

Historic Greenbelt Middle School Planning Begins

by Mary Moien

The Greenbelt City Council held a worksession on June 16 to begin planning for the future of the historic Greenbelt Middle School building. The session was held at the school to allow for a walk-through of the building as part of the meeting. Portions of the current school cannot be demolished as they are part of original Greenbelt and on the National Register of Historic Places. The Maryland Historical Trust will have input on changes to the historic building.

Paul Taylor, Jr., architect and director of the Prince George's County Schools' Department of Planning and Architectural Services, was the featured speaker. Dr. Bonita Coleman-Potter, deputy superintendent of the school system, was in the audience.

Taylor summarized the status of plans to begin construction of the new Greenbelt Middle School on the same property. Permits have been received from the county and are expected soon from the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission.

If construction begins soon, the new school should be completed by February 2012, with occupancy in August 2012. Taylor commented to council that he had thought planning discussions for future uses of the historic building would begin a little later but Mayor Judith Davis said this meeting was the beginning of the process.

Councilmember Rodney Roberts, an alumnus of the school, said he wants to keep as much as possible of the current building to use for the community. Davis said that parts may need to be demolished and Taylor pointed to a three-story addition built in 1969 that might need to be torn down to allow space for school buses.

Councilmember Edward Putens asked about ownership of the building. He wondered if the school system would retain ownership or possibly sell or lease the building. There was no clear answer, although Coleman-Potter

Wound Center and Director Win National Recognition

Doctors Community Hospital's Center for Wound Healing was awarded the Front Runner Award and its medical director, Dr. Chester DiLallo, was one of four finalists for Medical Director of the Year from the National Healing Corporation (NHC), an industry leader in research accounting for more than 30 percent of the nation's managed and outsourced wound healing centers.

As medical director, DiLallo treats patients, evaluates new clinical products and provides oversight and guidance on policies and procedures at the Center for Wound Healing. He is board certified in orthopedic surgery.

The Center for Wound Healing, which opened in June 2008, was recognized for maximizing resources to meet growing community needs. The center specializes in treatment for people with diabetic foot ulcers, pressure ulcers, infections, compromised skin grafts and flaps and wounds that have not healed within 30 days. Other services include disease management and diabetes care. Chronic wounds often affect the health of the elderly and people living with vascular disease and diabetes.

One of the specialized treatments offered at the center is hyperbaric oxygen therapy (HBO).

Crowd Turns Out for Great July 4th Holiday Blast

by Mary Moien

Fantastic! Unbelievable! Those were the words used by some watching the Greenbelt fireworks from the main field at Buddy Attick Park. The Greenbelt Concert Band had entertained the growing crowd with musical pieces including the 1812 Overture and God Bless America. A mix of people who would do the United Nations proud continued to picnic and play.

City Councilmember Konrad Herling strolled by with friends, juggling drinks and cups of fruit. Herling noticed the filled trash containers and said he would request more receptacles for next year. He commented that clean-up the day after the July 4th fireworks is one of the hardest days.

As the Concert Band music ended, the conductor announced that it would be dark enough for the fireworks in 15 or 20 minutes. Everyone was ready. The skies very slowly got dark. Nearby fireworks, probably from College Park, could be heard but not seen.

Twenty minutes came and went. No fireworks – still not dark enough. There was enough time for one more trip to the Boys and Girls Club selling water and other drinks. Chef Lou was there with desserts and ribs for sale.

People selling glow necklaces for $1 each were doing a "glowing" business. Parents could be heard saying "Only a dollar?" "I'll take one" or "I'll take five." Still more people were streaming onto the field.

Now it was dark. Orange, green, red and blue glow necklaces and spinning wands gave the lake an eerie glow. We could see the lights across the lake where we knew city workers were finalizing preparations for the pyrotechnics. Finally the first ground fireworks were lit – the American flag, followed by Welcome to Greenbelt, with Greenbelt in green, of course.

Fireworks

The opening volley of fireworks could have been the grand finale. There was one huge explosion of color after another. No time to clap; hardly time to ooh, aah and scream. Then came the next set of fireworks. Red, green, the gorgeous silver and gold cascades that seem to float away on the wind. Loud explosions. Some seemed quite close to the ground. But luckily the lake separated the falling pieces from the crowds. This had to be one of the best displays the city has ever had.

