Beautiful Breezy Day, Big Crowd: Auspicious Day for Police Building

by Virginia Beauchamp

In a speech formally presenting the new building for the Greenbelt Police Department at Saturday's dedication program, Mayor Gil Weidenfeld took the occasion to announce three other developments in the city's $6 million capital improvements program which had been authorized in a referendum in 1985. These were the conclusion of an agreement this week to purchase a 102-acre tract in Parcel 1, the awarding of a bid to reconstruct Centerway and its sidewalks in the Roosevelt Center, and completion as well of plans for the indoor swimming pool facility, which Weidenfeld said would be put out for bids during the month of June.

Although construction of a police facility had always been a high priority in allocation of funds authorized by the referendum, many at the time argued vociferously that acquisition of the last remaining piece of undeveloped woodlands in old Greenbelt—the Parcel 1 tract—or construction of an indoor swimming pool also claimed priority positions. It seemed apparent that, with rising prices, the referendum money was becoming inadequate for all these projects. Now, under the sunny sky of the dedication ceremony, Weidenfeld was saying we could have it all.

Decked with bunting at the corners of the roof and with newly completed landscaping of bushes and flowers, the police facility made an inviting backdrop for the ceremonial occasion. Under a yellow awning near the main door of the building, the

"On behalf of the men and women of the Greenbelt Police Department, I gratefully accept this facility." With these words Greenbelt Police Chief James R. Craze formally took possession of the new building at the dedication ceremony on June 2. Behind Chief Craze, at the podium, are councilmembers Joseph Isaacs and Edward Putens, at left, and the Rev. platform party looked out on the parking lot along Crescent Road, where chairs had been placed in rows for the audience of citizens and distinguished visitors. Among these were state and county officials; representatives of the county sheriff's office, county and state police departments and the Edmonston Police; former Greenbelt Police Chief Frank Hutson, who returned for the occasion from his post in Florida; and others associated with the design and construction of the building.

In his address Mayor Weidenfeld stressed the city's emphasis upon "outstanding" design for this facility, which stands at one of the gateways into the city. Incorporating elements of the Art Deco and international architectural styles used in the original designs for Greenbelt in 1937—particularly in the use of

City Negotiates Purchase of Parcel 1 For Use as Park Land for $2,200,000

by Mary Lou Williamson

The Greenbelt City Council approved a resolution Monday night authorizing the negotiated purchase of the 102.5 acre Parcel 1 for $2,200,000 and settlement of the condemnation proceedings pending before the Circuit Court. City Manager James K. Giese reported to council that the purchase of the property would be recorded at the Court House in Upper Marlboro, probably this week, giving the city title to the land.

The city council has devoted more than two years in its efforts to obtain the property. The process taxed the patience of those citizens most eager to save the green belt. Many were newcomers to politics and suspicious of council when they began their crusade. The three dozen supporters erupted with cheers and applause at the final vote.

Prince Georges County and the State of Maryland cooperated to provide a major portion of the funding, $1,250,000, and the National Park Service, through the efforts of Congressman Steny Hoyer, is expected to provide another $500,000. Still to be worked out are any limitations to be placed on the use of the property as a result of this assistance.

Marsha Barrett, Plateau Place, asked how much of the purchase is being made with "woodland conservation money." Slightly more than half, Giese responded. The county money originated from a state fund to preserve farmland which was broadened by the State legislature last year to include conservation of woodlands. Clara Kuehn, 45 Ridge Road, suggested, "If it's a little over 50 percent, let's make (the conservation area) every other foot."

The National Park Service will use its funds, Giese explained, either to purchase land or an easement, probably adjacent to the Baltimore-Washington Parkway. For example, he said, they could purchase an easement that might bar the cutting of trees for a certain distance from the road and then bar development

JAMES WOLFE FIELD DEDICATION HONORS RECREATION VOLUNTEER

by Elaine Skolnik

The James N. Wolfe Field, honoring the former mayor, councilmember and Greenbelt pioneer, was dedicated on Saturday, June 2. Director of Recreation "Hank" Irving served as master of ceremonies and Wolfe's son Donald, a Greenbelt resident and former recreation director, introduced family members who had traveled from various parts of the country to attend the ceremony.

In the city's tribute, Mayor Gil Weidenfeld said, "Like Greenbelt, Jim Wolfe was special too. Because of an orphaned life, he wanted others to have what he didn't. Perhaps that is one of the reasons that Jim worked so hard to make Greenbelt special for his family—for all families—for citizens young and old alike. For every activity Jim felt he could be part of, he volunteered. He wanted the best community possible and strived to provide it."

Weidenfeld noted that "as both a member of the city's original recreation board, and later as a city council member, Jim was an active youth sponsor and saw to it that there were adequate parks, athletic fields and resources for sports and recreation. He was instrumental in initiating the city's first teen center. 'The Drop In,' as well as serving on the teen advisory board." He also was an active member of the Greenbelt Lions Club, the Greenbelt Community Church board and the Masons and served as postmaster.

The mayor encouraged Greenbelters to "rededicate ourselves to that community spirit established by Jim Wolfe and other city pioneers. Let us continue to take pride in being part of this special way of life and special place—Greenbelt."

