Bennigan's Closes Here

by James Giese

"Closed for Business." That is all the information provided by a sign on the front door of Bennigan's Grill and Bar restaurant located at Beltway Plaza. On Tuesday, July 29 the Greenbelt restaurant and some 150 other Bennigan's restaurants closed their doors when the owner S&A Restaurant Corporation filed for Chapter 7, Title 11, United States Code (liquidation) bankruptcy, according to Wikipedia, the free internet encyclopedia. Nearly as many Bennigan's restaurants that are franchise owned remain open for business, however, throughout the U.S. and in other countries. S&A Restaurant Corporation also closed down the Steak and Ale chain of restaurants that it owns.

According to the August 4 issue of the Orlando Business Journal, two New York-based financial firms are taking over the management of the Bennigan's system according to an August 1 report in Nation's Restaurant News. They are Atalaya Capital Management LP and CRG Partners, who reportedly told an Orlando-based Bennigan's franchise that the firms plan to keep the franchise system's infrastructure intact.

On August 5 the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported in an article by Barry Schlachter that William Snyder, a Southlake, Texas turnaround specialist, said that the Bennigan's concept is not dead. He is working with franchise holders across the country to put together a joint bid to purchase about half of the shuttered restaurants. Snyder was hired by Atalaya Capital Management which bought the debt liens and voting rights of the Plano, Texas, based Metromedia Restaurant Group that owned the Bennigan's franchise operating company.

No information is available as to the future of the Greenbelt franchise.

According to Wikipedia, Bennigan's was established in 1976 in Atlanta, Ga. It was a part of Pillsbury's restaurant division when it was acquired by Grand Metropolitan in 1989 but that company was later forced to liquidate Bennigan's from its Pillsbury assets because as a liquor distributor it was prohibited from owning liquor retailers.

Bennigan's was forced to take cost-cutting measures in the 1990's which reportedly lowered the quality of their food. In 2006 the company closed most of its New England franchises.

Camp Fire USA, Museum Win Foundation Grants

by Barbara Simon

On July 15 at the Springhill Lake Recreation Center the Greenbelt Community Foundation held its third Awards Presentation Reception. Grants of $4,000 were awarded to Camp Fire USA and to the Friends of the Greenbelt Museum.

Rosemary Pezzuto, executive director of the Patuxent Regional Council for Camp Fire USA, accepted the award for her organization. The grant will help to fund a Teens In Action program for 6th to 12th grade students in Springhill Lake. Students in the program will participate in activities that encourage personal development, reinforce academic learning, encourage community service and teach leadership.

In accepting the award, Pezzuto expressed her excitement about the partnership Camp Fire USA is creating with the community to provide quality programming for the children and families at Springhill Lake. One of their partners is the Greenbelt Police Department. Officer Jonathon Lowndes, the community policing officer for Springhill Lake, and Greenbelt Police Chief James Craze were both in attendance at the presentation.

Accepting the award for the Friends of the Greenbelt Museum were President Jen Ruffner, Curator Jill St. John and Education/Volunteer Coordinator Megan Searing Young. The grant will help to enable the Greenbelt Museum to remake its orientation film, which is shown to all visitors.

The film will be updated and issues such as racial segregation and women's roles in the creation of Greenbelt will be included. The new film will include the experiences of contemporary residents and their reflections on the legacy of the town's planning and creation.

In her remarks, Sylvia Lewis, chair of the advisory board for the Greenbelt Community Foundation, reported that the Foundation, to date, has awarded $34,765 to 14 organizations for projects that enrich the quality of life in Greenbelt. The Foundation's grants are made possible by donations from individuals,

Greenbelt Selected as One Of Nine Great Places to Live

by Virginia Beauchamp

The cities of Greenbelt; Ames, Iowa; and Berea, Kentucky, are three of some nine municipalities called "9 Great Places You've Never Heard Of" in the current issue of the periodical Mother Earth News. Others in their list are Bethel, Maine; Viroqua, Wisconsin; Moscow, Idaho; San Luis Obispo, California; Traverse City, Michigan; and Bisbee, Arizona. According to the come-on below the headline, these nine towns were chosen because they "demonstrate civic energy and sustainability in action."

