Options 2, 3 Seek Better View of Statue, Stores

by James Giese

(This is the third and final article in a series that describes the need, objectives and proposals set forth by Sharon Bradley-Papp, landscape architect consultant to the city for renovating the Roosevelt Center mall. Bradley-Papp lists several problems with the existing mall, most of which relate to the existing Bradford pear trees. They have aged past their prime, she reports, and have now become a hazard due to the threat of falling branches. They also obstruct the view of the mall's focal point, its mother and child statue by Lenore Thomas, and of the business signs such as the theater marquee. In addition, the Bomanite [imitation brick] pavement needs to be replaced.

Bradley-Papp has presented to the city council three alternative proposals. The first, described in last week's article, calls for minimal change. It would replace the existing trees with London plane trees and the Bomanite pavement with aggregate concrete, and replace the evergreen trees behind the statue with star magnolias. The benches would be replaced with ones of similar design to those originally placed in the mall.

This article describes the other two proposals presented to the council.)

Both Design Options 2 and 3 proposed by Landscape Architect Sharon Bradley-Papp are more elaborate and costly renovation plans than the minimal Option 1 and are intended to restore some of the elements of the original 1937 plan. Bradley-Papp does not believe that the mall should be fully restored to the original plan, however, because its character was changed by the new buildings added to the commercial center. Option 3 is a variation of Option 2 and would be about as elaborate and costly. Bradley-Papp has given the council a very preliminary cost estimate of between $150,000 and $200,000 for the three options. The city's capital improvement program includes $115,000 for the mall renovation, an amount sufficient to do only a minimal amount of work.

"Design options 2 and 3 are intended to restore some of the elements of the original 1937 plan."

Features

As with Option 1, both options would use London plane trees instead of Bradford pears, aggregate pavement instead of Bomanite, and use benches similar in design to those used in 1937. Both Options 2 and 3 would extend the mall to the rear parking lot by replacing the existing stairs with a terraced stairway located behind the statue. At the bottom of the stairway would be a paved plaza. A planted buffer of trees would partially separate the plaza from the parking lot. Both options call for small flowering trees planted on either side of the stairway behind the statue and a terraced grass hillside.

Option 2 would limit the London plane trees to a single row on either side of the mall. Also, the trees would be well set back from the street so as not to obstruct the view of the entrances to either the theater or the Greenbelt Credit Union. There would be a broad paved aisle through the center of the mall that would lead to the statue and the stairway behind the statue.

Opposite the entrances to the 7-11 store and Beijing restaurant there would be two rectangular areas bounded on three sides by a 30-inch high yew hedge. Tables and chairs are proposed to

by Diane Oberg

There was little sign of consensus among the members of the Greenbelt City Council as Landscape Architect Sharon Bradley-Papp presented her concept plans at the October 7 regular meeting. The decision on which plan to approve was deferred until after an as yet unscheduled worksession.

Councilmember Rodney Roberts supported the "missing option"—the original 1937 layout. Although he liked "a few little things in each plan," he recalled getting "an earful" while campaigning from citizens skeptical of the need to spend a lot to redo a center that they like as it is. He also complained of having to make a decision with little or no cost information.

Bradley-Papp's preliminary cost estimate is $150,000 - $200,000 depending upon the option chosen. While she expects to have better figures soon, a "hard" estimate cannot be made until a single option is selected and more detailed plans developed.

Councilmember Thomas White was "headed in the direction of option one." He said that this plan met his concerns about existing conditions and saw no need to reestablish the center stairway.

Councilmember Edward Putens preferred a combination of Option 2 with Roberts' "Option 4" (the 1937 plan). He liked the center staircase, saying it captures the 1937 essence. He called for a public hearing after the worksession.

Mayor Antoinette Bram pointed out that citizens have asked that the mall be left alone. However, she noted that some have since complained about the steepness of the current stairway. She favored Option 2.

Councilmember Judith Davis also favored Option 2, liking the way that the hedges open up the front of the mall.

McLaughlin Is Appointed Greenbelt's City Manager

by Diane Oberg

The main item of business at the October 7 regular meeting of the Greenbelt City Council was the appointment of Michael P. McLaughlin as the new city manager. McLaughlin has worked for the city since October 1979 and has been Interim City Manager since the departure of former City Manager Daniel Hobbs in July.

A nearly full house saw McLaughlin appointed, as many past and present city employees (and a former mayor) came to see the formal council action. The vote was capped with a standing ovation from the audience. City Clerk David Moran was the subject of teasing as the two previous city clerks observed his performance at this meeting. Former Mayor Gil Weidenfeld introduced himself as a member of the city's Employee Relations Board and former Administrative Assistant Eric Berlin offered his former boss his assistance, having become a city manager (of a small city in Kansas) before McLaughlin.

