

College Park Rotary Contributes To Scout Site Structure

W. F. Mulligan of Berwyn, Maryland, chairman of the Prince Georges County district committee of the Boy Scouts of America, has announced that the Rotary Club of College Park has become interested in the erection of an administration building on the county Boy Scout camp site south of Greenbelt. The Club has donated $500 toward the purchase of lumber and other materials to go into the construction of the building. In making this structure possible, the Rotary Club is due heartfelt thanks, as the completed building will fill a long felt need of the scouts.

Mr. Mulligan last fall signed a contract with the Federal Government for a 14-year lease on the 50 acre tract of land to be occupied by the scouts, but it wasn't until January 6, 1941, that the College Park Rotary Club made it possible for an administrative building to be erected on the site.

This building, the plans for which were furnished by Paul H. Kea, Hyattsville architect, when completed will be 30 feet wide by 60 feet long with a fireplace at either end, and will be constructed of rough lumber covered with bark-covered slabs to give a rustic appearance. Frank S. Taylor of Mt. Rainier, Maryland, County Scout Commissioner, is to supervise construction of the building, whereas the actual work of construction will be under scout commissioners. The building committee that has charge of the whole plan is to be headed by Mr. Mulligan. The actual labor will be mostly volunteer, many scout executives and interested people have already donated their services "gratis", thus making labor expense a small item.

P.-T. A. Begins National Broadcast Program

The "Citizens All" thirteen week broadcast is on the air each Monday over N.B.C. Red Network, at 6:00 --6:15 P.M. Eastern Standard Time. Speakers of recognized authority in the field of education and social welfare will participate in each forum along with National officers and chairmen in the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The topics for discussion will be:--

January 6, "Youth in a confused world." January 13, "Is youth prepared for family life?" January 20, "There are no outsiders in education." January 27, "New Frontiers for community life." February 3, "Growing in spiritual stature." February 10, "Before the 3 R's." February 17, "What is the Brother-hood of man?" February 24, "A 24 hour community." March 3, "Youth needs opportunity now." March 10, "The things men live for." March 17, "Is this a land of plenty?" March 24, "Safety: For what and from what?" March 31, "We, the Government!"

The parent education committee of the Greenbelt P.T.A. invites attendance at the January 27, meeting of the P.T.A. which will be in the form of a listening in group of parents, discussing the problems and advantages of discipline.

Accounting Course Projected By Students For Next Term

The intermediate course in accounting, one of the Greenbelt adult education courses taught last semester, will be continued during the second semester if the enrollment is sufficiently large, it has been announced by class members. Corporation, partnership and branch-office accounting, as well as elementary cost accounting, are some of the second semester subjects.

The second semester will begin about February 4. The course will be continued only if a sufficient number indicate their interest by contacting Mrs. Kinzer's office during the next two weeks. They may pay the enrollment fee of $1.00 at the first meeting of the new class.

Co-Op Board Sets Date For Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the members of Greenbelt Consumer Services, Inc., has been set for Wednesday, February 5, by the Board of Directors. There will be a considerable amount of business to be taken up at that time, including the election of members and the determination by the members of the amount of the patronage return on 1940 sales. George Hodsdon, manager of the Co-op, has announced that sales last year amount to $375,000, and that the net saving on those sales is expected to be in excess of $10,000.

Plans are being made to provide the members with an instructive and entertaining evening. President Bob Volckhausen is endeavoring to obtain either Rexford G. Tugwell or Murry Lincoln as a speaker, and recreation and refreshments will be the order of business after adjournment of the business meeting.

G.C.S. Board Holds Formal Opening Of Variety Store

With the opening of the variety store last Friday, Greenbelt Consumer Services fulfilled the original plans as outlined by CDC and Farm Security when planning the Commercial enterprises for Greenbelt.

Between 500 and 600 people visited the store opening night, and the two hundred roses provided for the ladies lasted barely an hour and a half. Members of the board acted as hosts and hostess.

