Many New Entries in 1989 Parade Will Entrance Greenbelt Viewers

by Sandy Smith

A record-setting 72 entries will march down Crescent Road in Greenbelt's 35th Annual Labor Day Parade, 10 a.m., September 4. They will be marching under banners stretched high above the roadway which have advertised the four-day community celebration to city residents and visitors alike. The parade is always a highlight of the festival.

The first sign of the 1989 parade will be marchers carrying green and white flags, banners and balloons. Among special groups in this year's procession are four distinguished musical groups—the 130-member marching band from Middletown, Maryland High School, the Potomac River Jazz Club, the Pawtomack Ancients Fife & Drum Corps, the Prince Georges County Police Pipe Band.

The Middletown High band, a winner of numerous awards, has played in many parades and concerts. The Potomac River group, marching along to the traditional brass jazz sound, will be followed by costumed marchers evoking the street parades of

SCHOOL OPENS TUESDAY

Foreign Language Programs to Increase As Magnet School System Expands

by Barbara Likowski

Students in the Prince Georges school system will return to school Tuesday, September 5 for the 1989-90 school year. Enrollment is projected to be 105,353, about a 1,000 increase over last year. This continues an upward trend in the number of students enrolled that began in 1987 after implementation of the magnet school system. This year the county will operate 172 schools. Fourteen programs will be offered in 47 magnet schools.

The magnet schools, which offer specialized programs, were instituted as a means of achieving racial integration. They are open on a first-come first-served basis following integration guidelines. A special registration was held last winter and all schools are now filled. A new program in Spanish will be offered this year at Phyllis E. Williams elementary school.

Interest in foreign language classes has continued to expand with the introduction of the magnet schools. The highest percentage of secondary students in 21 years was enrolled in language

New Orleans. Another costumed group is the Pawtomack Drum Corps from Alexandria, Va. The Police band, a 30-member group which plays for ceremonies and special events throughout the county, will be making music for the first time at the Greenbelt Labor Day parade.

Other featured groups are the Irish Dance School of McLean, Va., which will perform traditional Irish dances; the Diamond Wheel Square Dancers, offering a do-si-do along the parade route; the popular Greenbelt Kazoo Band; the Blackthorn Stick Irish Dancers, who also perform throughout the parade, and the Decorated Bikes and Trikes.

Walt Starling, traffic reporter of radio station WLTE, will serve as the parade's Master of Ceremonies, leading the parade and then taking his place at the reviewing stand to describe all the entries that follow.

The newly-crowned Miss Greenbelt for 1989 and her court will appear in a float carrying out the Pageant's nautical theme. Look for the Little Miss Greenbelt group which will follow closely. For the first time there will be Miss Greenbelt programs including the schedule of events, a biography of each girl and information about the "Make a Wish Foundation" for sale.

Certainly coming the farthest distance to appear in the parade will be 24 marchers from Ziguinchor, Senegal, West Africa—Greenbelt's sister city. The marchers will be in costume; they are visiting Prince Georges County during a special tour of the United States.

State, county and city officials will appear in the parade to greet the crowds. All will be riding in classic cars from the Potomac Classic Thunderbird Club and the Group Corvair. Throughout the parade there will be classic cars, imported and domestic, from the 1930's to the '60's.

Outstanding Citizen

The Grand Marshal of the parade, as in the past years, will be the 1989 Outstanding Citizen. The resident to be honored will See FESTIVAL, page 13

DIGNITARIES AFFIX SIGN NAMING CENTER SCHOOL 'DRUG FREE ZONE'

by Heather Elizabeth Peterson

"A decade ago, if we got together to discuss a drug-free program, many people would have been puzzled if we chose an elementary school in which to make that announcement," said Prince Georges County Executive Parris Glendening at Greenbelt Center Elementary School on August 28. He and many other county, state, and city officials were at Center to install on school grounds a sign saying "Drug-Free School Zone."

Center School is the first school in the state to receive the bright yellow sign. Identical signs will be displayed at all public and some private county schools within a few days of the beginning of the school term.

Glendening said that the sign indicates that area officials are determined to get tough on dealers who attempt to sell drugs on school grounds.

He spoke of the anti-drug education programs in the county schools. One such program is DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education), in which all county sixth-graders will be taught drug and alcohol resistance by police officers. Police Chief Michael Flaherty later pointed out that Greenbelt had the first DARE program in the county.

Tom White and Ruth Kastner File as Council Candidates

Greenbelt City Councilmember Thomas X. White was the first person to file nominating petitions for candidacy in the upcoming Greenbelt City Council election. White's petition was filed on August 25, along with his acceptance of the nomination. He is seeking his ninth term on the council.

Other candidates who have similarly filed are Mayor Pro Tem Joe Isaacs, whose candidacy was announced last week, and newcomer Ruth Kastner. Mayor Gil Weidenfeld, who also last week announced his intention to run again for a council seat, has not yet presented his nominating petitions.

White, who was elected to council in 1973, has served eight terms, including one as Mayor Pro Tem. He has been active in organizations, dealing with municipal affairs, on the state and national levels as well as in the Washington metropolitan area.

Kastner, who has been active in various citizen organizations in Greenbelt and Prince Georges County dealing with environmental issues and regional planning, has not previously run for political office.

Council Discusses Senior Citizens Task Force Report, Approves Bids

by Helen Webb

The Greenbelt City Council accepted the final report of the Senior Citizens Task Force at a work session held Monday, August 21. The task force was established in December 1987 to "recommend the essential elements for an adult day care center program and a senior citizen activity center program" and "to consider whether there should be a permanent committee to identify the elements of a comprehensive senior citizen program." The report was placed on the agenda of council's September 11 meeting.

In its final report, the committee made seven recommendations to council. These included: 1) establishment of an Adult Day Care Center and Senior Citizen Activity Center; 2) a recommended administrative structure including directors for each center and a Center Coordinator responsible for "the operation and use of the entire intergenerational facility;" 3) a committee to suggest programming and offer advice to the Activity Center Director; 4) establishment of a community referral resource; 5) creation of a senior citizen advisory board to advise council on issues related to the needs of the elderly; 6) creation of a comprehensive senior citizen policy for the city by the advisory committee; and 7) an outline of the other responsibilities of the advisory committee.