Then it was over and people swarmed up to Crescent Road. Hundreds of people were walking and hundreds more had parked their cars on Crescent Road and surrounding streets. Both sides of Crescent had been filled since early afternoon – all the way up to St. Hugh's.

Traffic Pattern

Greenbelt Police now have a way of trying to handle the crush of traffic. People parked on Crescent heading west or leaving the lake parking lot must exit the city at Kenilworth Avenue and circle around and re-enter the city at Southway. Cars on Kenilworth Avenue could not enter the city and police were there trying to keep traffic moving in some fashion.

Circus Camp Youth Performers Dazzle Large Audience in Gym

by Jim Link

"We will rock you!" promised the anthem-like lyrics of Queen's smash hit at the beginning of the Circus Camp's show; and the dotting parents, grandparents and other relatives who came to see their darlings perform circus acts were rocked indeed. Approximately 20 children from ages 8 to 11 thrilled some 70 cheering, clapping, camera-clicking spectators at Greenbelt's fourth annual Circus Camp finale at the Greenbelt Community Center gym on Friday afternoon, July 2.

Greg May, a veteran of Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circuses, and his mother, Betty, with strong help from interns Bridget and Joe, had clearly prepared the performers well. They tumbled, twirled, juggled, trampolined and tightrope-walked vigorously and delicately with elegance and panache.

Whether on stilts or on big rolling (rubber) globes, they never failed to impress; whether they unicycled handclapped in arabesques or tossed twirling plates on top of each others' long sticks or made Chinese yoyos dance on a string, they dazzled the crowd with skill and flair.

Climactic Event

The climactic event consisted of seeing 12 or so munchkins, who had been packed into an impossibly small "house," gradually emerge to present their queen, played by Di Quynn-Reno, supervisor of the Community Center, with a lemon meringue pie, which was promptly smushed into Greg May's face. Despite May's messy facial, he looked almost as beautiful in drag as Quynn-Reno did in her black, floral sheath.

The performers gave a classy farewell by shouting out their names rapidly one after another in Queen Anne salute style. One young lady claimed to be "the incredibly amazing Lizzie" and, in fact, so were Ashley, Amina, Ruby, Maddie, Anais, Julie, Simone, Addie, Barbara, Kathryn, Joshua, Chris, Dorothy, Katie, Madison, Alyson, Ema, Teresa, Anna and Pascal – all were simply amazing and incredible. So infectious was the

Letters to the Editor

THANKS!

The Baha'i community of Greenbelt wishes to thank everyone who helped and everyone who donated to the Bikes for the World collection on June 13. Although it was a sweltering day, several locals pitched in: Jim Fischer, Alex Fischer, Pei-Lu Chiu, Leysan Khakimova, Marzi Branyan, George Branyan and Jeff Travis. We collected 40 bikes in all, plus a sewing machine and various bike parts and supplies. The bikes were added to a record-breaking shipment of 511 bikes to the Prisoners Support Organization of Kampala, Uganda!

We are glad so many of you cleaned out your garage or shed and found new life for this useful 200-year-old method of transportation: bicycles!

Roya Bauman
For the Baha'i Community

THANKS!

Thanks to the large turnout of people who donated blood on June 29 at the Greenbelt Municipal Building. The blood collected at the drive will help the American Red Cross continue its service in the face of the nation's severe blood shortage. Thanks are also given to the Red Cross personnel and volunteers for their outstanding service.

The next scheduled blood drive is Friday, September 24 from 12:30 to 6 p.m. at the Greenbelt Community Center in the multipurpose room.

Call Janet Goldberg at 301-297-2212 to make an appointment if you have not been contacted by the Red Cross. Walk-ins will be accepted to fill spaces for people who do not appear for their appointments.

Urges No Drive Days

I'm just one person. What can I do? I see and hear about the animals and the oil, the birds, the sea turtles, the fish, the dolphins and the whales. I'm just one person, what can I do? I watch as the people in our country consume massive quantities of oil and pay billions to foreign countries for it. I watch as we destroy our world economically and environmentally. What can I do?

Here in Greenbelt there is a sense of community, a kind of humane union. Maybe we could do something.

