

City Residents Ask Away!

by Diane Oberg

Petitions were the order of the day at the February 13 council meeting, with eight petitions received. As is their usual practice, council took no action on these petitions but will consider them at future meetings, if council action is needed. (Council's response to a petition from Greenbelt Advocates for Environmental and Social Justice regarding a concept plan for the Lakeside North tract was reported in the February 16 issue.)

Reports of other issues and actions from this council meeting are reported separately.

Access to Metro

Greenbelt Station residents asked council to work with the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority (WMATA) and other authorities to develop and implement a viable, sustainable solution for providing them access to the Greenbelt Metro station. The petition noted that the developers have long been promising potential buyers that a walking/biking path was to connect the south core to the station. The petition says the main issue is that WMATA will not permit construction over an easement it owns until the location of the FBI headquarters building has been determined. Meanwhile, the developers are running a shuttle to the station. Residents are concerned that when the developers turn operation of the community over to the homeowners association, continuing to operate that shuttle will be cost-prohibitive.

Concert Band

The Greenbelt Concert Band petitioned council to waive the matching requirement for the funds it provides for the band's director. Council has imposed a new requirement that any group receiving operating funds from

Greenbelters' Radio Show Addresses Sight and Vision

by Matt Arbach

Greenbelters Reverend "Radio" Ray Raysor and his wife, Rene Sewell-Raysor know that getting older is accompanied by an increased risk of developing a disability. This can be a daunting and frightening prospect and one can often feel isolated and without support. Information on services, equipment and advice from those in the know is very often not readily on hand, yet is so vitally important. To alleviate this situation, they produce Sight 'n Vision and Senior Talk Radio. Their mission includes giving practical, detailed information concerning disability services and organizations and equipment, such as wheelchairs, canes, disabled-friendly vehicles, etc.; outreach and the creation of a system of support for those who feel isolated and alone; and exposure to significant legislation and program development for the disabled.

Even though their goal is to reach out to the entire spectrum of age and situation, "the target demographic is persons living with disabilities and seniors who may experience age-related limitations," according to their website, sightandvisionradio.com. Of frequent concentration are topics such as learning to read Braille or converting one's vehicle to accommodating a wheelchair. The radio programs often deal with the practical details and hands-on necessities that make navigating a new set of physical challenges possible. They emphasize the need for developing ease with the internet and email (often a special difficulty for seniors), these now being the main conduits for finding essential information and services.

Raysor himself is blind. Having lost his sight at 13 through a childhood incident, he learned to cope and persevere and ultimately spent 37 years as a food contractor for the Randolph-Sheppard program, which provides vending opportunities for the blind on public and private properties. He is a pastor at Saint Didymus Interdenominational Church in Bladensburg, which focuses on the disabled. He says "The biggest challenge of blindness is getting people to accept that most things that I set out to do I can do given the training, the

by Kathleen Gallagher

Q: What's about 80 pages long on 11" x 17" paper and still needs a magnifying glass to read most of it? A: The North Core Infrastructure Detailed Site Plan (DSP) for the Greenbelt Station "town center" and Metro garage.

The North Core DSP was the topic of a January 30 worksession, in which city council met with city planning staff and Garth Beall, development manager for Renard Development Company, LLC. Beall and his group will develop the site if Greenbelt is chosen to be the new home of the FBI.

The area primarily covers the existing Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority (WMATA) parking lot and road facilities. It is a mixed-use transit-oriented development comprising private retail, residential apartments and hotel and office uses, as well as the parking facility for Metro commuters. As an infrastructure DSP, the document at this phase includes the roadways, utilities and site layout but no buildings or detail on private development on the site. It also includes tree conservation, landscape and stormwater management plans.

The target for a decision by the General Services Administration (GSA) on which of the three competing sites (Greenbelt, Landover or Springfield) will be chosen for the FBI relocation has been pushed back a number of times. For a while, a final decision was expected to be announced in December of last year, but in October word came out that it would be delayed until March, placing it firmly within the bailiwick of the Trump administration.

According to Beall at the time of the meeting, GSA met with the bidders and was in the process of preparing for the final Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) to reflect the added traffic impacts that would result from the increase in parking requirements of last year. He said GSA wants to make an announcement in early March, and it should be expected that once that occurs, there will be a relatively short time to go to closing. The significance of the latter is that having an approved DSP is a requirement for going to closing.

Community Planner Jessica Bellah presented the staff review of the DSP. Director of Planning and Community Development Celia Craze and City Manager Nicole Ard were also present.

