Hobbs Takes on Duties of Manager

by Sandra Barnes

"Where is Greenbelt going?" And, "How does it want to get there?" These are the profound questions Greenbelt's new city manager, Daniel G. Hobbs, thinks will need to be answered in the next few years. But not by him. The essence of Hobbs' management style is that he sees himself as a facilitator—not a creator. "It won't be my job to answer those questions," Hobbs asserts, but rather to bring the right people together—citizens, staff, council—to process problems effectively.

Hobbs' predecessor, Jim Giese, Greenbelt's city manager for 28 years has been described as "the ultimate city manager." He was a skilled master at his craft and a patient teacher. As Greenbelt grew in size and prominence, Jim Giese stood quietly behind the scenes, rarely taking credit for achievements that brought a sharp increase in commercial and residential development in the past 10 years. His manner was quiet, purposeful. Giese had the rumpled appearance of a man settled into his job in the way one settles into a comfortable old easy chair. Evenings often found him plowing through papers on his desk.

Hobbs, in contrast, can be described as "the textbook city manager." He is young (40ish), lean, with a polished manner somewhat in variance with his unruly shock of light auburn hair. His desk is uncluttered. Already he's created more space and open areas in the city manager's office. He conveys an air of drive and ambition, as well as boyish enthusiasm for being the manager of a planned community. In his 20 years in the field of city management, he has steadily climbed the ladder to more and more responsible positions.

It is his experiences in fiscal management that Hobbs feels attracted the Greenbelt City Council's attention.

"I always dreamed of being manager of a city like Reston or Columbia," he remarks. It wasn't until after he came to Greenbelt that he realized he had accomplished his goal; he was the manager of a planned community, one of the first in the country.

Philosophically, Hobbs considers himself very close to Jim Giese. He jokingly observes, "When people say, 'Oh, you're the one who's filling Jim Giese's shoes,' I say the only difference between us is that Jim is a 10½ wing tip and I am a 9½ loafer."

Ohio Background

Hobbs grew up in Dayton, Ohio, where his mother was active in the League of Women Voters. His father was president of the Chamber of Commerce. He credits this civic-minded background with his later interest in local government. He attended the University of Dayton, spending one summer as an intern with the City of Dayton.

The sixties was a turbulent time for cities. In the wake of the civil rights movement, the federal government initiated the Model Cities Program. The answer to urban decay was to tear down and rebuild. The consequences were often bitter and strident as neighborhoods were destroyed and poor people relocated.

In Dayton, Hobbs had the opportunity to work under Graham Watt, later Deputy Mayor of Washington, D.C. and then was manager of Broward County, Florida. Hobbs describes Watt as the "ideal city manager."

While there were riots in the Dayton streets, Watt kept the government functioning. Hobbs admired Watt for his hard work, his intelligence, his sense of humor. He respected Watt for his accomplishments in keeping the city together, for not losing his vision of what was in the public's interest. Hobbs also learned to relish the citizen participation aspects of local government in bringing about change.

After obtaining a Master's degree in urban affairs from the University of Wisconsin, followed by a Master's in public administration from the University of Dayton, Hobbs again worked for a short period for the City of Dayton. He arrived in Rockville, Maryland as the city's assistant city manager in the late 70s.

Council Registration Forms Deadline September 23

The deadline for nominations to City Council is fast approaching. Anyone who wishes to run for council in the November 5 election must return the nomination petition, signed by not fewer than fifty Greenbelt qualified voters, to the City Offices by the end of business on Monday, September 23. (5 p.m.)

To be qualified to vote in city elections and to sign petitions for nominations citizens must be registered with the Prince Georges County Board of Elections. This is the first year that Greenbelters will vote under universal registration. The city no longer registers people for city elections. However, only Greenbelters may vote in city elections.

Only charter amendments may be petitioned to city elections. Because of universal registration now 2,000 signatures (20% of registered voters) are necessary, all of them Greenbelt residents. Also, a special form must be used. These may be obtained at city offices.

