SHL Makes Dramatic Changes To Upgrade Apartment Project

by Betsy Likowski

The Greenbelt City Council met with a representative of the new owners of Springhill Lake (SHL) and learned many changes are underway. Community Manager Kristinia Beckett has only recently started work at SHL and already has overseen changes in rental policy, maintenance, security, and community relations. Also discussed at the council worksession on Wednesday, June 10, were low income housing, work on Breezewood Drive and plans for SHL. Council had decided to hold worksessions with the major stakeholders in Greenbelt and this worksession is one of those.

Beckett described how the way business is done in SHL has changed. The credit standards and income requirement have been raised. Now a deposit of $150 is required, $99 for students.

If there are violations of the contract there will be terminations, she said, since she is strong on terminations. Two days before the worksession there were 35 evictions.

provements are now under one roof. The directors of marketing and maintenance live in SHL. (And policemen are being offered rent free apartments.)

Every dollar made will go back into the property. She told council that she had seen the books and the previous owners did not make a dime off the property in the last three years.

Maintenance

Director of Planning and Community Development Celia Craze said the annual inspection cycle of SHL this spring turned up said, except in cases where residents get tired of waiting for maintenance and call the city. The city inspectors are getting along well with SHL management.

In the last few months Beckett has fired 15 to 20 maintenance workers. It is resident damage she says she sees and how you enforce it is to stay on it. A lot of money will be going into aging issues, such as interior plumbing and replacing all the underground pipes.

Problems have cropped up in replacing the pipes and a $400,000 job has become a $600,000 job. She said, for example, some of the valves pictured on the drawings are not there when they dig.

Inzeo Announces For School Board

Political and civic activist Jim Inzeo has announced he is a candidate to the second district for the Prince George's County School Board. Inzeo is seeking the seat held by Suzanne Plogman, who is retiring.

"My top priorities are increased funding for education to reduce class size to a maximum of twenty," said Inzeo. "We need to encourage more citizens to volunteer as tutors and mentors in the schools for students at risk," he added.

"We also need to support art and music classes in every school," Inzeo continued, "there needs to be more of a focus on writing and thinking than just on multiple choice exams."

Inzeo has served for three years as the president of Citizens for Greenbelt, is in his second year as president of the Eleanor and Franklin Roosevelt Democratic Club, and served as a member of the Park and Recreation Advisory Board for two years. He was Gil Weidenfeld's campaign manager when Weidenfeld ran for County Council in 1994 and served on Mayor Judith Davis' campaign in the last two city elections.

Inzeo holds a B.A. in political science and history from City University of New York (CUNY) and a law degree from Washburn University School of Law in Topeka, Kansas. He is employed as a supervisor for Ashlin Management, Inc.

City Gears Up for 4th With Concert, Fireworks

by Andrew Farris

Greenbelt will celebrate Independence Day Saturday, July 4 with the traditional picnicking, concert and fireworks in "Buddy" Attick Park.

The Greenbelt Concert Band, conducted by Thomas Cherrix, will perform a program of patriotic music beginning at 7 p.m. The concert will end with Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture," timed to coincide with the beginning of the fireworks display. The fireworks will begin at dusk, as soon as it is dark enough to display their beauty, usually around 9:15. In the event of inclement weather the fireworks will be postponed until the next clear evening, but the concert will be canceled.

According to Ken Hall of the Public Works Department, the budget for this year's display was $8500, the same as the previous year, and the fireworks will be supplied by the same manufacturer: Fireworks Products, Inc. A team of Public Works employees led by Hall will detonate approximately the same number of pyrotechnics as last Independence Day, including shells varying in size from 3" to 8" with different burst patterns. While Hall described this year's display as similar to the prior year, he noted that Saturday's fireworks will also feature an original finale and a surprise ground display in addition to the traditional "good

Smooth Transition Marks Opening of Mini Mart

by Kate Augustine

A new awning was hung last week in Roosevelt Center — the Centerway Mini Mart is now open for business. Formerly the 7-Eleven, the store was closed for only two hours during the transition on May 29. 7-Eleven planned on closing the Greenbelt store for several months and gradually cleaned out their inventory, so the store, located at 109-A Centerway, was prepared for the change of management.

Now owned and operated by Mi H. Lee, the Centerway Mini Mart is open from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m. every day, a reduction from the previous round-the-clock hours. There have been some minor inventory changes because of the shift in ownership but Lee plans to have a new Slurpee machine in operation soon and will also sell hand-scooped ice cream. Eventually the store will sell lottery tickets, though the application process takes several weeks. Lee plans to expand the inventory as needed by the community.