How about a No Drive Day twice a month? This would be voluntary. You could pick a Saturday or Sunday every two weeks, starting on July 17. I suggest that, as a guide on Saturday, odd number tagged cars would not drive and on Sunday, even number tagged cars would not drive. I am not the soup Nazi – people that must drive on the weekends, could. They could choose another day to not drive or make reasonable adjustments. No Drive Day dates for the rest of 2010 are July 17, 18 and 31; August 1, 14, 15, 28 and 29; September 18 and 19; October 2, 3, 16, 17, 30 and 31; November 13, 14, 27 and 28; and December 11, 12, 26 and 27.

I went with a friend, Mary Ann Canter, to the last Greenbelt City Council meeting and suggested a resolution for No Drive Day. They referred us to the GreenACES organization and we will contact them. However, I thought we could start now. Waiting is no good.

I am sure some people will criticize and make fun of this idea but if half of us do it, maybe it will catch on. I think this affords us all an opportunity to do something that is patriotic and green.

Conflict over Chairs At Webb Memorial

Esther Webb, a beloved peace activist who died last year, was remembered at three memorial programs in Greenbelt during Peace Month. The first was a silent vigil against torture on a Thursday evening. The second was a Sunday afternoon picnic where we all sang peace songs and told stories about Esther and her willingness to demonstrate and even get arrested for her beliefs at an advanced age. The third event, a finger-food dinner around the Esther Webb memorial tree on the hill between the Community Center and the outdoor pool, became a confrontation with authority.

There are no picnic tables near Esther's tree. So when Bill Orleans and I arrived, we started looking for chairs for the many handicapped attendees. Bill started toward the Youth Center, then realized that the Community Center was closer and not down a steep hill. I was already headed for the back door which was locked. Bill arrived at the front desk first and while asking for permission to take a few chairs outdoors, I grabbed four chairs from the dining hall and dragged them out the back door. Bill then reappeared and helped set them up where Bert Donn was enthroned in a wheelchair. When a few more folks arrived I headed back into the Community Center to take a few more chairs. Bill and I were caught this time and had a discussion with staff, who mentioned calling the police and banning participants from use of the Community Center, while I started listing the handicaps of the participants outside.

Finally I suggested going home and getting my own chairs, not mentioning the ones already outside and everyone seemed satisfied. While everyone else ate peanut butter and homemade mulberry jelly sandwiches, I got three chairs at home and met my cousin Roseerin at the Center, bringing him along to help carry chairs.

Arriving back at the elysian fields, we met one of the group, who was headed back to the Community Center with one of the purloined chairs, saying that the program was over. He left the chair there and helped carry my folding chairs to the tree.

After a few more minutes of recollections and noshing, the group got cold enough to declare it time for the monthly Peace and Justice Coalition meeting and the chairs were carried back to my car and the Community Center, hopefully with no one on the staff knowing about it.

The meeting started at 7:15 with all chairs in their proper places. Esther would have been proud.

Corrections

In the Our Neighbors column last week, we erroneously said Robert Plackett had been a resident of the wrong state – he lived in Bozeman, Md., and Palm Harbor, Fla.

We also misspelled Paul Sabol's name in the attribution for the article on the ordination of Desider Viktor as a Permanent Deacon.

The News Review regrets the errors.

Senior Softballers Stay in First Place

At the July 4th break in the Baltimore Beltway Senior Softball League, Greenbelt held on to first place in their division by a half-game over Howard Hitters. On Monday, June 28 the two teams split a double-header for the second week in a row. Greenbelt won 12-9 behind manager-pitcher Ray Reed, then lost 13-12 despite a three run rally in the last inning keyed by George Harrison's home run. Harrison also tripled in that game and had four hits overall, as did Barry Clark, Jasper Pendergrass, Fred Bohle, David Kerr and Phil Olson, who pitched the second game and also drew two walks for a perfect day at the plate.

Two days later, with several starters absent, Greenbelt lost a double-header to a revitalized Dundalk, 11-4 and 16-2, with Dundalk moving half-a-game behind the second-place Hitters. The lone highlight for the losers was a homer by Pendergrass with a man on in the first game. Seventeen games remain before playoffs in August.