Bellah reported the city had been notified that the DSP was being submitted by Beall's group to the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission. A copy was also provided to the city, and review by the Advisory Planning Board (APB) and the Greenbelt Advisory Committee on Environmental Sustainability (Green ACES) was in process. Although it is expected that review by the State Highway Administration (SHA) and WMATA will result in changes to the plan, the city is reviewing it as if it were a final design.

The staff recommendation was for council to approve the plan with some conditions. The report describes the overall plan as "well-conceived and meets the needs of many competing

Council Discusses Crime, Police Staffing, Legislation

by Diane Oberg

The recent attempted and actual break-ins at Roosevelt Center along with concerns about other crime issues and police understaffing were discussed at the February 13 meeting of the City Council. In addition, two resolutions were introduced and council took positions on several pieces of state legislation.

Crime

The previous week, a vehicle had been driven into the Mini Mart at Roosevelt Center and the ATM stolen. Two unsuccessful attempts were also made to break into the Sunoco station on Centerway. (See story in February 16 issue.) In addition, there was a rash of driver's side air bag thefts in Greenbelt East.

Acting Chief Thomas Kemp

said that the air bag thefts appeared to be a one-time spike. They are easy to remove, he said, and disreputable auto shops can charge much more than they pay for the stolen bags. There are a variety of devices that drivers can purchase to prevent such thefts, he said.

In addition to the incidents above, officers were also dealing with a sexual assault in Franklin Park where, Kemp reported, police arrested a suspect within 35 hours.

The theft of ATMs is a region-wide issue, Kemp said. The department is reviewing camera footage and other information and is coordinating with other law

Letters to the Editor

THANKS!

Thank you to GHI members and Friends of the Woodlands Committee for helping to map, maintain and name trails in the largest GHI woodland parcel, from Plateau Place to Laurel Hill Road. Your ingenuity at re-routing a dangerously eroded portion of the Canyon Creek Trail is especially appreciated. These efforts are a major contribution toward meeting the requirements of the Forest Stewardship Plan agreed upon by the State of Maryland and Greenbelt Homes, Inc.

Another View

This is to address some points brought forward in a recent letter, 'Observations on Council Meeting', News Review 2/16/17.

First, to use 'fire-branded' language such as "lynched" and "scolded" is, to be sure, offensive. The community at large was just curious why council had not taken a position on the Lakeside North Development Concept. 'Nuff said.

To state that there was "no project" minimizes reality. Call it a concept, a proposal or a project-matters little.

The drawings were struck, aerial photos taken and survey stakes pounded. Something was going on!

The writer also doubts the sincerity of Greenbelt Advocates. They set up shop at many Greenbelt gatherings from last spring through this winter, answering questions and informing the public. They took out ads in this newspaper. Was every HOA in town canvassed? That, I cannot speak to. But I can say that the community has been, in large part, kept up-to-date by the hard work of Greenbelt Advocates and its supporters.

Mark Hanyok

THANKS

I would like to thank Brian and Donna Almquist, co-founders of Greenbelt Advocates for Environmental and Social Justice, for all the work they did reaching out to the community to organize an effective movement to stop the proposed Lakeside North development. On Monday night (Feb. 13th) they were instrumental in packing the city council chambers with concerned residents whose huge presence influenced council to oppose the high-rise development.

Brian and Donna spent over eight months on their campaign to stop the Lakeside North development. They wrote many letters and ads in the Greenbelt News Review and drafted the petition that ended up with over 600 signatures (to date). Greenbelt Advocates for Environmental and Social Justice reached out to all Greenbelt residents by holding five public events (two at the fire house, one at the library, one at the Labor Day Festival and one at Green Man Festival). They provided well researched factual information to residents and encouraged them to reach out to their representatives. Their petition was available at all of their events for those who wanted to sign. All events were free and well-advertised.

Thank you Brian and Donna for organizing and encouraging Greenbelt residents to make their voices heard. Thank you for providing a forum for our voices through your public events, letter writing initiatives and petition.

Greenbelters Step Up To Help Refugees

Thanks to all Greenbelters who responded to an earlier article in the Greenbelt News Review about the plight of refugees in our area. Donations totaling $500 were collected and matched by the Roosevelt Democratic Club for a total of $1,000 divided between Lutheran Social Services of the National Capital Area (LSS) and the International Rescue Committee (IRC). Despite the Trump Administration ban and the situation in the courts which has left new refugee arrivals in a sort of limbo, help is needed for refugees from Syria, Afghanistan and Somalia who are already in Maryland. All refugees, who are mostly families with children, have been vetted for a period of 18 to 24 months by five different government agencies and most have been waiting in refugee camps for much longer than that.