In its discussion with council, the committee members emphasized that the two centers should not be seen as totally separate entities. Both would have to address the health and transportation needs of senior citizens. Mayor Gil Weidenfeld pointed out that "a lot of work needs to be done to make sure you don't just have facilities," as has happened with programs in other communities. Nutrition programs and a multi-generational atmosphere were discussed as being vital to the success of a senior center.

Funding of the centers was discussed. Currently an application is on file with the Maryland Department of Aging for matching funds to renovate space for a senior citizen activity center. Initially it was rejected and, according to Betty Timer, chairman of the committee, no action will be taken on the application until the Prince Georges County government has finished its master plan for dealing with senior citizen issues.

While the formation of an Adult Day Care Center will have to wait until formation of the community center at Center School, a number of the features of the Senior Citizen Activity Center are being performed now or could be begun in the near future, according to committee members. Currently, committee member Karen Haseley of the Youth Center fields calls from people wanting to volunteer or able to do chores and matches them with elderly citizens in need of assistance. and PGCC sponsors classes for older area residents at the Youth Center. Committee member Helen Geller suggested that a senior news column could be written for the News Review, and committee member Marsha Barrett pointed out that the former location of the High's store in the center would make a good temporary "senior citizen 'drop-in' place" to serve as a focal point for information distribution and activities.

When asked by council members, many of the Senior Citizens Task Force members expressed interest in serving on future committees.

Dump Truck Purchase

Prior to the work session, council held a special meeting at which a resolution passed 4-1 to authorize the negotiated purchase of a used dump truck and used wrecker/tow truck. While all council members favored the purchase of the dump truck, council member Thomas X. White voted against purchase because he did not think that the tow truck was needed and thought that the cost of operating it might increase over time.

A resolution then passed 5-0 to purchase a service contract with Syntronic Technology for public works department radio equipment maintenance, and a resolution passed 4-1 to accept a bid of $79,665 for heating and air conditioning units for the municipal building. White dissented because of minor irregularities in the bidding process.

After the work session, the council voted to inform the National League of Cities that Greenbelt is in favor of legislation to regulate cable television rates; to move city council meetings to the 2nd and 4th Mondays of each month; to set a date for dedication of a donated statue in Schrom Hills Park for sometime during the week of September 18; and to leave the matter of a new mural for the soon-to-be repainted Co-op building in Roosevelt Center to be settled between the building owners, tenants, and a group of interested local artists.

Correction

In last week's schedule of events for the Labor Day Festival there were some errors. This is the correct information.

The Greenbelt Museum will be open on Sunday and Monday from 1-5 p.m. and will not be open on Saturday.

Looking for Reunion To the Editor:

In 1991 the Greenbelt High School Class of 1941 should be having its 50th reunion. We were the first class to begin as freshmen in the new high school and graduate four years later.

Long ago I moved to Michigan and have lost track of my 24 classmates. Is anyone still around? Are plans underway for our reunion? Please let me know. I missed our 45th, if there was one, and hope not to miss out again. I would love to see everyone!

The evening shift for adult spraying will be reduced to a complaint-only basis. Communities will only be checked if complaints are received by Monday or Tuesday of each week. Homicide Suspect Hunted in Greenbelt

by Mary Lou Williamson

A fugitive from the Baltimore police hid out Sunday night, August 27, in a residence in the 14 court of Ridge Road with a woman whom police believe to be his current girl friend. According to Greenbelt police spokesman David Buerger, the man, who has been involved in a custody battle for his children, shot his ex-wife in the head Sunday evening about 8:15 p.m. in her home in Lansdown, Md. The woman later died in the hospital, Buerger told the News Review late Tuesday. The man is considered to be armed and dangerous and is still at large. (See photo.)

Baltimore police notified Greenbelt police later Sunday evening of their suspicion that the man, Neal Frederick Willey, III, might seek refuge in Greenbelt. About 2:30 a.m. Greenbelt Police staked out the Ridge Road residence. The man came out of the house about 5:30 a.m. leading officers on a foot chase through the woods toward University Square Apartments, Buerger said. When the officers lost sight of the man, the canine followed the scent briefly, but lost it behind 8003 Lakecrest Drive. The search then widened as county police officers and a canine unit joined city police and their two dogs on the ground. In the air, a U.S. Park Police helicopter searched a wider area.

The man is thought to be traveling on foot, as his vehicle was impounded early Sunday morning for Baltimore police. Police believe Willey lives in the Baltimore area and has spent some time recently in Florida with relatives.

A warrant charging Willey with homicide is on file with the Baltimore police who are conducting the investigation, Buerger said.

"Anyone seeing a person matching the description of or knowing the whereabouts of Mr. Willey," Buerger emphasized, "is strongly urged not to approach him, but to notify the Greenbelt police at 474-7200."

Because of the Labor Day Holiday, Monday September 4, 1989, there will be NO REFUSE COLLECTION that day. Monday's route will be collected on Tuesday and Tuesday's route will be collected on Wednesday. THERE WILL BE NO NEWSPAPERS COLLECTED ON WEDNESDAY. Thursday and Friday will be on regular schedule.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THE NOV.7 ELECTION

by Gudrun H. Mills, City Clerk

On Tuesday, November 7, the citizens of Greenbelt will elect the five members of the City Council who will represent them for the next two years. Anyone who is eligible to vote in Greenbelt city elections is eligible to run for one of the five seats on the city council. Members of Council receive a salary of $5,000; the mayor receives a salary of $6,000.

Voter Registration

This is the first step to qualify as a voter—to run for office or to vote for a candidate in the November 7 regular election. It is very simple to do so. Greenbelt residents may register at a number of locations, including the City Offices, Greenbelt Homes, Inc., Glen Oaks Apartments rental office, Green Ridge House, Springhill Lake Fountain Lodge and community centers in Greenbriar, Hunting Ridge Condominiums and Windsor Green. (Please see city ad for locations and times). The last day to register for the November 7 election is Monday, October 9.