Voter Registration

Although the County Board of Elections will handle all registrations, registration forms may be picked up during regular office hours at the city offices, 25 Crescent Road (Municipal Building), or at the Greenbelt Library, 11 Crescent Road. Voters may also call the Board of Elections at 627-2814 to request that a form be sent by mail. All completed forms must be received by the Board of Elections by October 7.

Voter Qualification Requirements

In order to vote in Greenbelt, and to be registered with Prince Georges County, one must be a citizen of the United States of America; at least 18 years of age as of November 5, 1991; domiciled within the corporate limits of the city of Greenbelt as of the date of registration; not convicted more than once of an infamous crime and not currently under a sentence imposed pursuant to a conviction of an infamous crime (direct questions to the election office, 952-3270); and not under guardianship for mental disability.

Candidacy for Council

Any qualified voter of the city wishing to run for council may do so by obtaining from the city clerk and filing the following forms:

1. Nomination Petition — This form requires the signature of at least 50 qualified voters of the city, and must be signed by the circulator of the petition and notarized. The signatures should give the petitioners' proper name e.g., Mary Doe, not Mrs. John Doe and address.

2. Acceptance of Nomination— This form notes that the nominee agrees to serve, if elected. It must be filed along with the nomination petition.

3. Financial Disclosure Statement— This form lists business entities and real estate interests held by the nominee and family, and sources of specified income or debt. The statement covers the period January 1, 1990 thru June 30, 1991. Candidates

Indian Creek Cleanup Begins in Greenbelt

A stream clean-up will be held this Saturday, September 14, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The clean-up, sponsored by the Anacostia Watershed Society (AWS), is an effort to save Indian Creek.

The creek, polluted mainly by residue washed off of parking lots by rain, is one of the most polluted tributaries of the Anacostia river. The stream clean-up will begin near the Springhill Lake Recreation Center on Cherrywood Lane. Anyone participating should wear old clothes and shoes.

Next week residents will receive a letter in the mail from AWS requesting contributions. Funds will be used first for planting trees along the tributary of Indian Creek that will be cleaned up this weekend. Funds are also sought for acquisition of the wetlands preserve on the A.H. Smith property adjacent to the Metro station. Financial contributions will give Greenbelters the opportunity to "walk their talk to save the Bay," says Robert Boone, executive director of AWS.

"I highly commend the Anacostia Watershed Society for their efforts to reclaim Indian Creek. Preserving this natural resource should be a top priority for everyone," says Mayor Gil Weidenfeld.

The AWS, formed in January

1989 as a private, non-profit organization, is interested in making the Anacostia River a swimmable, fishable body of water by the year 2000.

The AWS wants the wetlands on the A.H. Smith property, just west of Springhill Lake purchased and restored. The Indian Creek clean-up would help preserve this area as well as the Anacostia and Potomac Rivers and the Chesapeake Bay.

City Council supported the society's request last July urging the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority to acquire the property around the new Metro station for use as a wetlands nature preserve to improve water quality and flood control and to provide multiple opportunities for hiker/biker trails, environmental education and other recreational activities.

The AWS is furthering their efforts to preserve the wetlands by planting trees in November.

Dems to Hear Brown On PG Redistricting

On Friday, September 20, at 8 p.m., Henderson Brown, chairman of the Prince Georges County Redistricting Committee, will share up-to-date information regarding redistricting in the county and how it will apply to Greenbelt with members and guests at the Eleanor & Franklin Democratic Club.

The redistricting proposal finally selected will affect the 1994 and 1998 County Council elections.

Brown is an attorney with the firm of Thompson, Hine and Flory in Landover. He is a former Assistant Attorney General for the State of Maryland and has served as Legislative Officer for the Prince Georges County Council.

Democratic Club meetings are held on the third Friday of each month in the Terrace Room of the Greenbriar Community Building at 8 p.m. Guests are welcome.

Perfect Way to Celebrate

Was there a special aura over the Labor Day Festival this year? The wonderful weather helped, of course. But the carnival concessions also seemed more various and the riders happier, and community members, with more enthusiasm, seemed drumming up trade from a wider range of booths. Somehow there seemed a new spirit in the air.