Help is needed with transportation to medical appointments, etc., when mass transit is inadequate, mentoring

The American Dream, Revisited

Coming to Old Greenbelt Theatre this Friday, February 24 is Fences, August Wilson's Pulitzer Prize winning play, now a movie starring Denzel Washington and Viola Davis. Washington and Davis give two nuanced, towering, fierce and tender performances as Troy Maxon and his wife Rose in 1950's working class Pittsburgh.

Black language – freeflowing, poetic, witty, brutal, raunchy – is vividly front and center, especially as spilled out by Denzel Washington.

Illiterate garbage collector Troy Maxon played baseball in the Negro Leagues but was too old to make the Majors after Jackie Robinson broke the color barrier. Complicated, bitter and jealous, Maxon blocks his son Cory's (Jovan Adepo) chance to win a college football scholarship.

Echoes of Willy Loman's failed American Dream (Arthur Miller's Death of a Salesman) and Eugene O'Neill's searing family "romances" haunt this exceptional drama. Its minute particulars give it universal resonance.

Director – Denzel Washington

Writer – August Wilson, based on his play

Running time: 138 minutes, Rating: PG 13

GCAN Hosts Talk On Transition Towns

On Wednesday, March 1, Greenbelt Climate Action Network (GCAN) will present An Evening on Transition Towns with Ruah Swennerfelt and Transition Howard County in the Greenbelt Community Center, Room 114 from 7 to 9 p.m.

Swennerfelt will speak about a movement called Transition Towns and her efforts to help that movement grow. The Transition Town Movement is about transitioning to a world that is less vulnerable to climate change and less dependent on fossil fuels. It invites people from all walks of life and political persuasions to come together to create vibrant, resilient communities.

The talk will resonate with anyone searching for ways to engage meaningfully in life-affirming grassroots work, and who needs a reason for hope.

Swennerfelt is an activist, homesteader, blogger and author of the book, Rising to the Challenge: The Transition Movement and People of Faith. She currently serves on the boards of Vermont Interfaith Power & Light and Transition Town Charlotte, Vermont. She is active with Transition U.S. and is helping to plan the first Transition U.S. national conference in July 2017.

Transition Howard County is the only active Transition Town in Maryland. Members will share examples of their current work groups and activities, including how they partner with numerous local organizations on sustainability efforts on everything from water and food to energy and economy.

As always, the last portion of the evening is reserved for announcements and updates on local and national issues GCAN is following. For more information, contact Lore Rosenthal, lore@simplicity-matters.org or 301-345-2234.

Consider the predicament of someone who has been successful and independent all their life, who out of nowhere is struck down with something like blindness, infirmity or mental illness. Where does one turn? How can they work as they once did? How does one manage to pay bills with a sudden decrease in financial resources? One can quickly feel alone and forsaken, taken drastically from the normal course of life. Many of the Raysors' listeners share this experience and have become regular fixtures on their show, offering their stories, encouragement and wisdom. One listener in particular received his first-ever helping hand from hearing the radio show while living in Colorado. He now often calls in.

Disability affects not just the disabled, but of equal importance, the caregiver. The stress of providing assistance to a loved one demands time, patience and resources. One can often feel underappreciated and put-upon. The couple devotes many of their shows to this important issue.

The Raysors' first radio show was done out of Silver Spring and began in September, 2012. Currently, their radio show is broadcast out of Baltimore, while two internet-radio shows are produced from their home in Franklin Park. Raysor is the brainchild, says Sewell-Raysor, as well as the main producer and interviewer. Sewell-Raysor assumes the duties of studio manager and guest researcher, in addition to some of the interviewing.

Raysor asserts the three-part mantra of every program: “informative, inspirational and entertaining.” A typical program often begins with what he calls “the good, the bad and the ugly,” a 15-minute, often humorous, run down of current developments in the world of the disabled. A regular segment as well are the adventures of Raysor and his seeing eye German shepherd, Ray-Tiko, as they navigate the travails of life. Both Raysors emphasize the fun aspect of their show, despite its serious subject matter.

Broadcasts frequently feature experts on various organizations such as the Social Security Administration and the Department of Rehabilitation Services. These organizations can be intimidating and confusing at first, and often require a professional to help navigate their procedures when the inevitable snags occur. Other organizations often featured are the D.C. Center for Independent Living, American Council for the Blind, the National Foundation for the Blind, Oneness Mobility and the D.C. Public Library, which offers programs for the blind.