Following a brief break for a cake honoring McLaughlin's appointment, Mayor Antoinette Bram gave him the floor (after she finally got the other councilmembers in their chairs and the chamber quieted). He thanked council for giving him this opportunity, and pledged "to support this and future councils to continue and enhance" the

by Doug Love

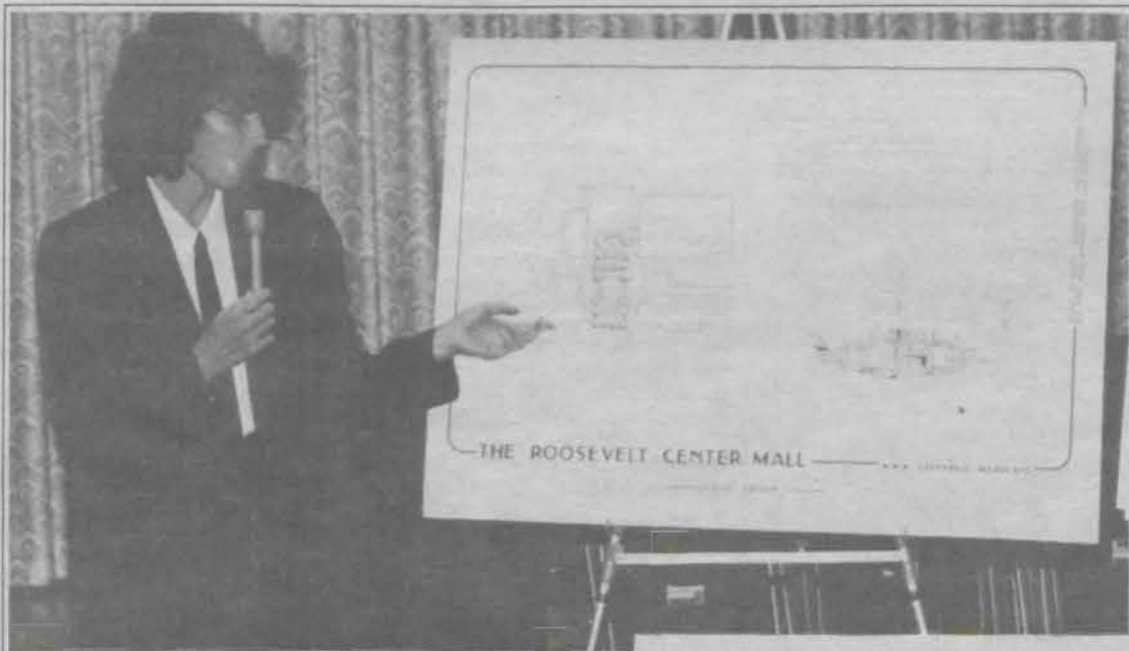

GREENBELT.COM, the Internet Access Cooperative started just a few months ago, continues to grow by offering a variety of experiences in Internet exposure.

Last month, the entire Board of Directors led out in the first of the free monthly Internet Classes held at the Greenbelt Public Library on the third Tuesday of the month. They set up 15 chairs for the people that had pre-registered, then just in case, they set up a few more. By the time the class started, 50 eager participants were listening to every word spoken by President Dan Macy, Vice President Matt Elliott, System Manager Ed James, and Board Member Doug Love. They spoke about how computers work, what the Internet is, and how to get on and use it.

Meanwhile, Treasurer Neil McCloud, Board Member Clement Lau and Secretary Laila Zaghal registered the attendees and offered them free applications to join, which many people accepted. And still more chairs were set up as more than 50

Letters to the Editor

Highest Taxed

As a civic activist since 1957 on local, county and state levels and a loyal supporter of TRIM, I would like to reply to the letter of Barbara Simon, chair of Friends of the Greenbelt Library (News Review Op. Ed. Oct. 10, entitled "Heartful Thanks").

It is beyond my comprehension how she and her members can possibly know what is in store for the library here as far as reduction of hours and staff are concerned. Her alarmist forecast in my opinion is plain conjecture (i.e., guess or theory). The County Council and Executive already sense which way the winds are blowing. TRIM supporters are also appreciative of our fine library and its worth to the community and county.

Why should the tax burden fall entirely on the property owners? There are funds such as the transfer tax, storm water assessments, grants and the regressive piggy-back income tax.

Walter Maloney, in the green brochure "A Tale of Two Counties", points out to the open minded that for a comparable house in an adjacent lot, Montgomery County residents are paying $362.33 less in taxes than their neighbors in Prince George's in the current tax year, although their property is valued $1,898.33 higher.

Money isn't the problem. Could it be leadership?

Prince George's is the highest taxes county in the state, with the exception of Baltimore city. There is an exodus going on the part of productive citizens both young and old in search for a retirement haven.

By all means attend the Citizens for Greenbelt Forum on Oct. 17 at the City Hall and vote in November yes for Question I, and no on Questions 12 (which would repeal TRIM) and the other questions B and C.

The Question of Ivy

We would like to applaud the Board of Directors of GHI for their willingness to reconsider the question of ivy, the subject of a letter to the editor last week by Isaac Robinson. There is no definitive research regarding climbing plants and experience has shown that ivy on a masonry wall does no harm.

The good will engendered by the Board of Directors concerning this problem could not possibly be a cause of concern regarding mortgage companies.

Mr. Robinson's charming house, like many others here in old Greenbelt, no longer has any relevance to the cleaned, spare, art deco look of 60 years ago.

PTSA Seeks Hearing

At the October 8 meeting of the Eleanor Roosevelt High School Parent-Teacher-Student Association, the membership voted to send the following request to the elected Prince George's County leadership:

From a series of public hearings held by the "Prince George's County Task Force on Education Funding," their final report, issued in March, states: "For the most part the public seemed to support full funding for the school system, but seemed skeptical about whether any increase in taxes to fund the schools would actually be spent on the schools. The public made it clear to the Task Force that they would need assurance that any new taxes levied for schools would actually increase funding over and above the current levels as a pre-condition for their support. Absent such assurances, they could not support a tax increase."