The new store is spacious, very well planned, is probably the handsomest of all the enterprises...The cost of the fixtures is approximately $2200. At the present time the stock consists mostly of merchandise that has been removed from the drug store. However, the management advises that additional merchandise is on order and when completely equipped the new variety store will have added $1500 worth of merchandise to its stock. The merchandise will be similar to the type carried in National Chain, 5¢ to $1.00 stores. There will be some merchandise that will of course, be over a $1.00 particularly in the aluminum ware and the infants gifts.

Mr. Rogers, the manager, promises expansion in the infants wear and hopes to develop a line of dry goods that will come up to government specifications in thread count, color fastness and so on.

Store hours for the present time will be: 8:30 to 6 daily; 8:30 to 9 on Saturday; and 8:30 to 7 on pay days.

The transfer from the drug store to the new store created two more full time jobs making a full time staff of 5. The staff besides Mr. Rogers are: Mrs. Elsie Steinle, Mrs. Jeanette Mielke, Mrs. Bessie Harris, Miss Ivalea Orndoff, and Miss Dorothy Lowe.

Greenbelt Credit Union Holds Annual Meeting

Members of the Greenbelt Federal Credit Union will hold their annual meeting in the school auditorium at 8 P.M. Thursday, January 23, it was announced by Fred Wilde, President of the Credit Union. Due to the large attendance expected it was necessary to have the Athletic Association postpone the regular Thursday night Block League Basketball games so that the auditorium may be used that evening.

All Credit Union members having at least one paid-up share are entitled to attend the meeting. Admittance cards were mailed to those members earlier this week.

Members will take special interest in the annual reports treating the success of the new office system, the delinquent loan situation, and the financial progress made during the past year.

Elections will take place to fill vacancies in the board of directors, the credit committee and the supervisory committee. Harold Keyes, chairman of the Nominating Committee, said that great interest is being shown regarding the elections and anyone who desires to make a nomination should get in touch with him immediately.

The meeting will mark the climax of one of the most prosperous years of the local credit union. Shareholdings and memberships have increased greatly. One of the features of the meeting will be the vote by the members on the rate of dividends to be paid.

Immediately following the business meeting, Prater's five-piece ladies orchestra of Washington will furnish music for dancing.

If anyone has not received his card, he should call at the Credit Union office over the drug store.

Warner Selected Chairman Of Birthday Ball

Mayor George Warner's selection as chairman of the President's Birthday Ball Committee for Greenbelt was announced yesterday. This year's charity dance for the control of infantile paralysis will be given under the sponsorship of the Greenbelt Citizens Association.

That plans for the annual ball are well under way was revealed by the news that invitations have already been sent out to the major Greenbelt organizations and church groups asking their support and requesting that representatives be sent to form an all-Greenbelt committee for the coming event. This group will meet tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Town Council chamber. At this meeting there will be a decision on the date for the local President's Birthday Ball as well as on other arrangements.

Tonight Mayor Warner is attending the Prince Georges County committee meeting at Upper Marlboro, to get advice for the Greenbelt meeting Friday night.

One-fifth of the world's land is desert.

New Committee Chairmen Appointed For G.C.A.

Committee appointments were completed this week by A. Chasanow, new president of the Greenbelt Citizens Association, and were released for publication. The new appointments were endorsed by the executive committee of the organization.

Chairmen of the six standing committees of the Association for the remainder of the 1941 term are: John E. Beebe, Jr., legislative and town administration committee; Sherrod E. East, educational committee; James Smith, ways and means; Mrs. Samuel R. Berenberg, public relations; Mrs. Linden S. Dodson, social welfare; and Joseph E. Bargas, membership.

Although the chairmen of the standing committees appoint their own members numerous suggestions were offered at the Monday night executive committee meeting for the committee membership. The Cooperator has been asked to announce that persons interested in community service can volunteer for work on any of these standing committees by applying to the chairmen.

The appointment of Donald H. Cooper as chairman of the special Boy Scout committee was reaffirmed by Mr. Chasanow. Still to be appointed are delegates to the County Federation of Citizens Associations, and delegates to the Joint Committee on Transportation.