In the case of Greenbelt, the magazine cites "Cooperative efforts to restore original Greenbelt homes in an energy-efficient way; restoration of local lake; civic commitment to frugal lifestyle with a rich public life that makes large houses unnecessary." Also noted is "the proximity of Greenbelt National Park."

The article begins with a brief history of the founding of the city by the federal government as a "model for an affordable, planned community with a high quality of life." It describes the super blocks, the semicircular lay-out and pedestrian walkways and the city's proximity to the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center.

Also noted are the co-op grocery store, the nursery school, the credit union, this newspaper and "even the local New Deal Café" as operating with a "shared benefits/shared responsibility approach." The article goes on to quote Mayor Judith Davis: "When there's a need in the community, you can bet that a team will self-assemble to take care of it."

Included is a photograph of the sign at the Southway entrance describing the city and a view of the Labor Day parade with Councilmembers Konrad Herling, Edward Putens and Mayor Judith Davis in an antique fire engine and Councilmember Leta Mach walking on one side while Councilmember Rodney Roberts walks on the other.

Labor Day Festival Is Filled With Musical Entertainment

The Greenbelt Labor Day Festival has a tradition of bringing high-quality musical entertainment to suit all tastes in our diverse community. Here are some of the highlights of the 2008 Labor Day entertainment program:

Kicking off the entertainment on Friday night, August 29, 9 p.m. to midnight, will be the Monster Band, a contemporary group of five 20-somethings, whose motto is "Jazz is the teacher, Funk is the preacher!" Their playlist ranges from songs by Stevie Wonder to Prince to Led Zeppelin.

The John Luskey Band is a Southern Maryland trio which has been a staple in the local music scene and has performed with national country music legends such as Kenny Chesney, Brooks-n-Dunn, Rascal Flatts and Toby Keith. Luskey has received awards from the John Lennon Songwriting Contest for "Honky Tonk Rhythm" and from Billboard Magazine for "When She Cries" and "King of the World." The group will perform at the Labor Day Festival's Main Stage on Saturday, August 30, 8:30 to 11:30 p.m.

Saxophonist Bruce Swaim is sure to delight jazz fans on Sunday, August 31, 1 to 3 p.m., when he pumps out tunes on his soulful instrument. Swaim is a regular in DC-area recording studios and recently appeared on the Black Entertainment Network's Jazz Central program.

On Sunday, August 31, 3 to 6 p.m. Prince George's County native Mary Shaver and her band will soothe the audience with a soft soul ballad or rock people with traditional hard core blues standards. Fans may know her from her frequent airings on WPFW 89.3 FM and the several Wammie nominations for best female blues vocalist.

A mixture of romance, excitement and nostalgia will be the mood when The Orioles take the stage on Sunday, August 31, 9 p.m. to midnight. Discovered in their home town of Baltimore, The Orioles were one of the first rhythm and blues groups to make it big in popular music. Influenced by celebrities such as the Mills Brothers and the Ink Spots, they fused traditional pops songs with gospel-style and arranged blues and gospel material with smooth harmonies. In 1953 they recorded their multi-million seller "Crying in the Chapel."

Fans of the "oldies" will want to make sure they have a seat for The Fabulous Hubcaps, one of the nation's most sought-after oldies show bands. They will take the stage on Monday, September 1, 2 to 4:30 p.m., with their extensive repertoire of do-wop group harmony, classic rock and roll, Rock-A-Billy, Motown and R & B music. The Hubcaps' shows are filled with high energy tributes to original artists like Little Richard, Elvis, The Platters, Buddy Holly, Fats Domino, Ray Charles, The Shirelles, The Beach Boys and The Rolling Stones, just to name a few.

Shakespeare (Redux)

A special children's version of Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors" will be presented at 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, August 30 and at 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. on Sunday – 25 minutes of slapstick and mixed-up twins directed by Anna Bonnet.