Could this lively mood have been a spin-off from the freshly refurbished look of the Roosevelt Center, with its spiffy new paint and every business space occupied and active? Contrast that picture with last year's down-at-heels look, when construction crews hurried to finish sidewalks so Festival crowds wouldn't need to scramble through mud and dirt. This year the wonderful new swimming pool was near enough to completion that Festival-goers could take a pre-opening walk-through. We'll concede that landscapers had to hustle a bit to lay down sod over the recently graded dirt before the new building. But they finished in time for the stage to be moved into place on Friday and for folks to find an instant greensward to rest upon.

There was something old (the look of the Center, decorated as it appeared when the town began) and something new (the spectacular look of the swimming pool); there was something borrowed (the portable stage) and something blue (the roof of the natatorium)—all in all, the culmination of a great romance between conception and reality in the planned community that is today's Greenbelt. This year's Festival was the perfect way to celebrate.

This meeting is open to the public; candidates, their families, supporters, and interested citizens may attend to witness the draw.

Candidates are also required to file a notarized interim report of campaign contributions no later than noon, October 18; and a final campaign contribution report must be filed no later than 5 p.m. Monday, November 11. Absentee Voting Voters who will be unable to appear at their polling place on November 5 by reason of illness, religious beliefs or absence from the city may vote by absentee ballots. The first day to apply and vote by absentee ballot will be Wednesday, October 16. (Please watch for city ads).

Letters to the Editor

Thanks

I thank the city of Greenbelt, its citizens and its representatives for naming me Outstanding Citizen of the Year for 1991. It was unexpected and deeply appreciated, after a half-century of volunteer activity.

I wish particularly to thank County Council Chairman Castaldi for the county's citation; Senator Green for securing Governor Schaefer's beautiful citation; Delegates Conroy, Pitkin and Ryan in providing the delegate assembly's citation; Mayor Weidenfeld for a magnificent plaque and citation from the city; Tom Renahan and his committee of distinguished citizens who made a difficult choice among the strong contenders.

Many thanks also to the business community: Holiday Inn for their citation and generous prize; and Kangaroo Katie's and Hunan restaurants for their gifts.

I accepted this honor in my own behalf and that of my wife, Ethel, without whose active cooperation none of this could have taken place. And I promise never to do it again.

Ben Rosenzweig

P.S. Your newspaper gave me a handsome write-up as Outstanding Citizen of which I am duly appreciative. I do have a nit to pick. If I served on the Community Relations Advisory Board, I was the invisible member. Those who have put up with me for 24 years were the members of the city's Employee Relations Board—for the record.

Art Exhibit

A group exhibit of Greenbelt artists will be held at the Library Gallery on the first floor of the Greenbelt Library from September 9-October 4, Monday-Thursday, 2 to 8 p.m.; Friday and Saturday, 2 to 5 p.m.

Call 699-3500 for information.

Thanks

I would like to extend to you all my warmest gratitude for your support over the last few months during my mother's illness. As you know, my mother recently passed away due to complications from cancer.

Always being involved in our lives in Greenbelt, but especially following her move in with Becky and myself this past April, my mother had grown to love Greenbelt and the many friends who reached out to her during her time of need.

A special thanks is given to St. Hugh's and all of you who so kindly offered your prayers. Your flowers, kind notes, and ongoing support were invaluable to us during this most difficult time. When I learned that the city flag was flown at half mast, I was honored and could not think of a more appropriate tribute from the city to such a fine mother and grandmother. She was my "special lady."

Again, the Putens family offers our sincere thanks and appreciation for your friendship and love.

Great Success

This year the Art Show was a great success at its new location in the Youth Center, with extended hours during the Labor Day Festival weekend. Everyone in the Recreation Department and the Public Works Department was very helpful, and my committee—the Greenbelt Visual Arts Coalition—was very pleased with how smoothly everything went and by the positive response of the public.

Thanks should be given also to the Laurel Art Center in Laurel for giving us a discount on the gift certificates we used as prizes.