Mail Registration

Those unable to appear at one of the designated registration places may register by mail. To do so, call 474-8000 or 474-3870 or mail in the coupon that is part of the city's notice (see ad). However, those wishing to register by mail are cautioned that the completed registration form (on yellow paper) must be received by the City Clerk no later than Oct. 9. Citizens whose registration forms are received in the City Clerk's Office after this deadline will not be able to vote in the November election.

Voter Qualification Requirements

For the City of Greenbelt voters must be: Citizen of the United States, at least 18 years of age as of the date of the November 7, 1989, city election, domiciled within the corporate limits of the City of Greenbelt as of the date of registration, and of sound mind. The city charter defines "Domicile" as the dwelling place which the voter intends to be his or her permanent home.

Registration Statistics

At the June 27, 1989, special referendum election, 1,617 electors voted, out of a total of 3,106 registered voters. In 1987, the city had 3,106 registered voters, and 1,777 electors cast ballots in the council election. Presently, the city has 3,107 registered voters: 1,029 in Precinct 3 (Center); 1,097 in Precinct 6 (North End); 138 in Precinct 8 (Springhill Lake); and 843 in Precinct 13 (Greenbelt East). Presently 7,946 Greenbelt residents are separately registered with Prince Georges County to vote in federal, state, and county election. Greenbelt residents not yet registered with the city can still register prior to October 9, so that they may vote in the November 7 city election.

Candidacy for Council

Any qualified voter of the city wishing to run for council may do so by obtaining from the city clerk and filing the following forms:

1. Nomination Petition — This form requires the signature of at least 50 qualified voters of the city, and must be signed by the circulator of the petition and notarized. The signatures should give the petitioners' proper name e.g., Mary Doe, not Mrs. John Doe) and address.

2. Acceptance of Nomination— This form notes that the nominee agrees to serve, if elected. It must be filed along with the nomination petition.

3. Financial Disclosure Statement—This form lists business entities and real estate interests held by the nominee and family, and sources of specified income or debt. The statement covers the period January 1, 1988 thru June 30, 1989. Candidates who had previously filed a statement for calendar year 1988 will be required to file a supplemental report for the period of January 1 thru June 30, 1989. The financial disclosure statement must also be notarized.

The deadline for filing to be a candidate in the November 7 regular election is Monday, September 25, at 5 p.m.

The City Clerk verifies that nomination petitions meet the requirements of the city charter. A drawing will be held by the Board of Elections in the City Offices on Monday, October 2, at 7:30 p.m. to determine the order in which the candidates' names shall be placed on the ballot. This meeting is open to the public; candidates, their families, supporters, and interested citizens may attend to witness the draw.

Candidates are also required to file a notarized interim report of campaign contributions no later than noon, October 23; and a final campaign contribution report must be filed no later than 5 p.m. Monday, November 13. This report shall list the name, address, and amount contributed of every contributor, other than the candidate or a member of his or her family, who has contributed more than $25.00 in furtherance of the candidate's nomination and election.

Absentee Voting

Voters who will be unable to appear at their polling place on November 7 by reason of illness, religious beliefs or absence from the city may vote by absentee ballots. The first day to apply and vote by absentee ballot will be Wednesday, October 18. (Please watch for city ads.)

Election of Council

The five candidates each receiving at least 40 percent of the total number of votes cast and the highest number of votes cast will be elected. If fewer than five candidates receive at least 40 percent of votes cast, a run-off election will be held on Tuesday, November 14. Twice as many names of unsuccessful candidates as there are positions to be filled will be submitted to the voters. In more than 20 years this has not been necessary.

Greenbelt does not have provisions for election of the mayor or mayor pro tem by the electorate. At the organization meeting on the Monday following the election (Monday, November 13) the newly elected council will elect the mayor and mayor pro tem. Traditionally, the new council has elected the highest vote getter to be mayor, and the second highest vote getter to be the mayor pro tem for the ensuing two-year term.

Kastner Biography

A member of Citizens for Greenbelt (CFG) since 1981, Ruth Kastner joined CFG's Planning and Zoning Committee in 1987. She was elected secretary of CFG in 1988 and again in 1989. She represented CFG at the 1988 Master Plan Public Hearing for Greenbelt/College Park/Langley Park. She stepped down as secretary in July to run for city council.

In November 1987, Kastner founded, together with neighbor Paul Downs, the Committee to Save the Green Belt (CSGB), a citizens' group dedicated to preserving Parcels 1 and 2 and the 72-acre surplus school board property as woodlands. She currently serves as treasurer of CSGB. The city has since acquired Parcel 2 and the 72 acres and has begun condemnation proceedings on Parcel 1.

Kastner founded Prince Georges for Responsible Growth (PGRG) in February 1989. PGRG is an alliance of citizens and civic groups united to advocate controlled development, good planning, and preservation of the natural environment.

Kastner was born in Schenectady, New York in 1955 and her family moved to Greenbelt in 1959, when she was four years old.

After graduating from Parkdale High School in 1973 she attended Frostburg State College for two years, transferring to the Peabody Conservatory of Music in Baltimore to complete a bachelor's degree in music education with violin major.

After marrying fellow Peabody student Charles Hagegans in 1979, she attended the University of Maryland, receiving a bachelor of science degree with high honors in physics, in 1982.

Concerned about the increasing impact of crime in the area, Kastner served on the city's newly formed Crime Prevention Committee in 1982.

After her two daughters, Wendy (6) and Janet (3) were born, she became involved in local planning and zoning issues and environmental concerns.

She formerly worked for the News Review, beginning in her teenage years, writing occasional articles and doing proofreading.

Kastner has also written commentary on local and national issues for the Prince Georges Journal. Her hobbies are writing, playing the piano, and trying to keep up with the latest developments in modern physics.

M-NCPPC Presents Early Options For Northway Ballfield Complex

by Betsy Likowski

Some preliminary plans for the Northway ballfield complex were presented at the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board (PRAB) and the Advisory Planning Board (APB) meetings on Wednesday, July 12. The plans were produced by the staff of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission (MNCPPC) under the Aid to Municipalities Program at the request of the city of Greenbelt.