A play for adults, Shakespeare's "Measure for Measure," with a number of Greenbelt residents in the cast and crew perform four times during the festival: Saturday and Sunday at both 2:30 and 5:30 p.m. It runs one hour and is a story of romance, blackmail, deceit, immorality, justice, prison, repentance and marriage. This play is directed by Bill Jones.

Errata

In last week's Festival Notes, information on these two plays was incorrectly combined to a "measure of errors" that the News Review sincerely regrets.

Letters to the Editor

Thanks to All

After living in Greenbelt for the last 10 years and now moving to Fort Collins, Colo., our family wanted to thank the people of Greenbelt for the chance to be part of this wonderful community. In particular we wanted to thank and note several groups with which we have been involved that embody Greenbelt's cooperative spirit.

Here they are in no particular order: Greenbelt Municipal swim team, especially the coaches who have given our daughter a strong foundation for athletics and good sportsmanship; Greenbelt Elementary School teachers and staff, who are dedicated to providing an excellent education through public schools and making our elementary school an integral part of the community; Creative Kids Camp, especially Chris Cherry and Stefan Brodd, who give Greenbelt youths a venue to be creative and strengthen their self-esteem; the Advisory Committee on Education, which is taking an ever-increasing role in helping city council work with the Prince George's County Board of Education to ensure the best possible public schools in Greenbelt.

Thanks also to the artists-in-residence at the Greenbelt Community Center, who have provided a family-like environment where the community can see and participate in artistic endeavors; the Co-op grocery store where a quick stop for half and half turns into a visit with a half dozen neighbors (you know who you are); the Greenbelt News Review for its unique coverage of local affairs, delivered to us on time every week by the reliable Bernheisel family; Brownie Troop 2871, which provided a chance for girls to make new friends and keep the old; and to Mowatt Methodist Church for providing the perfect place for the troop's weekly meetings.

Finally, thanks to our neighbors in 16 and 6 Courts Ridge Road who put up with us through renovation and taught us what community spirit is all about.

We feel truly blessed to have spent the last 10 years in Greenbelt. The lessons we have learned about cooperative living will move with us to Fort Collins. Thank you Greenbelt! And see you Labor Day '09.

The Right Math

To those comments by Jerry Dancis on math in Maryland schools (Letters, 31 July 2008): The authorities are the ones who determine how math skills are scored and I cannot help you with that.

However, if you want to understand math, I can. A web site here in Greenbelt is dedicated to that — mainly to high school stuff, but you will also find basic algebra there. Go (now, while it's vacation time!) to <http://www.phy6.org/stargaze/Smath.htm> and see if you are helped; if you are, you will probably do well under any scoring system. It is not effortless (few worth-while things are) but will not frustrate you.

Comments and questions welcome.

— David P. Stern

Wrong Math (con't)

I want to express my appreciation to Jerome Dancis for putting into words the same thoughts I have had as I volunteer in elementary math classrooms.

I witnessed the disjointed progression of math topics and the lack of mastery of arithmetic facts. I also saw the difficulty teachers faced trying to develop some relevance between topics from day to day.

As a retired math teacher, I recognized the hard work of the teachers and found it very difficult to hear the teachers taking the blame for the low math scores.

If the county is going to teach to the test, then the curriculum and test should be learnable to the point of mastery. The stress created by these tests for administrators, teachers, students and families is too great to waste on an invalid test developed from a poorly conceptualized curriculum.

Chevy Chase Closes Branches in Giant

Elementary School Scores 80.1 in Math

Greenbelt Elementary School was one of 51 Prince George's County Public Schools (PGCPS) to have earned the distinction of having 80 to 90 percent and more of its students achieving at proficient and advanced levels in reading and/or math on this year's Maryland School Assessments (MSA). According to a statement by the office of Dr. John E. Deasy, superintendent, these "distinguished" schools are well on their way to meeting the requirement of the No Child Left Behind law for all students to be at proficiency or advanced by the 2013-2014 school year.