Targeted at students completing grades 5 through 8, the course teaches students responsibility and the health and safety issues of taking care of children, as well as poison control and fire prevention. Students who complete the course will receive a certificate of completion and be eligible to participate in Greenbelt CARES' Odd Jobs/Job Bank program. ## Writers Group Seeks Anthology Artwork

The Greenbelt Writers Group (GWG) is looking for pen and ink or charcoal artwork for its latest anthology. Subject matter may be abstract or realistic and may be used as cover pictures, background pieces or to separate the literary pieces of the anthology, which will be printed in black-and-white. Entries should be no larger than 8-1/2" by 11".

The group regrets being unable to compensate artists for the use of their works but will happily acknowledge all contributors in print by name and with a short biography if desired. GWG anthologies are sold throughout Maryland.

The submission deadline is September 13, 2010. Email mparbach@verizon.net with questions or inquiries.

Co-op Food Demos, Health Tips Offered

On Saturday, July 10 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. there will be a food sampling demo of Salba products at the Co-op. Sample a variety of Salba products including whole seeds, ground seeds, potato crisps, tortillas and tortilla chips. Salba (Salvia hispanica L.) is a white chia seed that has been selectively propagated to produce a highly nutritious grain. This gluten-free, non-GMO super grain is rich in Omega-3 fatty acids, fiber, calcium, magnesium, iron, vitamin C, protein and antioxidants.

On Wednesday, July 14 at 7 p.m. there will be an important discussion for those concerned about dairy products and wanting to reduce or eliminate them from their diets. Current commercial dairy products are very different from the dairy products consumed by past generations, raising concerns about their overall healthfulness. Even unaltered forms of organic dairy from pasture-raised animals can be too congesting for some body types. People who want to "ditch dairy" wonder how to get sufficient calcium and what dairy substitutes are available for the dairy foods and beverages they currently consume. Samples of some of the dairy alternatives that the Co-op carries.

Both events are free and open to the public.

Summer Camp Show Keeps On Growing

The Creative Kids Camp's budding thespians staged this summer's camp show, "Memory Quest in Central Park," at the Greenbelt Arts Center on Friday afternoon, July 2, delighting a full house of about 100 spectators. Still a work in progress, the play will "grow" over the course of the summer with performances every two weeks.

As Becky Sutfin wrote earlier in the Greenbelt News Review, the play features "several young cousins who explore the attractions of the famous park, hoping to recapture memories for their grandmother, who has grown frail and forgetful."

Greenbelt's own very talented recreational staffer Chris Cherry wrote the book, music and lyrics for the play. His effort is homage to Elizabeth Cherry, his 80-year-old grandmother, who is experiencing memory loss. A former radio commercial reader, she recorded the voiceover part of the grandmother herself.

Over the summer the Creative Kids will interview their grandparents and other seniors about their experiences and fond memories. Megan Searing Young and Sheila Maffay-Tuthill of the Greenbelt Museum will give interviewing tips to the campers and staff.

A Preview

“Greenbelt Voices” Opens On Arts Center’s Stage

by Eli Flam

Transitions Theater presents 20 true first-person stories of hometowners, aged 19 to 93, at Greenbelt Arts Center on the last two weekends in July. An emcee for “Greenbelt Voices – Vignettes about our Town” will cue the audience periodically to cry out, “Only in Greenbelt!”

In Rites of Passage, the first monologue of “Greenbelt Voices,” an actress begins: “When I was a little girl the library was a very important place for my sister and me . . .” Run by the city in the then Center School, it had “beautiful wood and (was) full of bookshelves . . . Rather than sit and read at the little tables where of course the grownups and librarians could see you . . . my sister and I liked . . . to go sit quietly among the stacks where it was dark, with just a little light peeking through from the window. Nobody could see us!”

Decades later, on a sweltering summer night, a young lifeguard at the Greenbelt Aquatics Center and a friend definitely didn’t want to be seen when they tried to sneak into the pool after dark.

“We snuck up to the fence,” says the actor, “stripped down to our underwear and climbed under . . . then heard a dispatch radio! Suddenly we were lit by high beams . . .”

The third monologue, Breaking Out, tells of growing up in the 60s and 70s in a large Catholic family. “We had our moments but it wasn’t very happy . . . We were very suburban, very conservative and very white . . . But that all changed because in our family we all ended up in public high schools . . . Oh, my Lord. Public school!!! I could wear whatever I wanted and there weren’t any nuns . . . And, I met people! The smartest kids in the county went to (Eleanor) Roosevelt. And they weren’t just white kids either but all the colors under the sun . . .”

