Council Opts for County Recycling Plan And Permanent, Citywide Committee

by Diane Oberg

On a 4-1 vote, with Councilmember Thomas X. White opposed, the Greenbelt City Council agreed at the June 14 meeting to join the county pilot recycling program. They also decided to replace the Advisory Committee on Recycling and Refuse Collection with a permanent Recycling Committee, which would equitably represent all areas of the city. In other actions council heard an update on sediment control problems at the Belle Point construction site and authorized design work for a traffic signal at Hanover Parkway and Ora Glen Drive.

County Recycling

City Manager James K. Giese expects that county collection of recyclables would begin no sooner than January 1991. Under the county program, all single family detached homes currently using the city refuse collection service will have newspapers, aluminum cans, glass and plastic bottles picked up at the curb. White objected that Giese's recommendations to join the county program and take related actions would not take Greenbelt very far into recycling. He felt that the city would lose time in its efforts to reduce the amount of waste city residents dump in the landfill.

In making their decision, council members made clear that they are not making a permanent commitment to the county program. The motion to join the county program specified that the action was made "with the understanding that GHI residents will be collected at the door." The county has agreed to collect these same materials at the service-side porch from Greenbelt Homes Inc. residences. However, the county plans to monitor this collection, using the results to "help us determine if changes need to be made in our policy to provide this service."

Under the county program, the city cannot directly affect recycling in areas not currently receiving city refuse collection. While all city residents or homeowners associations, except for apartment residents can contract with the city for trash collection, only the GHI and the single family homes in the city's core currently do so. Instead, the homeowners association must first determine whether the private trash collector is interested in establishing a recycling program. If not, the association can then apply to join the county program.

Under the county recycling program, currently still considered a pilot program, residents will not be charged for the collection of recyclables. In January 1990 the county imposed a $10/ton surcharge on materials dumped at county landfills to finance the program. However, Giese expects that eventually, as more residents join the program and the amount of refuse dumped at the landfills decreases, the surcharge will not cover the program's costs. He doubted that the county would attempt to charge residents directly for the "privilege of recycling" but admitted that, in White's terms, this was "nothing more than a gut feeling."

Plans for Committee

White found himself again on the short end of a 4-1 council split regarding the future of the recycling committee. His motion to approve staff's recommendation to retain the current committee died for lack of a second. Council members Edward Putens, Antoinette M. Bram and Joseph Isaacs, along with Mayor Gil Weidenfeld, argued that the city needs a committee that fairly represents all geographic areas of the city. Membership on the advisory committee was weighed toward those areas currently using the city's refuse service.

Dissolving the current committee will demoralize it and stop the city's momentum on the issue, argued White. He pointed out that the city manager had recommended a number of specific tasks that the current committee could perform while council considered establishing a permanent committee.

Council also directed staff this time on a unanimous vote, to enlarge the current recycling center near Attick Park. It also directed staff to work with the new committee to develop plans within 12 months for other centers outside the city's core.

Greenbelt East Traffic

Late last year council hired Greenman-Pedersen Inc. (GPI) to conduct a traffic study for Greenbelt East. The company analyzed five intersections. All four signalized intersections, Greenbelt Road at Hanover Parkway, Greenbelt at Mandan, Hanover at Greenway Center and Hanover at Good Luck Road either operate at acceptable levels or have road improvements planned to bring them up to county standards.

The one unsignalized intersection studied, Hanover Parkway and Ora Glen Drive was found to operate at level of service F, defined as gridlock, during the evening peak. GPI found that the intersection meets the standards for installation of a traffic signal. In her written comments, Planning and Development Coordinator Celia Wilson said that the city will be responsible for funding the signal since Hanover is a city street.

One possible source of funding is from the developers of Commerce Center II. One condition of approval for this project was that if traffic generation exceeded projections, the developers would have to fund a signal. However, the project is only 70% occupied at this time and Wilson doubted that traffic will exceed projections until the building is more completely occupied.

Council authorized staff to begin design work for the light, deferring a decision on funding until the design is complete. Wilson estimated that the design work would take at least three months.

Belle Point Runoff

Wilson provided an update on the runoff of sediment-laden rainwater from the Belle Point construction into Greenbelt Lake. Belle Point is located on Parcel 15, between the Beltway and Charlestowne Village. She pointed out that the county controls stormwater management structures in the city.