A native of Korea, the new owner has lived in the United States for 13 years and has gained extensive business experience. Lee previously owned another convenience store in Maryland for five years and currently operates a liquor store in Landover, which has been open for four months. The owner and three employees will work in the Greenbelt store.

7-Eleven stores are franchised by the Southland Corporation and according to company records, the Greenbelt 7-Eleven opened on December 22, 1986. A spokesman for 7-Eleven franchises gave no official reason for closing the Greenbelt store. Lee plans to keep a watchful eye out for theft in the new store and will call the police with any sign of trouble.

The Southland Corp. operates about 5,800 7-Elevens and other convenience stores in the United States and Canada. Approximately half of all 7-Eleven stores in the United States are operated by franchisees, who pay a one-time initial franchise fee to Southland. 7-Eleven franchisees are independent contractors, but the Southland Corp. serves as landlord, financing source, business advisor and record-keeper to the franchisee. Maryland is one of the states most densely populated with 7-Eleven franchises, as there are currently 317 stores in operation here. Only California, Virginia and Florida have more 7-Elevens than Maryland.

Lee is happy to own a store in the park-like atmosphere of the Roosevelt Center and says that it is a "good community" in which to work.

Special Person Wanted For Outstanding Citizen

by Barbara Havekost

Each year as part of the Labor Day Festival, one Greenbelt resident is selected to be honored as the city's outstanding citizen. The Outstanding Citizen Committee is soliciting nominations for a special person—someone who represents the values which make Greenbelt a unique place to live. Nominees must be volunteers; city employees and elected officials may not be considered.

Letters of nomination should be submitted to Ed Birner, 13-N Ridge Road, Greenbelt, MD 20770 and must be made by individuals; if members of an organization wish to support a nomination, each supporting person must sign the letter accompanying the nomination form. The deadline for nomination is August 10.

The name of Greenbelt's Outstanding Citizen for 1998 will be announced at the Labor Day Festival opening ceremony on Friday evening, September 4. The person nominated will receive prizes and proclamations and will be the Grand Marshall of the Labor Day parade on Monday, September 7.

Each of us knows some certain person who stands out, someone who gives generously of his or her time and shows concern for others, someone who demonstrates the leadership, enthusiasm and cooperation for which Greenbelt has always been known.

Don't let this opportunity pass to honor someone you feel is special and who has helped make Greenbelt a great place to live. Put your thoughts in writing to the Outstanding Citizen Committee, listing all the activities in which this person may be involved. Only one person will be selected, but every nomination is an honor. Show your appreciation to some special person by nominating him or her to be Greenbelt's Outstanding Citizen of 1998.

For those of you who have made nominations before without success, the committee urges you to keep trying. Each year the committee must choose only one person from a long list of highly qualified nominees. Even though one person was chosen, others not chosen may be deserving of the award as well and the committee will be pleased to consider their nominations once more.

Old Greenbelt Shares Parking Problems

This is in reply to Ms. Marian Evans' plea for special consideration for Green Ridge House residents in the matter of parking.

Ms. Evans must be aware by now that Green Ridge House shares its parking problem with the entire area of old Greenbelt. Unless you live in a single family home with a garage and/or driveway or are lucky enough to live in a court with enough spaces for each unit (there are a few), parking is a problem. Greenbelt was designed at a time when many families didn't have one car, let alone two or three. The residents of apartments along Crescent Road compete for parking with users of the Library, the Community Center, the Aquatic Center, the commercial center, the Municipal Center, etc. Yes, there are lots but they are not fully used. Someone might have to climb a flight of stairs. During the Labor Day Festival, those who are able to keep parking spaces (many are evicted because of the parade) do not use their cars the entire weekend. It is extremely frustrating to come home after dark on a cold rainy evening, laden with grocery bags, to see the last available parking space on Crescent Road taken by someone who heads for the library.

These apartments too contain a "vulnerable" population. Many tenants are as old or older than the residents of Green Ridge House. Many are single women. Greenbelt is not the town I grew up in; I do not like having to park long distances from my apartment (assuming I can find a space at all) and having to walk back. Once, during a particular busy time at the Center, I had to park on Hillside and walk back to Crescent.

I'm sorry, but I do not concede that Green Ridge House should have special consideration in this matter. It's a problem for everyone. If the City agrees to the expense of an additional road and parking lot, I will make it my personal crusade to see that every homeowner and apartment dweller who needs a parking space gets one - if we have to pave over half the town to do it. I'm sure I'll have lots of supporters.