Both Raysor and his wife stressed that of particular importance for them is not only offering help to the disabled, but for the disabled to then become advocates for others with similar issues. It is their call to action, a regular part of every program. Says Raysor, “I challenge persons with disabilities to get involved in their community to raise the visibility and capabilities of persons with disabilities.”

The Sight 'n Vision and Senior Talk Radio shows can be heard on Tuesdays from 7 to 8 p.m. on harambee.radio.com, Fridays at 3 p.m. on blogtalk at radio.com/marketingpulpit, and every second and fourth Saturday at 8:30 to 9 a.m. on Praise 106.1. More information can be found at baltimorepraise.com.

National Gallery Hosts The Heart of a Woman

Carmen Balthrop, soprano, and José Cáceres, piano, will give a performance entitled The Heart of a Woman on Wednesday, March 1 at 12:10 p.m. in the West Building, West Garden Court of the National Gallery of Art.

The spirit of America has always been revealed through song. Be it religious, blues, comic or deeply plaintive, American music's composers have always known how to write it down. In The Heart of a Woman, journey straight to the heart of America through the music of some of its greatest composers: Camille Nickerson, David DiChiera, Samuel Barber, Leslie Adams, Charles Davidson and Lee Hoiby.

Condolences to family and friends of Ronald Fluke, who died on February 5, 2017. He was preceded in death in January by his wife, Donna Fluke. The Flukes were long-time residents of Boxwood Village.

Congratulations to William (Billy) Rosenberg, who was awarded a 2016 Commissioners' Engineering Scholarship worth $1,000. Rosenberg, an honor graduate of Eleanor Roosevelt High School, is a freshman at the A. James Clark School of Engineering at the University of Maryland College Park, specializing in mechanical engineering.

Congratulations to Edward Jahoda who won the grand prize in the science fair at Eleanor Roosevelt High School. His experiments related to Benford's Law in mathematics. Benford's Law, for readers not mathematically fully informed, states that in many naturally occurring collections of numbers, the leading significant digit is likely to be small.

Delegate Washington Urges Action on Immigration Issues

by Nancy Solomon

State Delegate Alonzo Washington filled the New Deal Café's back room as he held a Table Talk about immigration issues on February 18. In addition to many citizens, the audience included Mayor Emmett Jordan, Councilmember Judith Davis and County Councilmember Todd Turner.

Washington specifically asked folks to come to Annapolis to support proposed Maryland Enforcement and Governmental Trust Act (SB0835 in the Senate and HB1362 in the House) on February 21 for the Senate public hearing and on February 28 for the House public hearing. Hearings are at 1 p.m. Washington suggested getting there at 11 a.m. to sign up to speak.

He provided this synopsis of legislation: “Prohibiting a specified government agent from taking specified actions for immigration enforcement purposes; prohibiting a law enforcement official from stopping, arresting, searching or detaining an individual for purposes of investigating a suspected immigration violation or inquiring about specified matters; requiring the Attorney General, in consultation with stakeholders, to develop and adopt model policies for a specified purpose; etc.”

In addition, many nonprofit groups were represented including International Rescue Committee, CASA, Maryland Multicultural Youth Centers and Liberty's Promise. These representatives explained what “hands on” needs they had in terms of volunteers, etc., to help new refugees and existing immigrants in this area. One speaker spoke about President Trump's executive orders on immigration issues (particularly Travel Ban & Priorities Memo).

SAGE Students, Instructors Return for More Classes

by Julie Depenbrock

The students – aged 60 and older – gathered in classrooms in the Community Center last week for another trimester of Seasoned Adults Growing Educationally, better known as SAGE. Some were drawing, others meditating, speaking Spanish or learning about Broadway musicals. “I started working for the city in 1988 and they had two SAGE classes. We now have over 30,” said Karen Haseley, therapeutic recreation supervisor for the City of Greenbelt.

SAGE courses typically have 13 to 15 class days over seven weeks, Haseley said. For a fee of $75 per trimester to Prince George’s Community College, students can take as many classes as they want. The city receives no monetary compensation.

One SAGE instructor, Susan Crane, has been an art teacher for 30 years. She started teaching SAGE courses about a decade ago, stepping in for a friend diagnosed with breast cancer. The friend got better – and Crane stuck with SAGE.