In order to help give the public necessary assurances that a vote to repeal TRIM will in fact increase critically needed education funding for county schools, the Eleanor Roosevelt PTSA voted to request that:

1. The County Council, with the County Executive present, hold a public hearing on the issues surrounding the repeal of TRIM where members of the public, the County Executive, members of the County Council, members of the County Board of Education, and other interested organizations present their views on what will be the future consequences for county programs and revenues if the repeal of the limitation in the real property tax rate of the county is

Hoyer Announces Funding for Parkway

Congressman Steny Hoyer (MD-5) announced recently the U.S. Department of Transportation approved $4 million in Federal Highway Administration funding for the Baltimore-Washington Parkway. The funding is for partial reconstruction of the MD Route 197 interchange, the last remaining portion of the Parkway to be rebuilt by the Maryland State Highway Administration. Hoyer is a member of the House Appropriations Committee that helped secure more than $138 million for this project since 1986.

The Federal section of the B-W Parkway extends 18.5 miles for D.C.-Maryland line at U.S. 50, north to Maryland Route 175. Route 197 is a major roadway serving local and commuter traffic between Laurel and Bowie. The current average daily traffic on the B-W Parkway at Route 197 is approximately 80,000 vehicles per day, with a projected number of 103,000 by the year 2015. Most of the traffic using both Route 197 and the B-W Parkway is commuter traffic.

passed by voters on November 5.

2. Also prior to the November 5 election, the County Executive should make clear, and the County Council should pass a resolution in which it specifically states which county programs will benefit from possible increases to county revenues if TRIM is repealed by the voters. Percentage goals for where any such increase would be directed to the education system and to public safety should be stated.

Free Slide Show On Assisted Living

Age has its advantages. Independence Court Assisted Living Residence has prepared a slide show, "All About Assisted Living." Linda Evans, a member of the Independence Court staff, has announced that she will attend a club meeting, bridge club, or civic gathering to present this slide show — free of charge.

"It is our purpose to demonstrate through this slide show what life at Independence Court is all about," Evans said. It will include photos of residents, nursing care, activities, social work, the housekeeping department, and the chef and food and beverage staff.

For further information about how to arrange for this free slide show, please call Linda Evans at Independence Court at 301-699-7900.

ERHS 10 Year Class Reunion

Eleanor Roosevelt High School Class of 1986 will hold their ten year reunion Saturday, October 26, at the Holiday Inn US Air Arena in Landover. Alumni should call Taylor Reunion Service at 1-800-677-7800 to update addresses and phone numbers.

City Notes

Parking spaces were marked and pavement painting began on the new asphalt on Ridge, Laurel Hill and Research Roads. On Crescent Road pavement markings were laid out, bicycle lane marking began and installation of thermoplastic parking lines began.

The wooden sign for Northway Field was redone. A display case was built at the historic Hamilton Cemetery.

Plants were put in the landscaping beds at Southway and Greenbelt Road. Several hundred lirioppe plants (a ground cover) were planted at the municipal building and the community center.

Preventive maintenance was done on six public works trucks. And two refuse collection trucks were serviced.

Signing Scheduled

Clint Wilkes, author of The College Guide to a Summer Job in Yellowstone, will conduct a seminar at the University of Maryland on October 24, from 1-2:30 p.m. On the same day, between 7 and 8 p.m., Wilkes will sign his book at Bookland, in the Beltway Plaza Mall.

Golden Age Club

by Dolores Capotosto
The next meeting of the Golden Age Club will be on Wednesday, October 23, at 11 a.m. Tom and Lori Moran, joined by Jim Giese, will give a presentation on their recent cruise of the Baltic Sea, which included visits to six Baltic cities: Hamburg, Germany; St. Petersburg, Russia; Helsinki, Finland; Stockholm, Sweden; Copenhagen, Denmark and Oslo, Norway.

The Nominating Committee is busily trying to find someone who will run for Treasurer on next year's slate of officers. They already have candidates for the other positions. See a member of the committee if interested or to pass on suggestions.

The party season is upon us. The October birthdays were celebrated on October 16 and there will be a Halloween costume party on October 30. Be creative and come join the fun.

Several Golden Agers attended a Toastmasters demonstration meeting which was sponsored by "Explorations Unlimited" on Friday, October 11. The demonstration was organized and conducted by member John Taylor and several Toastmaster friends. A number of Golden Agers are interested in starting a Toastmasters Club which would meet during daytime hours. Thanks to all who helped and especially to John Taylor.

Thanks also to all those who made the recent Chinese Auction a success. It was great fun.

Check with Irene Owens and the other members of the Travel Committee about upcoming trips. They're a great way to spend time in this beautiful fall weather.

Come out and enjoy the meetings and other activities.

New Deal Cafe Lists Weekend Performers

This weekend's featured performers at the New Deal Cafe are Dave Goodrich (Friday October 18) and Stan Brown (Saturday October 19).

Singer/songwriter and guitarist Dave Goodrich has built a strong following in the Washington DC area. Formerly the drummer for the DC-alternative trio "Mind's I," since 1990 Dave has been a solo artist performing original songs described as "compact and direct," with an "unexpected interest in structure and melody."

Regular customers of the CARE Pharmacy in the Co-op may think they know Stan Brown, the pharmacist. However, the Cafe will present Stan Brown in a different light as he performs what is sure to be an astounding variety of folk songs and stories - all delivered with a sly wink and a smile.