What Does It Take?

Third time's the charm does not apply to speeders losing control of the vehicles they are driving too fast. For the third time we have had a vehicle go through our front yard. On two previous occasions automobiles have driven through the yard and this time it was a motorcycle. If we put up a cement barrier the city would insist we remove it as they have a ten (10') right-of-way. What does it take to get them to protect it and us?

The Old Curmudgeon

by I. J. Parker

"Something there is that does not love a wall" wrote poet Robert Frost, or words to that effect. I am one of those that dislike walls, especially walls disguised as sound barriers being erected along the border of the Capital Beltway and John Hanson Highway (Rt. 50).

Apparently a new cottage industry has emerged in Maryland: the construction and erection of sound barrier walls along significant major highways. They come in all shapes and materials. I noticed the first ones along the Beltway were made of wood panels; along Rt. 270, they're made of stone and rock. Now, highway designers seem to have settled on a wall with a stucco-like substance.

In my one-bedroom apartment, sometimes the walls seem to be closing in on me. So I usually drive somewhere, mostly along the Beltway, or to the Eastern Shore on Rt. 50, or up to Frederick along Rt. 270. And lo and behold, the walls are still closing in! Instead of seeing fields and forests and clusters of dwellings, I must stare at a blank wall again.

Ivy grows along some walls, giving some relief from the monotony; and the highway engineer-planners are promoting the planting of flowers along the edges. (Along Rt. 301 on the Eastern Shore, they're planting native wildflowers in the median strip.)

I don't know the reasoning or the strategy of the sound barriers. Surely the homeowners along the major roads knew they were buying homes near a major highway. Subdivision regulations require that houses be sited at least 200 feet from the right-of-way. Often, the approval of a subdivision of homes near the Beltway was approved with the condition that homes include noise-attenuation measures, such as triple-paned windows and extra insulation on the side of houses facing the highway.

Meanwhile the state is spending a considerable amount of money protecting these houses erected after the Beltway was built and Rt. 50 expanded.

My past experience shows that when a new road is built and right-of-way is taken from a homeowner, he is paid for the "damages." This applies to alterations of the driveway, or the necessity to build a retaining wall, or damages perceived because of "noise." A drive along Rt. 50 will disclose that in one area, a sound barrier is placed above a slope at last 40 feet high! What kind of protection is that, and for whom? As they say on a TV news program that discloses taxpayer costs: "It's Your Money!"

I hate to mention this, but so far there has been no graffiti on the walls. How long this will remain is hard to say. But I tremble at the prospect of miles of graffiti, even though I'm a staunch supporter of the graphic arts. Perhaps, in order to replace the hidden trees and fields and scenic vistas, artists should be hired to render landscapes along the road, including Greek temples, and idyllic maidens, a la Maxfield Parrish.

At long last society has gotten rid of outdoor signs along many major highways. A campaign to eliminate billboards has been remarkably successful. (Incidentally, the main defense of maintaining billboards was the principle of "Freedom of Speech" in the Constitution! Well, we've disposed of billboards because they were an environmental blight, visual pollution and a hazard to drivers, drawing their attention from the road.)

With these walls, it's like driving through a tunnel, under an open sky, instead of under a river. There is an industrial aura conveyed by a grey walled highway crowded with cars and trucks. A large portion of the natural environment of the countryside has been denied to motorists. You might as well be driving through a crowded city.

We don't have trees, or shrubs or farms and gardens or billboards, but we have blank walls instead. And they seem to be closing in on the Old Curmudgeon. Help!

Golden Age Club

by Dolores Capotosto

The Golden Age Club meeting scheduled for Wednesday, July 1, at 11 a.m. will be the July business meeting. Board members will meet earlier at 10:30 a.m. in the Senior Classroom.

Goldenagers are so sorry to hear that member Alberta Tompkins was injured and hospitalized after being struck by a bicycle. Everyone wishes her well as she recuperates at home.

Chairperson Bill Souser reports that a profit of $550.15 was realized from the Golden Age Club's recent yard sale. This amount has been donated to the send-a-kid-to-camp program.

John Taylor, travel chair, announced that there will be a trip to Longwood Gardens on July 21 or 28. Some members have already signed up for the planned cruise scheduled for February 16-27, 1999. Leaving San Juan, P.R., the tour ship will stop at four Caribbean islands and Caracas, Venezuela, before going through the Panama Canal and on to Acapulco, Mexico. This is a very good buy and flyers are available.