Crane, who has a paint studio, initially worried that the busy teaching schedule – private lessons as well as group courses at Riderwood and Greenbelt – might interfere with her own art. Turns out, it had the opposite effect. Crane said, “I’m more tired, but it hasn’t crippled my creativity. If anything, it’s expanded what I know of art.” In her class, Crane sees a lot of returning students, a theme common among SAGE teachers.

Kathy Perkinson is in Crane’s Tuesday drawing class, which has a mix of beginner, intermediate and advanced artists. Perkinson used to sketch a lot in her twenties. “I’m in my sixties now,” she said. “I’m returning to it.”

Among the most popular SAGE classes are yoga and meditation. One trimester, Haseley taught a yoga class with more than 40 students. “That was a challenge,” she said. A typical class has between 12 and 15 students.

Katrina Boverman started teaching SAGE meditation courses in 2011. She was a social worker for several decades before she turned to meditation and earned a masters in applied healing art. “The purpose of my class is to have a chance to be quiet, go still and go within,” Boverman said. She too has a core group that has been coming back to her classes for years. Boverman said that teaching her SAGE students has helped her find peace. “Just getting prepared for the class helps me to become more peaceful, more centered and more focused.”

Registration for SAGE courses is closed for the spring trimester. A more limited number of courses will be offered in the summer, Haseley said, due to the camps and recreation activities that take over in the warmer months.

Legion Auxiliary Member Honored by Maryland Vets

by Butch Hicks

Over the years the Greenbelt American Legion’s Auxiliary Unit has participated in numerous local community fundraising events and assisted communities conducting clothing and food drives for needy families. In addition to community charity activities, a core support element of the Auxiliary unit is veterans programs such as the Maryland Center for Veterans Education and Training (MCVET), located in Baltimore.

Sandi Dutton, a long-time member of the Greenbelt Auxiliary and past national Auxiliary president, was recently recognized by MCVET in a 21 Gun Salute. The award recognizes her service to the 21-year-old program that, through counseling, training and education, helps homeless and other men and women veterans rejoin their communities as productive citizens.

The facility’s executive director, Jeff Kendrick, said, “Sandi’s leadership as president of MCVET’s board of directors enhanced program operations and, through collaboration with Maryland and national veterans organizations, bolstered MCVET’s national reputation for service to homeless veterans.” According to MCVET’s statistics, the center daily serves more than 200 veterans from around the United States.

“The MCVET program is essentially an opportunity for character transformation,” Dutton said. “MCVET gives them an opportunity to improve their education, work and social skills. When they graduate they have the tools they need to continue the process of becoming productive members of their communities. I look forward to continuing my participation in the MCVET program that is accomplishing so much assisting our veterans.”

Butch Hicks is the public affairs coordinator for Post 136.

Volksmarchers Walk Greenbelt

On Saturday, March 18 the Great Greenbelt Volksmarchers, in celebration of their 30th and Greenbelt's 80th anniversary, will hold Walk Greenbelt as Designed 80 Years Ago and Greenbelt Now. There will be options for 5K and 10K walks, difficulty level rated 2B.

The walks will begin in front of the Youth Center. Walkers must start between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. and finish by 4 p.m. Two loops, each 5K, will feature Old Greenbelt and its garden paths or newer areas with their garden paths and the lake. Both trails are on sidewalks with natural surfaces with small hills, presenting some difficulty for strollers and wheelchairs.

The walks are free; there are fees for new walker packets, International Volksmarch credit and event books.

For more information, call Yvonne Pennington at 301-431-6668, GreenbeltMVA@gmail.com, or visit ava.org or mdvolks.org.

Stuff a Bus Collects Food for the Homeless

Prince George's County Public Schools (PGCPS) is showing love in February to the Capital Area Food Bank and students served through the system's Homeless Education Office as part of its Giving Together community service initiative.

On Saturday, February 25, PGCPS will host a Stuff-a-Bus event to collect nonperishable food items and school supplies at Wegmans Woodmore, 9001 McHugh Drive, Lanham, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Requested donations include canned fruits, vegetables, meat, whole grains, dried beans, cereal, peanut butter, juice, granola bars and raisins.

School supplies (composition books, three-ring binders, dividers, notebook paper, crayons, pens and pencils) are also being collected.

Giving Together, launched late last year, engages students, staff and school communities in coordinated monthly service activities such as donation drives and fundraisers. The campaign also aims to raise awareness of social issues and health concerns. The February awareness campaign has focused on preventing heart disease and stroke in collaboration with the American Heart Association.

With assistance from local nonprofits, businesses and organizations, Giving Together mobilizes more than 200 schools and centers, over 131,000 students and approximately 19,000 employees to support individuals and groups in need throughout Prince George's County.