The plans were presented to the boards for their comments as the first step in the long process of planning a park. The present Northway ball fields are located on five acres at the eastern end of Northway between Ridge Road and the Baltimore-Washington Parkway.

The city has long planned to expand the Northway ballfield complex but did not own the surrounding 72 acres until June. At present the five-acre site on the former city landfill has two baseball fields and an unpaved parking lot. A recreation department wish list prepared in October 1984 called for two additional softball fields, two combined soccer/football fields, tot lots, picnic areas, perimeter trail system, parking lots and lighting to be located on the tract when acquired by the city and made into a park.

The plans presented on July 12 showed ball fields and a trail system. Three different optional layouts placed the fields in different configurations, but the majority of the fields in all options were along Northway. This is for access reasons, according to Recreation Department Director Hank Irving.

According to Celia Wilson, the city's Planning and Development Coordinator, about 15 acres of trees would be cleared from the area along Northway in all the options; in two of the options, an estimated six additional acres would be cleared from the site near Hamilton Place. In all the options the distance from nearby residences would range from a minimum of 500 ft. to 750 ft.

Planning Process

To prepare these plans the staff at M-NCPPC analyzed maps and surveyed the tract this spring. The tract is woodland with most being oak and hickory trees with large stands of pine trees in the northern part of the tract. Soil analysis found that soils in a low-lying area in the eastern central area make it not suitable for use.

The review on July 12 is the first step in the process of planning the park that is envisioned to include the 72-acre tract and Parcel 1. Both boards have indicated that they would like to see the results of a needs assessment study of various recreation facilities, such as ball fields. The assessment will be done under the same program as the Northway fields complex at M-NCPPC. And then the plans will come back before the boards for review later this year.

Option A

In option A the existing field at the far eastern end of Northway would be the site of two baseball fields. South of them would be another baseball field. To the west of the two would be two baseball fields with an overlapping soccer field. Parking would be between the two field groups. Another soccer field is proposed northeast of the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. office on Hamilton Place.

Option B

Option B would contain (from east to west) two baseball fields in the existing field area, a parking lot, a soccer field, and then two baseball fields.

In this option there would also be a combination soccer/football and baseball field northeast of the GHI offices.

Option C

In option C there is no ball field planned near Hamilton Place. The existing field area would contain a soccer field in the north and a baseball field in the south. To the west would be a soccer/football field. West of that would be a cluster of three baseball fields with the home plate areas pointing together. A tot lot, restrooms and storage facility would be in the middle.

Presentation

Irving gave a short presentation of the preliminary plans for the ball field complex. He said the field near Hamilton Place proposed in options A and B would be an intrusion and in option A the lack of parking would be a problem. He said there were attempts to avoid overlapping fields, because the seasons overlap, but only option C has no overlapping fields. On option B there are problems with the north/south orientation of the fields.

In sum he said the staff prefers option C, for the fields are centrally located, the least amount of trees would be lost and clustering fields would ease programming of field events through shared lighting expense and bleacher use.

Several people were present to express concerns about tree loss. Irving said some ball people like trees, too, "we are very sensitive to the loss of trees and open space" and claimed these plans represented a minimal impact on the property the city has acquired.

Marsha Barrett asked if the city could use three ball fields in the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center that are not being used just north of the city and off of Edmonston Road. Joe Isaacs said that at Windsor Green fields are used that do not belong to the city and the use of them could be taken away from the city. The city would not want to be in a similar position with the federal government, he said.

Trail System

A trail system that would run throughout the whole city was also discussed at the PRAB meeting. City Administrative Assistant Eric Berlin said he would draw up the plan of trails, bike-ways, and sidewalks that are existing, planned and proposed and come back to PRAB and APB. The third step would be to look for critical links in the system, such as trails that could be built to ease access. The report would then go to council. The last step would be to seek permission from private owners and developers to let trails cross their property.

Work on some trails and walks, including the perimeter trail, will be done this year. The

by Sandra Barnes

Do today's fashions seem like garments one's grandmother wore — the shoulder pads, the small prints, the wide collars, rayon and cotton fabrics? Some people say that fashions rarely change. They just repeat themselves every 10 or 20 years.

The Friends of the Greenbelt Museum (FOGM) is sponsoring a free lecture and exhibit on Thursday, Sept. 7, 7-9 p.m. on "Clothing of the 1930s". Jo Paoletti, associate professor of the Department of Textiles and Consumer Economics at the University of Maryland will discuss styles and fabrics worn as well as display typical articles of 1930s clothing worn by women and children.

Like today, accessories were important in the 1930s. Lace scarves, brooches, hats and gloves complemented the straight lines of many outfits. Women's dresses were marked by the amount of detail work such as cores, pleats, smocking and buttons. Paoletti will discuss care of period clothing as well as styles. The talk is open to all. Refreshments will be served.

LABOR DAY FESTIVAL

be named during the Festival's Opening Ceremonies on Friday evening. Just prior to that event, the Greenbelt Concert Band will play its traditional Labor Day concert in Roosevelt Center Mall. The Opening Ceremonies move to the stage, where city officials will be introduced and the Outstanding Citizen announced. The Miss Greenbelt Pageant participants will be introduced in a dance routine, "Looking Up." The David S. Craig Memorial Softball Game also takes place on Friday night on Braden Field. Later that evening the crowd will listen and dance to the country rock sound of SouthBound.

Carnival

The carnival runs throughout the weekend with rides, games, and activities for all ages. Carnival goers can test their skill or try their luck at everything from the dunking booth to the ring toss.

A wide variety of food will be for sale at the carnival booths. Rides are scaled for young and old, tame and daring. New rides promise more thrills. There will be much to learn about community groups and organizations in the carnival booths or at information tables set up on Saturday near Sovran Bank.

Entertainment

Foxxfire was nominated for the Best Pop/Rock Group in the 1987 Washington Area Music Association Awards. The group will be the headliners on Saturday evening. A very popular female pop trio, the group performs original music as well as contemporary hits. Sunday night features the Ralph Case Square Dancers, and the audience is invited to join in the dances. The exciting middle-eastern Sahara Dancers, the bluegrass music of Leon Morris, and the magicadabra show of Christian the Magician are among other performers who will contribute to a varied and enjoyable entertainment schedule.