This month's birthdays were celebrated on June 17 with a wonderful party. Barbara Burgoon won the birthday prize and the 50/50 was won by Pearl Siegel and Marie Christy. New member Jay Karsch was welcomed by the group.

Get well wishes also go to Ima Davis. She's missed at the meetings.

Reading Program at the Library

The 1998 Summer Quest reading program, which kicks off in June, will show children throughout the region how far they can travel with books. Now in its fourteenth year, Summer Quest is a noncompetitive summer reading program for children of all ages, coordinated by the Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments (COG). Eight library systems throughout the metropolitan area will present special programs and incentives to encourage children to use their local libraries and read throughout the summer.

Not only is it important to continue reading outside of the classroom in order to maintain reading skills, but studies consistently show that children who read additional materials — books, magazines, and newspapers — score higher on standardized tests. It is recommended that children read at least six books over the summer in order to maintain their current reading level.

Registration is now being held at the Greenbelt library.

New Deal Cafe Co-op to Meet

by Marsha Barrett

On Tuesday, June 30, at 7:30 p.m., the New Deal Cafe Cooperative will hold its third annual meeting in the Cafe in the Greenbelt Community Center. Everyone is welcome.

Topping the agenda is election of five board members. Current board members Barbara Tanen, treasurer, and Terry Kucera, secretary, have expressed interest in remaining on the board for another year. Board President Pat Brent wants to step down. Geoff King, music director, expressed a willingness to stay on but remain as an advisor to the next music director. Nominations can be made from the floor.

Cafe Manager Peggy Barott will stay on as manager but will cut back on the number of hours she currently spends opening and closing the cafe, in addition to handling the inventory, cooking, and scheduling kitchen managers.

Because the cooperative is a volunteer-intensive operation, maintaining a ready pool of volunteer staff is the biggest challenge facing the cooperative in the next fiscal year. While most volunteers work in the kitchen for a two-hour shift, assisting the cafe manager maintain the inventory, making flyers, and writing articles for the local press are just a few examples of other volunteer tasks.

Musicians love playing at the cafe, and community interest remains high, but lack of volunteers, limited hours, a hard-to-find location, and dwindling financial resources threaten the viability of the cafe operation.

Come to the annual meeting, voice opinions, volunteer, make a donation, become a board member, or sign up to cook a favorite dish.

Remembering ...

by Barbara Likowski from conversation with Marilyn (Masha) Spiegel

"I would ask that people do an act of kindness," Marilyn Spiegel said when asked what people could do to express sympathy on the death of her father, former Greenbelter Samuel (Sam) Maryn.

Marilyn went on to tell about her father, who had grown up in Chicago, working in the Chicago Public Library and also as a Western Union boy and who, later working as an adult, had been transferred to the Washington D.C. area.

Sam Maryn, his wife Bertha and children Marilyn and David became Greenbelt Pioneers when they moved into 58 Crescent Road in November, 1937.

"My father loved living in Greenbelt," Marilyn said. He carpoled to D.C. where he worked days for the Veterans' Administration. Like lots of people in Greenbelt then, in order to improve themselves, he went to school nights. "That's how he got his law degree."

Besides serving as assistant editor of the News Review (known then as the Cooperator), he and his wife were active in the Greenbelt Consumer Co-op.

"My father taught me to swim in the Greenbelt pool the year it opened," Marilyn recalled.

He "adored" being an air raid warden in Greenbelt. Also, he had a Victory Garden up above GH1. Everyone could have a patch of land there, she remembered. Blackberry bushes grew there that were filled with large, delicious blackberries. "My father liked the idea of having a Victory Garden, even though he was the worst gardener," she laughed. He really enjoyed it.

In 1946 Mr. Maryn was transferred back to Chicago.

"My father was a humble person with a great zest for living," Marilyn said. He traveled a lot and loved the elderhostels. He was a literate person, an avid reader who retained everything he read. In fact, she added, "we were a literary family."

Always a raconteur, her father, when he grew older, became a "great" story teller, Marilyn affirmed.

When he retired he enjoyed living in Florida. He was interested in politics and followed the news carefully. He especially liked to write letters to the editor of the Palm Beach (Florida) Post.

"He spent the month of April here (Silver Spring) with me," she added.

Marilyn was on a cruise with the Greenbelt High School Class of 1945 which started and ended in Florida. So she was able to be with her father when he was in the hospital.

