne Williams pointed out that this kind of incident is the kind of crime where Neighborhood Watches can be most effective but that the board had tried with no success to get GHI members interested in starting such a watch.

The board accepted the petition and agreed to discuss the matter further at the next board meeting on April 27. In the meantime, General Manager Ron Colton was instructed to contact city officials about the problem. Butler said that the petition would be presented to the city council on April 17.

Annual Meeting Agenda

The board approved the agenda for the annual membership meeting. In addition to reports from officers and the Audit Committee, the agenda provides for a vote by the membership on five bylaws changes and a change to the Certificate of Incorporation Charter.

Two of the bylaws changes and the change to the Certificate of Incorporation aim at compensating officers, directors, and employees for liability incurred in connection with their GHI duties. One of the proposed bylaws changes would replace Article XI of the current bylaws, which deals with such indemnification, with wording drafted by the corporation counsel which more fully takes advantage of the provisions of Maryland law.

Another proposed bylaw change enables a one-time amendment of the certificate of incorporation in order to insert a paragraph dealing with indemnification into the latter document. Finally, the change to the certificate of incorporation itself is on the agenda.

Three other bylaws changes are proposed. One represents a return to an earlier practice of allowing members to vote for directors and candidates for the Audit Committee after the meeting. This change was proposed by the Nominations and Elections Committee. Another proposed bylaws change would limit the president's obligation to sign contracts to Mutual Ownership Contracts and any contracts which would involve transfer of real property. This change would bring the bylaws into line with current practice in which the general manager signs contracts for routine goods and services used by the cooperative.

One other proposed bylaw amendment would be an editorial change which would eliminate a discrepancy in deadlines which was inadvertently introduced into the document when the bylaws were amended at the last meeting.

Door Prizes

The board authorized awarding a $100 United States Saving Bond and two $50 bonds as door prizes at the annual meeting which will be held at Center School on May 17.

Voting for the board of directors and audit committee members will take place from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the city council room on May 18.

Radon Testing

According to Colton's report, 407 units (at least one in every row) were tested during last winter. The results summarized for the board show that none of the homes tested reached the level of 4 pCi/l at which the Environmental Protection Agency recommends that some ventilating measures be undertaken. The block, frame, brick and the 25 townhouses averaged less than one pCi/l. The detached homes averaged 1.7. In one home where the measurement was 3.3 (still well below EPA's "action point") Colton noted that the measurement was taken in the basement where slightly elevated levels can be expected.

Colton said that all residents whose homes were tested have been provided with the test results for their units.

Tree Trimming Contract

The board introduced for first reading a one-year extension of the tree trimming contract with Hall's Tree Service. The maximum amount of the contract is not to exceed $30,000. Referring to last year's experience with drought and storms, Colton, when pressed by Hess, declined to say that this amount would cover the year's tree service costs but said he hoped it would.

Member Nathan Shinderman argued that the bylaws require that a contract of this size be put out for competitive bids. Colton, however, expressed satisfaction with the present service and pricing method which he thought GHI would have little chance of bettering through

Gypsy Moth Update: Spraying Starts Soon

by Renee M. Winsky

The Maryland Department of Agriculture will begin spraying between April 28 and May 1, depending on the weather. Bt (Bacillus thuringiensis), a naturally occurring bacteria, will be applied to 668 acres in Greenbelt. An agricultural sticker will be added to the Bt so that it will adhere to the foliage. It will also adhere to other items, such as cars and lawn furniture. If washed off promptly, it should not harm such items. Bt is not harmful to people, pets, birds or other animals, but if ingested by caterpillars, gypsy moth, tent or others, it is fatal. On the day of the spray, measures will be taken to warn people that the helicopter will be spraying. Again, the spray is not harmful to humans or pets, this is done only as a precaution.

A second application of Bt will be made by the city's aerial pesticide applicator to 410 acres in Greenbelt, approximately five days after the State's application, depending on proper weather conditions. This second spray, necessary because of the extremely high egg mass counts in the northeast section of the city, will provide greater control in this heavily infested area. The same measures will be taken to warn before the spraying.

With questions regarding the city's Gypsy Moth Control Program, call Renee Winsky at 474-8000. For information on the State's Program, call toll-free hotline at 1-800-492-2105. The Greenbelt Municipal Access Channel B10 will air notices regarding both sprays.

Hunting Ridge Starts

Recycling Program

Hunting Ridge Condominiums on Hanover Parkway launched their newspaper recycling program with a kickoff event on April 15. Hunting Ridge is the first condominium in the county to establish such a program, according to the office of County Executive Parris Glendening. Residents in the complex's 362 units will now have the opportunity to bring their newspapers to one of nine locations at Hunting Ridge for collection and recycling.

No Protection

To the Editor:

GHI's management, attorney and Nominations and Elections Committee have proposed amending GHI's bylaws and charter.

At its March 23 meeting, GHI's board postponed certain of these proposals for study and directed attorney Marjorie Corwin to revise the proposed amendments on indemnification.

The attorney submitted further revisions on indemnification to the board on April 13. Ms. Corwin's new proposal would have us rewrite bylaws Article XI and insert into the charter a liability proposal which I had never seen until April 11.

The proposed liability provision, locked forever into the charter, says that to the full extent of Maryland law neither GHI nor the membership can sue a GHI officer or director for money damages. And it says not one word about what that person may have done.

What is indemnification? If someone faces legal action, and if a corporation (in this case GHI) will furnish or pay for the legal defense and—if the case is lost—pay damages, the corporation has indemnified that person.

We ought to stand behind our elected people and staff if they've done an honest, responsible job. But not if they did wrong, out of malice, gross negligence, etc.