Special Activities

The art show and photography exhibition offer local artists a chance to display their work for community appreciation as well as for professional judging. There will be awards for best color and black and white prints. There will also be a special award for the best non-portrait over 40 years old and the young photographer award will recognize the talents of a photographer under 16 years of age. The art show will judge entries in many categories. The annual Cipriano Award is given for one adult piece and one children's piece which best represents the theme Americans at Work.

Nine performers will participate in the Talent Show this year. Singers, a dancing group and two musicians will entertain. The Children's Pet Show draws all types of pets for a friendly competition. To enter, children should bring their pets at 10 a.m. on Saturday morning; judges and helpers are asked to arrive at 9:30.

Last year 30 couples participated in the Treasure Hunt sponsored by the Recreation Department. Clues will direct participants around the city and someone will finally win the prize hidden at a special location. There is a children's version of the Treasure Hunt as well.

In the Salute to American Workers, a spelunker, steamfitter, drug counselor, exercise physiologist, and wood-working artist will demonstrate their skills and knowledge of their professions or activities. These workers will set up by the Sovran Bank on Sunday only, from 1 to 4 p.m.

The Greenbelt Museum at 10-B Crescent Road will be open to the public from 1-5 p.m. on Sunday and Monday. Some museum guides will dress in clothes of the 1930's as they show visitors through the house and its grounds.

Special contests are planned for children of all ages. From crawlers to tots to teens, there will be individual and group contests. Prizes and ribbons will be awarded in each competition.

Athletic Events

The Greenbelt Recreation Department has planned a series of athletic events for all ages and all types of interest. Horse-shoes, baseball, hockey, softball, basketball, tennis, golf, races and a big-wheel roadcross are among the athletic events scheduled throughout the weekend. There are several races from 3 to 15 kilometers. The Great Greenbelt Volksmarchers sponsor a volksmarch which begins with a scenic walk through Greenbelt and ends by marching with the parade.

Admission and stage entertainment are free, but there is a charge for rides and booth activities. For more information or for a free ride to the Labor Day Festival, call 580-0176.

City and County Voters May Register at Festival

This weekend, on Saturday and Sunday from 1 to 8 p.m., the city will have a voter registration booth in the Labor Day Festival area for on-site voter registration. Citizens are encouraged to stop by the booth to check whether they are shown on the city's registration list of qualified voters and to register if they are not. They may also verify the correctness of their registration and make appropriate changes.

The Prince Georges County Vote-Mobile will be stationed at the Labor Day Festival, also on Saturday and Sunday from 1 to 8 p.m. Greenbelt citizens are encouraged also to ensure that they are correctly registered with the county. As of January 1, 1990, the universal voter registration law passed by the Maryland General Assembly in 1988 will go into effect. This law specifies that only one registration will be required to qualify citizens to vote in federal, state, county, and city elections. It is, therefore, important that Greenbelt residents be registered with the county in order to vote in future city elections, and that they assure that the continuing accuracy of personal information, such as name and address, be provided the county at the time of registration.

Sunrise Developer Walks Out on Council Worksession, Charging Lack of Welcome

By Heather Elizabeth Peterson

Sunrise developer Ronald Cohen walked out of an August 22 worksession called by the city council to discuss plans for the Sunrise property. Cohen's abrupt departure climaxed a heated exchange between Cohen and several councilmembers.

Sunrise Development Limited Partnership plans to build high-rise apartments on 9.95 acres located between Hanover Parkway and the Beltway just north of Greenway Village. General partners Cohen and James McCaig have said that the twin-tower complex will consist of 478 units. The land, subdivided in 1960, is zoned for 48 units per acre.

Council, which has been unhappy with previous proposals for the property, seemed equally disturbed by the present proposal. Mayor Gil Weidenfeld, opening the meeting, said he felt that Hunting Ridge "is as dense as an apartment development (in Greenbelt) should be."

Weidenfeld said that Greenbelt East residents appear to prefer commercial development on the site. He suggested that "a traffic study be done to determine what commercial development would be feasible."

Cohen, in his long reply, raged at what he considered to be obstructionism on the city's part.

"There has been nothing ever that the City of Greenbelt has done to open the doors of welcome," he said. "I don't see how you can sit here and ask for my cooperation."

Cohen announced bluntly that the work session would be a short one, because he intended to build the apartments. He said his costs would be greater than they would have been earlier, due to "what you all have caused me to waste, because my banks have been getting fat cat off of this property to the tune of a million and a half dollars since I had the pleasure to come into Greenbelt."

"I don't deserve . . . to be ignored or played with for two and a half years," he said, recounting his previous attempts to satisfy the city.

Cohen added, "But I can walk out of here with my head held high that I've been cooperating for two and a half years." He said that the council and Advisory Planning Board had been consistently vague in telling his attorney what they wanted.

Both Weidenfeld and council member Thomas X. White disputed Cohen's remarks. Council member Edward Putens seemed especially upset, saying, "We have made it very clear what we would be comfortable with.

. . . I don't like you coming in here and bad-mouthing the council or our staff or our planners. . . ."

Putens said that other developers have worked on good terms with Greenbelt, adding, "I'm not getting the impressions that you are the kind of developer I want in this city."

At this point, Cohen stood up and left the meeting, followed by his associates.

Planning and Development Coordinator Celia Wilson left the meeting to try to persuade the Sunrise representatives to delay plans until September 14, as the Advisory Board will meet on September 13. She returned with doubts that she had succeeded.

Both council members and audience members expressed disappointment that they had not been able to talk further with Cohen. Referring to Cohen's reaction to criticism, White said, "I met (Cohen) at GEAC (a meeting with the Greenbelt East Advisory Committee) and he acted the same. . . . There's been no discussion with this guy."

Traffic Study?

Putens felt that Cohen wouldn't do a traffic study because it would show that Cohen couldn't "build (as much as) 100,000 square feet on that property."