Sam Maryn died at his son's house in Boynton Beach, Florida, on June 5 at the age of 94. His obituary was published in the June 11 issue of this paper.

January M. Tavel Wins Scholarship

January M. Tavel, of Lakeside Drive, a graduating senior at Eleanor Roosevelt High School, was one of 31 graduates in the Washington metropolitan area to receive an Amoco Community Scholarship award on Wednesday, June 3.

The scholarships were awarded at a reception for the winners and their families, which was held June 3, at the Hart Senate Office Building.

Thirty students were each to receive a $1,000 scholarship provided by local Amoco dealers as a way of giving back to their communities. One student was chosen to receive a $2,000 scholarship from the Charles Lamb Memorial Scholarship Fund, established in the memory of former Amoco dealer, Charles Lamb. The 31 winners were selected from more than 450 students who applied for the scholarship. The awards were based on grades, financial need, extra-curricular activities, career goals, and their answers to essay questions.

Tavel, as a junior, was the recipient of the Alfred M. Skolnik Memorial award for the outstanding journalism student at Eleanor Roosevelt High School.

Festival Notes

by Sandy Smith Next Festival Meeting

The next meeting of the Festival Committee will be Tuesday, June 30, at 7:30 p.m., in the Greenbelt Community Center. All committee members are asked to attend and the public is invited to learn more about and participate in the plans for the 1998 Festival.

Outstanding Citizen

Letters have gone out to community groups, officials and Greenbelt leaders announcing the 1998 Labor Day Festival Outstanding Citizen award. Anyone can nominate a Greenbelt resident who has contributed significantly to the community in one or more ways. Past winners have led youth or senior activities, directed major volunteer programs, led efforts to improve the city, directed campaigns to save community institutions or helped in countless other ways. The Outstanding Citizen is announced at the Opening Ceremonies of the Festival. For more information or an application, call Committee Chair Ed Birner at 301-474-9200. Nomination forms will also appear in later issues of the News Review.

Performers Needed

The Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Talent Show is looking for community talent to participate in its annual show. Previous participants have included vocalists, bands, line dancers, community choirs, musicians, gospel singers, spiritual dancers, and more. Auditions will be held at the Community Center. The first is scheduled for Tuesday, July 28 at 7 p.m. But call now to discuss your performance and reserve a spot on the program. Contact Dennis Lewis at 301-552-9078.

Craft Show

Applications are now available for the Labor Day Craft Show and Sale to be held Saturday, September 5. Spaces are limited so interested crafters should contact the Recreation Department at 301-397-2208 for applications, which will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. Crafts at past shows have included all types of needlework; ceramics; work in stone, wood and other substances; jewelry; paintings and photographs; and more.

Miss Greenbelt Opening Meeting

The opening meeting of the Miss Greenbelt pageant is Sunday, June 28 at 3 p.m. at the Youth Center. A number of girls from ages 7 to 19 have already registered for the 1998 Pageant. To sign up to attend the opening meeting or for more information contact Pageant Chair Natasha Jewell at 301-352-8665.

There are three pageants open to girls who live, go to school or work in Greenbelt. The traditional Miss Greenbelt Pageant is open to teens ages 14 to 19; Junior Miss is for those 11 to 13; and Little Miss for girls 7 to 10. The participants enjoy events throughout the summer, including parties, trips, and community activities. Girls participate in a professional photo session, appear on television, make new friends, learn new skills, participate in make-up and modeling sessions, and ride on a special float in the Greenbelt Labor Day parade.

The Miss Greenbelt Scholarship Pageant promotes education. The winner of the 1998 Miss Greenbelt Pageant will receive a $2,000 savings bond. In fact each winner will receive a savings bond. Little Miss Greenbelt and Junior Miss Greenbelt will receive a $200 savings bond. Savings bonds will be awarded to the first, second and third runners-up for Miss Greenbelt, as well as Miss Congeniality, Most Photogenic and Most Spirited. This award is in addition to the savings bond given to each participant.

Information Day Tables

The Greenbelt Labor Day Festival offers businesses, organizations, associations, and community groups an opportunity to have an information display on Saturday afternoon of the Labor Day weekend. Applications are available now;

New Grants to Target Unregistered Vehicles

by Amy Jeter

As of July 1, state and local police agencies in Maryland will command more resources to track down improperly-registered motor vehicles. State Senator Leo Green (D), who represents Greenbelt and Bowie, sponsored a bill in the state legislature which makes $400,000 in grants available to aid police in identifying vehicles registered out of state but owned by Maryland residents.