The existing Article XI indemnifies directors and employees provided that the claim does not arise "out of his or her own willful misconduct, gross negligence, or fraud."

Corwin's provision has no such restriction. Instead, she broadened the indemnification "to the maximum extent" permitted under Maryland law. She also put in language to assure that no matter what we do about amending or repealing Article XI, it still would be in effect for persons at risk for actions before such amendment or repeal. (This seems reasonable). I objected to taking out the existing restrictions as to circumstances and misbehavior. Corwin replied that state law covers and will always cover these issues. I do not share her confidence that the legislature will never rewrite the law to delete its present protections.

I am gratified that Corwin has added to the indemnification proposal the requirement that the GHI person face legal action "by reason of service in that capacity"—in other words, we'd no longer have to defend them for actions having nothing to do with GHI. I'm pleased that she also added language that we don't indemnify "if it is proved that such person's actions . . . were in bad faith," dishonest or for improper benefit. Bravo. Now please restore willful misconduct and/or gross negligence and I'll feel lots better.

As to her proposal for affording full liability protection for directors and officers in the charter, Corwin gave us no safeguards in cases of dishonesty, misconduct, gross negligence, etc. Sorry Ms. Corwin. As it now stands, we must vote no on the amendment to revise the charter and on her proposed liability amendment.

Amending the charter worries me. It is a precious monument in GHI history. Parts of it are obsolete or unintelligible. I would rather the Board set up a committee to study the charter and the bylaws.

I strongly am for the N&E proposal to let us vote both the night of the membership meeting and the following day.

Why do dentists use different kinds of x-rays?

The type of diagnostic information sought determines the type of x-ray taken by your dentist. Periapical and bitewing are the two most common types. Periapical x-rays show the entire tooth, including the root and supporting structure. They are held in place with either your finger or a specially designed holder. Bitewings, which are held by biting upper and lower teeth together, are primarily used to detect decay between the teeth. Both of these are referred to as "intraoral" types. An additional "intraoral," the occlusal film, is used to examine either the roof or floor of the mouth for cysts and other abnormal growth.

X-rays that are taken with the film kept outside the mouth are known as "extra-oral." The most commonly used is the panoramic type. It shows all the teeth and most of the jaw on one large film. Impacted, tilted, or extra teeth, as well as certain fractures can be seen on the panoramic x-ray. Other "extra-oral" types are lateral jaw, which shows abnormalities of the jaw and temporomandibular joint, and cephalometric, which shows all the bones of the head to evaluate growth and development. These two are not routine and are taken only when a specific need exists.

competitive bids. Since the by-laws specify that competitive bids are required only "when practicable," the board chose to consider that the corporation would not benefit from putting out bids since an estimated 10-20 hours of staff time would be involved in doing so.

Household Insurance

In reporting on a recent fire in the 19 Court of Hillside which caused substantial damage to two units, the manager reported that he understood that one member had tenants property insurance to cover the loss of household contents but that, reportedly, the other did not.

Members of the board emphasized the importance of making members aware of the need for such insurance. Shinderman asked whether it would be possible for GHI to investigate "blanket insurance" which members could take advantage of on better terms than they could get individually. According to Assistant Manager Steve Wright such a program was tried at one time but few members showed any interest in it. Williams suggested that GHI could require new members have such insurance when they come into the cooperative. No action was taken.

New Audit Committee Member

Leta Mach, chair of the audit committee, announced that Lynette Andreson had been chosen as the new member of the committee. A vacancy had been created by the resignation of Julian Weiss.

SHL HOLDS WORKSHOP ON SIGN LANGUAGE

"The Basics of Sign Language" will be the topic of a workshop, April 26, 7:30-8:30 p.m. at the Fountain Lodge in Springhill Lake. Participants can learn basic sign language terms and concepts, through role playing and much audience participation.

"This unique and beautiful language is fun and surprisingly easy to learn," said Heather McArthur, speaker for the evening. "People are often surprised how much they can pick up in one hour."

Refreshments and door prizes will be offered. Call 474-4555 to register. There is no charge for this workshop.

When It All Stacks Up, Merrill Lynch Realty Associates are #1!

The Figures are in! When the Washington Business Journal added it up, Merrill Lynch Realty came out ahead. According to their April 25, 1988 report, we sell more properties per associate and average a higher sales volume than the four other major brokers in the area. In fact, Merrill Lynch Realty averaged 10 sales units per associate in 1987. That's almost 30% more than our nearest competitor. In addition, our average sales volume was almost $1.5 million per associate.

If you're an experienced associate and you'd like to increase your earnings, find out how you can Team Up With The Best.

JOE'S TIPS OF THE WEEK

Hello Again,
My customers often come in and ask me how their vehicles are faring. Occasionally, they tell me horror stories of breaking down on highways and deserted roads. I truthfully agree that this is one mishap that I wouldn't wish on my worst enemy. However, if this happens to you, here are a few hints to prevent disasters.

First of all, know your vehicle. If it stalls, know what is going to happen—remember that you will lose your power-assisted components. Place your shift in neutral. Do not place it in drive or park. If your vehicle is standard, just push in the clutch pedal.

Try to restart the engine. But if it does not start, as luck has it, then don't panic! Safely get your vehicle off the road as far as possible. Then place your emergency flashers on at this time. Once again, try to start the engine, and if it fails to start, get assistance immediately.

Remember these tips:

- * Place concern on yourself and passengers first.
- * Do not exit on traffic flow side.
- * Do not stand at the rear of vehicle - stand to the side.
- * Use common sense by not going further when your car won't make it.
- * Plan a preventive maintenance program to avoid such incidents.

Remember that it's not worth the trouble to have your car break down when you can avoid it.

Till next time
Think Preventive Maintenance