Plantings placed at the base of the dedication marker were donated by the Lions Club as a tribute to Wolfe's outstanding service to the community and to those less fortunate. Representing the Lions were Ernest Varda, secretary, and Emory Harmon, vice-president.

T-Ball

Two T-Ball games involving boys and girls ages five to eight followed the dedication. On the field were the light blue team competing with the red. The silver team was matched with the purple. The league comprises eight teams, 120 youngsters and their coaches and assistant coaches. Kathy Gregory serves as commissioner.

The fun and skill program, which teaches youngsters the basics of baseball, stresses sportsmanship and team work. Winning, losing and standings are not considered important.

The program is sponsored by the St. Hugh's CYO and the Little League and is coordinated by the Greenbelt Recreation Department.

Correction

Our apologies for not checking the facts. Lotto winner Bill Mayhew has told the News Review that of course he is finishing out the last two weeks of school. He wouldn't walk out on people who were counting on him. We should have known the story didn't ring true and asked him about it.

Bohrer Challenges Green For Senate Nomination

Terezia S. (Terry) Bohrer has announced her candidacy for the 23rd District Senate seat. She will face the incumbent, Leo Green, in the Democratic primary on Tuesday, September 11.

Bohrer, a nurse and official of the Prince Georges County Health Department, is holding a reception and election announcement to which all Greenbelt residents have been invited. The event will be held on Saturday, June 16 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Bowie Community Center, Route 450 and Stonybrook Drive. All 23rd District voters are invited to attend and to meet the candidate. For directions or for more information, call 262-3797.

Bohrer is pro-choice on the abortion issue and said that her decision to challenge Green was based in part on his leadership of the anti-abortion filibuster during the most recent General Assembly session. Other issues of concern cited by Bohrer include child care, health care, education, growth and development, roads and public transportation, campaign finance, ethics, and protection of the environment.

A Bowie resident, Bohrer has over 12 years experience in state and local government. She currently serves as Director of Disability Support Services for the Health Department. From 1978 to 1985, she directed the Prince Georges County Office for Coordination of Services to the Handicapped, working for passage of national and state legislation protecting the rights of individuals with disabilities.

In addition Bohrer has served on the Prince Georges County Child Care and Elder Abuse Task Forces, chaired the Maryland Mental Health Advocacy Planning Committee, and established the Prince Georges County Human Rights Advisory Committee.

She was chosen "Outstanding Volunteer of the Year" by the Mental Health Association of Prince Georges County and "Advocate of the Year" by the Association for Retarded Citizens. She also received the Outstanding Service Award from the Prince Georges Women's Political Caucus.

A 26-year resident of the 23rd District, Bohrer graduated from Mt. Sinai Hospital School of Nursing in New York City and worked as a nurse for over 20 years. She received a B.S. degree from Bowie State University and an M.S.W. degree from the University of Maryland School of Social Work and Community Planning. She and her husband, Dr. Norman Bohrer, have four children.

James Thompson to Run For State Delegate Post

James William Thompson has announced his candidacy for State Delegate in the 23rd District. A Republican, he is 34 years old. He is an inspector in the Prince Georges County Zoning Enforcement Office.

Thompson, who attended county public schools, earned an Associate of Arts Degree, paralegal services, from Prince Georges Community College. Married, he resides in Westchester Park.

Thompson notes in his platform that he supports stricter environmental regulations, women's rights, the pro-choice stand on the abortion issue, strengthening of victims' rights, improvement of race relations and the reduction of hate-crime through education.

Thompson says he will introduce legislation that would award full state college scholarships to children of fire, police or rescue personnel killed in the line of duty. He also notes that he would donate 15% of his salary for education and public safety in the district, namely for libraries, firehouses and scholarships for students involved in community service.

colored horizontal borders of deeper toned brick and in curving walls of glass brick near the principal entrance—the building was also described as representing the state-of-the-art in communications equipment and in functional design.

Ceremony

The program began officially with the raising of the colors on the flagpole near Ridge Road and the singing of the national anthem by PFC Michael Jeffreys of the Police Department. Following the invocation by the Rev. Dr. Ernest Cunningham, Chief James R. Craze introduced the Honorable C. Phillip Nichols, Judge of the 5th District Court of Maryland, as keynote speaker. Judge Nichols sketched briefly the history of police work from the time of the Romans to the most recent days when officers in the state and in the county have been killed in the line of duty. Judge Nichols recalled the times in this city, when only "courtesy slips" were given for traffic violations, often by Greenbelt's Albert S. ("Buddy") Attick, one of three who served as both police and fire safety officers when the town began. (Suitably, the new building is sited on Crescent Road opposite the entrance to the lake park, which is named for Buddy Attick.)

Council members Antoinette ("Toni") Bram and Edward Putens then unveiled a plaque, which will be placed on the building's outside wall, that names the current roster of the police department. Bram suggested that the citizens of Greenbelt should be accorded all responsibility for creation of the facility. "They'll be paying for it for years," she said.

A similar plaque naming the current members of the city council, as well as program coordinators Chief Craze, Celia Wilson, Kenneth Stair and City Manager James K. Giese, was then unveiled by council member Joseph Isaacs and Mayor Pro Tem Thomas X. White.