The first performances of “Greenbelt Voices” are Friday, July 23 and Saturday, July 24 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, July 25 at 2 p.m., then Friday, July 30 at 8 p.m. and Saturday, July 31 at 2 p.m. Director Misha R’Kingsley and assistant director Amethyst Dwyer are joined by a cast of 20 and six-plus crew members.

said the county sometimes leases empty school buildings for other uses.

Full Service School

City Councilmember Leta Mach said she would like to see the historic building used in conjunction with the new school as a “full service community school.” Monies could be available for a public/private partnership, she said, that would provide space for health programs, student mentoring, parent education and other activities to keep the building occupied day and evening.

A discussion followed about the importance of having the school board “on board” with uses for the school. Coleman-Potter said that the school board meets in late June and then not until September, to be followed by elections in November with a new school board and new school districts.

Taylor, the architect, described a reverse timeline. Firm plans for the building should be completed one full year before reconstruction would begin. He said that plans should be in place by June 2011, allowing the architect a year to develop the design plans.

The group recognized the urgency of moving forward with community meetings. Seven elementary schools feed into Greenbelt Middle School: Magnolia, Hollywood, Springhill Lake, Greenbelt, Berwyn Heights and College Park. All these communities need to be involved.

David Whiteman, member of Greenbelt’s Advisory Committee on Education, said that a meeting had been held the previous night, including many incoming parents involved in organizing a PTA for the new school year. He felt that meant parents and community will definitely be involved in plans for the future.

The group also discussed heating systems, historic windows and other architectural issues with this conversion leading to the tour of the school. Those present hoped to get a feel for the various sections of the school, from the original 1937 building (to the left of the main entrance), a nearby 1945 addition, a gym addition in 1953, and large additions from the late 1950s through the 1960s.

City council members envisioned uses for many sections of the school. Some talked of starting to set up a task force to initiate plans for future use of the building with hopes it will help to unify the west section of Greenbelt with other parts of the city.

Sharon Porter Named New GMS Principal

The new principal for Greenbelt Middle School this fall will be Dr. Sharon H. Porter, currently the principal of Lamont Elementary School in New Carrollton. She belongs to Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

The Center for Wound Healing is the only medical facility in Prince George’s County offering HBO and one of five centers in the Washington metropolitan region with the treatment. HBO works by surrounding the patient with 100 percent oxygen at higher than normal atmospheric pressure to increase the amount of oxygen in the patient’s blood and promote healing from the inside out. In addition to tissue oxygenation, the Center also employs the use of vascular studies, tissue culturing and pathology, revascularization, skin grafting and clinical or surgical debridement.

The Center for Wound Healing at Doctors Community Hospital is located at 8118 Good Luck Road in Lanham. For more information call 240-965-3690 or visit www.dchweb.org.

Those parked heading east on Crescent inched past the Center and exited via Southway. This reporter hung around the lake for a while and then headed west via car onto Crescent and then Kenilworth. At Westchester Park, we made a U-turn and then turned onto Greenbelt Road and left into Greenbelt via Southway.

At least 30 minutes had passed since the final fireworks. Surprisingly long lines of traffic were still jamming Ridge Road and Crescent, trying to exit the city via Southway. However, everyone was patient, perhaps thinking it was a small price to pay for an excellent day.

WSSC RoundUp Bill Aid Program

Eighth Heat Death Is Reminder of Risks

The eighth death related to the past weeks' heat wave was announced by the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene on Wednesday, underscoring the dangers associated with very hot weather. None of these deaths were among the homeless.

All are reminded that extreme heat can be very dangerous. Heatstroke is a serious illness characterized by a body temperature greater than 105 degrees. Symptoms may include dry red skin, convulsions, disorientation, delirium and coma. Onset of heatstroke can be rapid: a person can go from feeling apparently well to a seriously ill condition within minutes.

Treatment of heatstroke involves the rapid lowering of body temperature, using a cool bath or wet towels. A heatstroke victim should be kept in a cool area; emergency medical care should be obtained by dialing 911.