Measles Reach Epidemic Point in Greenbelt

With 85 cases of measles reported up to Wednesday night Greenbelt finds itself faced with the worst epidemic in its history. Dr. William Eisner, acting director of public health for the town, took action early in the week to check the spread of the highly contagious disease by requesting all children who have not yet had the American measles to be kept home from school and isolated for 17 days, the length of time for exposure to result in appearance of symptoms.

Dr. Eisner indicated that the number of cases was still on the increase, and that cases in increasing severity were appearing as the disease passed from one carrier to another. He commented on the large number of cases appearing along the entire Eastern Coast, and stressed the necessity of prompt reporting of new cases and of strict quarantine in order to prevent possible deaths either from measles or from pneumonia and other complications which often follow.

Symptoms Described

In the early stages of measles symptoms are similar to those of the common cold – running nose, sore throat and a cough, running eyes and a fever. The rash appears later. It is during the early stage that measles are most contagious and Dr. Eisner reported that many children with apparent colds have been allowed to play with others or go to school. This he claimed, was responsible for most the present local cases.

Although three to five new cases are appearing daily, Dr. Eisner was firm in stating that the spread of measles here can be eliminated in 17 days if parents will see that their children not only stay home from school, but remain isolated from others for that length of time.

Serum Available

"There is a serum available for use against measles," Dr. Eisner told the Cooperator. "Children who have been exposed to a case of measles should receive serum within two to four days after the rash in the case of measles to which they have been exposed. The result will be a very mild attack of the disease free from complications for these protected children," he said. All physicians have this serum available.

"There is a way to prevent an attack of measles for children who are delicate or who are under two years of age," Dr. Eisner added. "This serum confers immunity for only three or four weeks, however." Those residents unable to afford the cost of serum are invited with him to discuss the use of parent blood for immunization.

In addition to measles, cases of chickenpox are also beginning to appear.

Police Blotter

Based on information released by the Greenbelt Police Department, www.greenbeltmd.gov/police

Dates and times are those when police were first contacted about incidents.

Assault

February 11, 12:11 p.m., 6000 block Greenbelt Road. A worker at Subway sandwich shop said a man made a purchase, then attempted to leave the store without paying for additional merchandise he took from the rack. When confronted by the shop worker, the man became disorderly, threw a child's toy at the shop worker that struck him in the head before leaving. The worker was not injured. The suspect is described as black, 28 to 35 years of age, 6' to 6'2" tall, 160 pounds, wearing a grey sweatshirt, a black jacket and blue jeans.

Robbery

February 14, 5:32 p.m., 6000 block Cherrywood Court. A man said that he was walking to his vehicle when he was assaulted from behind by as many as four people. The men punched and kicked the man several times, took his cell phone and then fled. The man refused treatment for minor injuries.

Vandalism

February 10, 12:06 a.m., 11 Crescent Road. Three young men entered the Greenbelt Library, entered a vacant room, discharged a fire extinguisher and then fled. They are described as black, 12 to 16 years of age; one male was wearing an orange hooded sweatshirt with Denver Broncos on the front and orange sneakers, another was wearing a red T-shirt, blue jeans and red sneakers and one black female was wearing a black coat with fur on the hood, army fatigue leggings and tan boots.

February 10, 7:00 p.m., 100 block Westway. Someone threw eggs at the balcony door of a residence.

February 12, 2:34 a.m., 44 Court Crescent Road. A 43-year-old Greenbelt resident was arrested and charged with malicious destruction after he was observed by an officer vandalizing stop signs with spray paint. He was released on citation pending trial.

Burglary

February 11, 7:30 p.m., 5800 block Cherrywood Lane. A residence was entered by forcing open the front door and then through a locked bedroom door.

Trespass

February 13, 8:36 a.m., 5800 block Cherrywood Lane. A 27-year-old nonresident man was arrested and charged with trespass by officers responding to a report of someone sleeping in a hallway. The man was released on citation pending trial.

DWI/DUI

February 10, 1:22 a.m., 7500 block Mandan Road. A 29-year-old Greenbelt resident was arrested and charged with driving while impaired by alcohol and other traffic-related charges as a result of officers investigating a traffic accident. The man was released on citations pending trial.

Theft

February 11, 7:00 p.m., 100 block Centerway. Money was taken from an unattended book bag at the Aquatic & Fitness Center.

February 10, 8:00 p.m., 7700 block Hanover Parkway. A parcel package was removed from the front stoop of a residence.