Stepping out of his role as Master of Ceremonies for the occasion and in his role as City Manager, James K. Giese later presented two special awards to City Planning and Development Coordinator Celia Wilson and to police lieutenant Kenneth Stair, who served as police technical consultant, in the designing and construction process. Each award, in the form of a certificate, was accompanied by a check for $250.

Later, in what was a surprise to the recipient, Valerie Siegel, on behalf of the city's Crime Watch volunteers program, announced that a flowering pear tree had been planted near the driveway entrance in honor of citizen activist Dorothy Pyles, whose concern over the overcrowded conditions for the department, when it was housed in the Municipal Building, helped to create the climate of support that gave construction of the new building a high place on the city's capital improvements agenda.

Following the ceremony, those attending the event were invited to tour the building and under

A Trail Not a Road

Webster's definition of a trail is (1) a track made by passage especially through a wilderness, (2) a marked path through a forest or mountainous region, (3) a mark, footprint, scent, etc. left by a person, animal or thing that has passed, (4) a path or track made by continual passing.

Nowhere does he suggest that a trail is a hard-surfaced road for truck traffic. As others have already mentioned, the semi-paved "path" around the lake is no longer a trail but a road that could accommodate tractor trailers. Please, not another one like it.

Just remember that no female will be safe walking or jogging this trail or any other in the Metropolitan area alone.

Jaycees: Looking for New Members and a Little Help

by Jeff Keir

The Greenbelt Jaycees have been involved in the community since the Chapter was chartered in April 1959 by the U.S. Jaycees. The Jaycees are a young adult (age 21 to 39) leadership development organization that has helped millions of people at the hometown level.

Hundreds of young adults from all walks of life, have been members of the Greenbelt Jaycees. Many of its members have reached personal and career goals because of their Jaycee experience — learning personal, management and leadership skills by managing and organizing community service projects.

The most visible evidence of the Greenbelt Jaycees is the Jaycee clubhouse adjacent to St. Hugh's School. The Jaycees have occupied the clubhouse since 1970. The building was built in 1937 along with the rest of the new town of Greenbelt. It is currently owned by the city. Over the years other groups have used the facility — Greenbelt Athletic Club, Izaak Walton League, Greenbelt Lions Club and Camp Pine Tree. During the Jaycees' tenure other community organizations have been able to use the clubhouse also—an AA group, a birthing class, the Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club, the Census Bureau, the F.O.P., to name a few.

The Jaycees have held many individual development seminars at the clubhouse on such subjects as: leadership dynamics, alcohol awareness, financial planning, estate planning, management techniques, and CPR classes. Many other activities have been held in the clubhouse, such as the Chapter's annual Halloween party for the community. Other potential uses being explored are: a meeting place for youth groups, a senior citizen day care center and a tot camp.

The Greenbelt Jaycees have made several improvements to the Clubhouse over the years and have attempted to keep up its physical condition. However, there are some major deficiencies that the Jaycees feel the club alone cannot afford to correct. The club has approached the city council to help finance the needed improvements with the Jaycees doing as much of the work as possible. Such improvements would allow greater use by the Jaycees and by a broader range of other groups. Hal Wheeler, president of the club, is coordinating the improvement program. Anyone who is willing to share expertise, volunteer labor, offer materials or wishes more information may call Hal at 345-

3475. The council has requested the city staff to evaluate the cost of bringing the building up to standard.

The Greenbelt Jaycees hold their monthly membership meetings on the third Tuesday of each month at 8 p.m. in the clubhouse. Meetings are open to the public. Some upcoming projects the group will be involved in are: Prince Georges Special Olympics, the ARC Ride-a-Bike fund raiser, the Miracle Network Telethon for the Hospital for Sick Children and Children's Hospital. If interested in becoming a member of the Greenbelt Jaycees, contact Barbara Barber 464-0797.

Boys & Girls Club

by Jeff Keir

The boys of summer (the 15 and under Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club baseball team) began their 1990 season on Thursday, May 31 with a game against Bowie. The Greenbelt team with mostly 13 and 14-year-olds looks towards a tough, but fun-filled season in the county's 15-year-old league. The team has only three players returning from last year: Ben Barnes, Daniel Gomez and Man Nguyen. However, the team will rely on its quickness, speed and defense to be competitive.

The team's opponents are Bowie, Oxon Hill and Ft. Washington and they will play each other four times for a season of 12 games, ending the regular season on July 12. The following is a schedule of games for the next two and half weeks:

June 7 vs. Ft. Washington at Walker Mill No. 1, 6:15 p.m.
June 12 vs. Bowie at Braden Field, 6:15 p.m.
June 14 vs. Oxon Hill at PGCBGC Sports Park, 8:15 p.m.
June 18 vs. Ft. Washington at Walker Mill No. 1, 8:15 p.m.
People can stay updated with the team and other Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club activities by calling the club's Sports Information Line: 310-1066 (24-hours-a-day).

Summer is just around the corner — and arriving in time to greet it are some new neighbors. Jessica Lee Shifflett was born on May 11 at Holy Cross Hospital, weighing 8 lbs. 8 ozs. Proud parents are Laurie and William Shifflett of Greenbelt.

The Kim family also has a new member. Amy So-Eun Kim made her debut at Holy Cross on May 18. She weighed 6 lbs. 4 ozs. Her parents are Joy W.C. and Kyu Hyung Kim.