Heat exhaustion is a milder form of heatstroke that may develop due to a combination of several days with high temperatures and dehydration in an individual. Signs of heat exhaustion include extreme weakness, muscle cramps, nausea or headache. Victims may also vomit or faint. Heat exhaustion is treated with plenty of liquids and rest in a cool, shaded area. Those on a low-sodium diet or with other health problems should contact a doctor.

On days of high heat: drink plenty of fluids such as water and fruit juices to prevent dehydration. Be aware that alcohol can impair the body's sweat mechanism, as can fairly common medications such as antihistamines and diuretics. Wear loose-fitting, lightweight and light-colored clothes. Avoid direct sunlight by staying in the shade or by wearing sunscreen, a hat and sunglasses and stay in air-conditioned areas when possible. Those whose home is not air-conditioned should consider visiting a shopping mall. Never leave pets or young children in a car, even with the windows open. Check on elderly relatives or neighbors at least daily and schedule physical activity during the morning or evening when it is cooler.

of coins), 7500 block Hanover Parkway (Toyota Rav4 spare tire cover), 6500 block Lake Park Drive (iPod speaker set), area of Gardenway (license plate), 9100 block Edmonston Road (tire).

Four instances of vandalism were reported: 9200 block Edmonston Road (a tire was punctured multiple times), 6200 block Springhill Drive (driver's side window was broken), 9100 block Springhill Court (passenger side window was broken), 7700 block Mandan Road (a back plastic window was cut out).

Apartment Carbon Monoxide Leak Sends Four to Hospital

by Thomas X. White

As reported by the Washington Post in its Friday, July 2 editions, carbon monoxide (CO), leaking from a damaged or possibly vandalized hot water heater in the basement of an Empirian Village apartment building on Breezewood Court in Greenbelt East, entered the living spaces and caused the evacuation of 11 occupants of the three-story building. The incident began about 3:30 Thursday afternoon when a CO detector in the building sounded a warning and alerted the occupants. A 911 call prompted a quick response from the Berwyn Heights Fire and Rescue Squad.

Arriving at the scene, firefighters found that levels of CO had reached 1,000 parts per million (PPM). According to the fire officials, any reading over 35 PPM is considered unhealthy.

Additional EMS resources were called to the scene and 11 occupants, including five children ranging in age from 3 months to 11 years old, were evacuated from the building, evaluated and treated on the scene. Three adults and one child were transported to the hospital for hyperbaric treatment. Firefighters then ventilated the building and it was re-occupied around 5:45 p.m.

Symptoms of mild acute CO poisoning include headaches, vertigo (dizziness) and flu-like effects. Greater exposures can lead to significant toxicity of the central nervous system, cardiac problems and even death. CO taken in by humans acts mainly to reduce the oxygen-carrying capacity of the blood and leads to hypoxia.

The usual treatment consists of administering 100 percent oxygen or providing hyperbaric oxygen therapy. The Prince George's County Fire Department reported that the three adults and one child are in good condition.

Following the incident, the Office of the Fire Marshal conducted an evaluation of 39 additional water heaters of the same style throughout the complex and found four not in good working order. The Fire Marshal then issued a corrective order to the Empirian Village management to assure that repairs are made and to come up with a better way to protect the units.

According to Mark Brady, the county's spokesperson for the fire/EMS department, the maintenance staff at Empirian Village accompanied the Fire Marshal on the inspection and were very cooperative.

Fire officials also believe that vandalism to the heater exhaust pipe may have caused it to separate from the water heater, allowing the CO to vent into the building, causing the CO exposure to the residents.

The News Review made attempts to reach Empirian Village management and was directed to Marty Books, a New York attorney. Calls to Books reached only his message machine and were not returned.

Indians Are 2010 City Champions

by Greg Fisanich

The 2010 Greenbelt Baseball season ended with city championship playoffs on July 2 as the Indians defeated the Tigers, two games to one. First, in the American League championship series the #1 Tigers beat the #2 Giants two games to one and in the National League the #1 Indians beat the #3 Cardinals two games to none.

Indians Win

The Indians, sponsored by Generous Joe's restaurant and managed by the writer, also won last year and have taken three of the last four championships. The Tigers, sponsored by Greenbelt Federal Credit Union, were managed by Steve Valentich.

