

Direct Phones To D. C. Available Here Soon

Direct Washington telephone service will shortly be provided to 95 Greenbelters, William F. Wolfe, Hyattsville manager for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, told the city council Monday night.

All holders of one-and two-party lines can be so accommodated, according to Wolfe, and approximately 30 four-party users. No change in phone number will be involved, he added. He explained that the service can more easily be changed in the one-and two-party lines, and that for them no change in phone number will be involved.

The telephone company has prepared a study of the extent to which Greenbelt patrons use their telephones for Washington calls, and plans to approach individually those who would find the new service more economical.

The council, in other action, directed McDonald and Councilmen Steve L. Comings and Frank J. Lastner to discuss with Samuel Ashelman, general manager of Greenbelt Consumer Services, the possibility of improving the parking facilities behind the supermarket. Mayor Betty Harrington reported a proposal that the parking area be extended out behind the service station.

Council members expressed their gratitude to the city manager for the recently-inaugurated policy of sending to councilmen a weekly bulletin of local municipal news.

City May Get Funds PHA Tells Cooperator

It may not be necessary for Greenbelt to go through with a stoppage of municipal services, approved as an emergency measure by the city council at its meeting Monday night. Public Housing Administration officials told The Cooperator Tuesday that review of the Greenbelt budget is being "rushed," and that a decision will be reached by the end of this week.

Having received no indication whether PHA would pay the sums requested by the city government in lieu of taxes, the council voted Monday to cut on all municipal services except police and fire protection, beginning February 15. According to Charles T. McDonald, city manager, the municipality had already borrowed sums that would cover the February 15 payroll, but only enough would be left after that to cover the two protective departments.

Going Formal

The PHA statement to The Cooperator claimed that the budget had not been formally presented to PHA until December 28, whereas the federal agency had requested a year ago that 60 days be given PHA for review. However, according to a news story in The Cooperator of December 15, Walter Simon, local PHA manager, was present at the public hearing on the budget on December 12, and according to McDonald had been given a copy of the proposed budget in late November.

Charter Tells When

According to McDonald, he explained to Simon at that time that the Greenbelt charter establishes the timing of the budget preparation. The city treasurer is instructed by the charter to present the manager with a proposed budget 60 days before the close of the fiscal year; he in turn presents it to the council; a public hearing is held on it; and final action is taken by the council 10 days before the close of the fiscal year.

McDonald told The Cooperator Tuesday night that he still had not heard from PHA as to its intentions.

Berwyn Heights Woman Injured In Greenbelt

Mrs. George Glassmyer, a resident of Berwyn Heights, slipped and fell last Sunday afternoon at the incline between the Greenbelt Center school and the parking lot. She was taken to the Leland Memorial Hospital by the Branchville Rescue Squad. After treatment, she was released and taken home. The Greenbelt Rescue Squad was away at the time on a call to the Columbia Hospital in Washington.

Humphrey To Speak At GCS Meeting

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey will speak to Greenbelt Consumer Services members at their annual meeting, Wednesday, February 15, on "Cooperatives and Monopoly." Appearing early on the program, his speech will begin promptly at 8:20.

Humphrey, elected to the Senate in 1948, is a member of the Committee on Labor and Public Welfare, the Committee on Post Office and Civil Service, and the Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Department. He is a board member of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, National Council for a Permanent FEPC, and the Minnesota chapter of the United Nations Committee.

Taxes, Taxes, Taxes

Following Humphrey's talk, there will be a tax forum. Mayor Elizabeth Harrington will present the viewpoint of the municipal government; a representative of Greenbelt Veterans Housing Corporation will give the home-owners side of the question; Henry Walter, GCS treasurer, will tell how taxes affect business, including cooperatives; and Rev. Eric T. Braund will discuss the effect on the community as a whole.

Business, Election

The business meeting will follow, with reports being kept to a minimum to permit time for discussion from the floor. The general manager's report will be mailed to the membership. In accordance with present by-laws, a complete nine-member board of directors must be elected.

The membership election under the chairmanship of Carolyn Miller, planned for the program to end at an early hour. The meeting is called for 8 p.m. at the community building auditorium.