And the Bates family has another entry for the family tree. Alexander James Richard Bates was born at Georgetown University Hospital on May 21, weighing in at 7 lbs. 8 ozs. Proud parents are former Greenbelters Bob Bates and Peggy Oriani-Bates, now of Centerville, Va. Local relatives include grandparents Jim and Fran Bates of Woodland Way and a multitude of aunts, uncles and cousins. Welcome all!

Congratulations are in order for Sally Wagner, director of bands at Eleanor Roosevelt High School. She has been chosen to conduct the West Virginia Honors which draws high school students from 6 states. Mrs. Wagner has also been selected to adjudicate Heritage Music Festival in Arizona. An active member of the Maryland Band Director's Association, she is a frequent judge for county and state music festivals and has recently been the host for the 1990 Maryland All-State Band.

Congratulations also to James O'Sullivan on his recent accomplishments. Not only did the former Greenbelt Municipal Pool Manager receive his MBA from the University of Baltimore this spring but he also was inducted into Sigma Iota Epsilon, the business honor society. James will be employed in the management trainee program of Black & De-ker beginning in June. He will be assigned to the greater Los Angeles area. Good luck James!

David Kessler of 18 Court Ridge Road has received a Photography Traveling Fellowship from the Maryland Institute College of Art, where he is a graduating senior in photography. David plans to spend part of this summer photographing coal mining in Northern Europe.

Salisbury State University student Lori Elizabeth Martin, 19, daughter of Willa Jean Martin of Greenbelt, was recently inducted into Psi Chi national honor society in psychology. A 1988 graduate of Eleanor Roosevelt High School, Martin is a junior majoring in psychology at SSU. She is a member of the Sign Language Club and is a resident assistant for one of the Salisbury State dormitories.

Elaine Jones has been named the 1990 Outstanding Parent Volunteer for Instrumental Music at Eleanor Roosevelt High School. Jones has, for the past four years, developed the themes and decorations for the Annual Music Department Awards Banquet. She, and her committee, have transformed the Roosevelt cafeteria by their creativity. Jones was given a costume pin representing the theme for this year "Up, Up and Away".

25 students from Eleanor Roosevelt performed with the Prince George's Youth Symphony at the Kennedy Center. The Orchestra was part of the annual Honors Concert of the Prince George's County music programs. Greenbelt residents who performed at the Kennedy Center are: Laura Millman, oboe, & Catherine Kim, violin.

We also should note the accomplishments of one of our young artists. Kristel Kellie Foerter, Pippi to her friends, won first prize in the Earth Day

Church Youth Group To Hold Car Wash

The Greenbelt Community Church Youth Group will be holding a car wash at the church, located at the corner of Hillside and Crescent, on Saturday, June 9, from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Proceeds will be used to help finance Youth Group activities.

Poster Contest sponsored by the Youth Center. I'm sure she is very proud of her blue ribbon — and parents Joanne and Tom are pretty proud of her. Pippi is a kindergartner at Center School.

Karen Yoho called the other day to say that a number of local Girl Scouts were off on a camping adventure recently. Over twenty Scout troops from around the area went off to Camp Winona. I'm sure that a good time was had by all.

From the military comes word that Navy Seaman Recruit Seng P. Law has completed recruit training at the Recruit Training Command in Great Lakes, Illinois. A 1989 graduate of Eleanor Roosevelt High School, he is the son of Khai-Fatt and Yoke-Wah Law of Mandan Road.

Lt. Adrian M. Danchenko has graduated from the F. Edward Herbert School of Medicine of the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences. Danchenko received training in subjects of direct military relevance as well as the standard medical school curriculum. Danchenko is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vitaly Danchenko of Greenbelt.

Centerway Construction to Begin; Six Story Office Building Planned

by Diane Oberg

Mayor Gil Weidenfeld started the May 29 regular council meeting on a positive note, announcing that the city had reached agreement in principle with the owner of Parcel 1 for the purchase of that property. The agreement had not yet been signed and details such as price and the timing of the exchange were not then available. (For details since worked out see separate story.)

Council awarded the bid for the reconstruction of Centerway to NZI Construction Corp. for $420,320. The work will include replacing curbs and sidewalks, some decorative paving, realignment of the entrance from Southway, the planting of new trees and repaving. Work on the project, which should begin within 30 days, is expected to be completed before Labor Day. Approximately 90 percent of the cost of the contract will be funded through a federal Community Development Block Grant.

Golden Triangle

Council approved, subject to conditions, site and landscape plans for a new, six-story office building in the Golden Triangle office park. The Golden Triangle is located north of Greenbelt Road between the Beltway and Kenilworth Avenue.

The new building, with a three-story parking garage, will be constructed behind the existing Oxford building. Construction of the 126,700 square foot office building will bring the total office space of the site to 541,000 square feet. The preliminary plan of subdivision for the site limits the park to 912,000 square feet of space.

Dario Agnolotto, attorney for Prudential Insurance Co., presented a concept plan for the property. The plan shows three additional office buildings, similar to the one now under consideration, each with its own parking garage. Agnolotto stressed that the buildings will not be constructed unless market conditions warrant. He said that the company delayed constructing this building until road improvements were in place and until his client was satisfied that he could lease the space.

