

Branchville - Beltsville Trolley Discontinued

The Baltimore Circuit Court has upheld the request of the Capital Transit Company to discontinue the shuttle line between Beltsville and Branchville, in a decision handed down last week.

The Maryland Public Utilities Commission had refused Capital Transit's request made last January, whereupon the company took the matter to the Baltimore Circuit Court where they received a favorable decision.

The Maryland PUC has 20 days in which to appeal the Circuit Court's decision.

A story appearing in the Washington Daily News last week referred to the discontinuance of service "to Branchville" without making it clear that the Branchville-Beltsville line was the one in question. There is no thought at present of discontinuing service from Branchville to Washington, according to a CTC spokesman questioned by a Cooperator reporter this week.

300 Attend PTA Supper

Over 300 people attended the covered dish supper held by the Center school PTA in the school dining room, Tuesday, November 23. Funds from the dinner will help pay for a movie projector to be used for visual education in the school's curriculum. The supper was preceded by a children's panel led by Mrs. Mazine Grimm and Mrs. Ellen Linson.

Parents should pick up dishes left behind in the Cafeteria as soon as possible.

Vandalism Halts Plans To Install Phone Booths

Greenbelters who use the public phone in the tobacco store will be annoyed to learn that malicious vandalism has prevented the installation of two booths.

Harry Palmer, manager of the tobacco store, reported to the Cooperator that the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company had agreed to install two booths, which had been ordered and were ready to install two weeks ago. On Tuesday night, November 23, unidentified persons plugged up the coin chute of the telephone in the store, and removed the works of the receiver. The telephone company repaired the damage on Wednesday, and on the same day canceled its plans to install the new booths, stating that it seemed unadvisable to risk the $300 involved in each booth.

Mr. Palmer stated that he did not think it was Greenbelt residents who inflicted the damage on this occasion, and on previous ones, to the phones and other equipment in the waiting room. However, he urged that all Greenbelters take upon themselves the responsibility of not only preventing the mischief whenever possible, but also reporting immediately any such actions to the police station. "We cannot expect any further cooperation from the phone company on the matter of booths," he said, "until the situation is cleared up."

Dr. Bloomberg Leaves Health Association

The Board of Directors of the Greenbelt Health Association voted unanimously at their meeting on November 30 to accept the tendered resignation of Dr. Max W. Bloomberg, effective January 20, 1949. Dr. Bloomberg offered his resignation due to a difference of opinion with the board over the carrying out of basic policies. He has been with the Association since March, 1947.

The board has already started negotiations for a successor to Dr. Bloomberg, and will maintain a continuity of medical services to its members and patients. A step already taken in the direction of added medical services is the appointment of Dr. Jerome Cohn as a part-time practitioner, to relieve the schedules of the full-time doctors. Dr. Cohn, a graduate of the University of Maryland, interned at a Baltimore hospital and has recently completed a two-year fellowship at Johns Hopkins University Hospital, the last year of which he taught Physical Diagnosis.

Gun Club Wins Again

Greenbelt riflemen won again at the Maryland Rifle League matches at the University last Monday night. The local Gun Club's Team No. 1 defeated the Freshman team 1382 to 1326.

Woodman's score was high for all six teams firing this week, and is second in the entire League to those fired so far this season by Arthur Cook, Olympic star and national champion.

Both teams of the Greenbelt Gun Club will fire again at the University on December 6.

This annual affair is one of the highlights of the school year and a large turnout of parents is anticipated. There will also be an art exhibit of the works of the students on display in the auditorium.

There will be a period of home room visitation for the parents to meet with the teachers, followed by a short business meeting. Included in the singing will be some group participation by the parents joining in on some Christmas carols. Refreshments will be served after the program.

Call 2011 For Use Of Center School

Requests by organizations for the use of the Community Building should now be made by calling the Town Office, 2011, according to Town Manager Chas. T. MacDonald. The lease was signed with PHA on November 26, on authority granted by action of the Council at its last meeting. There are no plans for changing the method of scheduling or operation at this time.

Sherman Friend, a town employee, will take over as custodian replacing Robert Howey, who will retain his position with the Federal Government.

The town office is in the process of compiling budget figures for the year 1949, to be presented to the Council. It is expected that the Council will act on this at an early date.