Barbara Simon, Chair
Greenbelt Visual Arts Coalition

County Honors City Resident Herskowitz-Sutherland

by Kathryn Meckley

Robert Janus, of Lakecrest Drive, has been named Prince Georgian of the year. Janus is head of the motor development/adaptive physical education program for Prince Georges County. He supervises 31 special education teachers throughout the county who work with children whose gross motor development is impaired.

Colleague Alice Terrill nominated Janus for Prince Georgian of the Year. This is the fourth year that 10 countians have been selected for recognition in a partnership program between the county executive's Community and Ethnic Affairs Advisory Board and the Chamber of Commerce.

The children Janus works with are infants through age 21. He starts working with infants and their parents in the home. When the children become toddlers, age 2-3, they start attending the clinics, where they learn motor skills, such as walking, jumping, skipping, and running, through adaptive physical education and aquatics.

Janus says he and the other teachers focus on what they can do to facilitate the handicapped person's entry into the mainstream of life — to play, get a job, and lead a normal life.

Bob first became involved in working with these special people while studying for his M.S. at the University of Maryland. Dr. Warren R. Johnson, who was Dean of the Health Education Department, started a Saturday clinic for children with special needs. The clinic was staffed and run by students, including Janus, who volunteered their time on Saturdays. The Child Development Clinic has grown from eight clinicians to 50, working with more than 150 children. In addition to the clinic at the University of Maryland, Janus also works at the Child Development Clinic at Prince Georges Community College.

After Janus graduated, he taught in the Prince Georges County schools, waiting for an opening in special education. Since that time, he has dedicated himself to special education students and their families. A prime innovator of the motor development/adaptive physical education concept, he has succeeded in changing the emphasis of physical education to make it more beneficial and appropriate for the disabled.

Area Coordinator

As area coordinator for the County Special Olympics for 21 years, and an original founder of the Maryland Special Olympics, Janus is a leader in program development. Through his dedicated work with Special Olympics on a county, state and national level, disabled athletes participate in year round sports activities. One of the programs he developed is "Operation Bridge," a summer program for disabled students to bridge the gap between school sessions.

Janus and his wife, Jo Ann, came to Maryland from Pennsylvania in 1957 and have lived in Greenbelt for nearly 20 years. Their son, who is now 28, attended St. Hugh's School and Eleanor Roosevelt Senior High School.

Janus says they enjoy living in Greenbelt because "it has people with vision" serving the community; there is something for everyone. He calls the recreation department "excellent." All ages are provided for. He thinks Greenbelt is "on top of serving the community" with activities, planned development, and environmental concerns.

In addition to his busy life working with disabled children, Janus likes to stay physically fit by jogging and working out with weights at the gym. He also likes sports and reading. He says as soon as he has time, he and his son will pursue one of their favorite activities—fishing and crabbing in the Bay. Photography is another hobby he likes to pursue when he has time.

Janus is active in the Council for Exceptional Children and received the Outstanding Volunteer of 1985 award from the National Special Olympics. He has been honored by the American Legion, Civitan Club of Hyattsville, Council for Exceptional Children, Prince Georges County Board of Education, and received the Bullet Shooting Star Award.

Dan Sutherland, son of Douglas and Ann Sutherland of Lakeside Drive, was married to Lisa Herskowitz of Reston, Va. on July 13.

The Reverend Richard W. Kelley, of Paint Branch Unitarian Universalist Church in Adelphi, officiated at the ceremony which took place in an outdoor setting at the Laurel Brigade Inn, located in Leesburg, Va. The reception was also held there.

The bride's parents, Allan and Sue Herskowitz, gave the bride away. Attendees included relatives from Florida, and the groom's uncle, Richard Berk, from San Jose, California.

The couple honeymooned in the Adirondack Mountains and now resides in San Antonio, Texas.

In May Dan graduated from Syracuse University with a master of fine arts degree. He is an art instructor at the University of Texas and had an art show opening at the World Tattoo Gallery in Chicago early in September.