February 10, 11:59 p.m., 7700 block Hanover Parkway. An unattended, unsecured blue Manga brand BMX boy's bicycle was taken from the courtyard area.

February 13, 8:30 p.m., 7400 block Greenbelt Road. Clothing and a wallet were taken from a locker at LA Fitness.

February 14, 12:50 a.m., 7600 block Greenbelt Road. Three non-resident men were arrested and charged with two counts of theft and two counts of conspiracy to commit theft. A pharmacist at a CVS said that two men entered the store and approached the counter, while the other two drove up to the drive-through window and began speaking with the pharmacist. The two men in the store then jumped the counter and took a quantity of pharmaceutical medicine and exited the store, got into the vehicle with the other two men and fled. A Prince George's County police officer observed the vehicle and followed them onto the Baltimore-Washington Parkway, joined by Greenbelt officers. The vehicle was stopped in the area of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway and Landover Road; the men were arrested and transported to the Department of Corrections for a hearing before a district court commissioner.

Vehicle Crimes

February 12, 9000 block Breezewood Terrace. The registration month sticker was taken from a license plate on a vehicle.

February 12, 6000 block Springhill Drive. A 2015 Toyota Camry was stolen and recovered the same day by the Prince George's County police department in the 100 block of Daimler Drive, Capitol Heights. There were no arrests.

February 12, 7800 block Mandan Road. A vehicle's driver's window was broken and microfiber towels were taken.

February 14, 7100 block Mathew Street. A vehicle's driver's window was broken but nothing was taken.

interests in a project site with severe space constraints." Bellah added that Green ACES will raise some concerns about stormwater management, the APB is placing its emphasis on the bike infrastructure.

Bellah presented a slide show demonstrating the mindboggling confluence of state, city and private roadways, as well as pedestrian walkways and bicycle paths that will have to live together as peaceful neighbors in the ultimate plan. She also described the eight-story parking deck that will have to be one of the very first construction projects so Metro can continue to run when its existing parking lot becomes unavailable.

Councilmember Edward Putens emphasized the need for exceptionally good signage to be developed that would give people adequate warning of when they need to change lanes or make turns. Bellah agreed and also described the physical barriers that in some areas would separate pedestrians, bicycles and cars.

One item Mayor Emmett Jordan and Councilmember Judith Davis pressed was the importance of maintaining the walkway that comes through to the station from North College Park, not only for access to the Metro Station but also to any available businesses. Davis asked if there could be an enclosed area for bicycle parking, similar to the one at the College Park Metro Station. Bellah confirmed that was the intention and that it would be located quite close to the Metro.

Although this plan was not one that included architectural or aesthetic detail, councilmembers asked about possibilities for art or decoration both inside the station and outside the parking deck. Beall said his group had made a number of suggestions of that type but so far they were finding it difficult to deal with WMATA on anything that might be thought of as creative or pricey. He assured council they would continue to be aware of this issue since they too believe it to be important to the quality of the development.

Regarding the stormwater management issues, there is a concept plan that is still in force but predates any plan for the FBI building. Although the county will not require it, the city believes it should be revised. Beall said they have proceeded all along with the idea of meeting upgraded stormwater management requirements.

"We are committed to exceeding the legal requirements," he said, adding that they will give the city the right to approve those plans.

Toward the end of the meeting, Patricia Walters, a resident of the South Core of Greenbelt Station, asked about the extension of Greenbelt Station Parkway into the North Core. Craze told her that it depends on the FBI moving in. Beall added that the funding would be from the SHA. There was a moment of silence while everyone pondered the things that would not happen if the FBI does not move in. Beall explained that WMATA has no plans to transfer the land or make any changes in the absence of the FBI relocation and his group has no commitment or ability to do any other project there.

In the meantime, plans will continue to be developed and reviewed – but with a lot of fingers crossed.

Councilmember Judith Davis reported that there has also been a spike in car break-ins to steal handicapped parking placards and puncture vehicle gas tanks. Kemp had no further information other than that the police were working on the gas tank issue, which he deemed "strange."

Staffing

Kemp also addressed the concerns about police staffing raised by Councilmember Rodney Roberts as well as on social media. Of the 53 authorized sworn officer positions, six are currently vacant and six officers are on light duty or leave due to injury or maternity leave.

The department has initiated several changes in procedure to help speed the hiring of new officers, Kemp said. They are now advertising and recruiting experienced officers separately from new officers. This allows the department to fast-track the hiring of experienced officers who can be put on the street sooner. The department has also re-hired some retired officers to perform the necessary background checks on applicants and implemented a $250 incentive program for referral of a successful officer candidate.