Center School Gives $186 To Polio Fund

by

Rochelle Feig and Robert Beckham

One of the most successful campaigns of the year ended Thursday, February 2, when the entire student body and faculty of Center school met in a general assembly at 1:30 p.m. to present Thomas M. Freeman with a check of $186.50 towards the March of Dimes.

The March of Dimes campaign began January 17. Anne Turner and Peggy Taylor made a chart which showed the progress each day toward the goal. For every two dollars made by one room, a crutch was taken away from a child. Every day money was collected by Rochelle Feig with the help of Anne Turner and Peggy Taylor.

At the assembly Miss Carl led the group in a March of Dimes pep song. Anne Turner and Peggy Taylor showed the device which was used throughout the campaign. Terry Wiram, room 222; Jeanie Kyle, room 225; Carolyn Marvin, room 220; and Ann Rhodes, room 201, told why they believed in the March of Dimes. The primary group sang two songs, "Trot, trot, trot, Little Pony," and "Your Turn, My Turn." The Primary children also told how they got money to contribute to the March of Dimes. Students from rooms 201, 220, 221, sang three numbers, "Skiing," "Jose and Roseta," and "Cruel Miss Newl." Rooms 222 and 225 sang "The Lucky Old Sun" and "You Asked Me the Price." The latter song was written by Mrs. Edda Larrimore.

Rochelle Feig presented the check to Mr. Freeman. He accepted the check and responded with words of appreciation.

GVHC Welcomes All Residents Picks Officers, Exec. Committee

All Greenbelt residents will now be accepted as members of the Greenbelt Veteran Housing Corporation, the GVHC board of directors decided at its organizational meeting last Thursday night.

Mike Salzman, reelected president, said that with Greenbelt's sale so near at hand GVHC is setting up the mechanism necessary to process membership applications so as to comply with GVHC policy and with Public Law 65, the "Greentown Disposal Law." Office space has been provided GVHC at 54-A Crescent, the public health office. Beginning Saturday, February 11, the office will be open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday and from 8 to 10 p.m. every night Monday through Friday. A section-cavassing operation is planned to acquaint nonmembers with GVHC's purposes, according to Salzman.

Elect Officers

In addition to Salzman, other officers elected last Thursday were Rev. Eric T. Braund, vice-president; Bruce Bowman, secretary; and Ben Goldfaden, treasurer. An executive committee was formed of Salzman, Braund, and Bowman, with the additional appointment of Sherrod East and Paul Borsky, members of the advisory committee which met with the board, as advisory members of the executive committee.

Advisors To Be Voters

The seven members of the advisory board will become members of the board of directors, now composed entirely of veterans, as soon as Public Housing Administration selects GVHC as the preferred purchaser, according to a policy statement unanimously endorsed by the veteran board.

The next regular meeting of the combined boards will be held next Monday, February 13, at 54-A Crescent.

BULLETIN

It was announced yesterday by Bruce Bowman, president of the North End PTA, that the Prince Georges County Board of Education had ordered all night-time activities at the North End school to cease until further notice, because of the current coal shortage.

Bowman advised those who planned to participate in activities at that school to get in touch with the people planning the events, as arrangements were being discussed for transferring some events to the community building.

Lions And Boys Club Meet Next Sunday

Sunday, February 12, at 4:45 p.m., the Seat Pleasant Lions Club basketball team and the Greenbelt Boys Club will present a triple-header at the community building auditorium. The Lions, consisting entirely of former Greenbelt High School and college players, will meet the David Taylor Model Basin team who are currently leading the Washington Naval Gun Factory league. The big green of D.T.M.B. is led by Frank Ranif and Bill Rivers, while the team's present such ex-GHS stars as Teddy Fox, Pete Cookson, and Harry Benefiel.

The local Boys Club 80- and 90-pound teams will meet the strong Arlington Forest Teams of the same weight. The 90-pounders who open play at 4:45 feature Buddy Attick, Dave Schurr, Jimmy Strippling, Mike Cockill, and Elmer Hersberger. This team is seeking its fifth win in seven games, all against strong D. C. and Virginia competition.

