

Open Letter

Radio Station WCFM
1120 Connecticut Ave. N.W.
Washington, D. C.
December 15, 1951

Dear Friends:

You who live in the Washington area know that a financial emergency has forced us to take unprecedented steps in the past few weeks. We went on the air with an appeal to our stockholders, listeners and friends and we called an emergency meeting on December 3. The response was heartwarming. Over 250 people rallied to the support of WCFM, voted unanimously to keep up the fight, and backed up their belief in the station by raising $1400 in cash and pledges on the spot, and over $500 since the meeting.

All of this has given us renewed courage. But we still require $3600 to see us through the year, to pay our most urgent bills, and to put us on a current basis. If we have this amount by the end of the month, we can continue. To raise it, we must appeal once again for your help. The generosity of WCFM stockholders and friends has been almost unbelievable. It has enabled us to keep in operation through three difficult years when our deficit was far higher than it is at present. The amount we now need is small compared with the sums we have raised in the past.

We are confident that our deficit has reached the point where it can be met by one integrated fund raising effort, once this immediate crisis is past.

We anticipate that our cash operating deficit will decrease from about $30,000 in 1951 to approximately $20,000 in 1952. We plan to meet this deficit in the following ways:

1. Securing 1,000 sustaining members or subscribers at a fee of $10.00 per year. (Equal to 3c per day for good radio listening.)
2. Securing grants from foundations through the Washington Foundation for Education by Radio, an organization recently set up by friends of WCFM to provide a channel through which tax deductible contributions may be made.

3. Increasing the station's income through increased sales of WCFM long-playing records.

4. Decreasing expenses by combining office space with station WOL, owned by the Farm Bureau Insurance Companies.

5. Increasing advertising income by going on the air six more hours each day—if our cash position warrants it.

Crises in WCFM are not new to you. We are uncomfortably aware that we have called on you often for help and that this particular appeal comes at an inauspicious time. Crises, unfortunately, do not wait for opportune moments, and we know that those who have supported us so long and so loyally would not want us to go off the air without giving you an opportunity to come to the rescue.

The results of the next few weeks will determine whether or not WCFM can continue.

Sincerely yours,
Wallace J. Campbell,
President.

Farm Bureau Opens Office In Annapolis

The Farm Bureau Insurance Companies, largest member of the Cooperative League of the U.S.A., will open a regional office in Annapolis, Maryland, to serve Maryland, D. C., Virginia, suburbs of D. C., and Delaware. The move is part of the Companies' decentralization plan, which has drawn considerable attention in national business publications. Object of the plan is to bring the Companies' services closer to the policyholders.

The new office, serving 125,000 policyholders, will issue and service policies, pay claims, collect premiums and recruit personnel. Howard Hutchinson, Farm Bureau's vice president in charge of operations, has stated that the Companies will welcome employment applications from any Greenbelters who would like to work in the Annapolis office. The office will employ about 210 persons. The Companies are among the country's fastest growing insurance institutions, so there are many opportunities for advancement.

The Annapolis office will be the second regional office to be started by the Companies, the first having been launched recently in New Haven. It will open in March or April.

High School Band Will Compete In TV Contest

The Northwestern Senior High School Band was selected as a finalist in the first annual Paul Whiteman RKO Band Contest. The Northwestern Band will be taken to Philadelphia December 29 to participate in the "Showcase of National Bands".

Paul Whiteman and RKO Radio Pictures have selected ten bands from different localities in a National TV and Radio Contest. The band will appear on Paul Whiteman's Saturday Teen Club TV Program.

CUB SCOUT PACK 202

Cub Pack 202's December Pack meeting was a Christmas party in the basement of the Community Church. Reverend Eric Braund was there to greet the Cubs.

Santa Claus (Mr. Theodore Dalbow) distributed presents to the Cubs, and their brothers and sisters. Chairman Hargy invited the Cubs and their Dads to cut their Christmas trees on his farm near Laurel.

Mrs. Thomas Callanan and her Den 4 led the Cubs in singing Christmas carols.