Agnolotto described the building's design as utilizing the topography of the site. The garage will be constructed between Golden Triangle Drive and the new office building with the top deck of the parking garage roughly level with the first floor of the office building. The garage roof will also be lower than the tops of the buildings closer to Greenbelt Road.

The main topic of debate at the meeting concerned whether landscaping on the top of the garage should be required as recommended by the city's Advisory Planning Board (APB). Council member Antoinette M. Bram argued forcefully for such plantings. She claimed they would reduce heat buildup and improve air quality.

Michael Paukstis, General Manager of Prudential Property Company, developer of the office project, refused to accept this condition. He said that addition of upper deck planters would significantly increase the construction and maintenance costs of the garage, as well as increasing the possibility for water infiltration. Paukstis called water infiltration one of the major problems in garage maintenance.

Bram's motion to require top deck landscaping died for lack of a second.

North End School

Sherry Lynn Brooke Garten petitioned council to hold a second vote on the issue of turning over the North End School property to the county in exchange for Center School. The county plans to construct a new elementary school on the North End site. Negotiators for the two governments are currently trying to work out details of the transfer.

Brooke Garten argued that the previous vote, as part of the June 1989 bond referendum, which favored the new North End School and a city-run community center at Center School, was based upon erroneous information. She said that the planned school is too large for the site and will generate too much additional traffic.

The petition will be considered at the next council meeting.

Committee Reports

As part of the consent agenda, council accepted the following committee reports without discussion:

Advisory Planning Board (APB) report 90-10, in which the board recommends that the perimeter trail be established from the existing trail system, with minimal improvements. This report will be considered at a future meeting after council receives the comparable report from the Park and Recreation Advisory Board (PRAB).

PRAB report 5-90 and APB report 90-12, concerning city staff's proposal to construct a public works storage shed and materials handling yard on city owned property at the end of Hamilton Place. APB recommended disapproval of both the shed and the yard. PRAB, however, supported a shed located as near as possible to the Greenbelt Homes Inc. compound but recommended that the materials handling yard remain in its current location adjacent to Buddy Attick Park.

PRAB report 6-90, urging better weekend trash collection at Buddy Attick Park. This report will be considered at the June 14 council meeting.

Festival Notes

The next meeting of the Labor Day Festival Committee will be held June 14, 7:30 p.m. in the Greenbelt Library meeting room. All committee members are asked to attend and the public is welcome. Planning has already begun on the many activities which make up the Labor Day weekend community celebration.

New Officers

Bobbie McCarthy was elected president of the Labor Day Festival Committee. A long-time committee member, most recently serving as secretary, she takes over from Rena Hull, who served as president for several years. Other new officers are Maryhelen Spear, vice president; treasurer, Peggy King; and secretary, Cass Cooney. A complete list of festival committee members will appear in a later issue of the News Review so that citizens can contact committee members with ideas or to volunteer their help. The committee welcomes suggestions and volunteers to work on any of the Festival activities.

Miss Greenbelt

One of the earliest events to get underway, and one requiring a great deal of advance preparation, is the Miss Greenbelt pageant. Although an orientation for prospective contestants has already been held, there is still time for girls to sign up for the pageant. Greenbelt teens between 14 and 19 years of age are eligible. The pageant features a summer—full of activities, parties and special events with the overall pageant theme of "Country and Western." A display in the library showcase highlights past pageants. Contact Cheri Gainer, 441-8589, for more information.

Volksmarch

Paul Sable reports that a full-scale walk is planned for this year's Labor Day Festival. Last year the volkmarchers had a shorter course which concluded as part of the Labor Day parade. The Greenbelt walk will be coordinated with a national volkmarch.

A resident in the 8100 block of Mandan Terrace returned home on May 23 to find her townhome had been broken into. There were no signs of forced entry, and no property was missing.

Another breaking and entering was reported on May 24 in the 6100 block of Breezewood Dr. Entry had been gained through an open patio door, and a purse had been taken.

On May 25 another purse was stolen: it had been left unattended in a lunch room in the 7500 block of Hanover Pkwy.

EXPERTS ON PESTICIDES TO TALK ON GARDENING

"Gardening with Nature — Our Role in a Quality Environment" will be next in the series of presentations sponsored by the Greenbelt Earth Day Committee. The program will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, June 13, at the Greenbelt Library.

The speakers will be Claire Smith and Marjorie Smigel, members of the executive committee of the Rachel Carson Council. Both began working on environmental concerns as members of the Springfield Garden Club of Montgomery County, initiating the drive for the Maryland "right to know" pesticides law which passed in 1987. They have testified before county, state and federal legislators on pesticides issues and have given a number of environmental education programs. Each has won a number of awards from groups such as the Garden Clubs of America and the National Wildlife Federation.

Everyone is invited to attend this informative program on gardening.

Vehicles

On May 25 Pfc. Robert Musterman stopped a vehicle that appeared to be disabled at Greenbelt Rd. and Kenilworth Ave. and learned via police communications that the vehicle was stolen. The two men in the car then ran away; however, Pfc. Musterman and K-9 Natan later caught them hiding under parked cars in the 9100 block of Edmonston Rd. The men, 18 and 19 year old nonresidents, were arrested and charged with auto theft; they appeared before a District Court Commissioner and were each held on $5,000 bond pending trial.