The 80-pounders who are after their fourth win in six games are led by Ronny Brooks, Tony Baker, Danny Branch, Fred Comings, and Marshall Gerstel.

Better Film Fare Planned For Greenbelt

Better quality in movies is in store for Greenbelt audiences, according to John J. Eskridge, GCS theater manager. Some movies are "head and shoulders above the rest," Eskridge said, and are known to the trade as "Art Pictures." He added that many neighborhood theaters do not book these pictures, feeling that the local audiences are not sufficiently mature to appreciate the above-average entertainment.

A four-week program, beginning next week is as follows:

February 14-15, Fallen Idol; February 21-22, Quartet; February 28-March 1, Brief Encounter; and March 7-8, The Mikado. Other pictures to be shown include Pygmalion, Give Us This Day, and The Bicycle Thief.

It will be necessary to charge a higher admission to some of the pictures, Eskridge said, since the producer receives a percentage of gross sales and will not consent to showing the pictures at the regular 40c rate. Wherever possible, however, regular admission prices will be maintained. Eskridge said, for example, that he hopes to secure Red Shoes in the near future, at no advance.

Feb. 13, 21, Holidays For City Employees

Because February 13 and 21 are state holidays, municipal employees will not work and the community building will be closed to community activities, according to City Manager Charles T. McDonald.

Mr. McDonald added that because of a reduction of expenditures the number of telephone trunk lines coming into the city office has been reduced from 5 to 3. Phone numbers of the city office are now Greenbelt 2011, 2021, and Tower 6330. The Public Health Department can now be reached by phone through the office switchboard at either of the Greenbelt numbers mentioned above.

Mr. McDonald said that it has come to his attention that there are a number of cases of contagious diseases in town, especially mumps, which have not been reported to the Public Health Department and therefore have not been quarantined, which is a violation of the city health ordinance. It is important that these people report their cases so that quarantine signs can be posted, Mr. McDonald said.

Dr. Ross Will Speak At Nursery Meeting

Dr. Mabel Ross, director of the Prince Georges County mental health clinic, will be guest speaker at a meeting of the cooperative nursery school on Tuesday, February 14. The meeting will be held at 9 p.m. in the home economics room of the community building. The public is invited.

The bake sale of the cooperative nursery school, scheduled for Friday, February 10, has been postponed.

Vol. 14 Thursday, February 9, 1950 No. 25

Whose Money?

It's rather late in the day to be bringing it up, but what line day review of the Greenbelt budget?

The residents of Greenbelt are the ones who cough up the rent money, part of which PHA returns to the municipality in lieu of a public hearing to tell the council what they want their money of taxes on its property. It's the residents of Greenbelt who attend hearing last December, and was courteously given the floor. He had a copy of the budget for several weeks, and would have been listened to just as courteously had he offered any objections to proposals in the budget. After all, as PHA is the office which turns our money over to our city government, it theoretically could have been interested in securing lower rentals for us by cutting out some services.

But the time for review of the city budget ceases when it is passed by the Greenbelt city council. The only consideration that can legitimately govern PHA in its answer to Greenbelt's request for sums in lieu of taxes is the PHA budget. If that budget prohibits the payment of the full sums asked, PHA has the right—which it has exercised in the past—to pay only the amount that is economically possible.

Then is the time for a reconsideration of the budget of the city council—to find ways of trimming the budget so that the PHA payment will cover that part not already covered by other revenues.

It will be a welcome change when Greenbelters own Greenbelt, and have the final word on how much of their money shall be used for what.

Cheering Section

Members of the Greenbelt Veterans Housing Corporation have settled down to the serious business of preparing their community to meet the problems involved in buying its homes from the federal government. Reminiscent of the enthusiastic days of the formation of GVHC's forerunners, a great deal of interest and determination is awakening in seeing to it that Greenbelters are protected when their homes are sold.

Opening membership to all local residents has been the aim—and stated policy—of all the resident-purchase groups that finally evolved into GVHC. Lack of personnel to handle the clerical work involved, and the possibility of great turnover before the inevitable date arrived, delayed this action until now. We agree with the GVHC officers that, with the eight-week deadline recently announced by PHA now whittled down to six, the latter reason is no longer valid, and the former must be met with volunteer help as far as possible.