The Maryland State Police will implement the grant program, fielding applications from local police agencies around the state. The program will be funded from the state general fund and augmented by penalty fees paid by those motorists who failed to register their vehicle. It will be re-evaluated in five years.

"This issue has been around as long as I've been in public office," said Green, who has been involved in local government since serving two terms as mayor of Bowie from 1968 to 1972. "I feel confident that the grants will earn more than the cost of the program by far."

According to statistics from the Department of Legislative Services, between 5,000 and 7,500 improperly-registered vehicles existed in Maryland in 1991. This amounts to at least $1.3 million in lost excise tax revenue, said Jim Peck, the associate director of research and information services at the Maryland Municipal League.

Additionally, motorists registered in other states — Virginia for example — may be subject to insurance requirements that are less stringent than in Maryland, making collisions with uninsured motorists more likely.

Currently, officers identify these vehicles during traffic stops or by noting vehicles in certain areas, said Sergeant Gary Cunningham of the Prince George's County Police Department. The owner is then given 30 days to register the vehicle. Police follow up on these warnings by returning to the area where the vehicle was identified or if the same vehicle later is involved in a traffic stop.

Tracking Difficult

"There's no other way to track if someone moves from one jurisdiction to another unless they change their registration with the Department of Motor Vehicles," said Cunningham, who was unsure how additional funds would be used to augment the effort.

The Maryland Municipal League, an association which works to strengthen the role of municipal government, supported the bill and requested Green to sponsor it.

In May, the league announced that Green will receive one of 20 awarded Certificates of Appreciation for championing this bill and other legislation friendly to cities and towns during the 1998 legislative session. "The League has one of its best friends in Leo Green," said Scott Hancock, executive director. "He has a deep and clear understanding of the issues of local government."

Green, the vice chairman of the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee, also co-sponsored the League's three other priority bills, all of which passed. These bills include language eliminating the requirement that architects sign and seal documents associated with renovation projects, improve on the municipal incorporation process, and eliminate double taxation by counties and municipalities for the same service.

"I'm a strong proponent of municipal government because I'm a product of it," Green said. "I believe government closest to the people is the most responsive."

Green feels that Maryland is growing more responsive to legislation targeted at helping municipalities, as state and local agencies develop compromises to pass bills.

A member of the senate since 1983 and the house from 1975 to 1979, Green was named an honorary member of the Municipal League after receiving the League's certificate nine times since it began awarding them 10 years ago.

contact Joanne Hinsley at 301-445-6500 (days) for more information.

Carnival Booths

Community groups and organizations sponsor booths in the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Carnival as fund-raisers and as a good way to participate in the Festival and make the community aware of their organization's programs and activities. The booths sell food, offer games and contests, and showcase a variety of activities and entertainment. Many groups return from year to year with a carnival booth; others will be joining this year for the first time. For more information and an application, contact Linda Savage at 301-345-5723.

School Incident Still Being Investigated

by James Giese

According to Chief of Police James Craze, the investigation into an incident involving a Greenbelt police officer and a WRC 4 News camera operator is continuing. The police department has received no formal complaints or actions relating to the matter, he said. Complaint forms were provided by the police department to the camera operator, the news reporter on the scene, and the station, but none had been returned as of Tuesday. The police department also distributed witness forms at the scene of the incident, some of which have been returned to the department.

In news broadcasts, WRC 4 News alleged that a Greenbelt police officer "dove on top of" a News 4 camera operator Jim Kiser, who fell down and suffered a broken collarbone. The incident occurred as police attempted to clear from the building an overflow crowd of parents and well wishers attempting to see the graduation program for eighth-graders at Greenbelt Middle School held in the Eleanor Roosevelt Senior High School auditorium on June 15. A press release issued by the police department at the time stated only that "During the process of moving the gathering outside, a cam-

Vandalisms to, thefts from, and attempted thefts of or from vehicles were reported in the following areas: 7000 and 7600 blocks of Hanover Parkway, 6400 block of Ivy Lane, Roosevelt Center, 500 block of Crescent Road, 6100 block of Breezewood Drive, 9100 block of Edmonston Road, 7700 block of Ora Court, 7200 block of South Ora Court, and 59 court of Ridge Road.