Both junior and senior high groups at the Drop-Inn have elected officers and are busy making plans for future events. One of their first projects will be the awarding of a cup each month to the member showing the most outstanding cooperation and participation in the youth program at the youth center. The cup, donated by the Recreation Department for this purpose, will be awarded on the basis of leadership, example, interest, and actual assistance with the program at the center. Each month the boy or girl receiving the cup will have his name engraved on the cup and will take possession of it for the month, returning it to the canteen for the following month's award.

Committees Set Up

In addition to the officers, the senior high group has a sergeant-at-arms committee consisting of Richie Lewis, Edgar Hunter, and Harry Randolph. The junior high group has four committees set up with the following members in charge: entertainment, Lynn Perchick; membership, Marilyn Taeler; improvement, Kenny Miller; and sergeant-at-arms, John Wright.

The officers announced the opening of the snack bar, operated by Paul Rynnion and an assistant. The snack bar will be open regularly each weekday afternoon and on Friday and Saturday nights and for the youth groups who reserve the building.

Social Events

Vol. 13 Thursday, December 2, 1948 No. 15

To The Editor:

[If it is possible we print all letters to the editor in full. However all letters must be limited to 150 words unless the letter is delivered personally by the writer.]

LETTER OF THANKS

To the Editor:

It is difficult to know who to thank for the huge success of the Center School PTA covered dish supper last Tuesday night, which over three hundred people attended. If I mention some individually, I am sure to overlook others, because it took the combined efforts of many people to feed such a crowd. The homeroom mothers organization, and Mrs. Marion Slaugh and her committee of eight overworked mothers, deserve special mention but I caught intimate glimpses throughout the evening of Mrs. Fugitt frantically wiping dishes, Stanley Edwards washing (he says 3,000) dishes, and many unidentified mothers and fathers setting up extra tables, serving children separately, etc. The patience of the many people waiting their turn in line should be mentioned, too. All the food donated looked and tasted marvelous.

The committee and I feel that with the experience of this supper we can make the one in May run much more smoothly, but that for good-hearted fun and cooperation it will be hard to beat.

I want to thank the children, Mrs. Maxine Grimm, and Mrs. Ellen Linson for the splendid panel they put on before the supper. I only wish more parents could have seen how well such a project was handled.

Again, let me say that the PTA group at Center School this year is worth all the time and effort that a great many people are giving.

Suggests Checks

To the Editor:

The Gun Club sent a letter to the Director of Public Safety this week, calling attention to several violations of the local firearms law which have occurred on the town range in recent weeks. The Club suggested that the cruiser cars make occasional visits to the range on security checks of the cabin—which is government property—and to make definite investigations of unauthorized firing.

The Director of Public Safety was asked to notify County Police of the Greenbelt shooting restrictions, and to prosecute those who are found to violate the laws. It is felt that only by having punishment accorded to a few culprits will the law be properly observed by others.

G. I. Education Deadline Announced By V. A.

There are two deadlines to remember in connection with G. I. education and training benefits, the Veterans Administration points out.

Education or training must be started within four years after discharge, or by July 25, 1951—which ever date comes later, VA said. As a general rule, it must be completed not later than July 25, 1956.

However, veterans who enlisted or re-enlisted before October 6, 1946 can figure their deadlines from the date of their discharge, VA explained. For these veterans, training may be started and completed later than for other veterans.

Brown, floor manager at the supermarket. The store's only interest in these delivery transactions will be to preserve order in the store.

Children's glee clubs are being organized at the Center and North End Schools for all children in the 4th, 5th and 6th grades. The clubs will be under the direction of Miss Mary French, associate professor at Maryland University. Children in the Center School area will meet at 3:30 every Monday for one hour. Private and Parochial school children may also attend these classes.

North End Heating Gets Controls

Contracts have been let and work is well under way to accomplish major improvements in the operation of the four large central heating plants in the north end of the Defense Project. Work now in progress will be completed as soon as possible, according to PHA Manager Charles M. Cormack.

Installation of oil burners in all boilers was completed during the summer of 1947. It was found, last winter, that the system of controls was not sufficient to regulate the distribution of steam and provide uniform heating service at controlled temperatures. As a result, some dwellings were overheated while others did not receive sufficient heat. The present work is being undertaken to provide uniform controlled temperatures in all dwellings.

Individual Controls

Individual control valves are being installed under each building to operate in accordance with outside temperature. The colder the weather outside, the more steam will be admitted to the building. Controls will be set to limit the temperature range in the dwellings between a minimum of 70° and a maximum of 75° during the hours from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m. During the night, from 11 p.m. to 6 a.m., a minimum temperature of 60° will be maintained. It will be necessary to adjust the controls to meet the needs of each building and this work will be undertaken immediately upon the completion of each control system.