David Buerger recently at Springhill Lake's Drug Awareness Workshop at the Fountain Lodge. Cpl. Buerger was the guest speaker at this workshop where Springhill Lake residents, their guests and employees learned to identify current drug trends and to recognize drug paraphernalia and viewed a film: "Drugs and Your Amazing Mind."

The program was held on May 23. For further information on this and future programs at the Springhill Lake Fountain Lodge, contact Linda Schwarten, Community Relations Director, 474-4555.

GEAC Grapples With Recycling Issues, Is Awash With Questions on Lakes

by Pat Scully

Whether the city develops its own recycling program or takes part in the county-run program, the communities in Greenbelt East will need to make their own plans with their trash hauler or the county, since the city is responsible only for its current trash customers. This fact was among the key points of the discussion of recycling at the May 3 GEAC meeting at Windsor Green.

David Helmecki, the city's representative, and Leonie Penney, a member of the Advisory Committee on Recycling and Refuse Collection, attended the meeting and took part in the discussion of the majority and minority reports of the committee, the timing of the county's program and the possible point of collection.

Since the GEAC member communities would not be part of any city-run program, their concerns centered on the possible cost to the overall tax rate of such a program. Will trash fees alone be able to fund the program or will capital costs have to be covered out of general revenues? Since the costs have not been clearly defined, no definitive answer was possible.

Under the county recycling program, collection will occur at curbside, rather than door-to-door as is proposed under the city plan. Since the East would not be part of any city plan, that was not an issue. Rather, the question, which remained unanswered, was whether individual curbside collection would be possible or if the county would require dumpsters for groups of houses. This could be a problem in some of the communities, which have trash rooms and prohibit dumpsters.

No action was taken but the need for more information, which may be forthcoming at the public hearing on recycling, was expressed.

Schrom Hills Lake
GEAC board members expressed "confusion, indignation and outrage" over the lack of information and the decision-making process on Schrom Hills Lake, both the lake that exists and the lake that was promised. Residents had alerted city and county officials when a lake formed and continued rising in the trees bordering Greenbrook Village. The lake level was encroaching on the grassy verge and threatening nearby homes.

On an emergency basis the county dug a trench to prevent any further rise in the existing lake. However, neither of the two county agencies responsible for stormwater management responded when asked whether that lake would be drained and a redesigned lake would then be built.

Originally a five-acre lake was to be built at Greenbrook Village and become part of Schrom Hills Park. The future lake was a major selling (and pricing) point as the homes in Greenbrook Village were being built. Significant wetlands were found at the site, however. This caused concern that the Army Corps of Engineers would not issue the necessary permit for construction of the lake and destruction of the wetlands.

At some point a decision was reached, whether by county or city staff is not clear, not to apply for the permit for the lake as designed. Instead, the city would have a two-acre lake designed that would have less effect on the wetlands. Responsibility for design of the lake currently seems to rest with two county agencies, since the lake would serve stormwater management functions. The legislature has given the county responsibility for stormwater management.

Whether the county is designing the smaller lake and what role the city is playing in the process remains unclear. The design and approval process has been conducted mainly by word of mouth, said Edward Schilling. City staff had thought the county had applied for the permit for the original lake, but "someone heard" that the Corps of Engineers would reject it so the application was never submitted, he said. "These people are not volunteers," Schilling said. "I can't understand why paid professionals let something like this fall through the cracks."

GEAC board agreed to petition city council for a chronology of the lake design and approval process, as well as for an explanation of the current status.

Development Issues

Sheldon Goldberg reported that he had asked city council about the status of Sunrise at its April 30 meeting. City Manager James Giese had told him that he was unaware of any footings having been installed so that the developer's grandfathered rights to zoning may have been lost. The county council passed the Sectional Map Amendment (SMA) on May 1 giving the site R18C zoning (residential condominium).

At the 7-Eleven site, the city council voted 4-0 to request R-80 zoning in the SMA but the developer had installed footings early in the day, before the SMA vote, preserving the right to build the convenience store. While there was a question of the legality of the footer installation (was there an inspector on site?), work had been continuing all week. Apparently, no stop-work order was in effect.

Gypsy Moths

Roy Dahl noted that while Greenbelt East was not included in the gypsy moth spraying program, he had seen lots of caterpillars and holes in the leaves of the trees in the common areas of Greenbriar, which are 90 percent oak. The combination of human population density and low egg mass count was cited as the reason for the lack of spraying. Helmecki suggested that the landscaping company that maintains the common area could spray individual trees.

The next GEAC meeting will be held Thursday, June 7, at 7:30 at Hunting Ridge community center.

T. Stinnie Honored For Cool Thinking

Tidilus Stinnie, a sixth grader at Center School, has become a hero to some of his classmates. Tidilus was honored as one of the ten outstanding patrols in the Washington, D.C. area. He received an engraved plaque and a $100 Savings Bond at a special luncheon at Fair Oaks Mall.

Tidilus, a bus patrol, was recognized for his quick thinking that helped prevent a major problem. When a woman threatened harm to the bus, Tidilus quickly walked off the bus and phoned police.

The 12-year-old was the only patrol from Prince Georges County to be honored this year.