Mrs. Mangold, Mrs. Hunt, and Mr. Brennan provided the Cubs with cookies, apples, and candy canes.

Cubmaster Ohlmacher made these awards: Den 2 - Jerry Brennan, Bear; Walter Lingebach, Lion, 2-year pin; Edward Mangold, Webelos. Den 3 - Ian Vogel, Bobcat; Robert Shaffer, Wolf, Assistant Denner; David Dalbow, Gold Arrow. Den 6 - James Morgan, Bobcat; Mitchell Bukzin, 1-year pin, Assistant Denner. Den 7 - Chester Confer, 1-year pin, Silver Arrow; Lance Walden, 2-year pin; Jimmy Shaffer, Wolf, 1-year pin; Robert Andros, Bear. Den 8 - Donald Cuppy, 1-year pin; Richard Emde, Denner; Ronald Newman, Lion Badge.

Mrs. Confer's Den 7 won the awards flag. Mrs. Callanan's Den 4 won the attendance flag.

Cooperator New Year's Eve Party Promises Fun, Favors, Prizes and Surprises For All

Prizes and surprises are in store for New Year's Eve celebrants who attend the Cooperator New Year's Eve party at the Community Auditorium, according to Harry Zubkoff, chairman of the dance committee. Besides the five-piece orchestra of Ed Dennison plus a well-known master of ceremonies, there will be a chorus line of ten beautiful local girls. Pantomimes by the famous Julia Bailey, and songs by Janice Anzulovic will be featured. A novelty act and dance numbers by the chorus line will also be offered, and a flute recital by Mark Thomas, a popular musician in the Washington area, and first flutist of the U. S. Army Field Band.

All efforts are being made to make the dance a popular annual affair for local residents who wish to spend a safe and sane New Year's holiday near home. Refreshments, including food and non-intoxicating eggnog will be available. A telephone to keep in touch with baby-sitters will be readily accessible.

Will There Always Be A Christmas?

At first glance this may seem to be a rhetorical question, a foolish question, an innocent question. But it is none of these, for we really do not know the answer. We ask it sincerely, for the answer to this question is in grave doubt.

Christmas, with all it stands for, is our most hallowed Western heritage. For centuries it has united all civilized nations and peoples. It has shaped their ideals and linked their destinies more closely than literature and language. Even between countries at war Christmas has remained a bond of spiritual fellowship when all other bonds were severed.

The idealism of the West put a curb on the cruelties of combat, tempered treaties and acknowledged all men as children of one Father.

Now our civilization is threatened—truly for the first time—by a ruthless, robot creed. World communism, monstrous, militant in its growing immensity, makes all its adherents alien—animal and unreasoning, with souls blank of compassion—faceless men taught to hate and conquer.

There is no compromise with communism. Should it prevail, Christmas will vanish and in a generation be forgotten—or worse still, our slave children will commemorate it as a day of spurious brotherhood under the Red Flag.

This Holiday season should be a time of dedication to the tasks before us. Let us face them boldly. Let us welcome each sacrifice, conscious that we in our time are not a rear guard fighting a lost fight but the vanguard of millions yet to come, and that we battle for our beliefs in the knowledge that they make all men free.

As free men we can do nothing else.

Happy New Year

Season's Greetings, friends and neighbors,
May the Lord reward your labors;
This we wish — for friend and foe,
May you, and we, make lots of dough.

To the Mayor, Lastner Francis,
Many more election chances.

To McDonald, Charlie T.
Surcease from economy!

And to every Council member,
Happy New Year, till September.

To George and Buddy and all the police,
A crimeless year, with lots of peace.

To Alex Johnson, PHA,
A very happy holiday.

To Bonham and Kinzer, Mary Jane
Relief from tenants raising Cain!

To weather prophet William Klein
A loaf of bread, a jug of wine.

To Board of Directors — GCS,
A month till election, more or less!

To Bassett F. and Samuel A.
Another store — some distant day!

To Fruchtmann Jack and Shirlee K.
Crowded movie every day!

To Service Station's Ed Burgoon,
December business all through June.