It is only fair to give every Greenbelter the right of membership in GVHC immediately, without waiting until PHA, in accordance with the "Greentown Disposal Law," decrees it. Mike Salzman, GVHC president, has said that the GVHC board of directors will prepare forms to be filled in as soon as costs are known, and mail them to members, advising them of the amount of their down-payment and probable monthly payments. A special membership meeting will be called as soon as feasible, for reports to members and for direction from members on future board action. The more residents in the membership, the wider the base of direction.

We wish all good luck to the Greenbelt Veteran Housing Corporation in its membership drive, because we feel that their success is imperative in the interest of all residents in the community.

Run, Don't Talk

It looks as if the members of Greenbelt Consumer Services will meet next Wednesday and reelect the entire present board of directors. There's even the possibility that there will be fewer candidates than there are positions on the board, since some of the present members have not as yet declared their intention to run for reelection.

Is this the healthy, alert membership of which cooperatives are so proud? Where is all the drive and vigor, the sense of responsibility, that the GCS membership used to display? Why does no one feel it worthwhile serving on the GCS board of directors?

We have noticed a growing tendency on the part of people active and interested in cooperatives—and in GCS specifically—to drop out of the local cooperative picture. For the most part, they

There are still two days left to enter nominations. There should be a surplus of nominees, determined to serve a full, useful term. "LIVING MEMORIALS"

Greenbelt veterans of World War II, who, by the grace of God and good luck, managed to survive to be veterans, are receiving insurance dividends estimated to be 150 thousand to 200 thousand dollars.

It is not without significance that at this same time our churches in Greenbelt, those built and building, are having a rigorous time paying for church buildings of worship.

All of us want to help. I want to call to the attention of all veterans that here is an opportunity to demonstrate to God and country our gratitude for being alive to draw this dividend. What more fitting memorial to those of our number who paid "the last full measure" than living houses of worship.

I know there are numbers who will join me in dedicating a substantial part of this dividend, over and above our regular pledge, to the Greenbelt "Church of your Choice."

Yours for "Living Memorials" to those who did not come back.

Boys Club Quint Beats Berwyn 20-8

The Greenbelt Boys' Club Junior basketball team continued their undefeated pace last week when they defeated Berwyn by a 20-8 score to maintain their grip on first place in the County Boys' Club loop. Bobby "Bing" Miller scored 7 points to lead his Greenbelt teammates to victory, with Lewis and Curry excelling for the losers.

Greenbelt's Senior aggregation also played at Berwyn and dropped a 40-24 decision to their more experienced rivals. Rubie Randolph, former local high school star, split the cords for 13 points for the winners, while Carruth and Littleton starred for Greenbelt.

Langham sent their Midget quintet to town last Saturday morning to meet defeat at the hands of the local 90-pounders by the overwhelming margin of 42-4. Thirteen Greenbelt boys contributed to the scoring column with Mike Cockill and Buddy Attick leading the attack.

Heart Diseases Kill 400,000

Heart diseases constitute the leading cause of death in the United States today—and have for the past two decades. All types of heart ailments are responsible for approximately 400,000 American deaths annually.

The heart is the toughest, most hard-working single organ of the body. But when it is attacked by infection and disease, or taxed beyond its limits, it may be permanently, though not necessarily fatally, injured.

Once it was thought that a diagnosis of heart disease meant swift and sudden death in the near future. But now we know that most persons with injured hearts need have little fear of sudden death or even of shortened life if they learn to "live with" their disease and accept certain limitations of activity.

There are various types of heart ailments, some of them characteristic of certain age groups. A small percentage of infants is born with what are known as congenital heart defects. But with modern surgery, these defects can be corrected in many cases, giving the babies a good chance of survival and useful life.

By far the most vicious enemy of the healthy heart is rheumatic fever, a serious infection which most frequently strikes children between the ages of five and ten years and which almost invariably leaves them with injured hearts. Rheumatic fever has a tendency to recur and it is vital that the child who suffers attacks be under the care and supervision of a doctor. Other "childhood diseases" which sometimes injure the heart include pneumonia, diphtheria, scarlet fever, and influenza.