The New Deal Cafe is located in the Greenbelt Community Center at 15 Crescent Road. All shows start at 8 p.m.; admission is free but tips for the musicians are highly encouraged. Those on the Internet can obtain more information at http://www2.ari.net/home/gking/new_deal.html

Explore Dance

On Friday, October 25, Nancy Havlik and her four member dance company, Dance Performance Group, will be offering Part 3 of "Dance, An Insider's View" for Explorations Unlimited. The dance company will perform excerpts from Havlik's new work Phatic Communion. This dance juxtaposes conversation among three friends that has been manipulated through a computer with Bach fugues. The company will also share different choreographic structures with the participants including: partnering, developing dances from walking patterns, using words as cues for movement and exploring rhythm. Come see Havlik's new work performed by her company and have fun learning how dances are made.

"Explorations Unlimited" is a speaker series held every Friday from 1 - 3 p.m. at the community center. This presentation will be held in the Dance Studio. Everyone is welcome to attend and questions are always encouraged. Please call 301-397-2208 for more information.

GAC to Present "The Best Man"

by Konrad Herling
This week marked the last Presidential debate between Bill Clinton and Bob Dole. Some political pundits conclude that debates don't sway many voters one way or the other, unless one of the candidates makes a major blunder. Well, Gore Vidal's "The Best Man," a play written about the two leading candidates vying for the nomination of their party, does not feature a debate, it does highlight elements of the current campaign: the relative importance in considering questions about a candidate's personal life, his 'character', and the record of a candidate's public service. How many secrets must we know about the personal lives of candidates? And to what extent will candidates emphasize the private lives of opponents, sometimes at the expense of offering an intense discussion over substantive policy differences?

Beginning Friday evening, October 18, Bob Thompson and Mary Seng bring Gore Vidal's work to life at the Greenbelt Arts Center. The play will either reinforce one's opinions about current politics or awaken a new reading of how leaders are elected. "The Best Man" runs four weekends, Friday and Saturday evenings, 8 p.m. from October 18 through November 9. There are also two Sunday matinees: October 27 and November 3. Curtain time is 2 p.m. To make reservations, call 301-441-8770.

Halloween Party

Greenbriar and Glen Oaks children are invited to the Annual Halloween Party on Saturday, October 26, at 1 p.m. in the Terrace Room. Toddlers to age 8 are encouraged to wear their favorite costume. Please RSVP by Wednesday, October 23. Adult and teen volunteers are needed.

Giovanni Cardascia has been hired as a manager trainee by the 84 Lumber Company in Beltsville. He will learn the daily operations of the store, eventually becoming a manager himself.

Cardascia, a native and current resident of Greenbelt, graduated from Bishop McNamara High School in 1986. He is the son of Frank Cardascia of New Carrollton.

Jamie Pollard has won a 1996 Outstanding Young Alumni Award from the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh. The award recognizes the accomplishments of the University's alumni within 12 years of their graduation.

Pollard, an accounting major, graduated in 1987. He began his career as a CPA with Arthur Anderson, later becoming associate director of athletics for business and finance at St. Louis University. In 1994 he was hired as assistant athletic director for internal operations at the University of Maryland. He was promoted to his present position of associate director of athletics/chief financial officer.

While a student at the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh, Pollard was a runner. And he still competes, finishing third in the St. Louis Marathon last fall.

Chris and Marco D'Ottavi will be returning to live in Greenbelt after a three year absence. Joining them will be their son Taylor, aged 3, and daughter Morgana, who was just born Sept. 19, weighing 9 lb. 1 oz. Chris is the daughter of Helen and Tom White (City Council member).

Free Concert Slated For UM Chorale

The University of Maryland School of Music is pleased to announce the University Chorale will present their Fall Concert on Friday, October 25 at 8 p.m. in the Ulrich Recital Hall of the Tawes Fine Arts Building. In commemoration of Howard Hanson's 100th birthday, they will perform "A Song of Democracy," text by Aaron Copland. The program also includes "We must Rise Above Our Fears / I Have a Dream" from an oratorio by John Scully entitled "A Drum Major for Righteousness." This work features the famous "I Have a Dream" text of Martin Luther King. Accompaniment is for two pianos and percussion. Other works by Gabrieli and Moses Hogan will be performed. Student soloists and Chorale accompanist Caroline Smith will perform. Admission is free and the public is invited to attend. For information call 301-405-1150 or 301-405-5537.

Rock-a-billy. With tight harmony and great music you have the duo of Melinda Root and Fanny Zollicoffer, two women who get inspiration from the musical era of the late '50s and early '60s. Melinda describes their music as a combination of honky tonk, blues, and American folk roots music.

Last Saturday night, October 12, at the New Deal Cafe, we were treated to some of that music. I was able to catch the last hour of their performance. I wish I could have been there for the whole evening.

With Fanny on guitar and Melinda on flute and harmonica, they performed everything from Wanda Jackson and Patsy Cline to Elvis - songs like "Sweet Dreams," with Fanny doing vocal, to "Stuck On You," an old Elvis number.

Using the Louvin Brothers as inspiration for their tight harmony in songs like "Back in Baby's Arms," they had the audience tapping their feet and keeping rhythm. Along with great voices, both Fanny and Melinda are solid instrumentally - Melinda with her flute and collection of harmonicas, each set to a different key, and Fanny using all of her guitar, not just strumming it.

Also a doff of the old fedora to Melinda, who is up for one of the WAMMIES - Washington Area Music Awards - for best female country performer. Congratulations and good luck.