Besides President Chasanow, Association officers are George Bauer, vice president; Bernard Jones, treasurer; Mrs. Effie Lee, recording secretary; and Joseph Compton, corresponding secretary.

F. S. A. Submits Lease For Homeowners Co-Op

A lease has been received from Farm Security Administration by the Greenbelt Homeowners Cooperative. Members of the board of directors have already met with officials of FSA and, are now engaged in the final phases. Securing the draft of a lease marked the entry into a second phase for the cooperative which is planning to build homes on a tract of land near Parkbelt. The Homeowners' Cooperative has forty five members of whom over half are residents of Greenbelt.

The cooperative advises that their architects have made three master plans available, but that the individual needs of each home-builder are being incorporated in the plans to cover his home.

The annual meeting of the Homeowners Cooperative to elect members of the board of directors will be held during the second week of February according to an announcement by Dayton W. Hull, president of the board.

Army Air Corps Constructs Airport Near Greenbelt

The United States has recently authorized the construction of an emergency airport on government property about one and a half miles east of Greenbelt; $125,000 has been set aside for this construction project. This is part of a plan to develop a circle of such airports around the District of Columbia, and under the Army Air Corps program for complete defense of the National Capital.

At some future date the airport will be occupied by a pursuit squadron of the Army Air Corps.

ADULT EDUCATION PROGRAM

The plans for the Adult Education Program for the spring of 1941 are now completed. The classes in commercial work, industrial arts and dress-making will be continued as offered in the fall of 1940.

Special interest is being shown in Spanish, and this group will be able to work either as a club or under a trained teacher. Those who are interested will please meet in Room 223 at the Elementary School, Monday, January 20, 1941, at 7:30 P.M.

A flier, containing a complete schedule of all classes (subjects, time, place, instructors), was sent to each home in Greenbelt, Monday, January 13, 1941. Registration must take place by February 3.

For further information call the office of Mary Jane Kinzer.

GUN CLUB ELECT DONALD KERN PRESIDENT

Following their second annual meeting and election of officers last Friday night, January 10, the 24 members of the Greenbelt Gun Club commenced their third season with Donald G. Kern as president, Harry E. Hesse as vice-president, Norman D. Slater as the secretary-treasurer, and Harry Bates as executive officer.

January 23 is the date for a match between Greenbelt and the Rifle and Pistol Club of the General Accounting Office, followed by a match with the City Post Office rifle squad on February 7, 1941.

Greenbelt's Duty

Nothing has come out of Europe during the past year that could be looked on by America with anything except alarm, and in many cases real fear. Last week, however, a man, by the name of Waling Dykstra, stepped from the gang plank of a Dutch freighter and gave waiting newsmen a statement which, if taken seriously by enough Americans, might give us reason to believe in the survival of the democratic way of life or, to be even nearer the truth, its birth.

Speaking as the past president of the International Trading Agency, disbanded in 1940 because of the war, he discussed the growth of the American cooperative movement. He believes that following the war, and the consequent impoverishment of Europe, the American Co-ops will assume the major responsibility for the development of international cooperative trade, and that the center of the cooperative movement will shift from Europe to this country.

To those who believe in cooperatives there is a goldmine of possibilities in such a prospect. Indeed, here is the one chance for America, now arming madly for war, to arm at the same time for the peace to follow; by building a cooperative organization in this country which will be ready, when the time comes, to assume leadership in a movement which, up to now, has been but a poor follower.

Here, too, is Greenbelt's proper place in the present defense work of the nation. And few towns have the opportunity to contribute so much with so little effort. As one of the few cooperative towns of America, Greenbelt has a deep responsibility to assume at this time. It is a responsibility that rests with every family living in this town, and not on the few shoulders of those who actively participate in the work necessary to make Consumers Services here a successful and thriving organization. That it is a successful organization is not hard to prove; that it could and must be better is obvious.

The success and improvement of Greenbelt Consumers Services depends entirely upon the selection, by the people of Greenbelt, of the management of this organization. With the coming elections it would be wise for each person to study carefully the qualifications and experience, as well as the ability to speak effectively, of each person they nominate, and again very carefully before they vote.