To Brautigam, Freeman, and Pearson Si
Very few rocks and lots of rye.

To Donnie Wolfe and Bobbie B.
A new Drop-Inn by '53.

To the church of each denomination,
A bigger and better congregation.

And our best wishes offered gaily,
To Greenbelt's actress Julia Bailey.

A mellow toast of vintage old
To District Liner William Gold.

To all our readers, a year of joy,
To I. J. Parker, a little boy!

Lots of scorpions and spiders,
To carpools overcharging riders.

To all the teachers, lads and lasses,
Bigger pay and smaller classes.

So we extend our very best
to all of these and all the rest,

whose names we had no space to mention,
At least we had a good intention.

So Happy New Year, '52
To you, and you, and you, and you!

Favors Offered

The auditorium is being decorated to make it a festive occasion and balloons with prizes inside will be hung "from the rafters." At midnight the balloons will be released. Favors, horns, hats, noise-makers and all the paraphernalia for celebrating the new year will be distributed.

Although no expense has been spared to make the affair as enjoyable as any in Greenbelt, the purpose is to make it a non-profit dance. All the Cooperator staff members are working on the affair in true cooperative spirit and tickets to the dance can be secured from any staff members. (See mast head next page for names.) "The purpose," Zubkoff declared, "is to make this a family affair. A dance that every Greenbelt can attend and be assured of a good time among friends and neighbors."

Planned Early

The New Year's Eve party was planned early this year. Its purpose was to offer the residents a yearly affair, sponsored by the Cooperator, that would become a tradition in Greenbelt. Citizens unable and unwilling to spend large sums of money to celebrate in Washington, would now have the opportunity to celebrate close at home at a reasonable cost. It was felt by the Cooperator that such an affair is greatly needed in Greenbelt and would be supported wholeheartedly by the community. Although this is the second New Year's Eve dance the Cooperator has sponsored (an earlier one several years ago was very successful) the intention is to make it a yearly event.

All civic organizations have been notified of the dance and support in the project has been promised, with many members planning to attend. Although ticket sales have not been counted yet, it is expected that attendance will be good.

ST. HUGH'S SCHOOL

School will reopen for St. Hugh's pupils on Thursday, January 3, according to the Reverend Victor J. Dowgiallo, pastor of the parish. In case of inclement weather, parents are urged to listen to the radio for announcements concerning schools in Prince Georges County, since parochial schools will follow the same policy in regard to attendance at school.

DONN "LUCKY" TYLER TO ENTERTAIN HERE

Friday and Saturday, December 28 and 29, two Hollywood figures will be visiting and entertaining in Greenbelt. They are Donn "Lucky" Tyler, Western movie star, and Teresa Valentino, trick rope spinner, who will appear on the stage in the Greenbelt theatre.

"Lucky" Tyler will pay a personal call to any invalided child who cannot get to the theatre to see him perform.

Hi! . . . and A Happy New Year to you, too! Have you made your resolutions yet? How about adding one more to your list? Please promise that you will keep me informed of all the news you hear (be it good or sad news), so that I can pass it on to the people of Greenbelt. If you do this, I promise, that if your item doesn't appear the week you tell me about it, (because of lack of space) I will put it on the top of my next week's column. . . .

In closing let me thank all you nice people for making my column possible.

Tasty Breakfast Treat

If you're having company for the holidays and want something special to serve for breakfast why not try making these delightful Blueberry Griddle Cakes recommended by the University of Maryland Extension Service. To make from 9 to 12 cakes, follow this recipe:

- 1 cup flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 egg
- ¾ cup milk
- 2 tablespoons melted fat
- ¾ cup blueberries

Sift the flour, salt, baking powder, and sugar together, and add the unbeaten egg, milk, and melted butter. Beat with a rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed, then, just before baking, stir in the blueberries. Serve with butter or oleomargarine and confectioners sugar.

Skirt Your Figure Problem

Do you have trouble with the seams on your ready-made skirts pulling to one side and causing uneven hemlines? According to Helen Shelby, University of Maryland clothing specialist, this pulling to one side often results if one hip is slightly larger or higher than the other. She gives a simple remedy for the common problem.