It really is a shame, though,

Watercolor Show

Linda L. Uphoff's exhibition, "Oasis," at the Greenbelt Municipal Building Conference Room Gallery, first floor, will run through December 2. "Oasis" is a show of watercolors using an energetic, brief, and inventive approach. Many works have a seasonal or regional connection. "These pieces are an oasis for the mind - a refreshing, nourishing vision," Uphoff says.

A resident of Greenbelt, Uphoff teaches drawing at the Greenbelt Community Center and gives private painting lessons at her studio in Riverdale. She is currently also featured at the Watermark Gallery, Baltimore, with her exhibit "Tribes." For further information concerning viewing hours at the Municipal Building call 474-8000.

Design Option 2, submitted by Landscape Architect Sharon Bradley-Papp for the renovation of Roosevelt Center mall, calls for more extensive changes than the minimal plan, Option 1. As with that option, the Bradford pear trees would be replaced with London planes, the Bomanite decorative pavement with aggregate concrete and the benches with concrete and wood benches similar to the original 1937 benches. In addition, a terraced stairway behind the statue would replace the existing stairs and a plaza would be located at the foot of the stairs. There would be only a single row of trees on either side of the mall, starting well back from the street. In front would be two outdoor dining areas outlined by low yew hedges.

—plans prepared by Bradley-Papp Architecture, Inc. for the City of Greenbelt

Design Option 3 is similar to Option 2 as to kind of trees, pavement and benches. It also calls for a new stairway behind the statue and a plaza below. A double row of trees is provided on either side of the mall in one section in order to provide a shaded area for dining, etc. Also, the ornamental paving areas have been made in the shapes of the original 1937 planting beds.

GCC Annual Meeting Set for October 26

The Greenbelt Consumer Cooperative, Inc. (GCC) will hold its annual meeting on Saturday, October 26, at 10:15 a.m. in the Multipurpose Room (above the Co-op Nursery School) in the Greenbelt Community Center. Coffee will be served at 10 a.m. and the meeting will start promptly at 10:15.

Twenty-five members constitutes a quorum. In the absence of a quorum, those present on October 26 can schedule another meeting, which can proceed even in the absence of a quorum.

The agenda includes reports from the chairman, the treasurer, and the supermarket manager, plus elections.

Terms expire for three members of the Board of Directors - Jim Cassels, Mike Burchick, and Leta Mach. All three are seeking re-election. The other Board Members are: Dorrie Bates, Tom Lammons, Paul Rall and Joe Timer.

GCC's sales during the 1996 fiscal year (8/1/95 - 7/31/96) totalled $7,465,252. Operating income totalled $121,026.

The cooperative contributed $23,597 of this to an employee bonus, $57,785 to a patronage refund, and $39,644 to the employee retirement plan.

The patronage refund, five times larger than last year's, will be paid in cash vouchers, mailed to the members the first week in December. It amounts to 1.1% of each member's recorded purchases.

Refreshments will be served, and there will be door prizes.

be placed within these rectangles with umbrellas possibly added during the summer. The intent of the yew hedges is to re-create the appearance of the original planting areas that were lined with privet hedges. However, the original planting areas had lawns and shrubs instead of aggregate pavement and tables.

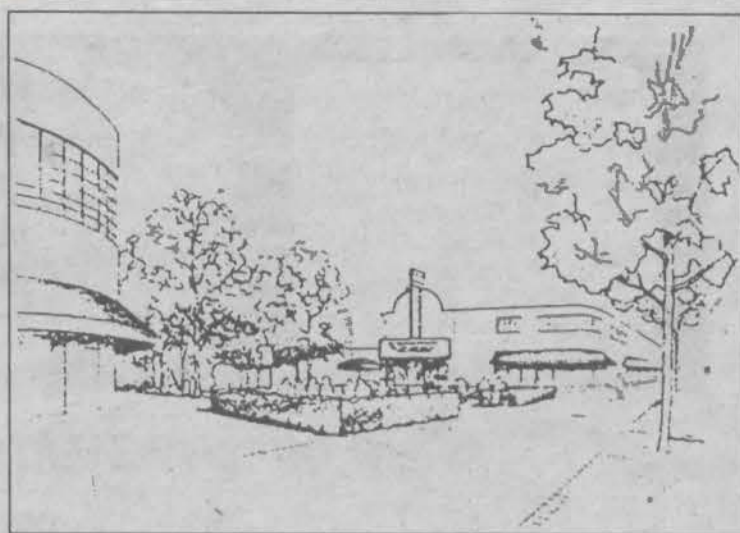

Best Views

Option 2 would most probably provide the best views of the mother and child statue and of building signage. However, it would do so at the expense of providing fewer shaded areas.

The third option also provides a single row of trees on either side of the mall for the most part. However, in a central area in front of the cleaners and the collectibles shop, there would be double rows of three trees each. This area is designated as a shaded area for outdoor dining, etc.

The yew hedges are not included in Option 3. Instead, to further bring the mall back to its original design, the aggregate paved areas would be in the shape of the original mall planting beds. While of similar shape, however, the aggregate areas are not of the same size as the original beds. Bradley-Papp contends that this design replicates the historic layout without taking away gathering space.

Option 3 calls for the planting of 22 London plane trees, the same number as Bradley-Papp proposes in Option 1, and equal to the number of Bradford pear trees that were planted. In comparison, Option 3 calls for only 12 trees.