In addition to the controls, quick vent valves are being installed in all underground steam-mains to relieve any accumulation of air in the mains and provide more flexible and quick acting operation of the systems. Additional instruments for controlling the combustion in the large boilers are also being installed. A new section of underground steam-main will be built to serve dwellings in the 2 and 4 courts on Plateau Place and the 49, 50, 51 and 54 courts on Ridge Road.

Pipes Insulated

Kitchens and bathrooms in the dwellings served by the four large central heating plants are heated by exposed steam pipes. Since it is impossible for tenants to turn these pipes off, as can be done in the case of radiators, extreme overheating of these rooms has occurred in the past due to the large amount of exposed pipe in these rooms. These pipes are now being partially covered with insulation material. Sufficient heating capacity will be retained to maintain adequate temperatures in these rooms. The insulation, applied to the lower sections of the pipes, will insure against the possibility of burns to children touching the hot pipes.

Leave 'Em On

When the new work is completed and the controls in any building placed in operation, tenants should open the valves of all radiators and leave them on. Nothing should be placed on top of radiators to interfere with the proper circulation of air through the radiators. Steam will be supplied by the controls, and uniform heating throughout each dwelling will be accomplished. Windows should be kept closed except for short periods when ventilation is desired. If windows are opened at night in bedrooms, the doors of these rooms should be closed to avoid chilling the entire house.

Check It Yourself

Every effort will be made by the heating staff to make necessary adjustments promptly; however, some tenants who have suffered from overheating in the past will possibly feel that they are not receiving adequate heat under the new system. It is recommended that each tenant purchase an inexpensive thermometer to be put on an interior wall of the living room at a height of from four to five feet from the floor. The actual temperature of the room can be checked by the use of this thermometer. Controls will not be set to maintain temperatures higher than 75°, and instructions to this effect have been issued to the operating engineers.

Dangerous Stuff

Vandalism by children has caused a very substantial amount of damage to the heating plants and equipment. Community Manager Cormack urged that all parents instruct their children to stay away from the boiler plants and to refrain from damaging the heating controls on the exteriors of the buildings. The large Philgas tanks on the outside of each boiler plant are particularly dangerous, since tampering with this equipment could cause a serious explosion and injury to any child breaking the supply pipe.

Woman's Club Has Christmas Party

The Greenbelt Woman's Club will hold its annual Christmas party in the social room at the Center school on December 9 at 8:15 p.m. Theme of the party will be 'Christmas in a Country School.'

Start Adult Dance Class

The Recreation Department wishes to start an adult square and ballroom dancing class as soon as it gets enough names to get the instructor from the Arthur Murray Studio. They are willing to give one free lesson, then you may continue with ten lessons for a very nominal fee. "Get your name in to the Recreation Department so we can get started by December 15." says Sam Fox, recreation director. Call 6966 to sign up.

Here's what has happened to telephone costs

It is our policy to furnish the most and the best possible telephone service at the lowest possible cost.

This policy has not changed. But circumstances have changed.

Today, it costs more to provide telephone service — and more to maintain it. Here's a chart comparing the average investment in plant and equipment per telephone in 1939 with the investment required for each telephone added today.

WHEN rising costs forced us to ask for higher telephone rates in 1946, we asked — in the public's interest — for only the bare minimum required at that time.

Recent wage increases, however, when added to further increased costs of construction, materials and supplies, have brought telephone expenses to an all-time high.

The rate increases previously granted are less than we asked for and much less than needed to meet today's increased costs of operation.

That's why we have had to ask the Public Service Commission for another increase in telephone rates.

While we want to furnish service at the lowest possible cost, telephone rates must be sufficient to meet our day-by-day operating expenses. And there must be enough left over to pay a fair return to investors — the people in all walks of life whose money is used to build telephone facilities. Otherwise they won't continue to put their savings into the telephone business.

Without the investors' money, we cannot complete our current vital construction and improvement program — a program designed to meet the growing telephone needs of Maryland.

It is our job to provide the kind and amount of telephone service you want and need.

We are asking for only enough to do that job — and no more.