Legislation

Council introduced for first reading resolutions to authorize the negotiated purchase of consultant work to develop a recreation and park facilities master plan from GreenPlay LLC at a cost not to exceed $50,000 and to authorize the negotiated purchase of landscaping services from Lorenz, Inc. at a cost not to exceed $47,984.

State Legislation

In a series of unanimous votes, council indicated its support for five bills under consideration by the state legislature. These bills would prohibit parking a non-electric vehicle in a designated electric vehicle charging space, establish a task force to make recommendations regarding bicycle safety on state highways, prohibit housing discrimination based on source of income (such as Section 8 housing vouchers), forgive income tax overpayments made to counties and municipalities by the state and limit the routine use of antibiotics for animals on large farms.

Genealogical Society Meets March 1

The Prince George's County Genealogical Society (PGCGS) will meet at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, March 1 at the New Carrollton Municipal Center, 6016 Princess Garden Parkway.

This month, professional genealogist Chuck Mason will discuss Research in Washington, D.C.: Using Lesser Known Research Facilities. This promises to be very helpful information for anyone researching family records in the metropolitan area.

For more information, visit pgcgs.org or call the PGCGS library at 301-262-2063 or like the society on Facebook at facebook.com/pgcgsociety.

the city must match that donation from its own funds. The band requests that the matching requirement be waived for the $3,600 provided to pay the director and retain the $1,000 received for other expenses.

The Arts Advisory Board has reviewed the band's request and recommends that it be considered during the budget process. Councilmember Leta Mach asked City Manager Nicole Ard to look into whether the band director should be paid as a contract employee of the city as is already the practice for swim coaches.

Trees

Council received letters from students at Springhill Lake Elementary asking for trees that they can plant at the school. Ard reported that the Public Works Department is already working on this request.

Bob Snyder asked that the Advisory Committee on Trees be expanded to include more than three citizen members. It is not right, he said, to limit citizen input to just three residents.

Smoking

Green Ridge House residents requested that council retain their smoking area. In their January 12 petition, they said that there is now a suggestion that the smoking area be eliminated effective

February 1, 2017. Residents argued that it would be unsafe to force senior and disabled citizens to go across Ridge Road to smoke, particularly after dark or in bad weather, and that the existence of smoking areas was a factor in some residents choosing to move to Green Ridge House.

Other Petitions

Colin Byrd called on council to be open with citizens about the parties and issues involved in the potential litigation that was the subject of a recent executive session. Bill Orleans also requested information regarding who was potentially suing or being sued by the city.

Byrd noted that the test results he received in response to his earlier petition regarding water quality were from 2014 and performed by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission. He called upon council to have more frequent, independent testing of water in the city.

Michael Hartman asked council whether it supported legislation establishing Maryland as a Sanctuary State. Council has not yet reviewed the legislation. On a related issue, Bernard Brown asked what the city can do to protect its residents from U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement raids.

Congressmen Steny Hoyer and Anthony Brown, who together represent all of Prince George's County, held a joint town meeting on February 21. Held in the Diyanet Center of America, the teaching mosque on Good Luck Road in Lanham, the auditorium held over 200 people, including at least 10 Greenbelters.

Hoyer and Brown pledged resistance to the hateful speech and actions in our country since the election of President Trump. Hoyer named several recent executive orders that threaten Hispanic and Muslim communities, adding these actions are a threat to everyone. "Discrimination against one is discrimination against all of us."

Campaign to Stop the Lakeside North Development

Please Attend the "Listening Session" with Todd Turner

Tuesday February 28, 2017, 7:00 PM to 9:00 PM

Municipal Building (Council Room) at 25 Crescent Road

Todd Turner represents the City of Greenbelt on the Prince Georges County Council. The City of Greenbelt is one of the municipalities included in District 4. The "Listening Session" will provide an update on District 4 priorities and achievements, and a discussion of issues that are important to us and our community.

On February 11 the Greenbelt City Council (City Council), in response to our request, agreed to send a letter to David Hillman, president of Southern Management and owner of Lakeside North Apartments, expressing the City Council's serious opposition to the proposed Lakeside North Development and any changes to the zoning of the land that would allow for its development. Our request also asked our City Council to write to Todd Turner.

It is unlikely that the Prince George's County Council would go against our City Council's serious opposition. But it is important that we now hear our City Council express their opposition to Todd Turner.