Hypertensive heart disease, brought on by high blood pressure, attacks most frequently in middle age. Obviously the person who follows his doctor's advice—to "bring down" his high blood pressure and eliminate the extra burden high blood pressure puts on his heart—has a fair chance of warding off hypertensive heart disease and the heart failure it might cause.

Coronary heart disease, most common in persons over 50, is actually a disease of the arteries which supply blood to the heart. Many victims of coronary heart disease, who carefully follow the doctor's advice, can live comparatively long and useful lives.

The most common symptoms of heart trouble, in general, include irregular beating of the heart, shortness of breath after moderate or slight exertion, pain or constriction in the region of the chest, swelling of the feet and ankles, chronic fatigue, and severe and constant indigestion. The person suffering from any of these symptoms, for unexplained reasons, should see his doctor at once. If he has a heart ailment, the doctor is the proper person to diagnose the type of heart illness, prescribe the best treatment, and give the person advice which may enable him to live a longer life.

Parents who wish their children to attend these classes should come down to register them within the next two weeks at the home of Mrs. Shiren, 1-C Laurel Hill Road, between 8 and 9 p.m. There will be no charge for the lessons, but the children will be asked to pay for their art material.

Your Income Tax

By E. DonBullian
(A series of weekly articles will appear in The Cooperator explaining the 1948 changes in the income tax law and calling attention to other tax items of local interest.)

By the Revenue Act of 1948, certain changes were made by Congress in the income tax laws. These changes, in general, reduce your income tax because:

The amount of the exemption which you may claim for yourself, your wife, your husband and your dependents was increased.

An exemption was provided for taxpayers 65 years of age and over.

An exemption was provided for taxpayers who are blind.

Married persons, reporting their income on a joint return, are permitted to "split" their income for purposes of computing their income tax.

Maximum Increased
The maximum standard deduction allowed for a single person was increased.

The effective rates applicable to individual income were reduced.

These are all benefits which are important to every taxpayer. The weekly articles that follow will advise you as to the manner and the circumstances under which they may be obtained.

Whether you compute your tax by using the long form 1040, or whether you do so by using the short form 1040, the principle of computation is simple. Your gross income is the basic figure. From this are subtracted your various deductions and exemptions. The balance is the income subject to tax.

Income among other things includes wages, salaries, tips, bonuses, dividends, rewards, commission, business profits, interest, rent royalties and the prizes you won in any contest.

Who Must File a Return

If you are a citizen or a resident of the United States and, during the taxable year, you had a gross income of $600 or more during the year, or as much as $11.54 per week, you must file a Federal income tax return. Even minors must file if they satisfy these requirements. The fact that a taxpayer is under 21 does not exempt him from filing a return. In fact, it may be that a minor who would not have to file a return under normal circumstances might find it to his interest to do so if he had worked a short period of time and his pay had been subject to withholding tax. If his income for the year was less than $600, the filing of a return will serve as a claim for the refund of taxes withheld. No refund will be made unless a return is filed.

Income tax inquiries of a general nature will be answered by calling Greenbelt 8746.

Voice Pupils In Recital

A song recital will be given by the pupils of Mrs. Lydalu Palmer at 6 p.m. Sunday, February 19, in the auditorium of the community building. Those participating include Loretta Jeanne Phelps, Mrs. Ruth Lynch, Janice Anzulovic, Joan Mandell, Mike Littleton, George Hanna, Jane Stone, Joyce Elder, Norma Knauer, Bill Dotson, Winston Hazard, Barbara Taylor, Mary Ellen Byrne, Theresa Marcott, Annie Dixon.

Science Classes See Liquid Plastic Used

Science classes at Greenbelt High School were given a demonstration last Monday in the use of liquid plastic. A representative from the Kosto Novelty Plastic Corp. in Washington showed the students how to embed insects and other article in liquid plastic, and how to make the molds. This demonstration was given during three different periods on the afternoon of February 6, and students from other classes were given the opportunity to watch.