First take off the belt and then lift the low side until the seams hang straight. Put markers or a row of pins on the new waistline and then attach the belt. It's as easy as that.

JOLLY TIME POP CORN
ALWAYS POPS BETTER!

A Southern Belle

Straight out of the South's book of holiday food customs is Ambrosia. This dessert beauty, a combination of juicy ripe orange sections and snowy shredded coconut, is served traditionally and elegantly in a lovely milk-glass bowl, as a Christmas and New Year's dessert.

An exciting and wonderful variation of Ambrosia is pictured here. We call it Flambrosia. You will understand why when you see how tangerine sections, suggesting the flaming brilliance of the tropics, contrast vividly with creamy-yellow grapefruit and frosty-white coconut. A truly lovely combination to look at, and a refreshing and deliciously tangy dessert to complement heavy and rich holiday fare.

Flambrosia

- 1 cup grapefruit sections, free from membrane
- 1 cup tangerine sections, free from membrane
- ¼ cup confectioners' sugar
- 1½ cups shredded coconut
- 3 tablespoons Cointreau

Arrange layer of grapefruit and tangerine sections in serving dish and sprinkle with sugar and coconut. Repeat until all ingredients are used, topping with coconut. Chill. Before serving pour Cointreau over coconut-fruit mixture. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Urban Wholesalers Report Good Years

CHICAGO - The three largely urban U. S. co-op wholesalers had good years thus far in 1951. Central States Cooperatives at Waukegan, Ill., reported net savings averaging 2.2% of sales for the six months ending last September—largest in the wholesale's 13-year history. Associated Cooperatives, Oakland, Cal., reported an increase in savings of more than $5,200 for the year ending Oct. 31, despite discontinuance of several departments. The consolidated operations of Eastern Cooperatives, Inc., and the three regional wholesales which jointly own ECI all operated in the black. They showed total savings and volume for the first nine months of 1951 to be slightly above those of the previous nine months.

Also in 1951, the number of co-op retail household goods centers doing an annual business near to or above $1 million climbed to more than a score. In some cases these cooperatives had more than one retail outlet. (CNS)

Second Co-op Tour Of Europe Set

CHICAGO - A second cooperative tour of Europe—paralleling the one which built co-op friendship on both sides of the Atlantic last September—will be staged next spring by the Cooperative League of the USA.

The League announced today that the new tour will start March 16 from New York via Scandinavian Airlines, and that the tourists will return to New York in April. The tour will include inspection of co-op facilities and meetings with co-op officials in Scotland, England, France, Copenhagen, Helsinki, Stockholm and Oslo, in that order. Total cost will be $982.90 for all expenses. Tour leader will again be Hans Thuneil, co-op lecturer and former employee of Kooperativ Forbundet, who is familiar with both U. S. and European cooperatives.

"The warm reception which our cooperative tourists received last fall and the many bridges of understanding which they built with cooperators in western Europe indicates the further need for such visits," Donald D. Martin, director of the League's tour department, said. (CNS)

CO-OP BRIEFS

Co-op Neighbor Night will be staged February 18 by member cooperatives of Consumers Cooperative Association. Neighbors in communities throughout the nine-state midwest area will eat supper together and listen to a co-op broadcast. Last year this program brought 100,000 neighbors together in local areas.

The Farm Bureau Insurance Companies will open a garage and bumper-to-bumper repair service in Columbus, O., early next month. Carl F. Frye, an affiliate company spokesman, said, "we want to make a first-hand analysis of rising automotive repair costs because such costs have a direct effect in determining insurance rates." The garage facilities also will be used in training new claim adjusters, Frye said.

Despite last summer's Texas drought—worst since 1936—Texas has dispatched from Houston a CROP friendship food and fiber ship loaded with grain, cotton, mohair and peanuts, for starvation areas of Formosa and Japan.