We have spoken time and again of those persons in Greenbelt, better known as "Downtown Coaches", who raise their voices first, loudest and longest in the event of something going wrong, but are last in the line of volunteers to do something about the situation. Many things may go wrong, but they will stay that way only if those who see the fault contribute nothing but destructive criticism instead of real elbow grease necessary to achieve success.

"Nothing succeeds like success", to borrow a phrase, and Greenbelt, if it achieves nothing else, must make our own Consumers Services a success. This is Greenbelt's only duty in the world of to-day—it has no other.

Service

The officers of the Citizens Association deserve our highest commendation for the committee appointments announced this week. Without exception the chairmen selected are residents who have over a period of time demonstrated their ability to do a good job on any work assigned to them.

We must point out, however, that these appointees are the same persons who are always called on for community service. This is not the fault of those who did the appointing, but it does point to something wrong with the community life of Greenbelt.

We know that there are more than 30 capable persons in our town—and yet about 30 persons run all our organizations and activities, with considerable duplication of leadership.

It is time for the newcomers to step forward. It is time for capable Greenbelters to offer their services. It is time to share the responsibility of community leadership.

Concrete made with sawdust is now proving useful, since it is a better insulator than ordinary concrete, floats on water, and will retain nails driven into it, cannot burn, and is rodent-proof.

A YEAR AGO

The Farm Security Administration endorsed home ownership for Greenbelt, and granted a temporary stay to those over the income limit. Exactly one year later work is actually being done on the preparation of a lease.—Congratulations to all.

Mayor Maurer resigned to take a position with the Civil Aeronautics Authority in Chicago. His resignation was accepted with regret by George Warner—who became the new mayor.

A committee got the data on a solution to the transportation problem. ~~EDMUND~~

An investigation of the use of the emergency drug fund disclosed that it was being used for the purchase of shaving cream and so on. The Welfare Committee then took over the fund and shaving went back on a cash basis.

The editors conned the federal budget and discovered that very little money was set aside for new housing construction. It was thought the government should continue the good work.

The Board of Trustees of the hospital met to transact regular business.—The ladies auxiliary turned over to them $18.50 raised at a recent bake sale.

G.C.S. Education Committee to Meet

The regular meeting of the Educational Committee of the G.C.S. will be held at the home of Lindsey K. Thomas, 2-B Woodland Way, Thursday—January 16, at 8:30 P.M.

Among the items of business to be taken care of will be the consideration of methods of expansion to meet the increased demand for Advisory Council meetings (formerly Neighborhood Nights). In the past few months some very successful group meetings have been held with the result that the increased enthusiasm and interest in these discussion groups have developed a demand for an expansion program to care for the growing interest in cooperative principles and policies.

Subjects consistent with the G.C.S. activities will continue to be the basis of discussions with ample opportunity for the introduction of new and interesting problems as they arise. Typical problems such as the distributions of annual saving, quality of merchandise handled, expansion of the business and so on are the examples of some of the subjects that will come up for discussion from time to time in these groups.

SPANISH MAY BE TAUGHT IN NIGHT SCHOOL

Due to the fact that many persons known to be interested in learning Spanish received the January 13 notice of proposed adult education courses too late to permit their attendance at the first meeting on the subject, a second registration meeting is planned for January 20.

The Director of Adult Education is investigating the availability of a Spanish teacher from Maryland University and from other sources, with an eye to making it possible for local students to obtain college or high school credits for their participation in Greenbelt classes.

The preliminary meeting held in the school on Monday, January 13 was attended by fourteen persons, several of whom knew of other citizens interested in learning Spanish who were not able to attend that particular night.

Hospital Hums with Activity Since Advent of New Year

Helen Eoren, Assistant Superintendent of the Greenbelt Hospital, reports that it has been a very busy place since before the first of the year. At 12 midnight on Christmas Eve there was an operation. By January 2 there were three babies in the nursery. Another baby, a fracture case, and a tonsillectomy made January 4 memorable. A respiratory infection was accommodated the next day in the Public Health headquarters downstairs, temporarily shut owing to Public Health Nurse Corder's illness. Last Friday only two adult beds were empty. Among out-of-town patients were one from the District, and one from Branchville, and one from Detroit.