This sketch of how Option 2 would look from Centerway in front of the 7-11 store shows how unobstructed the view would be of the theater marquee. In the foreground are the two outdoor dining areas bordered on three sides by low growing yew hedges. The statue, although partially obstructed, would be more visible with the higher branching London plane trees than with the present Bradford pears.

city's traditions for providing a high quality of life for residents and for serving as a leader in local government in Maryland.

Green Ridge House Parking

Council accepted the Advisory Planning Board's report on the request to construct 26 additional parking places to the rear of Green Ridge House. An access road would also be built on the south side of the building. The report says that the project would require a land use agreement with Greenbelt Homes, Inc. and the removal of vegetation. The project would be "noticeable" to residents of 20 court of Ridge Road. The board recommended that council not approve the project "for environmental, aesthetics, and economic reasons; and insufficient need."

The report will be considered at a future council meeting.

National Historic Landmark

The National Park Service is considering designating the Greenbelt Historic District as a National Historic Landmark. The Landmarks Committee will consider the city's nomination at a November 20 meeting (Room 5160, Main Interior Building) and will make its recommendations the next day. Private property owners have been notified by the Park Service of the nomination and given 60 days to submit written comments.

In response to concerns by the Ad-Hoc Historic District Study Committee and the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, council agreed to send a letter jointly with Greenbelt Homes, Inc. to the affected property owners stressing that landmark status does not impose any additional restrictions on how they use or modify their property. According to the draft letter, the landmark program's purpose "is to focus attention on properties of exceptional value to the nation...and to promote historic preservation."

Council also authorized sending a "strong support letter" to the Park Service.

Other Actions

Bram presented Sgt. Daniel Love with a proclamation declaring October crime prevention month in Greenbelt. Love explained that he was one of the few senior officers not currently injured. Later in the meeting, when Chief James Craze hobbled in on crutches, the mayor helpfully explained that he was recovering from a broken ankle suffered when getting out of his boat—in his driveway. The chief later enjoyed several suggestions for better explanations for his injury.

Boards and Committees

Council appointed a core group of citizens to form a sixtieth anniversary committee to help develop and implement plans for next year's celebration.

people, young and old, came to see the Internet in action.

The special radio-controlled modem that was being used to reach the extra telephone upstairs was unable to reach through the structure of the building. Doug showed a few sites that he had downloaded for Labor Day, but after all the questions had been answered and the Library was getting ready to close, Doug's Pentium Computer was carted over to the Greenbelt Access Television studio. After a few tries at setting up the dialer to reach out from the Community Center's telephone system, we were on the World Wide Web, visiting good sites and bad. After viewing the pirate WHITEHOUSE.NET site, showing Al Gore with an eye patch, we went to the REAL WHITEHOUSE.GOV site, and saw American flags rippling in the cyber-breeze. We were invited to send E-Mail to the President, so we did. We almost immediately got a friendly signed reply from a computer masquerading as "Bill Clinton" to some suggestions that we made concerning foreign and domestic policy.

Gallup, Kate Brett and Donald Comis from the Recycling Advisory Committee, Norene Yoch from the Advisory Planning Board and Ted Mecum from the Community Relations Advisory Board were accepted.

 Long & Foster

This last Monday afternoon, GREENBELT.COM took advantage of Columbus Day to "Discover the Internet" at Joe's Deli. Joe sacrificed one of his order phone lines for the day, and for seven hours we visited 12 countries, and dozens of sites in the U.S. We learned how to crochet like the Irish, explored the streets of San Marino, checked the baseball scores, visited Pluto, and read the news from Liechtenstein. Many regulars stopped by to watch the screen while eating, and a number of computer and Internet enthusiasts from NASA and other wired places came by to make suggestions.

No subject is too obscure for the Internet. We found that one Web Browser gave us 61 references to Dingos (an Australian wild dog), and another gave us 83. Some of them were the same pages, but some were different sites available through only one browser. We looked up Haggis in one of the food menus, and found some nice recipes that Joe wouldn't make for us. We registered his institution with the "Byte-by-Byte" Fine Restaurant Guide. While looking for Apple Cider, we discovered a number of French Canadian political sites using the word "Decider". We then searched for particular words and phrases such as "Katy Bar The Door", and found a lot of interesting things, but nothing particularly referencing the entire phrase. This gave us a challenge to find out what we can about it, and build our own website to explain it. And, while visiting Pluto, we found something called the "Pluto Institute," which is run by a grandmother in California named Sherry, who is into Nanotechnology, and explains it very nicely.

Many folks came by and looked in the window at what we were doing, and a number came right in and tried the Internet out for themselves. GREENBELT.COM is looking for more opportunities to share the Internet, and will let you know through the Greenbelt News Review when we do.

The next free talk at the Library will be Tuesday, October 23, from 7 to 9 p.m. Pre-registration is not necessary, but we might run out of chairs this time. Matt Elliott is leading out this time, concentrating on some of the wonderful things you can do with the World Wide Web, such as finding people, friends, airlines, schools, beltway conditions, Dingos, Haggis, and parts for your computer. Everyone is encouraged to come and join us for this interesting session.

We think we have the phone problem solved at the library, and expect to plug in and log on right there. If that doesn't work, we'll move to another building and keep trying until we reach the 'Net.

DO YOU KNOW A WIZARD OF OZ?

Since GHI's presence in this year's Labor Day Festival was so well received, the Board of Directors has begun forming a 1997 GHI Labor Day Festival Committee. We now are seeking a "Wizard of Oz" to head up the committee. If you know anyone that remotely resembles this character, or someone who has the tenacity of Dorothy, the get up and go of the Tin Man, or the bravery of the Scarecrow, please share your knowledge by calling the Member Services Department at 474-4161 by October 30.