Pedestrian - Bicycle Collide at Center

Greenbelt's efforts to bring greater awareness to pedestrian safety this month suffered a setback when a pedestrian was struck by a 15-year-old boy on a bicycle in the Roosevelt Center parking lots on June 18. Seriously injured was long-time Greenbelt resident Alberta Tompkins, who was transported by ambulance to Doctors Hospital and subsequently transported by Medivac to the Baltimore Shock Trauma Center. She sustained head injuries and broken bones. Tompkins, a News Review staffmember, is now recuperating at home.

The incident occurred at about 6:45 p.m., according to Greenbelt police, when Tompkins crossed the parking lot roadway on a marked walk at the point that the Co-op parking lot adjoins the post office parking lot. The boy approached the crosswalk coming down the hill from Parkway. Neither pedestrian or cyclist saw the other until it was too late to avoid the collision. The boy was only slightly injured in the accident and did not require medical treatment.

Security Issues

Chief of Police James Craze said he had a frank discussion with Beckett right after she arrived. "I couldn't be happier with the relationship," he said. In just 60 days the beat officers are seeing a difference, he continued.

The way to address security issues is to remove problem people and set standards, but that takes time, Beckett said. She is getting ready to do more terminations. She said she would not throw people out just because the neighbors complain - the proper process has to be followed.

Housing

Council asked about people that have federally subsidized housing - Section 8. The average citizen tends to panic when they hear the words "section 8," Beckett said, but in the industry the attitude is give me all the section 8 you want. Section 8 people make money for the rental property and they are easier to manage because they are easier to throw out.

People with federally subsidized housing adhere to the same rules as everyone else. In SHL they can choose the building they want to live in just as everyone else does, she explained.

Plans

Last autumn Insignia Residential Group, the largest property manager in the country, acquired SHL. Recently Insignia was acquired by AIMCO, another large property manager. They "believe in running it correctly or not at all," said Beckett. Insignia had planned to keep SHL a long time, but Beckett did not know AIMCO's future plans for SHL. She is in the process of working on a report for them; they have not yet done due diligence. But she said she has seen them put millions of dollars into a property and run it. They are a good company, she added. She is gathering information to produce a marketing plan. Beckett did not know what, if any plans the owners had in relation to possible development of the nearby Smith property.

Breezewood Drive

The city will renovate a portion of Breezewood Drive this year. The city works on a portion of its streets every year. A Community Development Block Grant of $100,000 will help pay for the work.

Beckett was visibly taken aback by the news of this work and of the reasoning that the work was needed to calm traffic. She was surprised to learn that traffic is 12 miles over the speed limit on Breezewood. Celia Craze explained that the city is trying to slow down traffic speeds throughout the city. Citizens complain about speeding, explained Mayor Judith Davis. Some streets are built in such a way as to sort of encourage going over the speed limit, said Davis. Choke points would slow down the average speed to the speed limit and the appearance would be improved, she continued.

Beckett replied that she would not mind tearing out all the trees along Breezewood Drive and later replacing them with smaller trees, what with all the work on the underground pipes. Also some of the large trees cause erosion problems. Everyone in the room displayed varying degrees of surprise and bemusement at the mention of tree cutting. Councilmember Rodney Roberts lectured her on the culture of Greenbelt and how we love trees. Davis gently suggested she consult with Celia Craze and City Horticulturist Bill Phelan on any landscaping plans.

Miscellaneous

Fountain Lodge used to be a very important center in SHL, said Davis, what are the SHL plans for it? Currently, the plans are to see what is out there, replied Beckett. There are no plans for a recreation center type thing but there will be some holiday parties. There is a newsletter, she added, to get out the word on activities. Beckett acknowledged that she had to take time to do things to make SHL more a community.

AIM Schedules July Meetings

"Kashtanka," performed by the Stanislavsky Theater Studio plays at the Greenbelt Arts Center Saturday, July 18 at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. Clockwise from top are the clown (Paafa Tsikurishvili), the goose (Irina Tsikurishvili), Kashtanka, the dog (Andrei Malaev-Babel) and the cat (Jessica Peck).

The Arts Beat

by Konrad Herling

The Greenbelt Arts Center will host a delightful pantomime rendition of Anton Chekov's "Kashtanka," Saturday, July 18 at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. Presented by the Stanislavsky Theater Studio, the performance will mesmerize both kids and adults alike.