Book Discussion Features

The Greenbelt Library and Green Ridge House are cooperating to present an adult book discussion series funded by The National Endowment for the Humanities. The series, "20's and 30's: Literature Mirrors History," features discussions of books of history and literature that encapsule American experience between the wars. Participants will be given an opportunity to take part in an intellectually stimulating exchange of ideas and experience. Academic experts will introduce the discussion and provide background information to make the informative as well as lively.

The first discussion will be at the Greenbelt Library on Wednesday, October 2, at 10 a.m. and will feature the book, The Nervous Generation: American Thought, 1917-1930 by Roderick Nash. This discussion will be led by Dr. Karen Olsen, professor of history at Dundalk Community College.

The series will continue throughout October, November and early December. Other titles which will be discussed are F. Scott Fitzgerald's story of the Jazz Age, The Great Gatsby, the play Inherit the Wind by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee which dramatizes the tension of the Scopes Trial in Tennessee; Zora Neal Hurstan's Their Eyes Were Watching God, a novel not only of the black experience, but also a protest of black woman's situation; and John Steinbeck's Grapes of Wrath, the Pulitzer Prize winning story of the Okies in California.

America in '20s and '30s

Participants should register and pick up a copy of each book either with Jim Cassels at Green Ridge House or at the Information Desk at the Greenbelt Library, or call the library at 345-5800. All discussions will be in the meeting room of the library.

A Nigerian Tragedy At Publick Playhouse

Six Artists Exhibit Work In Library Gallery Here

by Eileen Peterson

The appreciative crowd moving slowly around the small art gallery in the Greenbelt Library at last Sunday's opening were probably unaware that this show is a milestone in the gallery's 18-month existence.

There have been exhibits of various artists' works—painting, sculpture, mixed media — but never a group show, and this one is by six artists associated with Greenbelt.

The current month-long showing features 17 paintings, drawings, mixed media and sculptured images of astonishing variety. That such a breadth of art can be successfully displayed in the small room on the lower level of the library is a tribute to the vision of the county library system's administration as well as to the ingenuity of the artists who exhibit there.

Two abstract watercolors by the late Jo Scheibel (whose collection was hung in the University of Maryland, University art hall last year) begin the kaleidoscope of color and texture one sees and feels in this show. Alice Plaster enjoys literally "reflecting" on life's ordinary scenes, and her "Bakery" oil painting depicts a familiar shop as if seen through its window with the added layer of reflections from outside. What adds a new dimension is its placement so that one sees the bright work reflected in the darkened window of the Novel Endings Bookstore directly across the hall.

Allen Linder's sculpture — especially the painted pink marble called "Sitting Man"—evokes the sensation of weight, movement and balance. The jutting chin and wide eyes of the "Man" can be very disconcerting when confronted head-on. Liza Linder's intriguing mixed media painting titled "Two People Trying to Understand Each Other" makes one stop to consider ways in which relationships can be symbolized.

Valerie Watson takes viewers to distant sites, juxtaposing human figures, architecture and artifacts. Barbara McGee's watercolor, graphite and colored pencils produced one idea in three varied phases: "Woman Braiding Her Hair" seems to show human gestures in differing, often pensive, moods.

The gallery is open free to the public Tuesday through Thursday from 2-8 p.m., Friday and Saturday from 2-5 p.m. This particular show runs through October 4.

Council Adopts New Policy For Posting Election Signs

by Betsy Likowski

The regular city council meeting on Monday, August 26 was an unusual one because it was short and because the jokes and quips flew. Everyone seemed to be in good humor. Council changed election sign policy, reviewed expansion plans at the Goddard Space Flight Center, set pool fees, and attended to various city matters.

A new method of placing campaign signs in city elections was approved by council. These rules must be voluntarily agreed to by all the candidates. The signs will be located on nine public sites and will still be the traditional 18" x 24" in size. Three signs per pole will be the limit and slots on the pole will be chosen by lottery. The candidates will be responsible for monitoring the signs.

Councilmember Thomas White was the only one to vote against the measure. He said he wanted to let all the candidates in this upcoming election have an opportunity to review this policy. (People may still decide to run for city council till September 23.)