The Board is anxious to have the committee up and running down the Yellow Brick Road preparing for next year's event.

Fire Prevention Month

Knowing What To Do Could Save Your Life

by Randy Crenwelge

(This is the first in a series of Fire Prevention articles offering useful information on smoke detectors, fire extinguishers, escape and exit drills and fire prevention tips.)

October is Fire Prevention Month. During this time each year, businesses, schools, and homeowners take time to remind themselves of lifesaving tips and techniques that when properly exercised during a fire emergency can bring joy to both the individuals rescued from fires and the firefighting professionals that commit themselves to saving lives. The Fire Service has learned what acts and techniques are proven life-savers. By following the advice of the professionals, chances of survival during an actual fire emergency can be greatly enhanced.

Fire Basics

All fires require fuel, heat, and oxygen. These three ingredients together make up the fire triangle. Without each of these, a fire cannot sustain itself.

Oxygen is everywhere, and almost any material can become fuel for a fire. The materials can include clothing, furniture, wood, paper, plastic, combustible gases, and flammable liquids such as gasoline, etc. It just takes a human act or oversight, mechanical or electrical malfunction, or some natural event such as lightning to bring oxygen, fuel, and heat together.

Fires can be extinguished by removing the fuel, cutting off the supply of oxygen, reducing the fuel's temperature, or in some other way disrupting the molecular chain reaction that keeps the fire burning.

Death caused by severe burns is only one fatal danger of fire. One-third of home fire victims die from burns; the fire itself consumes oxygen causing suffocation when the air supply drops in oxygen content to below 17 percent. Smoke and toxic fumes are the leading cause of death in fires. Death occurs when people are asleep and never wake up due to inhaling the smoke and poisonous fumes.

Smoke Detectors

All home and business owners should test each smoke detector to ensure its proper functioning. Smoke detectors should be installed on every level of a home including the basement. More than half of all fatal home fires start at night while people are asleep. As a side issue, the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) recommends that people sleep at night with closed doors to slow the spread of smoke and fumes during a fire. If home occupants sleep in rooms with the doors closed, a fire detector should also be installed in the bedrooms. New homes are required to have smoke detectors installed in each bedroom. The sooner a sleeping person wakes up during a fire, the better are his or her chances of survival. Fire officials consider smoke detectors to be the most effective, low-cost early warning device available. Having smoke detectors installed in a home can cut the risk of dying in a fire by almost one-half, according to the National Fire Protection Association's fire safety tips. Special smoke detectors are available for use in homes where people that have disabilities live. It is good to remember that smoke detectors are "a ticket to escape." Greenbelt's Fire Chief Gene Davis advised it is a good habit to replace smoke detector batteries during Fire Protection Month.

Fire Safety Tips

The following tips help fire victims survive: 1) Sleep with bedroom doors closed. Closed doors provide protection against heat and smoke. 2) Teach every member of a household to recognize the sound of the smoke alarms installed in the house. 3) Learn escape routes and keep them clear. 4) Know how to contact the fire department. Homes should have large clearly identifiable address numbers which can be easily read during the daytime and nighttime hours. 5) Teach and routinely practice emergency procedures with children. Teach young children their complete name, address, phone number, and the importance of using 911 for an emergency, and only for that purpose. Children should be drilled by practicing how to spell their complete name, their address, their telephone number, and age. 6) Children should be taught not to hide in a fire. They must follow the escape route, and hiding under beds or in closets are things that they must not do. Closets are not clearly distinguished in a smoke-filled house. There is no place to hide during a fire. The only way out is to escape via the planned routes. Children must know how and be prepared to escape by themselves. Fire can easily block children from their parents. Children must waste no time escaping when a fire is present.

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

WHEN IT COMES TO DESCRIBING AMERICA'S CO-OPS, THE SKY'S THE LIMIT!

The nation's 47,000 cooperatives are big and small. They serve 120 million people in all 50 states. And, they're located everywhere — cities, towns, suburbs and throughout rural America.

Providing goods and services as economically and efficiently as possible is their first order of business. And as locally owned and controlled businesses, co-ops are unique because of their commitment not only to the people they serve but also to their communities.

You'll find co-ops for credit and financing, electric and telephone service, insurance, housing, day care, health care, food, farm marketing and supply, news services, florists and much more.

For years co-ops have been expanding horizons for the people they serve. In their own words: "It's just good business, and it works for the benefit of our neighbors, our communities and for our country too."

POLICE BLOTTER

Based on Information Released by the Greenbelt Police Department

Except for the domestic killing reported elsewhere in this paper, it was a relatively quiet week for the Greenbelt Police Department. The next most serious crime reported for the week was the assault of two school administrators at Eleanor Roosevelt High School on October 10 by a student who was found to be in possession of two cutting devices that could have been utilized as deadly weapons. The student assaulted the administrators and attempted to flee when the cutting devices were found. The nonresident student was placed into custody by the School Resource Officer and charged with two counts of possession of a deadly weapon on school property, two counts of assault, resisting arrest and disruption of school activities.

Police responded to a complaint of several individuals possibly selling drugs at the Springhill Lake Shopping Center on October 8 at 5:14 p.m.. Several individuals walked away as an investigating officer approached. The officer asked one of the individuals to return, and observed him throw something on the ground behind a trash can. The item turned out to be a plastic baggie containing multiple rocks of crack cocaine. A nonresident youth was arrested for possession of a controlled dangerous substance with intent to distribute. He was later released to the custody of an adult pending action by the juvenile justice system.