Because of a water main right of way on the property, the sediment control system for the project cannot be constructed in the ideal manner. Initially problems also occurred with the construction of the system.

In any case, stormwater management standards do not require that the sediment control system be able to handle rains as heavy as those experienced this spring. While the city was able during normal rainfall to protect the lake from the runoff by blocking storm sewer inlets, during heavy rains these inlets had to be re-opened to prevent the flooding of Prince James Way.

Although the recent completion of paving on the site should reduce the sedimentation problem, Wilson said that runoff from the site will still be a problem as long as the lake forebay is silted in and sediment traps are not enlarged to handle heavier rains.

Wilson's frustration was plain as she related her attempts to get the county to require larger sediment traps. The only response she has received is that the traps are sized appropriately for design flows. She said that county officials have the authority to make "in-field" adjustments to tailor a system to meet the requirements of the site.

Council unanimously agreed to write to state and county officials, detailing the problem and seeking remedial action.

Summer Quest Program Encourages Kids to Read

The county library's eighth annual reading program, "Summer Quest: Go Wild With Books," is now underway. Summer Quest aims to keep children up to 12 years old reading and excited about books all summer long by offering special programs that capture their imaginations and keep them coming to the library.

For finishing at least 10 books, every child gets a certificate and a discount coupon to Wild World Amusement Park.

Summer Quest will continue through August. To register and get a schedule of activities visit the Greenbelt library.

Council In Agreement At Very Short Meeting

by Betsy Likowski

The Greenbelt city council whipped through their June 28 special meeting in less than an hour with six unanimous votes. The issues covered at the meeting included a petition from the Little League, the Green Ridge House budget, transfer of funds within city departments, reduction of refuse collection fees, matters pertaining to city employees, and a rescheduling of upcoming council meetings.

John Shuey, a member of the Little League board, told council the board wants to sod the in-field of McDonald Field after the current season ends. Shuey explained the sodding would help a drainage problem and cut down on the problem of gravel coming to the surface. Although the city owns the field, the League offered to pay $2000 for the sodding. Mayor Gil Weidenfeld and council member Ed Putens asked that the city staff look into the matter and see what could be done.

Green Ridge House

The council adopted the Green Ridge House budget for fiscal year 1991. Total estimated revenues will be $833,701, an increase of $15,929. Total operating expenses will be $412,063, an increase of $15,003. The net excess of revenues over expenses after deducting for taxes, insurance, replacement reserves, mortgage payments and building permits —$2,154.

Council agreed to transfer funds totaling $135,000 within city departments.

Council agreed to a 50% reduction in refuse collection fees for persons earning 150% or less of the poverty level, as set by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. This is the same level used for the State Surplus Food Program.

Council approved a four percent cost of living increase for all city employees effective July 1.

The city code was amended to retain an employee's anniversary date following promotion and to change the way pay increases are given to employees who have reached the longevity level of their pay grade.

Council accepted the city manager's recommendations to add some job descriptions to the classification plan and to reclassify 24 positions at one or more higher grades.

Visitors From Poland

Three Polish officials will be touring Maryland in early July. On July 10 they will be in Greenbelt to tour the city and for a barbecue hosted by the city council. They indicated they wanted to see how a municipality interacts with county and state governments. They also expressed interest in economic development and environmental issues.

Meetings

On Tuesday, July 3, council had a work session covering four topics, including Schrom Hills plan and the storage shed proposed for Hamilton Place.

The next regular council meeting was set for July 16.

County Will Help Secure Funds for Center School

In a letter dated June 25, County Executive Parris Glendening made a commitment to the city of Greenbelt to "work with our State legislators and the Governor to secure up to $400,000 in State and local funds" in order to help fund the remodeling of Center School building. Glendening had met earlier with city officials to discuss various concerns regarding the transfer of the title of the North End School property (owned by the city) so that construction work could begin for the new school to be built on that site.

A major issue for the city has been finding outside funding for the potentially expensive renovation of the Center School building (owned by the County) for use as a community center. Because the building is an historic landmark, restrictions of a special nature will control the manner of its renovation. In addition, the building is known to contain asbestos, which is very costly to remove.

Glendening's letter refers to the County's past cooperation with the city, including the recent contribution of $1.3 million for preserving open space in Greenbelt. "I am confident," he said, "we will also succeed in honoring our commitment to providing the funds for Center School."

Once the transfer of title is complete, construction on the new Greenbelt Elementary School is expected to begin at once.