Wilson disputed the need for a traffic study, saying it would only prove "what we already know: that this part of Greenbelt can absorb no more new commercial development." She suggested using Greenbelt's most recent traffic study to figure out the impact of new traffic.

Some debate occurred between council members as to Cohen's plans at this point. Council member Antoinette Bram felt that Sunrise really wants to build commercial offices. Weidenfeld wondered whether Cohen wanted site plan approval simply in order to have leverage for whatever he plans to construct.

Council members also speculated as to why Cohen wouldn't delay matters. They suggested that Cohen feels threatened by the new master plan and by county legislation that he apparently fears will affect him.

Weidenfeld disagreed with Cohen's version of past relations between the city and Sunrise Development. He said Sunrise had often failed to communicate its plans to the city and had repeatedly jettisoned the plans it did present.

Weidenfeld said it wasn't council's role to tell developers what to build. He said that it's traditional for the city to tell the developer what it dislikes about a particular plan and for the developer to return with another plan.

Council agreed to recount the evening's events to County Councilman Richard Castaldi. Castaldi has vowed to fight high-density residential development on the Sunrise property.

Cleaner County Awards Applications Available

Citizens Concerned for a Cleaner County (CCCC) is now accepting applications for its Awards '89 and Badge Award programs. CCCC has an awards program to encourage individuals, groups, business and industry, schools, public agencies and municipalities, as well as the news media, to help promote the "7 Ways to Keep Prince Georges County Clean," and undertake recycling and recovery projects. The annual recognition includes any type of education and/or litter reduction and maintenance programs. The Badge program requires two projects over the course of one year, such as cleaning up five miles of roadside or one mile of shoreline, and recycling 100 pounds or more of aluminum or 2,000 pounds of recyclable newspaper.

Anyone who knows of a worthy business, organization, school, church or individual can sponsor an entry. Applications can be obtained from local libraries, the information desk on the first floor of the County Administration Building in Upper Marlboro, or by calling the CCCC office at 952-3676.

Greenbelt Center and Glendard Woods Elementary Schools were praised by Glendening for their pioneering after-school programs which provide drug prevention counseling.

Said Glendening, "Merely to put up some steel signs and to say that we're going to be very aggressive on the enforcement end will not be sufficient unless we do the education and motivation end as well."

Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer spoke for the need to jail drug dealers. The State Senate has recently passed a bill increasing penalties for persons convicted of distributing drugs to minors or engaging minors to distribute drugs, if the offense occurs within 1000 feet of the school. The signs are meant to signify this fact.

State Attorney Alexander Williams agreed with the governor, saying that, "When cases like this come into (my) office, we are going to move aggressively and professionally."

Schaefer said there are plans to install the signs on a state-wide basis.

Greenbelt Mayor Gil Weidenfeld told of how the city council had encouraged the county to install such signs. He said the council's interest had arisen after Weidenfeld saw similar signs at New Jersey schools.

Also speaking at the gathering were School Superintendent John Murphy; State Senator Leo Green, co-sponsor of the Senate bill; County Councilman Richard Castaldi; and Student Representative Katie Levin, a junior at Suitland High School. Several other officials were in attendance.

Glendening joked that when he heard that Schaefer was scheduled simply to unveil the new sign, he felt this wasn't the governor's style, and had suggested that Schaefer paint the sign from scratch.

Instead, Schaefer helped Center School sixth-grader Sarah Weisel screw the sign onto the pole. Both parties wore bright yellow hard hats which echoed the message, "Drug-Free School Zone."

POLICE BLOTTER

Based on Information Released by the Greenbelt Police Department

Three Greenbelt residents were arrested last week by Greenbelt police. On August 21, following an investigation, Officer Carl Schinner arrested a 19-year-old man, resident of the 9100 block of Edmonston Court, for the assault of an employee of Mama's Pizza that occurred August 16. He was charged with common law battery and released on his own personal recognizance.

Officer Robert Dowling arrested a woman, 29, of the 6900 block of Hanover Parkway. Police had responded to a report of "child abuse in progress." After she denied the officer entrance to the residence, the woman struck the officer. She was charged with hindering and battering a police officer and resisting arrest. The woman was released on her own recognizance.

A third resident was arrested on August 22 about 9:30 p.m. in the parking area of the Co-op gas station. The suspect had thrown a glass bottle at a man. He missed the man, but hit and slightly damaged a car. When Officer Barry Byers attempted to arrest the man, he attempted to fight his way free. The resident, of the 100 block of Westway, was charged with malicious destruction of property, resisting arrest and battering a police officer. He was held in lieu of $3,000 bond pending trial.

A man who had parked in front of the Ritz camera shop at Beltway Plaza had his camera stolen on August 23 about 10 p.m. As the victim tried to get into his car, a man kicked him in the leg causing him to fall and at the same time grabbed his camera. The suspect is described as a black man, age 20, 5 ft. 2 in., and thin build. The victim was not injured.

Cpl. Danny Allwang attempted to stop a 1987 Nissan Maxima with improper tags on Greenbelt Road at Capitol Drive about 4:15 a.m., August 20. The vehicle did not stop, but fled at high speed to Kenilworth Avenue and then south on the Capital Beltway, exiting at Route 450 in Lanham where it struck a tree. Three black juveniles fled on foot. Investigation revealed the vehicle had been stolen at the Landover Amtrak station earlier that day. The tags had been stolen the day before in Glenn Dale. The suspects have not been located.

Breakings and enterings reported last week include: entry was gained by forcing the front door of an apartment at 16 Parkway on August 18, no property reported missing; and in the 9100 block of Springhill Lane on August 21, the resident awoke to hear the front door being kicked in but the suspects fled and no property was taken.

Stolen Vehicles Recovered

Several stolen vehicles were recovered last week. Pfc. Robert Musterman recovered a 1984 Chevy Cavalier on Greenbelt Road at Kenilworth Avenue on August 16. The car had been abandoned in the travel lane.

Pfc. Marie Arthur recovered a 1989 Plymouth Acclaim in the 9100 block of Edmonston Road. The car had been stolen earlier the same day in Laurel.