Mayor Gil Weidenfeld disagreed, saying that because the issue has come up in several meetings, people have had a chance to comment on the matter.

"The issue has come up because citizens have complained," said council member Joseph Isaacs, and "this council can act" on this issue.

Council member Antoinette Bram raised questions about cost and placement of signs.

Another election matter was council approval of an advisory question on the ballot. The question is: "Do you favor changing the city charter to provide for a four-year term of office for the elected City Council?"

NASA

A presentation on expansion planned at the Goddard Space Flight Center (NASA) was given by Steve Bice, Head of Facilities Planning. By the year 2000 two new buildings are planned across Soil Conservation Road from the existing facility.

The first building to be constructed will be the Earth Observation System Data Information Systems Center, which will be 192,000 square feet and house 900 people over a 24-hour period. The second building will be the Earth Systems Science Building, which will be 380,000 square feet and will house about 500 people.

These two structures, plus other, smaller, building projects, will add about 1,000 prime shift employees. Part of the building plans includes the possibility that gates may be relocated or closed.

"My main concern, besides traffic on Greenbelt Road, is the closing of Soil Conservation Road," said Bram. White and ber 27 in the pool area.

The city received a Certificate of Achievement for Excellence in Financial Reporting for its financial report for the fiscal year ended on June 30, 1990 —the eighth time the city has won this award.

New Pool Fees

Council approved new fees for the pools. A family annual pool pass will be $270, nine-month pass $205, and summer pass $135. Individual passes are: annual $130, nine-month pass $100, and summer pass $65. Non-resident passes will be more expensive. Seniors will also pay: $35 for the summer, $50 for nine months, and $65 for an annual pass.

Miscellaneous

White asked the city staff to look into the issue of Greenbelt's zip codes. He said he has noticed establishments outside Greenbelt with the 20770 zip code. "We should have ownership of 20770," he said.

The president of the Prince Georges County Municipal Association (PGCMA) asked for council's support on County Bill CB-24-1991 on billboards. The original bill would ban new billboards and phase out old ones. The bill was amended to just ban new billboards. The city council agreed to support the amended bill and to push for legislation to phase out existing ones.

The Maryland Municipal League asked all its members to oppose the imposition of a Police Officers' Bill of Rights in the Omnibus Crime Bill now pending in the U.S. Congress. The League's position is that this would interfere with the relations of local police and local elected officials. White, who introduced this item to council's attention, said that Maryland already has a police Bill-of-Rights law. Council agreed to support the League's position.

Council agreed that at least one council member should go to a meeting on September 3 about the Sectional Map Amendment for Bowie/Collington and speak against the Inter County Connector.

Weidenfeld agreed with her on this.

City Matters

Council approved the promotions of Assistant City Manager Michael McLaughlin to Deputy City Manager/City Treasurer and of City Accountant Jeff Williams to Deputy City Treasurer. City Manager Daniel Hobbs recommended the restructuring of city positions rather than the hiring of a new Director of Administrative Services to replace recently retired Casimir Prybyl. The savings to the city is $44,600.

The Deputy City Manager/City Treasurer will supervise the Department of Finance and Administrative Services, which includes personnel and purchasing functions, and continue the work of assistant city manager.

The Deputy City Treasurer will be responsible for supervising the day-to-day financial operations of the city as well as being the accountant.

City Matters

Council took care of several city matters. Approval was given for spending $7,500 on interior painting of the municipal building. Among other work in the building, CARES has been moved to the ground floor and the office it vacated now houses the Planning and Development Department.

Council approved $11,258 for purchases for Schrom Hills Park: 23 bollards costing $330 each, and seven 25-foot poles with 400 watt lights costing $524 each, for the parking lot.

The city usually holds a reception in appreciation of the volunteer services of members of the council advisory boards. Council decided to combine this event with the pre-opening event celebrating the opening of the indoor pool on Friday, Septem-joy citizen participation, his two jobs in Texas gave him opportunities to test his ability to resolve severe fiscal crises. During his tenure as Director of Management and Budget for Corpus Christi and as city manager in Killeen, he polished his skills in cutback management.