Mosquito Spraying

The Maryland Department of Agriculture has begun its mosquito spraying program in Greenbelt. To have an area sprayed, people must call the city's Public Works Office, 474-8004, by noon on Friday, advising them of their address and the exact location wanted sprayed. Then on Tuesday evenings the spray trucks will spray only the areas which have been requested the previous Friday.

Appalled

To the Editor:

Having just happily settled on my first home here in old Greenbelt, I was appalled to read that the wonderful old sycamore trees lining Centerway were to be removed and replaced with trees that are "greener and more resistant to disease. . ."

Are the present trees not green? Are they riddled by disease? Why is old Greenbelt so special and unique from other "affordable" communities in the area? Might it have something to do with the trees?

Would you pack up your grandmother and ship her off to die because she was too old, too diseased, too big, or in the way? Why not? What about the sycamores? How many decades do you think it took them to reach their current size? Are they older than your children, your grandchildren? Probably!

How long will it take these new "greener and more resistant to disease" replacement trees to take the place of our lovely sycamores? How long will it take these new "greener" trees to add value to our homes and community, to lessen our electric bills with their summer shade, to screen pollutants from our air, and to provide refuge for our community's pillars. By weakening and removing this "natural" foundation, we are selling Greenbelt's natural beauty out to just another contractor.

Greenbriar News

Greenbriar and Glen Oaks residents enjoyed the first hot dog roast of the season on Saturday, June 16. The beautiful weather kept the Social Committee busy cooking hot dogs, as residents flocked to the hill after a dip in the pool or a game of tennis.

Residents are now looking forward to the 13th annual Pool Party Picnic to be held on Saturday, July 14. Swimming, dancing, games and a picnic dinner are some of the activities planned. Tickets for this event are available at the office, 441-1096.

The Sycamores on Centerway were removed by city crews in preparation for the renovation of sidewalks and street. Crews found the trees surprisingly easy to knock down. Some had little root structure, others, with rotted centers, broke off where the bulldozers hit them. London Plane trees, greener and hardier, will replace the old trees. An irrigation system will help insure the new trees remain healthy.

THE SUN AND THE HUMAN SKIN

Now that the weather has turned warm, many of us will be heading for the beaches in various stages of undress with the express purpose of acquiring a gorgeous sun tan. This is done for two reasons: a sun tan is considered beautiful, and it is considered healthy. I will not comment on the former, since that is a matter of taste; but I can assure you that a suntan is far from healthy. It speeds up the appearance of early aging because of wrinkles, and it increases the chance of developing skin cancer. The danger is greatest from the short range ultraviolet rays, known as UVB, which will cause sunburn, and suntanning. The long range ultraviolet rays, UVA, will cause tanning, but more slowly. It will not cause sunburn.

The severity of the sunburn depends on how light the exposed skin is, how long the exposure lasts, how perpendicular the sun's rays hit the individual, how close he is to the equator, how high above sealevel he is, and how much reflection exists from sand, water, snow, and other shiny surfaces.

If you insist on getting a suntan because it looks good, but you are smart enough not to want to risk skin cancer and wrinkles, your best bet is to do the following:

- 1) Avoid sunbathing between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. when the sun's rays are directly overhead.
- 2) Stay in the sun for short periods only, for the first few times, especially if you are light-skinned (ten, fifteen, twenty minutes for the first few days).
- 3) Apply a sunscreen generously to the exposed surfaces of your body about half an hour to an hour before exposure. Reapply after swimming and showering.

There are two basic types of sunscreens:

A) The first type protects by chemical action against the shorter, ultraviolet rays (UVB), which means that they will protect against sunburn, but will allow tanning. Most of these contain some form of para-amino-benzoic acid (PABA). Many people are sensitive to PABA, so find a sunscreen that does not contain it.

B) The second type provides a mechanical barrier against all ultraviolet rays and are quite messy. They will prevent sunburn and also tanning. They are especially useful for application around the lips and the nose. Their most important application is among people who have various rare sun-sensitivity diseases, or are taking drugs which make their skin sensitive to the sun's rays. Medications in this group usually contain zinc oxide or red petrolatum.

Most commercial sunscreens on the market are a combination of ingredients, and their function is simplified by a "sun protective factor" number. The number represents how many times longer it takes for the skin to burn with the sunscreen as compared to the unprotected skin. The number 4 indicates moderate protection against burn and relatively rapid tanning; the number 8 gives maximal protection against burn, but slower tanning; the number 15 protects against burn and tanning. (Higher than number 15 adds to the expense but very little to the protection.)