In mathematics Greenbelt Elementary School students scored 80.1 percent proficiency. The score in reading was 74.6.

PGCPS has experienced unprecedented growth in a short period of time, their statement said. MSA scores rose for the fifth school year in a row. On the 2008 MSA, scores rose at every grade level, in every subject and in every subgroup year-over-year, demonstrating that new programs and additional investments made to improve academic performance are benefiting children throughout the county.

Explorations Seeks Paradise

On Friday, August 15 the summer Explorations Unlimited travel video series concludes with the Land of the Eagle: The First and Last Frontier (vol. 7) and Searching for Paradise (vol. 8). Alaska holds the promise of continued wealth and profit but a cycle of exploitation will damage this land in irreparable ways. As with Alaska, California holds riches in its land, such as the ocean, desert, valley and mountain regions. But with the onset of the Spanish missions and gold rush, this land of plenty was changed and its natural resources threatened.

Explorations Unlimited is held every Friday at 1 p.m. at the Greenbelt Community Center in the Senior Lounge.

Everyone is welcome to attend. Call 301-397-2208 for more information.

Jazz Weekend At New Deal Café

Keep the dates open for "Jazz Finds a Home" at the New Deal Café – Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 15, 16 and 17.

New Deal to Host Eco-Tones Special

On Monday, August 11 a special "House Concert" will feature the Eco-Tones at the New Deal Café from 7 to 9 p.m. The Eco-Tones, Jimmy Sferes and Jennifer White, will present a "hybrid" concert presenting elements of their Eco-Tones (see www.eco-tones.com).

This is a rare and special Monday night concert at the New Deal Café. Sferes and White are an environmentally friendly folk duo act. For a house concert, all proceeds go directly to the performers. Audience members can experience the delicious offerings of the new New Deal Café, usually closed Monday nights. Chef Karim features Mediterranean and Middle Eastern food, a selection of international wines and domestic and imported beers.

Sferes and White create music that is a passionate love affair between acoustic rock and soulful folk, blending intricate guitar work, luscious harmonies and thought-provoking lyrics. They have performed previously on Garrison Keillor's "A Prairie Home Companion" and on the New Morning TV Show.

Their CDs are produced using wind-power, minimal packaging and soy-based inks, and their "Carbon Neutral Tours" happen in a biodiesel vehicle getting 50 miles per gallon. Their overall message is that sustainability can and should be fun.

"It's not just one element that makes Sferes and White performances special - it's the whole package. Flawless harmony on the vocals, great guitar work, a steady infusion of wit and humor, and great songwriting...the sum total is magic!" says Dave Wann of Harmony Village Co-housing.

Continual Growth Vs. Steady State

The Greenbelt Climate Action Network will meet on Wednesday, August 13, 7:30 p.m. at the Greenbelt Community Center. Bob Fireovid will make a presentation on steady state economics.

He will point out that our economy is based on continual growth. Yet our resources, such as water, fuel and food are limited. We may have already reached peak oil. And greenhouse gas emissions, which are directly related to economic growth, are out of control. It is madness to continue this way. A rational transition to a steady state economy would solve many of these problems.

Fireovid will discuss the science underlying the facts and present policies that communities can implement to foster steady state economies. He is director and a founding member of Citizens for a Steady State Economy, a 501(c)(4) organization lobbying for policies that foster steady state economies.

In Memoriam
Eileen Is Missed
By Her Many Friends

I heard this weekend of the death of Eileen Peterson and would like to offer my condolences to her family and friends. She was a great friend of the New Deal Café from the very beginning and I came to know her and all she had done for the Greenbelt community over the last year and a half.

Her contributions are a part of what makes Greenbelt great. During the last year she really came through for the Café on several occasions when we needed help with News Review articles or special meeting notices. Eileen even called everyone on our membership list (over 500 members) asking for volunteers and money when we needed it most and the Café Menu for Senior Nutrition Program was having such a hard time. Bill Wilkerson remembered her in the 80's pushing for improvement of the Roosevelt Center and for more community building activities.