Skeletons Speak at ERHS

by Suzanne Batra

On April 24, about 900 Eleanor Roosevelt High School science students in grades 9-12 attended a lecture by Dr. Douglas Owsley of the Smithsonian Institution. The talk, "Forensic Anthropology: Will the skeleton take the stand?" clearly explained and illustrated the kind of work that is done by about 60 forensic anthropologists in the United States. Dr. Owsley spends 80 percent of his time studying topics such as Native American culture and archaeology, Civil War and other early battlefields, analysis of remains in old cemeteries and at plantations and early civilization on Easter Island.

Dr. Owsley explained that skeletons are carefully examined to determine causes of illness or death, including epidemics, battlefield wounds and weapons used, food deficiencies, injuries, and heredity diseases. Ancient medical and surgical techniques can be determined. Examination of a skeleton can also reveal a person's age, race, the work done by the person, sex, number of children borne by women, and probable appearance when alive. Dr. Owsley's publications deal with diverse subjects, such as the origin of syphilis, scalping, teenage food preferences, Chinese foot-binding, 19th century surgical techniques, podiatry, and identification of individuals. As Dr. Owsley said, "People are unique inside."

About 20 percent of Dr. Owsley's time is spent helping police solve cases by providing positive identification of remains and by determining time and method of death. He described and illustrated the techniques that he used in several of over 100 cases of disappearance, arson, accident and homicide that he has worked with. The students learned how this science is used to help society function smoothly. They seemed to find this topic very interesting.

Dr. Owsley has a BA from the University of Wyoming and an MA and PhD from the University of Tennessee. He is married, with two daughters.

Precautions Against Lyme Disease Urged

The Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene is urging people to take steps to prevent the contraction of Lyme Disease. The illness, which is transmitted by the tiny deer tick, usually causes a rash and flu-like symptoms, and may lead to cardiac, neurologic and arthritic problems if left untreated. To avoid the disease, people should take the following precautions when in brush or forested areas: wear light-colored clothing to detect ticks easier; tuck in shirt-tails and tuck pants into socks; use insect/tick repellents as directed on the label; check for ticks frequently and treat bitten areas with disinfectant; and dispose of ticks by burning or flushing.

The city's portion of the costs will be close to $500,000, including about $60,000 spent "to prove the land wasn't worth what the developers were asking—$4,400,000." The additional money covered the cost of the attorneys, appraisers, engineers, environmental specialists, a traffic study, and other consultants. In the compromise arrived at, the city has agreed to a total price of $3,600,000 for the land, with the developers to receive a $2,200,000 cash settlement for a portion of the property. They will then donate the remaining portion worth $1,400,000.

Remarks by Council

"Everyone is pleased and excited," said a grinning Mayor Gil Weidenfeld. "One of the last vestiges of the green belt will remain as wooded land."

Council member Ed Putens complimented the staff, especially City Solicitor Robert Manzi and attorney Bill Brennan for their negotiating skills and strategies.

Council members Antoinette M. Bram and Joseph Isaacs spoke of their early commitments to the acquisition of the property. Putens thanked Barrett and "all of you in the audience." Weidenfeld seconded that thanks. "Community support for this allowed us to go forward, with state and federal help, in spending such a considerable amount of money."

Calling the purchase "historic," council member Thomas X. White related the "long saga" of Parcel 1. It was saved from development as a three-school complex in the early 70's, he said, by citizen intervention. It was saved again by deleting the perimeter road from the Master Plan. And now Parcel 1 will be permanently saved through the actions of citizens and council to purchase the land.

(Citizens saved both Parcels 1 and 2 from development in the mid 60's when the council with citizen support rejected the developers' offer to sell to the Board of Education a highly desired high school site on Parcel 15 in exchange for city support of multi-family and townhouse zoning on the 200 acre tract. The offer brought heated exchanges in at least two council meetings in 1965. This paper well remembers those exchanges, for they led to a $2,000,000 libel suit. The Greenbelt News Review was eventually vindicated in 1970 when the U.S. Supreme Court unanimously agreed that the newspaper, in fairly and accurately reporting the exchanges in the city council meetings, "was performing the wholly legitimate function of a community newspaper.")

On Channel B-10

On Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, June 12, 14, and 15 at 2 p.m. and Tuesday, June 12 at 7 p.m. the Children's Drama Class performance will be telecast on Channel B-10. The City Council meeting will be cable cast live on June 14 starting at 8 p.m.

On Monday, Wednesday and Friday, June 18, 20 and 22 at 2 p.m. and Monday and Wednesday, June 18 and 20 at 7 p.m. the highlights of the Greenbelt Day Celebration will be cablecast. And on Tuesday and Thursday, June 19 and 21 at 2 and 7 p.m., the Spring Concert at Center School will feature young instrumentalists and the chorus from several schools including Center and Magnolia.

GHI Members Voice Their Frustrations Over Yards; Modification Offered

by Pat Scully

The Greenbelt Homes board room was packed on Thursday, May 10, as residents of 11 court of Laurel Hill Road and other members voiced their concerns, frustrations and anger over the siting of the play areas for the new North End elementary school.