TREATMENT: What should you do if you didn't listen to my advice about protecting yourself, and you suffer from an extensive amount of red, blistering, painful, swollen skin? If the condition is not too drastic, you may treat yourself with lots of fluids, cool baths and compresses containing oatmeal, corn starch, or baking soda; also, apply hydrocortisone cream on the burned areas. Older children and adults may take aspirin or ibuprofen, which are anti-inflammatory agents. If the sunburn is too severe for home therapy, your doctor will prescribe cortisone by mouth or by injection, or, in very severe cases, will hospitalize the patient.

We hope this brief essay will encourage you to be sensible about sunbathing.

—Received a request from Greenbelt Homes Inc. to undertake rush hour traffic studies to determine the extent to which motorists are using Crescent and Southway to bypass the Greenbelt Road-Kennilworth Avenue intersection. GHI President Wayne Williams said that the board is particularly concerned that this cut-through traffic will increase with the upcoming opening of the Cherrywood Lane Bridge over the Beltway, which will provide direct access to Kennilworth Avenue at Capital Office Park between Greenbelt Road near Beltway Plaza.

—Received a letter from Gerald Madison asking the city to investigate drainage problems on Ridge Road near Lakeside North and the police station. Madison cautioned that the road flooding could be dangerous in winter.

—Learned that a Sunday morning trash collection at Attick Park has been scheduled in response to a complaint from the Park and Recreation Advisory Board that more refuse was generated on weekends than could be stored in the available receptacles. Additional trash containers will also be installed.

—On a motion by Putens, directed staff to look into ways to identify, restore, protect and maintain the Hamilton Cemetery site at the end of Hamilton Place. An amendment from Bram that the historic value of the site also be evaluated was included in the final motion.

SENIORS' SOFTBALL

by Jerry Conway

The Greenbelt Senior Citizens Slow Pitch Softball Team is doing better than average in the Baltimore County League with five wins and four losses. Our away games have 10 active players, and the home games average 14. More seniors desiring fun, exercise and sportsmanship are welcome to join the team's effort to win for Greenbelt. The Beltway League has 12 more games for this season with half at home and half away. The last game will be August 20.

The Greenbelters participated in the Anne Arundel County mini-world qualifying series at Glen Burnie, and lost to the Virginia Gentlemen, Anne Arundel All Stars and the Bowie All Stars. Our team members, age 56-74, did not hit or field as well as the opposing players, aged 55-60. However, we did score big hits and scores in close games with them in a series of five games last weekend. Next year we'll probably play in the 60 plus age group in which we would do better.

On August 24, 25 and 26, we will participate in the qualifying double elimination series at Bowie, and hope to qualify in the Maryland Senior Olympics championship games at Towson on October 4. Again, we will be in the 55 plus competition, involving all available teams from Maryland. Anyone skilled in softball fielding and hitting is invited to join us in practice for these events on every Friday,

Police Blotter

Based on Information Released by the Greenbelt Police Department

Responding to a report of domestic altercation involving a firearm in the 7800 block of Hanover Pkwy. on June 23, Officer Ron Walter found the living room couch shot up, a fully loaded gun with one round fired, and, in the bedroom, a .22 caliber handgun which had not been fired. He arrested the 67-year-old male resident, charging him with discharging a firearm within the city limits. The man was released on a citation pending trial.

While on routine patrol in the evening of June 25, Pfc. Michael Lanier came upon two men walking along the dirt road off Cherrywood Ln. near Ivy Ln. who tried to hide an army issue type ammo bag when they noticed him. Thereupon Lanier questioned them and one of them made a sudden move into the ammo bag. Lanier ordered the man to release the bag and a short struggle ensued. The ammo bag contained a .38 caliber Colt revolver, a 9 mm Uzi-type semi-automatic machine gun, 150 rounds of ammunition, a ski-mask and gloves. Further investigation revealed that the men were escaped mental patients from Walter Reed Hospital. A 33-year-old nonresident was arrested and charged with various weapons charges and assault of a police officer. He was held on $10,000 bond. A 23-year-old nonresident, was arrested and charged with various weapons charges; he was held on $5,000 bond. Both men were turned over to a special agent of the Department of Defense.