Shortly after Hobbs arrived in Corpus Christi (280,000 population) in the mid-80s as Budget Director, the economy flattened. The city faced a $7 million gap between expenses and resources. Although he maintains he was affectionately known as "meat axe Hobbs" and "Dr. No," he is proud that he engineered a program of cuts through attrition and reorganization with no major reduction in services and with only four layoffs.

Arriving in Killeen, Texas (64,000 population) as City Manager one and one-half years ago, he found that the Department of Defense was about to close Fort Hood, employer to 20,000 people. The city faced a 25 percent unemployment rate within 18 months. The city's subsequent efforts to diversify its economy brought Hobbs national recognition, including an interview on "CBS Good Morning." He laughingly recalls that he made more trips to Washington during his tenure in Killeen than he did while he worked for the city of Rockville. He helped the city obtain a $100,000 planning grant from the President's Office on Economic Assistance to organize an economic development corporation.

It is these experiences in fiscal management that Hobbs feels attracted the Greenbelt city council's attention. He feels that he and the council are a good match. He respects the policy-making role of elected officials and the high degree of citizen participation in Greenbelt. He believes these qualities were responsible for the council's selecting him as the new city manager.

Personal Life

Hobbs is happy to be back in the Washington area. His wife's family is nearby; his family in Ohio is only a day's drive away. He is impressed with the Buddy Attick Park, and with the view of the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center from Ridge Road. He is busy rediscovering old colleagues at the Council of Governments. He is pleased to be working with Mike McLaughlin, the assistant city manager whom he hired for an internship while at the city of Rockville. He marvels at the changes that have occurred in the few years he has been gone from the area. He mentions Union Station — and the development in Greenbelt.

Daniel Hobbs, new city manager, views his role as one of consensus building. "I intend to do a lot of listening," he affirms.

He has purchased a townhouse in Greenbrook and looks forward to his participation in the Greenbelt Nursery School, where his four-year-old daughter is enrolled. Above his commitment to his job, he earnestly notes that his top priority is his family, which includes his wife and two young daughters.

Hobbs has attended two city council meetings since arriving in Greenbelt about a month ago. He praises the members of council for their dedication to the public interest. "There is no Republican or Democratic way to pick up the garbage," he explains. "Debate is the hallmark of democracy," he continues. Hobbs expects fierce battles, but hopes that the "great debates never get personal or engage in staff bashing. If there is staff bashing, the only person to be bashed is me as the chief executive, not other staff," he maintains.

Coming out of his experiences in Texas, Hobbs views his tenure in Greenbelt as one of consensus building. "I intend to do a lot of listening," he affirms. "I am concerned about rushing into things too fast." In this regard, he accompanied the police chief in visits to Greenbelt hotels and to Eleanor Roosevelt High School. He wants to meet the community. He views Greenbelt as one city, not a city divided into "old" Greenbelt, "east" Greenbelt and Springhill Lake. He is respectful of Greenbelt's past and eager to guide its future.

FREE GUIDE AVAILABLE ON HOSPICE BENEFIT

Older Washingtonians facing terminal illnesses may want to know about the Medicare Hospice Benefit. The Hospice Council of Metropolitan Washington has just released a new publication to help them: Medicare Hospice and You: A Guide to the Medicare Hospice Benefit.

By paying for hospice services, the Medicare Hospice Benefit makes it possible for dying people to come home, and spend their final days with their family and loved ones. Through a hospice, the patient and family obtain medical, emotional and spiritual care. They also can receive practical assistance with day to day activities.

According to Muriel Mahoney Foss, president of the Hospice Council, "The Medicare benefit helps alleviate some of the financial burdens that add to the distress caused by a terminal illness. Many older people or their families are unaware of this benefit, and therefore don't take advantage of it when the need arises."

The hospice takes care of all the paperwork involved with the Medicare benefit, and files all the Medicare Hospice Benefit claims."