A Yamaha motorcycle, stolen in Greenbelt last October, was recovered at Lake Frank in Rockville. It had been stripped and abandoned. The Md. tags, 88719D, are still missing.

Thefts from vandalisms to and attempted thefts of autos were reported in the following areas: 500 bl Crescent Rd., 200 bl. Lakeside Dr., 5800 bl. Cherrywood Ln., and 9200 bl. of Springhill Ln.

Multivision Cable Promises Council To Improve Service for Customers

by Karen Myers

At a worksession on Monday, July 24, the Greenbelt City Council met with representatives from Multivision Cable to discuss the various changes that have occurred in Greenbelt's cable service since Multivision took over from Prime Cable in November 1988.

Much of the meeting focused on problems that Multivision has had with their customer service and the various steps taken recently to clear up those problems. Multivision vice president and general manager Mark Jennings acknowledged that the cable company has received numerous complaints from subscribers, both in writing and by telephone, about interrupted or poor transmission. Jennings also cited the inconveniences that subscribers experience when scheduling a service call at their homes, such as having to wait long periods of time or not having the service technician show up at all.

Multivision has put into effect several new procedures which Jennings hopes will alleviate many of the customer service complaints. The company has added evening and Sunday hours so that service calls can be made at times more convenient for subscribers. They also have employed outside contractors to handle some of the calls as there is a shortage of technicians. Jennings added that as part of their effort to "work towards an organization that strives for excellence," Multivision is considering the development of a recruiting and training program for personnel.

Since many subscribers often find it difficult to get through on the phone lines to report a problem in service, Multivision will soon have additional telephone lines installed to handle more incoming calls. Staff schedules will also be reorganized so that people are on hand to assist customers during particularly busy times of the day.

"Pay for View"

Jennings said that Greenbelt customers will be able to take advantage of "pay for view" cable possibly as early as August or September. With this service, subscribers can order by telephone specific televised programming such as movies or sporting events. The fee for each "pay for view," approximately $4 or $4.50 per event, would then be charged to the subscriber's monthly cable bill. All Greenbelt subscribers can expect a small increase in their rates in January to cover the expense of some added services and necessary maintenance to the aging system.

In response to Councilmember Antoinette Bram's question about all subscribers paying for an expanded system, whether or not they take advantage of the added features, Jennings introduced the idea of "clustering." This is a concept with which the entire cable industry is experimenting, and it involves putting similar types of programming together so they can be purchased individually or in combination. Subscribers could then build their cable service around particular interests, such as sports, classic programming, children's shows, or consumer programming.

Both councilmembers Thomas White and Ed Putens brought up the issue of cable's "universal tier" and the fact that few subscribers are aware of this option. According to Savitri Belizaire, Director of Community and Government Relations at Multivision, the universal tier is a very basic cable system which includes limited channels, such as the Metropolitan Washington channels and a few public access and local government channels, yet which still gives subscribers the same quality of reception. Jennings said that Multivision does not actively market the universal tier for economic reasons since it is subsidized by basic subscribers. Mayor Gil Weidenfeld echoed the concerns of White and Putens about Greenbelt subscribers being unaware of the existence of the universal tier. Although Multivision will not advertise this option, Jennings made a commitment not to fail to let subscribers know about it.

At the close of the meeting, Jennings reiterated the commitment Multivision has to keeping council informed of the changes in technology and procedure as they continue to serve Greenbelt.

Greenhorne-O'Mara Request

In other business, council met with both representatives from Greenhorne and O'Mara and residents of Westchester Park to discuss the recent developments and concerns over Greenhorne and O'Mara's request to build a new headquarters building adjacent to the residential community. Earlier this year, council voted to disapprove the architectural and engineering firm's request to rezone the parcel of land directly next to Westchester Park. Residents had expressed concerns over potential traffic problems, increased noise and safety hazards to pedestrians. The county planning board has since approved the request, and a decision is being awaited from the county zoning hearing examiner.

William Shipp of Fossett and Brugger, the law firm representing Greenhorne and O'Mara, stated that the purpose of this meeting between Greenhorne and O'Mara and council was to maintain dialogue, not to try to convince council to change its position. The traffic concerns continue to be investigated, and Greenhorne and O'Mara emphasized their commitment to keeping council informed of further developments.

Luxury Townhouse Development Is Planned for Greenbelt East

by Pat Scully

Two hardy perennial issues, wetlands and traffic impact, were the dominant themes in the August 3 presentation to Greenbelt East Advisory Committee about the proposed Greenbrook Manor development. Chip Reed, of Fossett and Brugger, presented preliminary plans for the luxury townhouse and condominium enclave to GEAC at the coalition's regular monthly meeting.

Greenbrook Manor, to be developed by Michael T. Rose Associates, will be located between Hanover Parkway and the Beltway, south of Hunting Ridge. The preliminary plans call for 32 townhouses on the Hanover Parkway side of the property and 252 condominiums backing to the Beltway and the Hunting Ridge parking lot. Extensive amenities, including a landscaped storm-water management pond with forebay and filtration system discharging as a waterfall into a lower pond with fountains, tennis courts, swimming pool, and noise buffers along the Beltway, are planned. Base prices are anticipated at $130,000 for condominiums and $180,000 for the townhouses.

Preliminary plans will be presented to the city council on September 11. More detailed site plans, addressing council comments and those of the Park and Planning Commission, will be developed in the fall and presented to GEAC as well as city council.

While the landscaping and buffers will be clearer at the next planning phase, Reed said that the site circulation plan was designed to be environmentally sensitive, preserving existing stands of Virginia Pine if possible and using trees extensively in the landscaping of the site.

Reed stressed the public improvements that are part of the covenants under which the zoning for the project was approved last winter. Michael T. Rose will upgrade 69 parking spaces and provide a landscaped entrance sign for Hunting Ridge, dedicate enough land at the entrance to allow for the ultimate development of Hanover Parkway to four lanes plus an island with trees and flowers, and donate two other parcels to the city for open space.