Game #1 of the finals went to the Indians 16-3, behind pitchers Lexi Donovan, Bryan Kellahe and Ryland Heagy, who provided 10 of the team's 17 hits and scored 11 runs with added support from Charlie Fahey and Jared Tejada.

The Tigers won game #2 8-5, as their pitcher Quinn Valentich finished his career by striking out 16 of 18 batters and the defense snuffed out potential Indians rallies. Two key infield hits by Aidan Larkin led to a grand slam homer by Diego Argueta in the third inning and a two-run home run by Valentich in the fourth.

Game #3 went to the Indians 18-3. Their batters, led by Ryland Heagy with a solo home run and a grand slam, pounded Tiger pitching for 18 hits, including a base-clearing double by Kenny Reyes. After the game players and coaches lined up and shook hands showing customary sportsmanship.

Empirian Village A/Cs Fail During Heat Wave

On Wednesday problems with the air conditioning system in a number of buildings in the Empirian Village community left residents without cooling during the worst of the heat wave.

According to a police release late in the day, it appears the problems have been resolved. However, the City of Greenbelt is reminding residents who need to seek shelter from the heat that the city's recreational facilities are open until 10 p.m.

The closest facility for the residents of Empirian Village is the Springhill Lake Recreation Center located at 6101 Cherrywood Lane. Residents needing further information can contact the Springhill Lake Recreation Center at 301-397-2212.

Pets

In addition, residents concerned with the wellbeing of their pets can contact the city's Animal Control staff at 240-508-3343 for sheltering options.

The apartment project has had a number of difficulties with power failures since it converted to individual meter-ing of units. During the winter power failures forced the evacuation of some apartments for an extended period of time. In late June, city housing inspectors reported that re-inspection of code violations at a cooling plant for section six was prevented due to a power loss that resulted in no air conditioning in that section for two days. The city issued citations for non-abatement of code violations at that time subject to fines totaling $6,300.

Planting a Garden Leads to Happiness

For more than a decade, Dominique Browning, author of Slow Love, was known for her keen eye and heartfelt writing as editor-in-chief of House & Garden magazine. But in 2007, the magazine folded and she was told to pack up her office. She also packed up the house where she had raised two children and had lovingly cultivated her own garden. After losing the job that defined her and the garden that inspired her, Browning began a journey of self-discovery by cultivating a new garden and learned to love the unexpected. She will speak on Thursday, July 15 from 1 to 2 p.m. in the Conservatory Classroom at the U.S. Botanic Garden.

Pre-registration is required for this free class. Visit www.usbg.gov or call 202-225-1116.

Bus Route Changes On Council Agenda

by Thomas X. White

Following a two hour Greenbelt City Council work session on Wednesday, July 7 it was not entirely clear how council will address proposed changes to Greenbelt local bus routes that have been put forward by the Washington Area Metropolitan Transportation Authority (WMATA) and the Prince George's County Department of Public Works & Transportation (PG DPW&T). WMATA has a plan to restructure its routes through Greenbelt and DPW&T have a complementary plan to modify the routes for its "TheBus" routes serving Greenbelt.

At the worksession council heard reports from its planning department staff and recommendations by the City's Advisory Planning Board as well as comments from the Transit Riders United - Greenbelt (TRU-G) and other residents. The staff and APB reports give less than enthusiastic support for the changes but outline several conditions that, if accepted, may warrant qualified support for the changes as a "trial experiment." TRU-G and residents at the meeting continue to oppose the proposed changes and consider the changes being made for Greenbelt are not worth the likely disruption they would cause existing riders.

The item will be taken up at the July 12 council meeting, where staff will try to hone in on specific "tweaks" to the proposed plans that would help make the changes more palatable.

Hip Hop Poetry Choir At Bowie Arts Center

The final project of the 4th annual "Expressions: Talk Up, Not Down 2010" program will be held Friday, July 16 at 7 p.m. at the Bowie Arts Center for the Performing Arts on the campus of Bowie High School, 15200 Annapolis Road in Bowie.

The free performance features the work of 35 teens in the Expressions program. The participants spent six days working with professional poets, learning to use poetry as a tool for positive expressions. They come from across the county and are recommended by various county and city agencies and nonprofit organizations. Participants will present the poetry they created during the program.