A study by Farm Credit Administration of cooperative feed mills shows that farmers are willing to pay $1.50 to $2 more per ton for pelleted feeds—in which the feed or mash is compressed into rounded morsels—than for mash. They say pellets are easy to handle, save labor, reduced the loss from wind blowing feed away, and each bite is a balanced ration, according to FCA.

Santa Claus is electrified now—and by a co-op. It's Santa Claus, Ind., and the co-op is the Southern Indiana electric cooperative. In 1945, Louis J. Koch, an Evansville, Ind., industrialist, conceived the idea of turning the famous village—which each year gets a flood of Xmas requests from youngsters all over the nation—into a child's vision of where Santa Claus would live. Electric power for the 240 acres of Santa Claus land is provided by the co-op.

A FIRE DESTROYED the bakery supplying the New Haven, Conn., Cooperative Consumers store with Co-op triple rich bread. Manager Robert Smith got so many complaints that he urged housewives to make their own bread to the Co-op formula temporarily. One troubled mother came in to plead with Smith to get the bread. She said her family doctor had prescribed it for her son because of its plus food value. (CNS)

Praise New York Co-op Housing

NEW YORK - The mayor of the world's largest city has praised co-operatives in the housing field as "one of the best examples of democracy at work."

Mayor Vincent Impellitteri, at a banquet celebrating 25 years of successful efforts by a New York union to house its members cooperatively, said that one of the projects sponsored by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers on the city's lower east side has "contributed to the virtual rebirth of that area."

Noting the completion of the third project, bringing the total of families housed to 2,500, A. E. Kazan, president of Amalgamated Housing Corporation, told the diners that "in our community (the housing co-op) the people themselves take the responsibility for organizing credit unions, shopping centers, nurseries, summer day camps, dance and dramatic classes, workshops, social clubs, literary, music and art groups, various fraternal and veteran and civic groups." He said that banks and insurance companies should aid non-profit housing for middle-income people, "if we are to retain our free and private enterprise system."

Jerry Voorhis, executive secretary of the Cooperative League of the USA, praised the technical guidance program of the recently-organized United Housing Foundation and Community Services and Management Corporation in New York. He said this "sound meth-

'New Look' In Co-op Stores?

CHICAGO - The "new look in feminine fashions went out some years ago, but the "new look" in co-op food stores appears to be very much in vogue. More and more are shedding dingy-front inferiority complexes and blossoming out with bright lights, gleaming fronts and come-hither displays.

Item: The neat, modern-designed concrete block and glass one-stop co-op shopping center at Westfield, N. J., is as smart as the rest of that New York suburb. Even the floodlighted display sign on its grassy front lawn says "welcome" without shouting. People did come into the former dismal co-op store across the street—because its prices, quality and service were right. But the Westfield co-op's 500 owner-families think that the looks alone of the new store will attract many additional customers.

Groups of residents planning private parties are arranging to attend the dance and then leave for their gatherings.

"The success of this dance depends on the support of the community," Zubkoff stated. "The Co-operator has endeavored in the past to offer Greenbelt worthwhile services and we feel that this dance is one of them."

Anti-Co-op Fight Still On: Duggan

ST. PAUL, MINN. - I. W. Duggan, governor of the Farm Credit Administration, told the annual meeting of the Farmers Union Grain Terminal Association here Dec. 11 that enemies of co-ops have not given up, though they have "lost prestige."

Duggan said co-ops have scored a number of victories from the controversy. He said co-ops "displayed a lot of strength and I'm certain that the people who have the responsibility for the decisions on this question understand co-operatives better than ever before."

"I believe that lots of businessmen, particularly in small communities, will cut out their contributions to organizations attacking cooperatives, or perhaps not make any contributions at all."

Duggan praised cooperatives for being able to run their own businesses successfully and added: "If cooperatives had not developed into a valuable tool in the business of farming, you can be sure that neither NTEA nor any other group would have grown up to oppose them."

However, Duggan said that "if cooperatives had done a thorough job of educating their neighbors and the businessmen, particularly those in the local communities, about the nature, purposes and value of cooperatives, these enemies of cooperatives probably could not have generated momentum in the first place."