She may have been one of, if not the first, to look at the Center as a gathering place with music, art and festivals. She was a constant presence and supporter of the Center and the Café. Eileen even offered to take me to the Greenbelt Theater for a movie to take my mind away from the stresses of the Café troubles and the times I took her up on that offer, and my offer of dinner at the Beijing. I remember fondly, she had such great stories and remembrances of Greenbelt. I was so happy to hear that her dear friend Barbara Simon had told her of the recent renewal of the Café while she was recuperating. I think that she must've had a nice smile on her face when she heard the news that the New Deal is off to a new start. She was an important part of getting us to this point.

I would like to have some sort of event at the Café honoring/rememering Eileen as a friend of the Café and the community. I know so many others have really great thoughts on their interactions with her.

With fond remembrances,
- Peter May,
for the New Deal Café Board

Bahá'í Teachings: Why did God create us?

God is the Creator of all things. He has made the heavens and earth, the animals and the human being. The reason behind our creation, we are told by Bahá'u'lláh, is love. He said: "O Son of Man!

I loved thy creation, hence I created thee. Wherefore, do thou love Me, that I may name thy name and fill thy soul with the spirit of life."

GIVE THANKS

Every breath that we breathe is a blessing from God and we learn from the Prophet Solomon (peace be upon him) to recognize these blessings each day. The Holy Qur'an tells us how he never forgot to be thankful to God. He is quoted to have said, "This is by the grace of my Lord, to test me whether I am grateful or ungrateful! And if any is grateful, it is (a gain) for his own soul; but if any is ungrateful, truly my Lord is free of all needs, supreme in honor."
- The Holy Qur'an, 27:40

Count your blessings every day. For more information about gratefulness from an Islamic perspective, call 301-982-9463 or email info@searchislam.org or visit www.searchislam.org.

Tickets are now on sale for the St George's Players summer production of Children of Eden. The performances will be August 22 & 23, 2008 at 8 PM, and August 24, 2008 at 3 PM
All performances are at St. George's Episcopal Church located at 7010 Glenn Dale Road in Glenn Dale.

This Stephen Schwartz musical is based on the Book of Genesis and includes the stories of creation and the great flood. The dynamic score is the work of Godspell composer Stephen Schwartz and simply bursts with energy and exuberance! The two-act musical uses the Bible as a plot source; it freely deviates in many details, and is a story of parents and children without a specifically religious point-of-view. Tickets are $12 for adults and $7.50 for seniors and children under 12.
A "Sweet 'n Savory" reception is available before the evening performances and after the matinee for an additional cost.

Please call the church office for reservations and more information, 301-262-3285.

Artists Urged to Submit Their Work for Labor Day Festival

by Barbara Simon

Attention artists of all ages! The 2008 Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Art Shows are almost here and the festival art shows committee encourages people to submit their work. Needed are paintings, drawings, sculptures, prints and crafts works – in whatever media they work in. As always, there are two shows, one for children and teens and one for adults. Prizes in many categories will be awarded.

As in past years, due to space limitations, children who enter the show must live or go to school in Greenbelt. However, this year the art shows committee is reviving a tradition from years past and inviting artists from communities surrounding Greenbelt to enter the show. For many years the Labor Day Festival Art Show displayed works by students and faculty at the University of Maryland and by other residents of the county. So this year artists living or working in Beltsville, Berwyn Heights, College Park, Glenn Dale, Lanham, New Carrollton, Riverdale and Seabrook are invited to enter.

Bring framed, ready-to-hang two-dimensional works (children's work does not need to be framed) or three-dimensional works to the Greenbelt Community Center on Thursday, August 28 from 5 to 7 p.m. or Friday, August 29 from 10 a.m. to noon or 5 to 7 p.m.

For details see information flyers at the Greenbelt Library, Greenbelt Community Center or New Deal Café or call Barbara Simon at 301-474-2192.