Superintendent Elsie Yuretech left Greenbelt the Friday before Christmas on her first vacation since assuming her duties here in August, 1939. She returned last Monday.

RULES FOR LITERARY GOLF CONTEST

Literary Golf is a very interesting game—the playing rules are similar to those of regular golf, the object in both cases being to play each hole with the fewest possible strokes. The exercise is mental instead of physical.

At each hole a number of letters are shown scattered over the fairway between tee and flag. These letters are hazards, and the player must overcome them by assembling them into words. Now, since each word so formed constitutes a stroke, he will naturally save strokes by using long words. Words of two letters or more that are shown in Funk and Wagnall's Dictionary may be used. Proper nouns may be used if so shown. Only the letters shown on fairway may be used in the words assembled for that hole, and no individual letter can be used more times in the list of words than it is shown in group on fairway.

When a player is unable to use all the letters on his list of words, the letters so remaining are each counted as a stroke. Thus—when a player assembles a list of three words and has one letter not placed, his score for the hole is "4"—if he has two letters remaining, the score is "5".

Each hole is marked with its "Par". This means that reasonable good playing will enable one to equal that score. The wise player however, will try for a "Birdie" or "Eagle" at each hole. A "Birdie" is one stroke less than par—an "Eagle" two less. However, Birdies or Eagles will probably not be possible at every hole.

Choose your words carefully and remember that while long words are desirable in this game, just as long driving is in golf, long driving alone will not win many golf games.

The really good golf player always gives some consideration to the shot following the one he is playing, and this holds good in "Literary Golf".

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND NEWS

Each year the University of Maryland attracts more young people from Greenbelt. At present there are twelve students registered in various colleges on the nearby campus.

Lexy Craigin plans to be using her bacteriology in Public Health work next year. Mary Lung will be teaching Home Economics to high school girls. Just another birthday will mean a vocation in the air for Terry Schancy. His interest is aviation.

Five of the twelve "Marylanders" are sophomores. Stanley Provost, a commerce student, is majoring in agricultural economics. Donald Whittemore has selected civil engineering. An exceedingly conscientious person is Dean Keith, a chemistry major. Mary Claire Bonham spends most of her time studying English, and Katherine Rolph, the different phases of Home Economics.

The freshmen promise some excellent work. Eddie Kaigh finds economics in the college of commerce best. Phyllis Warner is concerned with sociology. To Roy Bell, zoology is important but Rebecca Prater chose Home Economics.

January brings the usual rush to complete term papers and to prepare for final examinations. All are conforming to the practice of hibernating until the end of the semester when they prove that they are capable individuals. Greenbelt students will be successful.

Plan now to attend the President's Birthday Ball, and watch for the date in next week's Cooperator.

A MESSAGE TO OUR NEIGHBORS IN GREENBELT

We thank you. It was hard work getting the new store ready. We "burned the midnight oil" in the store for almost a week, trying to put it in ship-shape order.

But the way you came thronging in to see your new store, and the nice things you said about it, made our work worthwhile.

We're sorry the roses ran out. We thought two hundred would be ample, but they were far too few. We underestimated your interest in your store, a mistake we'll try not to make again.

We promise to do our best to see to it that your new store lives up to the good things you said about it. We want you to be as proud of it as we are.

MRS. GREENBELT

Good Evening, Mrs. Greenbelt

I'm having a lot of fun these days, reading the children's Christmas books. Do you ever do it?

When I was a youngster, I practically cut my teeth on Balzac's "Eugenie Grandet". Moliere's "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" and such other affairs as "La Mare au Diable" and "Les Miserables". When my grandmother felt I should know English books, too, I was given "The Scarlet Letter", "Tanglewood Tales", "Little Dorrit" and "Bleak House" and others of the same type.