TEEN-TALK

By Joe Haspiel

The evening was usual enough with the typewriter open and waiting and the keyboard unplucked. What had sounded from afar like an ominous rumble turned out to be a rolling conversation between some teen-agers who were making a bee-line for this door (lawns and hedges not withstanding). The polite knock rattled the windows and frightened two window shades into flapping convulsions. The opening door revealed a red and black checkered wool shirt surmounted by a head with flashing white teeth which clanked out a 'Hi' and wandered inside. That was Ray. Behind him, leaning on each other for support was first a tall and dark skinned pair of dungarees here called 'Durango' and the other a pair of startling ears labeled Ed. They flowed into the room unhinged themselves, and sat down on the floor. "You know," says flashy teeth, "We've been beating Ed (the ears) all the way up here." Ed (the Ears) just flapped them in acknowledgement and dungarees rustled a bit impatiently. "Bet I can lay flat on my back, with my toes locked under a chair, and with my hands behind my head, raise my head and touch my knees fifty times." Durango laughed as Ray (the flash) dared the hero to perform his act. Ears flattened himself, stuck his toes under our best chair and after ten counts the boys revived him. During the next thirty seconds of silence three magazines were completely read and discarded and Durango suddenly pounced on Ray (the Teeth) while Ed (the Ears) looked around for a choice arm to break. Dungarees was now so well entwined with the Flash that the red and black checkered shirt melted onto the dark blue background of the trousers. The Ears, seeing how hopeless were merely ground his fist into someone's back remarking that didn't matter who owned what as long as he got a good lick in. The poke in the dark proved to be the unwinding key. The squirming bundle undid itself and promptly fastened onto the unfortunate Ed. In the center of the room now was an assortment of arms and legs, an odd shoe here and there, one or two lost teeth and three positively impossible bodies tied in a knot. There was just one thing to do and it was done. They were left just like that. A telephone call brought things back to almost normal. "Who was that?" inquired Durango. "None of your business," was the polite rejoinder and onto the rug went the arms and legs again. One bruised arm chair left the room muttering to itself while the old couch with as much dignity as it could muster simply collapsed. It was at this moment that Clyde (the Shoe Boy) wandered in. Spotting the undulating pile of clothing entangled on the rug, he opened his brown valise, took out a sample shoe carried therein and inquired if anyone in the heap cared to purchase a pair. This then was the answer to the Gideon Knot. The mass broke apart squeezed itself back into individuals again and

Asso. Warns Against Colds

Released by the Maryland Tuberculosis Association

We have all had the experience of involuntarily moving away from someone in a crowd who suddenly coughed or sneezed. It could be that the offender's nose or throat was merely sensitive to dust in the air, but we take no chances. No one wants to catch a cold, and with good reason.

The movement away from the cold sufferer is based on sound and unpleasant experience. The "common cold" is no respecter of sex, age, or season. Everybody knows that a cold can mean days of coughing and sneezing, that "stuffed up" feeling or a running nose, with the victim looking almost as miserably as he feels. Worst of all, although no one dies of just a cold, it can lead to serious complications that may cause grave and even fatal illnesses.

Highly Contagious

Colds are highly contagious. They are caused by a virus, or germ, so small that it cannot be seen with an ordinary microscope. It travels from the sick person to well people and is most frequently spread by droplets of moisture sprayed into the air when the person with a cold sneezes or coughs.

A cold is an infection and, as in the case of all infections, we can discourage cold germs from taking hold by keeping to a well-balanced, nourishing diet, getting plenty of rest, sleep and fresh air, dressing comfortably and in keeping with the weather and avoiding chill and excessive fatigue.

Stay at Home

When precautions fail, as they frequently do, and the first unwelcome symptoms of a cold appear, the victim should stay at home. This prompt action may shorten the colds existence and lessen the likelihood of complications as well as reducing spread to others. Plenty of rest is an important factor in treating a cold. The cold victim should have plenty of liquids including water, fruit juices, and clear soups.

If a fever develops, the patient should go to bed and call a physician.

Prevent Spreading

Anyone who has a cold should exercise common sense and courtesy to prevent spreading it to others. He should "keep his distance" in laughing and talking with others. He should cover all his coughs and sneezes, not with his hands but with his handkerchief or preferably with tissues that he can dispose of easily and inexpensively. The cold victim should wash his hands frequently, because he handles his handkerchief or paper tissues, then handles articles that are used by others and in that way spreads his cold germs.

Remember that a cold is more than a temporary nuisance. Neglected, it can become the forerunner of pneumonia, serious ear trouble, bronchitis, sinusitis and other serious illnesses.

spent the next half hour pouring over magazine illustrations of shoes for the gay blades. Ed (the Ears) couldn't quite understand how come there was only one shoe for each sample and refused to even consider looking at the pictures because after all he couldn't use just one shoe.