Roadway Improvements

In addition, road improvements that are required under the covenants include addition of an eastbound lane on Good Luck Road and a southbound lane on Hanover Parkway at their intersection. At the intersection of Hanover Parkway and Greenbelt Road, an additional northbound lane will be added on Hanover Parkway. There would then be four northbound Hanover Parkway lanes, configured either 2 left-turn only, 1 left-turn or through, and 1 right-turn; or 2 left-turn only, 1 through only, and 1 right turn.

In answer to questions about increased traffic generated by the development, Reed said it was possible Michael T. Rose would add acceleration and deceleration lanes at the entrance of the development onto Hanover Parkway. Nancy Randall of Greenhorne & O'Mara, planners and site engineers for the project, said that no traffic light would be justified at the site, based on Prince Georges trip generation rates for condominiums.

Wetlands and Ponds

GEAC members raised a number of questions about the development's impacts on wetlands and whether the pond would actually be approved and constructed. Rick Dangler of Michael T. Rose stated that the wetlands had been delineated and that the project would disturb less than an acre, having a minimal effect. Because the grading for the pond and housing sites would be done at the same time, U.S. Corps of Engineers approval for the wetlands disturbance and construction of the pond would be obtained "before the first spade of earth is turned."

Reed and Dangler both stressed the differences between this development's pond and the long-awaited Strom Hills lake. There is no hydraulic relationship between the two, as the wetlands at the two sites are fed by separate streams. The wetland issue was not raised in regard to the Schrom Hills lake until after houses were built, reducing the available options for mitigating wetland impacts. For the proposed Greenbrook Manor, Reed and Dangler said, the wetlands have been delineated and mitigation measures planned early enough to ensure approval by the Corps and timely construction of the pond.

In later discussion, GEAC members acknowledged that while there was no linkage between the Greenbrook Manor pond and the Schrom Hills lake, the proposed development provided an opportunity to highlight GEAC's concern for the speedy construction of the lake. Bob Zugby was delegated to write to the Corps of Engineers, with copies to state representatives and the city, to ascertain the status of the Schrom Hills lake and urge resolution of the wetlands issue.

Voter Registration

In other business, GEAC's voter registration committee reported on its recent meeting and plans for increasing the number of registered voters before the city's next election. The committee urged that the member organizations include articles about registering to vote in their newsletters consistently until registration closes and that they make it easy for members to register by having a registrar present at the community swimming pools.

GEAC agreed to fund the printing of voter registration flyers, to be distributed throughout the member communities, that would explain the need to register and how to go about it. The voter registration committee agreed to draft the flyer at its August 22 meeting and to ensure that it was distributed.

The committee also urged that GEAC members attend the Labor Day Festival and encourage potential voters to register at that time.

The next meeting of GEAC will be held on Thursday, September 7, at 7:30 p.m. at Hunting Ridge Community Center.

Film on Viking Expeditions Will Be Shown at NASA

A film about the Viking Expeditions to Mars will be shown at the Goddard Space Flight Center Visitor Center on Saturday, September 9 at 1 p.m. Dr. Gerald Soffen will lead a discussion in the film of how these unmanned missions to Mars looked for life on Mars. The Visitor Center is on Soil Conservation Road off of Greenbelt Road.

House and Garden Tour Set for September 23

For many years it has been a tradition for Greenbelters proud of their homes to display their taste and innovation as an inspiration to their neighbors. This year, on September 23 from 12 noon to 5 pm. the Greenbelt Homes House and Garden Tour will start at the Greenbelt Museum, and proceed to view the creative efforts that generations of caring residents have produced. Especially for those thinking of remodeling, on whatever scale, this tour gives the opportunity to garner ideas and to talk to those who have tackled first hand the joys of construction, either with their own hands or those of contractors. View contemporary kitchens, soaring decks, clerestory windows. See the difference a small utility closet addition can make to a frame house. See the colorful displays of shrubs and shade plants that can enliven the gloomier corners of a yard.

The tour is self-paced and self-guided. Brochures will be available at the start, and there is no charge. Those who have made some enhancement to their home, please let the organizers know so they can include it. It is very rewarding to have a neighbor's appreciation.

For more information, or to volunteer your home or yourself, contact either Jim Maher, 345-7324, or Terri Rutledge, 982-3451 or 345-5000.

CITY NOTES

The streets crew replaced curb gutter in the parking lot behind the Post Office. Holes in the court area at the center and the bridge that spans the dam were repaired.

The special details crew painted street lines.

The parks crew mowed lawns, maintained ballfields, and finished rebuilding their workshop.

The horticulturist crew maintained flower beds and trees.

The special trash operation is current.

As a result of the realignment of curbing in the north parking lot at Roosevelt Center, the lot has been re-striped for perpendicular parking and 18 additional parking spaces were created.

During the previous two weeks the general crew worked on the Spellman overpass to allow service work to be performed on the electrical system. They also continued the installation of a drainage pipe and reconstruction of the sidewalk behind the Public Works facility.

The special details crew painted parking spaces city-wide and installed and repaired street signs. The parks crew mowed lawns, maintained ballfields, and worked on Greenbriar Park.

The horticulturist's crew ground stumps and prepped the underpass near the Roosevelt Center for landscaping.

The street crew replaced curb and gutter in the parking lot behind the Post Office. They completed the sidewalk behind the Public Works facility.

The special details crew painting work included the Auto Shop and parking lot lines behind the Post Office.

The city horticulturist crew planted mums, worked on the center underpass, and pruned trees in the eastern section of Greenbelt.

Special trash is current.

Demand for the Greenbelt Connection is still heavy but the new call ahead policy has improved the operation.

JOE'S TIPS OF THE WEEK

Hello Again:

From time to time it seems like everything runs in spurts. If you own a late model General Motors vehicle equipped with power steering (rack & pinion) by design, you could experience a hard steer from only one side or a no-power assist when the vehicle is first started or in a natural state of cold. This is caused by an internal sealing ring that no longer has the ability to properly seal the fluid to develop hydraulic pressure needed for power steering.

From past experience with these types of symptoms, complete steering rack replacement could be necessary because of internal wearing of steering rack housing. Overhauling or seal replacement does not seem to last very long.

Till next time