I loved them - and still do - but it remained for my children to show me another world. A world made real by Winnie-the-Pooh and Eeyore, by Heidi and Hans Brinker and the Willow-Man. They are my companions now before I turn the light out - and I go flashing along the frozen canals of Holland on silver skates, or I go exploring with Winnie and Piglet to find the Heffalump. Only some nights, I help build houses on deserted islands with Robinson Crusoe and the Swiss Family Robinson. And then - oh, glorious adventure! - I go to visit the King of the Castle and the Dirty Rascal with Mary Poppins.

It's a wonderful world, this world of children's books. Maybe I don't have to tell you a thing, for you probably read them, or most of them, when you were still children. It seems to me that I am forever doing things backward.

I never had any of the so-called "children's diseases", either. I fully expected to have them all when Ruth and Allan went to school. So far we have all escaped them. Probably, Kate and Frankie, will bring them home when they start to school. It would be my way of doing things to have the whole line of ailments then, I guess.

Oh, well, at least I'll have plenty to read when I lie abed with grey hairs and chicken pox and measles.

---Peggie A.

BETTER BUYER BRIEFS

The Nifty Shoppers held the first meeting of the new year at the home of Mrs. Helen Heine, 5-E Parkway Wednesday evening, January 8.

Mrs. Helen Prater gave an interesting reading on "Hygiene" which was followed by a lively discussion.

The next meeting will be held January 22, at the home of Mrs. Ethel Henshaw, 5-A Ridge Road.

National Symphony Delights County School Children

If "Papa Hayden" could have heard the enthusiasm of the Prince Georges County school children for his "Slow Movement from the Surprise Symphony", his heart would have been glad, for they listened for the crashing chord with little, subdued giggles and couldn't keep quiet when it came. Always a favorite with children, it was especially well presented by Dr. Kindler and the National Symphony Orchestra at the concert sponsored by the Prince Georges Art Guild at the Ritchie Coliseum, January 15.

The balance of the program was equally interesting to the children and the adults accompanying them. Styled a "children's concert", the program included the "Overture - Der Freischutz" by Karl Maria Von Weber; Some old and new dances; "Minuet" from "Don Giovanni" by Mozart; "Polonaise" from the "Christmas Tale" by Rimsky-Korsakoff; "Tango", Lecuona; A Favorite, Melody as Different Composers Would Have Written It, Laszlo; Song - "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean"; and "Finale" from the "Fourth Symphony", Tchaikovsky.

Dr. Kindler also explained the various instruments used in the orchestra, thereby heightening the interest of his audience and making the concert a true music appreciation project.

A corps of University of Maryland cadets served as ushers.

RECIPES

By ---Peggy Bargas

What can be so luscious as a strawberry shortcake? You guessed it, N-O-T-H-I-N-G. But as second choice we offer orange shortcake, a delicious substitute; and since at this time oranges are both plentiful and reasonable, let's try our Vitamin C in shortcake. With such a hearty dessert we suggest an omelette and your favorite vegetable salad to just about complete a dinner fit for the King.

Orange Shortcake

2 cups Co-op flour	1 tablespoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt	5 tablespoons shortening
2 tablespoons sugar	3/4 cup milk
	6 large oranges

Sift flour, salt, sugar and baking powder together. Cut in shortening. Make a well in center of flour mixture add milk and stir with fork until flour disappears. Turn dough on floured board; knead lightly for a few seconds. Roll out dough about 1/2 inch thick keeping a round shape. Bake in hot oven 450 degrees in a 9 inch layer cake pan, for 15 to 20 minutes.

Peel oranges over a bowl to catch all juice. Remove pulp sections and drain. There should be about 1 cup of juice.

Orange Sauce

1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch	1/2 cup water
1 cup sugar	1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup orange juice	1 egg yolk
	1 teaspoon grated orange rind

Mix cornstarch and sugar in top of double boiler. Add orange juice and water gradually. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until mixture is thick and clear (about 15 minutes.) Add salt. Add beaten egg yolk; beat well. Add grated orange rind. Cool.

Split the shortcake in half, crosswise, put orange sections between and on top. Serve with slightly cooled orange sauce poured over.

GREENBELT'S NEW BABIES

Belated announcement is made of the birth of Lena Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Siegal of 23-D Ridge Road, on December 27, in Washington.