Condolences to the family and friends of Ronnie Summers, who died last week at age 64. He was a longtime resident of the 57 Court of Ridge Road.

Our deepest sympathy goes out to the grief-stricken family of little Alexander Nucamendi, who was tragically killed in a hit-and-run accident in College Park on August 3. The family lives in Springhill Lake.

Congratulations to

– Heather Kimpel Costen of Ridge Road, who was named a blue ribbon winner at the 32nd Vermont Quilt Festival show and contest held in June at the Chaplain Valley Expo in Essex Junction, Vermont. She joined over 200 others in the annual contest.

– Greenbelt graduates Chiara Ali and Sharde Green. Both students were awarded B.S. degrees in human ecology from the University of Maryland Eastern Shore.

Send us news of your family's accomplishments, births, deaths, relocations, etc., to share with your neighbors. Leave messages at 301-474-6892.

GRANTS

businesses and Prince George's County. Over $94,000 has been contributed so far and even more has been pledged.

Lewis stressed the symbolism of the two grants which were presented: the award to the Museum honors Greenbelt's past but also recognizes that the past is to be built upon, not enshrined; while the award to Camp Fire USA recognizes that the future of the community depends on the experiences of young people today, which need to be positive, enriching and strengthening if our future is to be a bright one.

In attendance at the presentation were other members of the Community Foundation Board: Keith Chernikoff, Eulalie Lucas, Leta Mach, Sieglinde Peterson, Carol Shaw and Barbara Simon. Mayor Judith Davis and City Councilmember Ed Putens were also present.

September 15 is the deadline for the next cycle of grant applications to the foundation, for grants to be awarded in January, 2009. For information go to info@greenbeltcommunityfoundation.net.

Greening a PC

Would constantly shutting down and restarting a computer during the day consume more energy than just leaving it running?

No, the surge of power that a PC uses to boot up is far less than the energy it uses when left on for more than three minutes. If practical, shut down a PC when not in use.

Maryland Delegate Becomes Wheelless

Aggressive Drivers

Get out of the way and stay clear of aggressive drivers on the road; stay relaxed. Remember that the goal is to reach one's destination safely and calmly. Don't challenge the aggressive driver, avoid eye contact, ignore rude gestures and refuse to return rude gestures. Don't block the passing lane, especially if driving slower than most traffic; move to the right lane. Dial #77 on a cell phone to report aggressive drivers or call the police when able.

To avoid being an aggressive driver, allow more time to get to a destination to reduce stress. Come to a full stop at red lights and stop signs; never run yellow lights. Let other drivers merge with you, obey posted speed limits and don't follow too closely. Concentrate on driving, not on a cellphone, stereo or passengers. Remember that one can't control traffic but only oneself, one's driving and one's emotions.

Annual Fund Raiser to Help Findley Family

This year's fundraiser of the Greenbelt Women's Softball Team will be held on Friday, August 8 at 7 p.m. to benefit the family of Sgt. Richard S. Findley, the Prince George's County police officer killed in the line of duty June 27. A game and silent auction will be held at FOP Lodge 89, 2905 Old Largo Road in Upper Marlboro. Food, beer and soft drinks will be available.

In 2005 when Sgt. Stephen Gaughan was killed in the line of duty, the first person to jump in and help with the game to support his family was Sgt. Findley. "As a fundraiser organizer and founder of the 'Beauties and the Beast' softball games, I remember Sgt. Findley," said Kelly Ivy, organizer of this year's game. "I was fortunate to have met such a caring person."

Gaughan was Findley's Field Training Officer (FTO). Gaughan's FTO was Sgt. John J. Novabilski, who was killed in the line of duty in 1995. Sgt. Findley, who was a resident of Beltsville, was also an active fireman with Beltsville Fire Station #31.

The silent auction August 8 will include sports memorabilia and other merchandise. Bring a lawn chair and enjoy the game. A donation is asked; all proceeds go to the Findley family. Donations may also be made by buying tickets or car stickers or simply donating cash to the fund at the Greenbelt Federal Credit Union.