There were two burglaries at commercial establishments. At the Beltway Plaza Shopping Center on October 7, currency was taken from the safe in a store after a sliding door was forced off the track in order to gain entry. At the Holiday Inn, a stereo system was taken on October 10. Also, items were reported stolen from several classrooms at Greenbelt Middle School on October 7.

Three wallets were reported stolen. At the Beltway Plaza on October 5, a woman reported her wallet taken from her shoulder bag while she was shopping and on October 10, a wallet was reported taken from a shopping cart. From an unsecured desk in an office suite on Greenway Center Drive, a wallet was reported taken on October 10.

On October 7 at 2:19 a.m., an officer stopped a vehicle for a registration violation in the vicinity of Greenbelt Road and Frankfort Drive. The officer observed multiple tools inside the vehicle commonly used for breaking into vehicles. Further investigation found that the vehicle identification number (VIN) had been removed from the engine compartment of the vehicle and several VIN plates were found inside the vehicle. The 24-year old nonresident driver was charged with possession of burglar tools, possession of article with serial number removed and possession of a vehicle with removed identification. He appeared before a district court commissioner and was held on $7,500 bond.

As a result of another vehicle stop on Southbound Kenilworth Ave. at I-95, an officer determined that the vehicle was unregistered. An inventory of the vehicle prior to impoundment revealed paraphernalia commonly used for smoking marijuana and trace amounts of suspected marijuana inside of the vehicle. The 26-year old nonresident driver was charged with possession of controlled dangerous substance paraphernalia. He was released on citation pending trial.

Another vehicle stopped for registration violation on October 6 in the 7400 block of Greenbelt Road was found to be driven by a nonresident man who had an open warrant with the Prince George's County Sheriff's Department. He was arrested and charged with displaying tags issued to another vehicle and driving on a learner's permit without required supervision. The driver was released on citation into the custody of the Sheriff's Department for service of a warrant.

A 17-year old nonresident dark colored jeans was described as having been seen in the area at about the time the shots were heard.

A gray 1991 Honda Accord 4 door, North Carolina tag ACADEVIL, was reported stolen from Westway the morning of October 4. Four days later, a blue 1987 Chevrolet Astro van, Maryland tags 593761M, was reported stolen from Breezewood Terrace.

A Greenbelt youth and a nonresident youth were observed smoking cigarettes as they were leaving the Eleanor Roosevelt High School parking lot. The 17-year old Greenbelt youth reportedly told the officer that he was 18. He was charged with possession of tobacco products by a minor and making a false statement to a police officer. The 16-year old nonresident youth was also charged with possession of tobacco products and possession of a pager on school property. Both youths were later released on citations to relatives pending action by the juvenile justice system.

Vandalism to, thefts from, and attempted thefts from vehicles were reported in the following areas during the week: 20 Court Ridge on 10/4, 71 Court Ridge on 10/7, 7700 block of Hanover Parkway, 8100 block of Lakecrest Drive, 7200 block of South Ora Court and 6000 block of Breezewood Drive on 10/8, 7800 block of Hanover Parkway on 10/9 and 9000 block of Breezewood Terrace and 7400 block of Greenbelt Road on 10/10. Three parking lot light poles were also reported vandalized in the 9200 block of Springhill Lane on 10/6.

Substation-East

The new Greenbelt Police substation phone number is 474-4992. This number is for non-emergency calls only.

Hotline on Drugs

The Greenbelt Police Department needs the help of residents. Any citizen with information about possible drug activity in the city is encouraged to call the Greenbelt Narcotics Hot Line at 507-6524. Callers may remain anonymous.

youth returned to Eleanor Roosevelt High School on October 4 after having been expelled for a weapons violation. The School Resource Officer arrested the youth for trespassing. He was released on citation pending trial.

On October 8, several citizens reported the sound of shots being fired in the wooded area near the Post Office. A white male, 20-30 years of age, 6'0" tall and weighing 150 pounds with medium length brown hair combed back and wearing a black jacket with

Fatal Stabbing

Greenbelt Police Officer George Mathews reports that Sabrina Ann Covington, age 19, of 9322 Edmonston Road has been arrested and charged with the murder of 17-year-old Juliar Payne of the same address.

According to Mathews, officers responded to the 9300 block of Edmonston Road on October 11 at approximately 7:19 p.m. after receiving a report of a stabbing. When they arrived on the scene, "officers discovered a male laying [sic] on the front landing of an apartment building suffering from an apparent stab wound to his chest." He was transported by ambulance to Prince George's Doctor's Hospital, where he was pronounced dead a short time later.

Investigation revealed that Payne and his girlfriend, Covington, had been involved in a domestic argument in front of the apartment building. Mathews noted that when the couple walked into the hallway, "the argument turned into a physical altercation. At some point (Covington) allegedly stabbed (Payne) in the chest with a steak-type knife."

Covington appeared before a District Court Commissioner, was charged with second degree murder and held on $500,000 bond pending trial.

Lecture at Arboretum

A lecture and tour of the Friendship Garden will be held at the Arboretum Thursday, October 24, at 10 a.m., starting at the Administration Building. Perennials Curator Lynn Batdorf will present a slide lecture and a guided walk covering design features and an broad array of colorful perennials, bulbs and ornamental grasses for use in the garden.