Sydney Diebert, William Kinsley and Sam Morganstein were the proud possessors of a steak dinner, and all because of a bet made by Harry Fleisher. Mr. Fleisher offered to treat the whole car full of riders to a steak dinner if the expected baby should be a boy. As reported by the COOPERATOR, a son and heir was born to the Fleishers and papa paid one of the happiest bets of his life.

OUR NEIGHBORS

Mrs. Milton J. Thurber is leaving this Sunday with her son "Tony" for a 5 months visit in California. She will be visiting friends and relatives near Los Angeles.

Hitler Speaks

Our meditations take a political turn this week. We read from a very lucid editorial the following:

"Hitler's radio speech addressed to German labor may have been intended primarily for home consumption, but a person of his self-esteem does not face the microphone without full consciousness that the world is listening...His speech had three principal points: First, Germany can lick the world. This has become fairly familiar and may be dismissed without comment. Second, this is a war between capital and labor, a war for the overthrow of the capitalistic system and the triumph of a work-economy in which all men shall have equal opportunity. It is in fact, 'a war between two worlds.'" Third this is war to the death. 'One of these worlds must break asunder.' It is of no importance that the speech also contained the usual line of falsehoods about his own efforts for peace, his distaste for the bombing of civilians, which was undertaken only by way of reprisal for British ruthlessness and the limitation of his desires to securing 'the right for Germans to unite and to restore what was taken from them.' But the third point is significant as a clear-cut statement of the world-wide scope of Hitler's plans. He rightly believes that the world cannot permanently and peacefully go on with two systems as radically in contrast as his own and that of those who oppose him. The world is not wide enough and the oceans are not deep enough for that. His second point is no less noteworthy. Call it demagogic, or socialistic, or whatever. It is a persuasive appeal for social revolution. To be sure, it is shot through with fallacies. For example, what is the merit of a 'work-economy' as contrasted with a 'gold-economy' if the workers do not control their own work? Nevertheless, when Hitler stands forth as the champion of the workers and as the prophet of a new order in which there shall be no voluntarily idle few living on the fat of the land, while involuntarily idle millions are in dire poverty, he is stating a 'war aim' which has a dangerously persuasive sound. Is it not time for the democracies to state their war aims in terms equally concrete?"

Church Party-January 21, 8:00 P.M. in the Social room. This party is sponsored by the Spiritual and Welfare Committee of the Church.

There is still a nursery, a Church-time nursery, to which mothers can bring their children for excellent care during the worship service. The Community Church Guild, the new women's organization of the Church, is taking the responsibility of having in attendance one or two senior girls each Sunday morning. You will find the nursery on the second floor of the Community Building.

A Survey Committee, to investigate the possibilities of a Community Church Edifice for Protestants in Greenbelt, has been appointed by the Church Board. If you are interested in working on this committee please see Mr. Kincheloe at once.

U.S. GRADED CHOICE

WHEN YOU BUY MEAT

- protect your pocketbook
- protect your health

Official Grading is Your Only Absolute Guarantee of Quality!

To build strong muscles

—lean meat in the cheapest cut has practically the same food value as lean meat in the most expensive.

—one kind of lean meat (beef, veal, lamb, mutton, pork) has practically the same value as another.

—lean meat from one grade (such as Choice, Good, Medium, Common) has practically the same value as another equally lean cut.

You eat meat—for health—mainly because of its protein and its iron.

Protein builds muscles. Protein values of the lean part of any cut, kind, or grade of meat are so nearly alike there is little to choose between them.

What you pay for in the higher prices of some cuts, kinds, and grades of meat is flavor and tenderness—not food value.

U.S. COMMERCIAL GRADED

U. S. Commercial Grade Beef constitutes a relatively large percentage of production for sale in retail markets whose customers can afford to buy only a moderately high quality beef, and whose food budgets necessitate the purchase of beef that has very little excess fat.

Commercial grade beef is produced mostly from steers and heifers that have been fed largely on grass or roughage and that have been intensely fed on concentrated feed for only a short time.