At issue was the use of the city land (to be transferred to the Prince Georges County Board of Education) up to the property line, which lies nearly 40 feet inside GHI yard fences. Most of the affected members had believed that the fence line marked the end of their yards. They were dismayed to learn that instead of having "their" 70-foot yards and a belt of trees between them and the hard-surface elementary school play area, the area would be less than 40 feet from their doors.

Modification to Site Plan

R. C. Garcia, architect for the Board of Education, presented his suggested modification to the site that could maintain a 75-foot distance between the Laurel Hills houses and the play area. This could be done by moving the soccer field and play areas north, toward the woods that lie between the school and the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center. (See site plan.)

Members questioned Garcia extensively about the size of the buffer, the number of trees that would be kept between the play area and their homes, the additional woods that would have to be cleared if the modification is adopted, the need for the school to be a one-story structure, the design and approval process and whether renovating Center School made more sense.

Garcia provided information about the site plan and the effects of the proposed modification. He attempted to keep a 75-foot distance from the houses, including the existing fence line and trees along it. Moving the play areas to keep that buffer could necessitate taking up to an acre into the northern tree line. In response to a question about the possibility of a storm-water management pond being required, he said that this could require cutting an additional 2.3 acres of trees. The issue of the pond had not been resolved, he said, and probably would not be until the actual property transfer took place.

The impetus for a one-story school, Garcia said, came from the educators, who think a one-story structure facilitates the educational process. The decision to build a new school rather than renovate the old came from the voters, in the 1989 referendum.

GHI President Wayne Williams attempted to keep the discussion focused on issues that GHI could act on, rather than those that could be more productively discussed in other forums, such as city council meetings.

Why didn't GHI tell us this was happening, members wanted to know. They learned about the site plan and encroachment on their yards when surveyors came through and marked the site line. Why weren't we told when we bought our homes that the fenced yard didn't all belong to us?

We didn't know about the surveyors coming either, responded many members of the board and staff. While residents of Plateau Place had been invited to an earlier meeting with the Board of Education to review the site plan, GHI and its members had not.

In "the dim mists of history," according to Williams, GHI had a policy of encouraging members who abutted city woodland to include that land within any fences they were building. There were mutual advantages, it was felt, with the GHI member providing maintenance in return for enjoyment of the larger area. This policy did not, however, give GHI title to any of the city-owned land that was enclosed.

The discrepancy between the fence and the true property line should have been disclosed upon purchase, the board acknowledged. If purchasers had asked, surveys showing property lines would be available, according to staff members. However, most purchasers would have made the assumption that the yard inside the fence was the yard of that unit to which they were buying a perpetual use agreement.

What's To Be Done?

The board adopted a motion directing staff to set up a work-session with the city staff, to support the members in keeping the school play area outside GHI fences and to explore the possibility of GHI's deeding or leasing the land from the city before the transfer to the county.

Gray Panthers Meet

A picnic will be held by the Gray Panthers on Saturday, June 16, from noon to 4 p.m. at the upper level picnic grove at Greenbelt Lake. All are invited. Hot dogs, hamburgers, and drinks will be provided. Attendees are asked to bring a potluck dish. Rides will be provided. Call 474-6890 for more information.

(However, the City Manager, in his weekly report of activities for the week ending May 11, 1990, to council, noted that there were restrictions placed upon the deed by the county when the property was transferred to the city. He believes county approval would be necessary before converting any of the property to private use.)

Other Actions

In other actions, member Nat Schinderman requested that GHI take some action in establishing a memorial to the late Charles Schwan, whom he called a true leader throughout the community. Schinderman presented a brief synopsis of Schwan's career in Greenbelt and suggested a number of appropriate actions that might be taken in his memory. The board endorsed the concept. Williams noted that he intended to recommend to the new GHI board (to be elected and installed later in the month) that a committee be appointed to consider the question.

C. F. Schwan Memorial Committee

The Board of Directors of GHI is seeking volunteers to serve on a special subcommittee of the Member & Community Relations Committee to recommend a memorial and plan a special ceremony to honor the late Charles F. Schwan, Jr., a former GHI member, GHI Board President, and member of City Council.

GHI members interested in serving on this committee should forward their name, address, and phone number to the Director of Member Services, Greenbelt Homes, Inc., Hamilton Place, Greenbelt, MD. 20770, no later than June 20.

JOE'S TIPS OF THE WEEK

Hello Again ! !

There are still a good number of rear wheel drive vehicles on the road today and they still come into the repair facility for periodic maintenance scheduling during which we cannot forget to check the drive shaft for universal joint condition. To refresh our memory, a universal joint in a drive shaft is the connecting point to the transmission and to the rear differential which transmits the torque power to drive the car! The condition that we are looking for is that both universal joints have to be able to move without any binding and cannot have any free play. To diagnose the condition the drive shaft should be removed. This method gives us a 100% accurate diagnosis of the condition. If the universal joint has massive amounts of free play this condition can be observed thru a visual inspection and the drive shaft does not have to be removed. The symptoms that be displayed if you have a universal joint condition are a clunking noise emitting from under the body of the vehicle when placing it in and out of gear, a speed-related high pitched tinny sound on acceleration, a cracking sound, and a speed-related vibration that increases with road speed. About 95% of all factory universal joints are sealed and no service can be performed, but when these components are replaced it is advisable to install universal joints that have service ports for zerker type grease fittings so they can be maintained.