As described in the program bill for a show earlier this year, "The performance tells the story of Kashtanka, a chestnut-colored dog, who lives with a cabinet-maker master and his son. One day, Kashtanka is separated from his master on a crowded urban street and becomes lost in a winter blizzard. Rescued by a kindly clown, Kashtanka joins the household the clown shares with the cat and goose, two trained animals. Vivid memories of his past life and the exciting challenges of his new life cause confusion for Kashtanka. Circus training and tasty dinners finally make him forget the cabinetmaker and his son. One night, the goose dies, and Kashtanka has to take her place in the circus arena. On the night of Kashtanka's circus debut, his old master's son sees him in the spotlight. The dog is now forced to choose between the two families.

I saw the show in January and was convinced immediately that Greenbelters should have an opportunity to see the performance. The youngsters were rapt with the story and varying emotions conveyed by the dog. The adults were amazed at how well this new group of professionals performed their artistry.

Next week's article will focus on the artists who make up this troupe.

CARES Offers GED Training

The summer four-week GED mini-course offered by Greenbelt CARES will begin on Tuesday, July 7, and will end on Thursday, July 30. Registration will be held on Thursday, July 2, from 10:30 - 12:30 only. The first class will be held on Tuesday, July 7.

GED I is held from 10:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m. GED I is for students who need to review basic math (addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, fractions, decimals, percentages, and word problems) and English grammar skills.

GED II is held from 1 - 3 p.m. GED II is for students who have successfully completed GED I and/or are ready to learn algebra and geometry, English literature, and writing skills and to prepare to take the GED test.

GED is held every Tuesday and Thursday for four weeks, in the Municipal Building Conference Room. Students are required to show proof of residency (i.e., current lease, phone or electric bill, driver's license or Motor Vehicle Administration I.D. card).

There is no charge for Greenbelt residents for either course. Non-Greenbelt residents are required to pay a registration fee. All students are required to purchase a copy of the GED textbook (purchased from Greenbelt CARES).

Students do not have to be 16 years of age in order to take the GED course. Students may take a GED pre-test given at Greenbelt CARES at no cost. The actual GED test is given by the State of Maryland, not Greenbelt CARES. However, students who are ready to take the test can obtain the application forms from Greenbelt CARES.

Questions and enrollment information regarding either GED I or GED II should be directed to Judy Hering, course instructor, at Greenbelt CARES, 301-345-6660.

Facilities

Although the concession stand and boathouse will be closed, Recreation Department Director Hank Irving reported that the city manager has invited civic organizations to use the Independence Day celebration as a fund-raising opportunity. The Babe Ruth baseball league will be selling hot dogs and beverages; it is anticipated that St. Hugh's Knights of Columbus will also provide light refreshments. Good Humor ice cream and other snacks will be available along Crescent Road and vendors will be selling glow rings throughout the park.

The City will supplement existing facilities with additional portable toilets distributed along the perimeter of the park and in the group picnic area. The nearest pay phone is located in the lobby of the Greenbelt Police station, across Crescent Road from "Buddy" Attick Park. Irving suggests that visitors bring lawn chairs and blankets because there are only a limited number of picnic tables, which are frequently occupied very early in the day.

According to Lt. Craddock of the Greenbelt Police Department, officers will be on hand the entire day in order to ensure the safety of all celebrants. A police command post will be established in the grassy area bordering the upper left-hand quadrant of the parking lot. The post will include a first-aid station augmented by an ambulance and fire engine later in the evening. Lost children or other missing persons should be reported to the command post.

Police presence will grow throughout the evening, eventually totaling 18 to 20 officers. Most officers will be facilitating traffic flow at the end of the celebration. Police will also be enforcing state and county laws prohibiting alcoholic beverages and all fireworks — including sparklers. All dogs must be kept on leashes less than six feet long. Visitors are also reminded that swimming is prohibited and that boats will not be allowed on the lake during the fireworks display.

Parking

As usual, Crescent Road's shoulders will be available for parking all day, with the exception of a section immediately adjacent to the park entrance — which will be used as an unloading zone — extending to Kenilworth Avenue on both sides of the street. Spaces in "Buddy" Attick Park's lot are reserved for the disabled and others requiring special accommodations, as well as emergency vehicles. This is a courtesy and handicapped plates or placards are not required; however, admittance is at police discretion. Lt. Craddock emphasized that automobiles parked along Kenilworth Avenue will not be permitted to impede traffic. He stated that in the past parked and standing vehicles have created a bottleneck which could prevent the passage of emergency vehicles. Visitors are also reminded that at the close of the celebration Crescent Road will be blocked to incoming traffic and both sides of the street will be used for outward bound travel. Celebrants are strongly advised to walk to the event due to the scarcity of parking.