Medicare Hospice and You: A Guide to the Medicare Hospice Benefit is available free of charge by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Hospice Council of Metropolitan Washington, 1377 K Street, N.W., Suite 666, Washington, D.C. 20005.

Police Blotter

Based on Information Released by the Greenbelt Police Department

A .357 Magnum handgun was discovered in a vehicle when it was stopped for a traffic violation in the 6100 block of Breezewood Dr. on August 31; its driver, a 21-year-old nonresident male, was arrested and charged with transporting a handgun.

A citizen reported being assaulted while he was walking to his vehicle in the area of Gardenway and Ridge Rds. around 11 p.m. on August 30: two males approached him, taunted him, and then hit him with their fists. The victim managed to get away, but as he fled, he heard what sounded like a gunshot. The attackers are described as black, teen-aged 6', and slimly built; one had a goatee and was wearing a gray sweatshirt; the other was wearing a black baseball cap.

As a woman was getting out of her vehicle in order to go inside her residence in the 7300 block of Frankfort Court around 9:15 p.m. on August 30, two males came up to her and robbed her of her purse, employing a directions-inquiry ruse to distract her while one of them made the grab. The muggers are described thus: (1) black, 17 years old, 5'10", 160 lbs., wearing a light-colored shirt, blue sweat pants, and a yellow head band; (2) black, 17 years old, 5'9", 150 lbs., wearing a blue polo-type shirt and tennis shoes.

A 15-year-old resident youth was arrested and charged with battery after he had repeatedly struck another juvenile in the head on August 31 in the 36 Court of Crescent Rd. The arrested youth was released to his parents pending trial.

Drugs

A 27-year-old resident male was arrested and charged with possession of cocaine (crack) in the area of Northway Ball fields around 10 p.m. on August 31. He appeared before a District Court Commissioner and was held on $500 bond pending trial.

Around 9:15 p.m. on Sept 4 in the area of Beltway Plaza, the driver of a suspicious vehicle, a 43-year-old nonresident male, was arrested in response to an open warrant with the Prince Georges County Sheriff's Department; the passenger of the vehicle, a 49-year-old nonresident male, was arrested for possession of drug paraphernalia (including hypodermic syringes).

An 18-year-old nonresident male was arrested for possession of marijuana when a "butterfly"-type knife and some marijuana were found in his vehicle when he was stopped for a traffic violation in the 5900 block of Cherrywood Lane on August 31.

Thefts

Two nonresident youths, aged 16 and 17, were arrested and charged with theft over $300 in connection with a stolen vehicle in the parking lot of Eleanor Roosevelt High School on September 3; a police officer observed one of them get into the stolen vehicle. Both youths were released to guardians pending trial.

Vandalisms to, thefts from, and attempted thefts of autos were reported in the following areas: the 5800 block of Cherrywood Lane, the 6100 and 7500 blocks of Greenbelt Rd., 1 Court Laurel Hill Rd., the 7700 block of Mandan Rd., the 8100 block of Mandan Terr., the Metro site, the 7100 block of Ora Glen Ct., 6 Court Plateau Place, 22 Court Ridge Rd., the 6000 block of Springhill Dr.

Explosions Investigated

One or possibly two explosions were set off near Plateau Place near the last week of August. Some minor damage to a vehicle occurred as a result of the explosion on Aug. 29. A resident, believing he had heard a shot gun blast, called the Greenbelt Police, according to spokesman Pfc. George Mathews. When a search of the area turned up material that may have come from a pipe bomb, the county bomb squad, operated by the fire department, was called in.

Further investigation led to two search warrants which were executed on Sept. 5 by warrant entry teams from the Greenbelt Police and the Prince Georges County Sheriff's Department at 10-E Plateau Place and 55-C Ridge Road, according to fire department spokesman Pete Piringer.

Piringer told the News Review yesterday that fire investigators are waiting for the results of laboratory analyses of materials confiscated during those searches. These materials, Piringer explained, are common household items that are not in themselves illegal, but can be used in making pipebombs. The investigation, he said is continuing. No arrests have been made at this time.
